"Boss" Sit-Downer Makes Employees Wait

First boss "sit-downer", Walter L. Fry of the Fry Products Co., Detroit, is pictured taking it easy in his office while his striking employees, about 100 girls, debated whether to give in to him or press their own "sit-down" strike. Fry said he is "just as much entitled to sit down as anyone else" in explaining his procedure which he adopted when he was told his workers had started a "sit-down" strike. The company makes slip covers for furniture and automobile seats. Instead of waiting for his employees to start work filling orders Fry says he'll make them wait until he is ready to get the orders.

CITY TRUST REFUSES COUNCIL FINANCIAL AID

37 MILL RATE IS CONFIRMED BY COMMITTEE

Amendment To Withhold $60,000 For City Trust Defeated

WOULD HAVE TO SUE

May Seek To Get Limit Fixed On Amount Of Reserve

With something of numerical appositeness or influence, Peterborough's 1937 tax rate remains at 37 mills, the levy tentatively prepared Tuesday night and confirmed by the finance committee Friday night.

The new rate is two-fifths of a mill less than last year. To Alderman Cotton's motion, seconded by Alderman Dutton, recommending the 37-mill rate to the council, Alderman Gordon proposed an amendment, seconded by Alderman Wilson, to withhold from the City Trust Commission $60,000 of its requisition of $204,000 as a means of reducing the rate to 34 mills.

None of the other members supported this suggestion, and the majority voted for the Cotton-Dutton motion. All the members of the council were present.

"The Commission is asking for $204,000," Alderman Gordon said. "If we retain the $60,000, which would enable us to reduce the tax rate by three mills, we have got that money in the treasury, and possession is nine-tenths of law. They will then have to get it from us."

Against Frontal Attack.

Alderman Dutton's comment was that it would be unwise to try to achieve the committee's purpose by a frontal attack.

"The better plan seems to me to go at it in another way by further conference with the Commission. We don't expect we would get that amount, but we might get some of the money we have been hoping for," Ald. Dutton said.

Alderman Hamilton—It would be absurd to expect $60,000 because they can't give it to us.

Would Have To Sue.

Asked for an opinion, City Solicitor Corkery said that if Alderman Gordon's amendment carried, and the council refused to pay the $60,000, the City Trust Commission would have to take action against the city.

"I can't agree to that," Ald. Dutton remarked.

Alderman Hamilton said that he had wondered whether in the event of getting a sum of money from the Commission, the council could later pass on the advantage to the ratepayers by a discount off their tax instalment, but Mr. Corkery said the statutes did not provide for that kind of expedient.

No Further Delay.

Alderman Wilson urged that the tax rate bylaw be postponed until after the March meting next Monday night in the hope that a financial contribution might be forthcoming to be applied to lowering the rate, but City Clerk Armstrong explained that all the tax bills had to be delivered fourteen days prior to July 9, the date on which the first instalment is due. The work of preparing the tax bills of all the ratepayers in the city had increased considerably, and more than ever this year because of changes in the law. It was urgent that the rate be struck Monday night, he counselled.

The scale of penalties devised last year was amended to 3 per cent. from

SIT-DOWN STRIKE OPPOSITION GROWS

Certain State Governors And Factory Owners Prepare To Use Force

CHICAGO, Feb. 27 (AP).—Conflict over the sit-down strike method grew apace today, in many instances overshadowing the issues underlying United States labor disputes.

Some State and local officials and factory owners showed a stiffening opposition to the use of Labor's new weapon, it was revealed by the arrest of strikers and strike organizers and the use of force to evict sit-downers.

Three State governors have voiced opposition to the sit-down technique. Governor Henry Horner of Illinois said there was "no warrant in law to justify a so-called sit-down strike." Governors Wilburn Cross of Connecticut and Harold G. Hoffman of New Jersey warned they would tolerate no sit-down strikes in their states.

Gov. Hoffman's announcement drew from Homer Martin, president of the United Automobile Workers of America, a rejoinder that sit-down strikes would be conducted "whether he likes it or not." Martin said the Governor would "move out of the way" if he doesn't "join with us."

40,000 VOLUNTEERS

LONDON, Feb. 27.—(CP-Havas)—Nearly 40,000 Italian "volunteers" left Italian ports for Spain during January and many more followed during February, the Manchester Guardian said today.

Among the departures listed during January there was also one of about 3,000 Germans from Spezia, Italian naval base. The Germans took with them anti-aircraft and anti-tank artillery, the Guardian said.

Ottawa Hints U.S. May Seek Trade Extension

New British Treaty Ends Snags To Canada Filling U.S. Demands

Previously Dominion's Hand Cramped By Deal Made In 1932

NO OVERTURES AS YET

New York Press Sees Treaty Likely To Aid American Dealings With England

OTAWA, Feb. 27 (C.P.).—Official circles here would not be surprised if United States made overtures to Canada for extension of the trade agreement between the two countries after Washington tariff experts have an opportunity to study details of the Canada-United Kingdom trade agreement announced on Thursday. No overtures, however, have yet been made.

In the negotiations of the agreement between Canada and United States which came into effect on January 1, 1936, the Dominion was, to some extent, cramped by the limitations imposed by the Canada-United Kingdom agreement of 1932. In the 1932 agreement Canada undertook to maintain the margin the British preference rate was below the rate against foreign countries on 215 items.

Many of the 215 items were either free under the British preference or so low Canada did not desire to reduce them further, and therefore could not reduce the intermediate tariff which became applicable to goods from the United States. In the new agreement with Britain, the number of items in which the margin of preference must be maintained by Canada has been reduced to 91.

No agreement restrictions would now stand in the way of Canada meeting the wishes of the United States. It would be a matter of what concessions United States would be able to give Canada in return.

Assist U.S. British Trade?

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—(CP)—In a special despatch from Washington, the New York Times today says officials expressed the informal opinion on the new three-year trade agreement between Canada and Great Britain would in some respects facilitate efforts looking to a basis of negotiation of a reciprocal trade agreement between the United Kingdom and in other respects make that task more difficult.

Only qualified views were expressed pending the receipt and close study of details of the agreement.

"The problem of finding a basis of negotiation, it was pointed out, depends not only on the arrangement by Great Britain with Canada but upon the result of conversations London is understood to be conducting in the trade field with the other Dominions. Presumably the question will be explored further in discussions with Dominion leaders in London during the coronation.

"In the final analysis, it is felt that whether a basis of negotiation can be found between London and found within the empire preferential system for concessions to the United States in return for those the United States would consider giving."

Washington may depend upon how anxious the United Kingdom is for an agreement with this country. It is considered obvious, in this connection, that if an agreement is to be negotiated, opportunity must be

THE usual court order was reversed here today. Four single unemployed men swore to warrants charging Sergeant George Gammie and two constables with assault. The police officers may be given a hearing tomorrow.

The charges follow a minature riot staged at Police Headquarters Tuesday, when, it was alleged by the jobless men, they were assaulted by police.

Items Totalling $52,892,600 Passed In Pensions, Health Estimates

DEBATE COMBINES ACT

OTTAWA, Feb. 27—(CP)—Members of Parliament today began a weekend study of the third Dunning budget and the new Canada-United Kingdom trade agreement with a view to participating in the budget debate next week.

The debate, as usual, will be one of the chief features of the session and will bring out conflicting views on tariff protections ranging all the way from complete freedom of trade to a degree of protection which would safeguard all Canadian industry from competition from abroad.

After hearing Hon. Charles Dunning, minister of finance, present his budget on Thursday the House of Commons devoted most of yesterday's sitting to the estimates for the department of pensions and national health.

It also passed through third reading the bill amending the Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Act after a protest from Conservative Leader Bennett and gave first reading to a bill to restore the administration of the Combines Investigation Branch to the Department of Labor. Two years ago this branch had been placed under the tariff board.

Pensions Under Fire.

Criticism of the pensions administration on the basis of isolated cases came from both sides of the House but Hon. C. G. Power, Minister of Pensions and National Health, had the support of Hon. J. Earl Lawson (Cons. York South) in his assertion that pensions administration had never been tinged with party politics.

The minister said he did not care how big the pensions bill became but he would oppose any wholesale distribution of pensions on the basis of war service only. He would do so in the interest both of the war veterans and the country.

Pensions were awarded for disabilities due to war service or aggravated by war service.

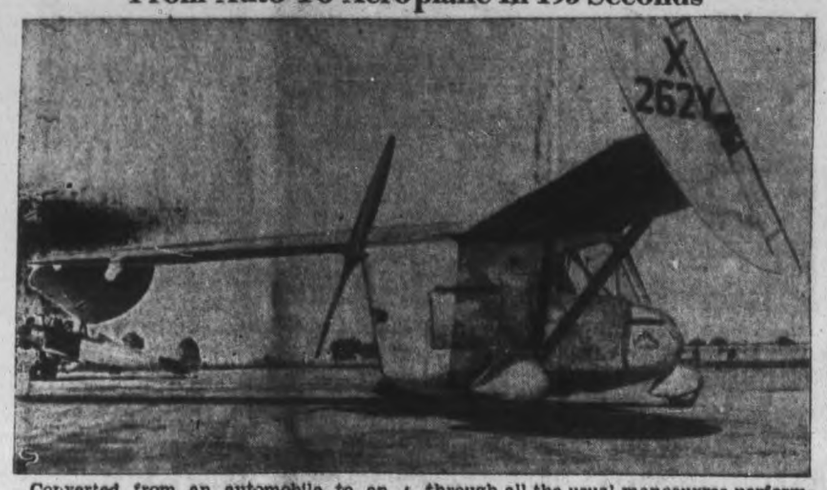
From Auto To Aeroplane In 195 Seconds



Converted from an automobile to an aeroplane in two minutes and forty-five seconds, the new Waterman Arrobile is shown in photo. The craft was driven like an automobile on the highway and into a hanger where the wings were attached while the operation was timed. Following the conversion, the "flying wing" was put through all the usual manoeuvres performed by an orthodox aeroplane. Powered with a six-cylinder 100 horsepower automobile engine, the craft averages 16 miles per gallon of gasoline whether on the ground or in the air. With the motor in the rear, by declutching, the power can be supplied to the rear wheels or propeller at will. Cruising speed in the air is 105 miles an hour.

20 Churchmen To Test Relief Diet For A Week

Anglican Group Propose To Spend Only What Jobless Families Would GIVE CHARITY SAVINGS

TORONTO, Feb. 27 (C.P.).—Members of a group of Anglican church members here will budget their food expenditures for a week to the level of those families receiving relief in Toronto.

Spokesman for the group said there were some 20 churchmen trying the experiment, including a retired banker, a manufacturer, two clergymen, a lawyer, a clerk, and representatives of other business enterprises. They will live as closely as possible to the standards of relief recipients.

Savings made in the experiment will be donated to a charitable cause. The test starts on March 15, and the parties engaged will be known as the "Thursday Morning Group."

"The purpose of the experiment is two-fold," said the spokesman. "First, we believe that a greater knowledge of that part of the community that is being regularly employed, of the living conditions of those who have been unfortunate enough to be unemployed, will be valuable in promoting a keener sympathy and understanding.

"Secondly, we think that a practical experiment will impress the matter upon our minds far more emphatically than could any figures or statistics."

POSSES HUNTING OWEN SOUND GIRL

Vanishes After Leaving School —Brooding Since Death Of Her Mother

OWEN SOUND, Ont., Feb. 27 (CP).—Believed to be brooding over the death of her mother three months ago, Lillian Schiefle, 11, daughter of Mr. Herman Schiefle, of Hanover, has been missing since she left school yesterday.

A night-long hunt by Chief Meyers and over a dozen men failed to reveal any clue as to her whereabouts.

The men returned today to obtain food and planned to leave immediately to continue their search. When she failed to arrive home from school, her father, Mr. Herman Schiefle, went to the cemetery as the little girl had been in the habit of visiting the cemetery since her mother's death.

Failing to find his daughter there, Mr Schiefle informed Chief Meyers and a search party was immediately organized.

Boom Of Power Crane Breaks Striking Madoc Victims As They Pass Below

BELLEVILLE, Ont., Feb. 27.—(CP)—Archie Pitts and Melburn Cooper, both of Madoc, employees at the Canadian Slate Company, operating one mile north of Madoc, were injured today, when the boom of a power crane crashed to the ground after the breaking of a base plate. Pitts suffered a fractured collar bone, while Cooper the more seriously injured was rushed to Belleville General Hospital after being attended by Dr. R. S. Beatty at the scene of the accident. The crane was not in operation at the time of the accident, and it is believed Pitts and Cooper were walking under the hoist, when the boom gave way.

Kissing Experiment Impressed Students

Denver, Feb. 27

TO prove the bacteriological hazards involved in kissing, Instructor T. A. Anderson prevailed on several high school students of both sexes to kiss dishes of cold, jellied beef broth.

Examining the broth several days later under microscopes, students found flourishing clusters of germs on the lip imprints.

A survey next morning showed the students were deeply impressed—not a one went out the previous evening and kissed a dish of cold, jellied beef broth.

WILL STRIKE FIRST

TOKYO, Feb. 27—(A.P.).—The Japanese navy disclosed to the Diet to-day its general plan of air combat as being the complete destruction of enemy air bases before enemy planes are able to attack the Japanese mainland.

Tokyo and other large cities of the Empire, Vice-Admiral Mitsumasa Yonai, Minister of the Navy, prodly proclaimed, are safe from assault from the air.

The Naval Minister disclosed that the combat plans had been worked out in "agreement" with the army and added:

"The navy is fully prepared to prevent any adversary's aircraft from reaching Japan."

Russia yesterday issued new orders to its army, outlining similar offensive tactics to carry battle to enemy territory at the outbreak of hostilities.

"Meet the enemy on the territory whence he comes," Russia's new army regulations ordered.

"The policy of the navy," the Japanese Minister declared, "is to destroy enemy air bases before enemy planes can reach the Japanese mainland."

On the heels of the Yonai announcement, the War Minister, General Gen. Sugiyama, based a plea for Japan's greatest defence budget on the need for increased projection from air raids.

He declared the anti-aircraft defences on land were insufficient, implying that, should enemy bombing squadrons break through the navy's first line cordon, Japan's cities might be endangered.

CHINESE WOMAN HAS MISSIONARIES FLUNG IN PRISON

Vancouver Nurse, Toronto Doctor Arrested On Refusing To Fill Unsigned Prescription

FRIENDS FREE THEM

CHENGTU, Szechuen Province, China, Feb. 27—(CP Cable)—Treatment accorded two Canadian missionaries who refused to fill an unsigned prescription presented by the wife of a Chinese military underling aroused indignation here today.

The two missionaries were Dr. W. J. Sheridan of Toronto and Miss Geraldine Hartwell of Vancouver, attached to the hospital of the United Church mission at Tzeliutsing, about 100 miles south of here.

Dr. Sheridan and Miss Hartwell were arrested, driven through the streets under military guard and detained in a military prison for three hours, reports received here said, after a Chinese woman, Mrs. Ma, wife of a Chinese colonel, had ordered their arrest.

Mrs. Ma brought a prescription to the hospital, the reports said, and when it was explained that recognized medical practice required the signature of a physician on prescriptions, she flew into a rage and called a squad of soldiers, ordering the arrest of Dr. Sheridan and Miss Hartwell.

The two were finally released after intercession at the prison by their Chinese and foreign friends but no word of regret was offered by the officials for the humiliation caused them.

Irritation was the greater here owing to the fact that both have served in the mission upwards of a quarter of a century and have devoted the best partof their lives to the betterment of the lot of the Chinese.

Commission Is Trustee Funds Due Bondholders City Council Is Informed

Aldermen Sought Earnings On Accumulated Surplus Of City Trust

DECISION UNANIMOUS

Interest Rates Reduced And Earning Power Greatly Declined

Members of the City Trust Commission Friday night invoked the statute by which they were appointed custodians of the funds provided by the taxpayers for meeting interest charges and retiring municipal debentures in their refusal to contribute to the treasury as a means of reducing this year's tax rate the sum of $60,000 demanded by Alderman G. N. Gordon and also the annual earnings on the Commission's accumulated surplus which Mayor MacDonald regarded as a reasonable request.

Members of the Commission who attended the meeting of the finance committee on the invitation of Mayor Macdonald were W. R. Morris, G. A. Gillespie, A. A. McIntyre, E. A. Peck, K.C., Vincent Eastwood, and Arthur Stevenson, secretary.

These men are graduates of the municipal school. Mr. Peck as a reeve of Ashburnham and warden of the county; Mr. Gillespie as an alderman and member of the Legislature of Ontario; Mr. McIntyre as a former mayor of the city; Mr. Eastwood as member of the Board of Education for years and Mr. Morris as municipal auditor.

Mr. Eastwood reviewed the Commission's position with emphatic reference to the legal aspect of their authority and duties; Mr. Peck amplified the statutory limitations of the Commission in the stewardship of the funds entrusted to it; and the other members endorsed these statements without any doubtful reservation.

A. A. McIntyre said that as a former member of the council he used to think that the Commission could "divvey up" some of its funds to help the council in reducing the tax rate, but experience as a member of the Commission with full appreciation of the restrictions imposed by statute had entirely altered his views. Mr. McIntyre said he was not at all in favor of the council's proposals.

Trustees For Bondholders

Mr. Eastwood at the outset stated that the reasons actuating the City Trust Commission in its decision, in other years and at present, that it could not transfer part of its funds to the city council were defined in the Municipal Act. And at the close of the discussion the explanation rested on that ground.

"The council's question is why is there a surplus "and why can't we have the use of it," Mr. Eastwood remarked.

Mayor Macdonald—Why can't we have the earnings from the surplus.

Ald. Gordon — Instead of the council getting any of the money you are asking for $204,00 more for 1937.

Mr. Eastwood stated that the Act appointing the Commission declared that the Commission was the trustee of funds due to the holders of the city's bonds. Money needed by the city for various purposes was borrowed by the issuing of debentures. Repayment of these borrowings was according to the plan of obtaining annual sums from the council to pay the interest on these bonds and also to provide for a sinking fund to pay off the debentures when they matured.

Ald. Gordon contended that the Commission had not submitted an annual statement of its financial affairs as required by the Act, and not having done so the Commission was not entitled to make its demand for this year.

Mr. Eastwood said that the council had the statement given to the city auditor, and he further said that a more detailed exposition was in the hands of City Clerk Armstrong.

Ald. Gordon said he had not seen the statement, and he doubted whether other members of the council had seen it. The report from the Commission should be presented before February 1, he added.

How Surplus Acquired

Mr. Eastwood explained that the Commission acquired a surplus largely as a result of the higher interest rates which steadily advanced during the war and in subsequent years. The city's debentures called for an interest rate of 4 per cent, but the Commission invested sinking funds at 5 per cent and as high as 6½ per cent. Since

DARK HORSE WINS ARCTIC MUSHERS DERBY BY MINUTE

Indian Huntress Whips Her Team In Sixth Over 15-Mile Gruelling Test

BARBECUE FOLLOWS

By Leslie Roberts
(Canadian Press Correspondent.)

The cheers of a colorful crowd of prospectors, miners, Indians and trappers ringing in his ears, Evans, an employee of the Bear Mine, "mushed" across the finish line a minute and 10 seconds ahead of the favored Arden entry from Cameron Bay.

Only 16 minutes and 10 seconds separated the finishes of the six leaders, who piled over the tape in rapid succession to the tune of cracking whips and excited driving yells. The race was established as a real endurance test, each entrant having carried 40 pounds of radium ore concentrated for each dog, the weights being checked by Corporal Jim Davies of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

Excitement ran high in this mining town, about 1,100 air miles north of Edmonton on the shore of Great Bear Lake, as the first team rounded Silver Point and came in sight of the crowd at the finish line.

After hooking up with Evans and Arden in the stretch drive, the clock entry from Cameron Bay faded in the last few yards to finish third.

Woman Comes Sixth.

Meanwhile another group of three were fighting for fourth place. Willie Wylie, caribou hunter of Cameron Bay, finally edged ahead. A surprise entry, the Eagles team from the mouth of the Camsell River, finished fifth, with sixth place going to Mrs. Nere Robert, an Indian huntress.

Following the race everybody attended the caribou meat barbecue where the Eldorado trophy was presented to Evans by Mrs. Emil Walli, wife of the mine manager and former Toronto General Hospital nurse.

Evans, it was learned later, had foregone his day's pay as a miner to mush 18 miles to enter the race.

Entries began to assemble at the starting point at sundown Thursday, and throughout the long winter night the ledge of rock at Labine Point was an inferno of howling huskies. The drivers slept in the mine bunk houses.

The Eagles team, which arrived shortly before midnight, had just finished a 70-mile trek from the mouth of Camsell River, and started after hearing the Royal Canadian corps of signals wireless announcement of the impending derby.

Alberta To Protect E.P. Ranch From Oil Boom In Case Of Sale

Must Be Continued As Stock Range In Accordance With Duke's Policy

HINTS HE MAY SELL

By J. F. Sanderson
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

EDMONTON, Feb. 27. — Alberta may lose its royal rancher, the Duke of Windsor who bought a 3,840-acre ranch at High River in 1919 on his first trip to Canada and has made the EP brand famous at stock shows all over the continent.

The Aberhart government passed an order-in-council yesterday affecting the oil leases on the EP ranch which, in part, read as follows: "Whereas, representations have been made to the department of lands and mines that His Royal Highness the Duke of Windsor, formerly the Princeof Wales, contemplated disposing of his ranch . . ."

Despite this, A. L. Carlyle, manager of the ranch, announced at his Calgary home no definite steps had been taken to sell the ranch and that the Duke of Windsor had no personal knowledge of the change in oil regulations affecting his range lands.

"The change was sought just in case a sale is arranged in the future," Carlyle said. "It was just a protection clause to keep the property free from an oil development rush."

When the Duke originally bought the ranch he was given a 99-year lease on the oil and mineral rights with the stipulation it could not be sold with the property. The order-in-council passed yesterday bound the government not to sell the oil rights within 10 yearsof disposal of the ranch by the Duke, providing it was continued as a stock ranch.

The EP ranch was part of the old Inga Ranch, famous in the early cattle days in Southern Alberta. It is 40 miles from the Turner Valley oil fields and many geologists suspect it covers the main pool.

Thief After Loot Is Bagged By Lion

Breslau, Feb. 27 (UP)

FRITZ Smolkowski, professional thief, stole into the darkened tent of a circus here last night, apparently intending to rob the performers.

Circus men were awakened by a blood-curdling scream. Turning on lights they found Smolkowski lifeless, torn to death by a lion which had put his paws through the bars of his cage and grabbed the intruder.

Staff Changes For Guelph Nixon Hints, Result Of Riot

Says List Of Inefficient Guards Given Judge And Will Be Acted Upon

DAMAGE ONLY $8,000

TORONTO, Feb. 27.—(CP)—Provincial Secretary Harry Nixon said he anticipated changes in the staff of the Ontario Reformatory, Guelph, as the result of the investigation into the riot there recently concluded by Judge Madden. Mr. Nixon has not yet received the judge's report but has read the evidence as reported in the press and said "most certainly there will be changes."

Two changes in the reformatory staff were made a week ago. Two carpenter shop employees were pensioned off, Mr. Nixon said this was not a direct result of the riot.

The list of "inefficient" guards presented to Judge Madden by Sergeant Maguire, in charge of all the guards, has been given to Dr. Hezslip, superintendent, and will be acted on, said Mr. Nixon.

Mr. Nixon said: "In view of the sensational statements that the damage by the riot was more than $200,000, it is interesting that the expenditure on repairs has so far been less than $8,000 and that has practically completed all repairs except some small painting jobs and minor replacements of furniture. A visitor to the reformatory today would not know there had been a riot."

Teeth Are Dentists Till Patient Pays

Philadelphia, Feb. 27 (UP)

A SET of false teeth are the property of the dentist who made them until they are paid for, even if they have occupied the mouth of a patient for several months, the Pennsylvania Superior Court ruled today. The Appellate tribunal reversed a lower court decision fining Dr. George B. Irvine, Philadelphia, $100 because he moved the teeth from the mouth of Miss Margaret Hammond because she had failed to pay her bill.

All nine of the brothers' dogs were in good shape as they arrived in the capital after the gruelling trek. The premier is seen welcoming the mushers at the main door of the Parliament Buildings.

JUDGE S. L. SMOKE LOSES HIS FATHER

PARIS Ont., Feb. 27.—(CP). — Franklin Smoke, 76, father of Judge S. L. Smoke of Peterborough, and former Federal Conservative member for Brant, died at his home here to-day. He was awarded the King's Jubilee Medal in 1935 and had been given high offices in the Masonic Order during his many years' membership.

Mr. Smoke first practised law in Toronto for the two years after he was called to the bar in 1889, and then removed to Paris, where he has practised since. He was first elected to the House of Commons in 1926 and was re-elected at the 1926 and 1930 general elections. He was defeated for re-election in 1935.

WELLINGTON VOTE MAY BE DELAYED

Date Not be Set Until Returning Officer Named—Quiet Day Friday In House

TORONTO, Feb. 27 (CP)—Government bills will occupy the attention of Ontario legislature members when they open next week's sittings. The House adjourned Friday after a quiet day of discussing various government business.

Notice of the vacancy in Wellington North, caused by the death of Dr. George McQuibban, Liberal, was served on the speaker by George S. Henry, Conservative House leader, and Thomas Kidd, Conservative whip. The government, however, is able to delay the calling of the by-election indefinitely as the writ for it has to be addressed to the returning officer. Until he is named by the cabinet, nothing can be done.

Reports indicated the vote would be held in mid-summer after the return of Premier Mitchell Hepburn and other cabinet members from the coronation ceremonies in England.

Mr. Henry told the House the opposition wished time to study the measure when the government called for second reading a bill for a change in the guardianship of the Dionne quintuplets. Premier Hepburn agreed to the request.

Introducing the bill earlier in the week, Hon. David A. Croll, Minister of Public Welfare, said the quints had become big business and he had not time to be one of their executives. The bill would replace him as one of four official guardians by the official Ontario guardian.

COMMISSION IS TRUSTEE

1933 this condition has been reversed. Money's earning power had declined with the result that the Commission was getting only 3½ and 3 per cent on some of its investments. So far as could be seen the present money market might continue indefinitely. At any rate the Commission had no way of predicting what the future had in store, and it had to handle bonds at least for the next twenty years.

"If you are going to keep faith with the people who bought your bonds you can't tamper with the surplus," Mr. Eastwood asserted. "It is all very well to say that you can do it, but it isn't done."

Experiences of other cities, including Toronto, London and Guelph were mentioned, and the net effect was a warning to other municipalities to safeguard their ability to maintain reserves to meet financial obligations.

Ald. Gordon insisted that the credit of Peterborough with its assets of $24,000,000 was behind the city's bonds. Referring to a report as required from the Commission that a provincial auditor would be in the city within a few days.

"Well, there is your auditor's report. Get busy on it." was Mr. Eastwood's reply.

Serving the Citizens

Mr. Peck affirmed that the Commission's only desire was to serve the citizens.

"When the city issues debentures you are committed to levying in your taxes a rate sufficient to pay the annual interest on those bonds and also a sum that is set aside as a sinking fund to redeem the debentures. These sums are set out in every debenture bylaw.

If the Trust Commission did not exist, the city council would have to raise the money for debenture interest and sinking funds; and having the sinking funds on your hands you would naturally invest them. Under special legislation the City Trust Commission takes the place of the council."

Mr. Peck stated that no money designated for sinking funds could be legally applied for paying any part of money required by the municipal corporation.

Major Macdonald enquired whether the earnings from the accumulated surplus could be diverted to the council.

Mr. Peck said that if for example, the Commission reached a stage where it was making a last call on the council for money that perhaps the earnings could be turned over.

Alderman Gordon asked where the money had come from to pay $19,500 judgment against the city in favor of the B. F. Ackerman Company and $16,500 for the rest room on Charlotte street. These sums were provided by the Commission.

Mr. Eastwood explained that in 1919 the Commission had Dominion of Canada tax free bonds. They were exchanged for taxable bonds and on that transaction there was an advantage to the Commission of $8,000. Again in 1933 the Commission had $270,000 Province of Ontario Abitibi bonds bought at $89¾, and the Hydro-Electric Commission had $305,000 of Peterborough bonds issued when the gas plant was acquired. A sale was arranged between the two commissions and the City Trust Commission acquired on that deal a surplus of $27,000 which were not related to debenture sinking fund. These were illustrations of how a special account was built up, and it was from these funds that the two payments mentioned by Ald. Gordon were paid to the city council.

Ald. Gordon's comment was that all profits made by the Commission should have gone into its reserve.

"Before we gave the council that share of the profits we took legal advice," Mr. Eastwood stated.

Arthur Stevenson read a letter from E.H.D. Hall, solicitor for the Commission the substance of which was the advice on which the Commission took the position that it could not comply with the council's appeal for funds from its surplus. It also stated that members could be held personally liable for any sinking fund monies that might be transferred.

Mr. Gillespie Concurs

G. A. Gillespie said he concurred with all that had been said by other Commissioners. On the lower interest rate at present the Commission's income was down each year, and would continue in that direction as long as the rate remained at present low levels.

Alderman Glover said this question had come up year after year. He desired to see it settled once and for all, and he said he would like to have a certain amount of the Commission's earnings given to the council to ease the tax rate.

Alderman Gordon—If they gave us even the surplus above a definite margin of safety.

Mr. Eastwood—I think the trend is toward instalment and serial bonds, and when the council adopts that plan instead of the sinking fund system this Trust's work will be ended.

W. R. Morris said he was heartily in accord with everything Mr. Eastwood and the other members of the Trust had said. He analyzed the $4,000,000 debenture structure showing that only about $1,000,000 of it was chargeable against the general rate. Therefore the general rate would not be entitled to any more than 25 per cent of the surplus. There was $1,500,000 bonds on utilities administered by the Utilities Commission, $1,000,000 against the public schools and Collegiate Institute and hence a direct charge on the Protestant ratepayers, and $500,000 for frontage charges on local improvements, a total of $3,000,000 and leaving only $1,000,000 debentures to be paid for out of the general rate. Mr. Morris said that this was an important aspect as illustrating the difficulty of apportioning the surplus if that were desired.

BADMINTON BIRDS MANUFACTURED IN LAKEFIELD PLANT

Import Its Feathers From France And Corks From Spain

INTERESTING INDUSTRY

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 27.—"The game of badminton is constantly increasing in popularity in Canada. There are one hundred and fifty badminton clubs and ten thousand players in the city of Toronto alone, not including church organizations, and new clubs are springing up in the smaller cities and towns," Mr. G. J. Elmsley of Lakefield told The Examiner in an interview on Tuesday. Mr. Elmsley is manager of the Lakefield Gamecocks Company, which was the second firm in Canada to manufacture badminton shuttlecocks. He has been in business at his factory in Lakefield for about seven years.

"The ancient and honorable game of badminton, which originated over 150 years ago in India when some soldiers stationed at a place called "Badminton" thrust feathers into corks from their wine-bottles at mess and tossed them back and forth across the mess-table, was taken back to England, where it was called battledore and shuttlecock and played first in top-hats and crinolines.

"The game came to Canada 15 or 20 years ago," Mr. Elmsley said, "and some time after its arrival the Canadian Badminton Association was formed. At that time it was impossible to get Canadian-made shuttlecocks, and the price of the imported birds made the cost of the game almost prohibitive."

When a badminton club was formed in Lakefield, Mr. Elmsley conceived the idea of making a bird for his own use, and out of his efforts to perfect one at a reasonable cost, has come the present Lakefield Gamecocks Company, which has grown in the past few years into a concern of some proportions.

Made By Machine.

To start with, all work on the birds was done by hand, and the business of making one bird was a long and tedious one. Now Mr. Elmsley has acquired a number of machines, each suitable for carrying out one step of the many different processes which go into the manufacture of one bird, and a bird can be turned out in a small fraction of the time formerly required.

These machines were designed and manufactured particularly for the Lakefield Gamecocks Company by a Peterborough firm. Mr. Elmsley explained what he required, and the firm worked out a machine to meet his requirements. Improvements were made from time to time, as a new idea suggested itself, until a complete and satisfactory set of machines were evolved.

The feathers used in making badminton birds, Mr. Elmsley continued, are imported from Czechoslovakia, Poland and France. The best feathers come from France, from the Toulons goose, which is fed greasy foods to produce that diseased condition of the liver required for the delicacy known as "pate de foie gras" This greasy diet tends to make the feathers less brittle, which condition is to be desired in feathers designed for the manufacture of shuttlecocks. Another advantage in the feather of the Toulons goose is its shape: it is short and tapers very quickly, which gives a firm base combined with the desired light weight at the tip. It is not necessary to kill these geese to procure the feathers; instead, they are plucked twice a year just before moulting.

Feathers Go To Paris.

The feathers are sent to Paris when, Mr. Elmsley explained to The Examiner, where hundreds of girls are engaged in sorting the different varieties into groups suitable for every possible use that could be made of a feather. Twice a year buyers from all over go to Paris and buy their supply of feathers. The open season for hat feathers closes at the end of November, and if feathers have not been purchased by that time, you may rest assured, he said, that hats will go featherless the following season.

After the milliners' representatives have made their choice, the market is open to other buyers, such as badminton bird manufacturers, who may buy their supply of feathers by the pound and have them shipped to their destination.

As soon as they arrive at the factory, Mr. Elmsley sends his feathers to Toronto to be laundered, where they are put in bags and washed in luke-warm water and an oil soap. They remain in the bags throughout the cleaning process, and are tumbled over and over until they are absolutely clean.

The corks used in the manufacture of gamecocks come from Spain, Mr. Elmsley continued. They are much more uniform in weight and texture than Canadian corks, in which bits of stone are frequently found. These pieces of stone cause variation in weight, and render the corks unsuitable for making birds. The corks come from Spain already shaped and measuring 1" x 1" x 1" as required by the Canadian Badminton Association regulations. Mr. Elmsley said he has had some trouble obtaining these Spanish corks since the beginning of the Spanish Revolution, but received a portion of his order this winter, after some delay.

Shipments Held Up.

He was held up, too, for several months by the dock strikes in France which prevented the shipping of his orders of kid and feathers, so that when the materials finally arrived he had to enlarge his staff to catch up with back orders. "The difficulty with adding to the staff is that the birds require such exact workmanship to maintain the correct weight and proper balance, that it takes a new person a very long time to acquire a workable knowledge of the trade," he explained.

"A completed bird must weigh between 73 and 85 grains, according to association regulations," Mr. Elmsley continued, "so that 5 or 6 birds weigh only one ounce."

"The cork weighs about 23 grains, and there is almost no variation in the weight of them," Mr. Elmsley explained. "The greatest variation in weight is in the kid," he continued. "It is essential to get best quality French kid that is of consistent light weight and high quality in order to get evenly weighted birds."

Twenty-Three Processes.

Mr. Elmsley showed The Examiner representative through his modern, neatly equipped factory and explained the "raison d'etre" of each of the 23 processes which go into the making of one bird. To follow the manufacture of a gamecock from the cutting of the feathers in the first electrically operated die plate, through the trimming process; the shrouding of the cork with kid; and the drilling of the sixteen holes in the cork at just the right angle to allow the feathers to rest in the proper position; to the first stitching of the feathers by machine which is followed by a clever method of drawing them into shape and giving them a second stitching by hand so that they will retain their proper size of 2½ inches across at the tip and 2½ inches in height from the base to the tip of the feather, is of exceeding interest.

One point that strikes a visitor to the gamecocks factory, is the exactitude of the workmanship which characterizes each bird turned out.

And the fact that Mr. Elmsley has developed the gamecock by his own constant experiments and has brought it out of the experimental stage into the quality class of shuttlecock, adds romance to the picture.

Students Threaten Sitdown Strike But Idea Fails to Carry.

The students decided against the idea.

SOIL FROM VIMY IS GIVEN WOODSTOCK

Urn Taken Over Containing Ashes Is Returned To Ontario With Soil

WOODSTOCK, Ont., Feb. 27 (C.P.). — A ceremony started in Victoria Park here last July, just before Woodstock members of the Vimy Pilgrimage left the city, concluded last night when a small ivory urn containing soil from Vimy Ridge was turned over to Mayor William MacArthur. It will be deposited in a permanent shrine in Woodstock's Public Library.

On the trip to Vimy the urn, in care of Sergt. William Bickley, contained ashes of memorial crosses burned here last July. Now, filled with earth from the ridge, it is being placed on a pedestal and retained in a suitable location in the Public Library as a memorial to Woodstock men who fell during the Great War.

SERVICES IN PETERBOROUGH CHURCHES TO-MORROW

The Golden Text

John 13:34—"A new commandment I give unto you, that ye love one another; even as I have loved you, that ye also love one another."

Some Officials Found in Church Who Out-Judas Judas, Minister Says

There are officials in the Presbyterian church of today who "out-Judas the man who sold his Master for thirty pieces of silver" and a few ecclesiastical suicides would be a very good thing for the church as a whole—if there were no more business ability in business men than is manifested by officials of many congregations, the bankruptcy courts would be swamped with business failures—the conditions within many Presbyterian congregations in the present age are a blot on Christianity.

Declaring that "t is no use to bury our heads ostrich-like in the dust of our own likes and dislikes and try to make ourselves believe that all is right with the church," these were but a few opinions expressed by Rev. William Allan, minister of Dovercourt Road Presbyterian Church, Toronto and formerly of St. Paul's Church, Peterborough, in a sermon on "The church at its best."

As a text he chose Acts 4: 33: "And with great power gave the Apostles witness of the resurrection of the Lord Jesus and great grace was upon them all."

"If the significance of that historical statement were permitted to grip the imagination of church people generally and official boards in particular, it would bring about a more remarkable transformation in the world than even the Reformation accomplished," he said.

Questions Fall of Church

"How has the church come to fall into the low condition of spiritual life which is all too prevalent today?" he asked. "Why is it that in so many congregations a spirit of lawlessness and rebellion against constituted authority is rampant? How does it happen that men with no business ability are given official positions within Christian congregations?

"There are men holding down—and I mean holding down—official positions within the church who could out-Judas the man who sold his Master for thirty pieces of silver—and they haven't the decency to commit ecclesiastical suicide.

"It is small wonder that the unchurched are getting an altogether wrong conception of Christ and Christianity when we consider what we are asked to accept as Christian by far too many within our congregations today. When the orchard test is applied 'by their fruits shall ye know them' apostolic Christianity is at a very low ebb."

The early church, Mr. Allan pointed out, was numerically small—had very few social advantages—its ministry lacked the stamp of the schools and they had no great buildings, yet they were credited with far more than we can be credited with.

"They were able to turn the world upside down," Mr. Allan remarked, "and about all we can do today is to turn over on our other side and go to sleep again."

The church like the woman in the Gospel who suffered many things of many physicians is suffering from "an epidemic of D.D.'s regarding the value of which there is room for a lot of questioning."

Need a New Type

"What the church needs is men who have been to the cross—men who have felt the pangs of a guilty conscience but who are now rejoicing in the redemptive work of Jesus Christ and feel the pulsations of new life within their own souls.

"We are handicapped," the speaker continued, "with too much machinery—cursed with a carnal spirit—and have too many men in official positions who are absolutely destitute of Christian charity.

"The church will once more be at her best when she gets back to the primitive simplicity of apostolic days, and is not afraid to exercise discipline within her own ranks even should it affect some modern Herod.

"She needs to live a separated life. Her piety should be more of a possession than a parade and even if she has not much gold she should have a great grip of God."

The New Commandment

"BRASS TACKS" ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for Feb. 28 is John 12:12-13:38, especially 12:20-33; 13:34, 35, the Golden Text being 13:34, "A new commandment I give unto you, that ye love one another, even as I have loved you, that ye also love one another.")

JESUS BEGAN the last week of His public ministry by allowing His followers to stage a demonstation in the interest of His kingship as the throngs gathered in Jerusalem for the celebration of their passover festival.

The Triumphal Entry

But it was a strange demonstration of royalty! There was no display of pomp and power, no clatter of sabers or dashing of chariots. But on the contrary a motley crowd of Galilean peasants waving palm branches, singing psalms and shouting "Hosanna to the Son of David, blessed is He that cometh in the name of the Lord, even the King of Israel." And the king they acclaim is the carpenter of Nazareth, recently turned prophet, who rides upon an awkward donkey colt. Pilate or Herod would have laughed at the idea of royalty in such lowly simplicity. It remained for this new king to demonstrate the beauty of simplicity, the power of gentleness and the royalty of sacrificial love spending itself in unselfish service.

We See Jesus

The enthusiasm of Palm Sunday withered with the palm branches as hostility gathered in menacing threats of murder by mid-week. In sharp contrast, however, to the gathering hatred of Jesus' own people was the interest manifested by a group of Greeks who timidly approached Philip, one of Jesus' disciples of Greek name, saying, "Sir, we would see Jesus." Jesus recognized the appeal as prophetic of the gathering to His standard of the great Gentile world, as He said, "The hour is come, that the Son of man should be glorified. Verily, verily, I say unto you, Except a grain of wheat fall into the earth and die, it abideth by itself alone; but if it die, it beareth much fruit . . . and I if I be lifted up from the earth, will draw all men unto myself. This He said, signifying by what manner of death He should die." So the standard He would raise for the gathring of His hosts would be the cross. It would be the magnet to draw all races of men to God through His death and resurrection.

The Gory Cross His Glory

It was a hard lesson to teach a selfish world: "He that loveth his life loseth it; and he that hateth his life in this world shall keep it unto life eternal." Even among His disciples "there arose a contention as to which of them was accounted to be greatest." Not one of them would condescend to serve the group, or even the Master, by removing His sandals and washing His feet. But what none would do for Him He was unashamed to do for all, as "he took a towel, and girded Himself, then poureth water into a basin, and began to wash the disciples' feet, and to wipe them with the towel wherewith He was girded." It was His example in serving through love. In this love He even made Judas, the traitor, the object of His special affection as He chose him as the honored one to receive the sop at supper. Surely, this was love to the uttermost. "A new commandment I give unto you, that ye love one another; even as I have loved you, that ye also love one another." With this love He loved the whole world from the manger to the cross.

Sabbath Message For the Shut-Ins

"HOW TO PRAY"

What a startling statement. A band of young Jews, trained from childhood to pray, make this request. His Disciples, learners at the feet of They are proud to call themselves a living Teacher. They have been looking upon His face as He prayed. "As He was praying in a certain place." There was an atmosphere about Him that made them realize hearts burned within them". As His nearness to Jehovah. "Their Jews, it had been burnt into their very sous, that there is but One God. "Here, O Israel, The Lord Thy God is One Lord". But their teachers had emphasized that truth to such an extent that to the great mass of Jews Jehovah was the One God, but very far from them. His Unity separated Him from His people.

But this young Carpenter Jehovah was very near. They felt that nearness. They heard Him call God "Abba." the Hebrew for Father. His voice was so full of tenderness and emotion when He uttered that word Abba that the disciples never forgot the intonation. So much so that the early Christian, whether Jews or Gentiles, continued to use the same word that they also might draw near to God in the very language that the Lord Jesus Himself used, "Abba". St. Mark 14.36: Romans 8.15: Gal. 4.6.

As religious men they are thrilled with His earnestness and His realisation of the nearness of God. Could they ever pray as He prayed? So we read: "Lord, teach us to pray."

How did Our Lord pray? All the days of His earthly will was in complete union with the will of His Father. "I am come to do the will of Him that sent Me."

But when He prayed the Lord Himself consciously in the presence of God. For Him it was easy, if we may so say. As His disciples we must also learn from Him.

How do you pray? Just drop upon your knees and say your prayers? That is the popular idea, your childish habit. But you must put away childish things. Kneel down upright, close your eyes, put your hands together and then quietly, consciously say: "God is here". Let that thought sink into your heart and soul. Take time to realize it. Then offer your prayer. You will not discover God tomorrow, or the next week or year. Great discoveries are costly. As you make the effort to draw near to God, God will draw near to you. Perhaps in some day of sorrow, anxiety or pain there will come upon you the sense of His Presence. There will be the sense of the awareness of God. You will discover that you kneel upon "holy ground".

CATHEDRAL MUSINGS

We should not think that the spirit of Christ can be known only to those who believe in the historical Jesus. It must be remembered that Jesus the last of a series of teachers, was the culmination and focal point of those who went before Him, and that although He was the cornerstone, yet others had built before Him, the edifice He completed and crowned. To pin one's faith upon dates and events instead of upon the fundamental truths of God and man is surely putting of the cart before the horse, for mystically speaking what happened on that dreary "hill of the skull" nineteen hundred years ago, is not an event in time but in eternity, for it has been from the very beginning and still is occurring. Again, we should not forget that he who in the humility of love seeks to do the will of God is in reality a servant and a brother of the Christ even if he has lived in some far distant corner of the earth and has known nothing of the western religions. The Apostles and the early Fathers recognized this fact, but today we seem inclined to forget it, yet there are saints and martyrs in the history of all religions.

The world today in the lusty pride of a comparatively youthful civilizations tends to emphasize the material things to the detriment of the spiritual. The fruits of the Spirit are love and charity. The fruits of our civilization are as yet not come to fruition, or else are lost and hidden in the welter of arms and armaments, poison gas, and bombs and torturing deaths to the helpless and defenceless. Yet in the end the ideal of Christ must conquer or else we perish. It would be better if we defined the issue clearly. It is not between various social "isms", it does not lie between various forms of government, for no system can dominate a people against the people's will for very long, but it does lie between serving the spirit of God and the spirit of self. The "form" of government matters little but the spirit animating it is everything. Force may seem to rule but in the long run thought is more potent. The whole might of the Roman Empire was powerless to crush the infant church, it was only when its animating spirit was lost that it became corrupt, began to seek power to serve self rather than God. Expediency has been the enemy of all religions; it was expediency that crucified the Christ and that is still crucifying Him.

If a religion is not worth living for, it certainly is not worth dying for. One wonders at times what exactly would happen to a man who set out to literally follow the teachings of Jesus in their entirety. And yet, if His teachings are not practical is not the fault in us? Have we not erected an elaborate system of scaffolding and what not that hides from our gaze the wonderful simplicity of the Christ? Is it so hard to grasp the idea of the Fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of all men? These are not the inner doctrines of the Temple, they are but the outer approaches, but how can we enter unless we pass through the outer courts of the neophytes. How can we understand the meaning of our own life until we sympathetically enter into an understanding of the lives of all? Life is not really diverse, it is one. Neither is God diverse although He has many names by which men call upon Him. He speaks to all who truly seek Him whether they be Christian or Jew, Buddhist or aught else for His spirit is in all.

LACTANTIUS III.

A National Message

For many years now there has been built up in the minds of those who have chosen theology as a profession, the fallacy that the Book they have undertaken to deal with is not to be taken at its face value. The command "Preach the Word of God" has been changed to "Criticize the Word of God."

Because an array of otherwise distinguished men took up this attitude towards the Book, and because such men had achieved degrees of scholarship in other directions—not necessarily in theology—their dictum in regard to this matter has been received as the result of "good scholarship"; even as the result of "best scholarship."

Such, however—beyond question for those who have tested the matter—is very far from the truth. Modern scholarship has travelled a very erratic course ever since the term was invented; it is still pursuing such a course in regard to Biblical things; and will continue to do so until, as a distinctive movement, it ends.

The question is asked: "Why should The National Message go out of its way to call in question this school of thought?" The answer is, The National Message does not go out of its way to attack; it finds this school of thought occupying the path of its own forward course of knowledge, bitterly fighting against the facts and truths contained in the Bible, and preached by British Israel. So far it is right and necessary that we should meet and remove such misconceptions.

That it may be realized we do not stand alone in this regard, we refer, for instance, to Dr. Sayce's book "Monumental Facts and Higher Critical Fancies." Dr. Sayce was an Oxford man, learned in higher critical lore. But he was also learned, and practised, in what he terms, "monumental facts." That is to say: the archaeological discoveries which he did so much to uncover, and which have furnished again and again proofs of the historicity of passages of the Bible which modern critics had dubbed "myth" and "fable." He adduces facts from moderist literature to show that modern critics of the Bible ASSUMED such and such things to be the case.

Having so assumed, modern critics then proceeded to reason from such assumptions AS THOUGH THEY WERE ESTABLISHED FACTS. By this means they proved to their own satisfaction many things they desired to believe, and sent out such "PROOFS" as evidences of contradictions and errors in the historic records of the Bible. In perhaps every such case, certainly in many such cases, the error has been in the method of the modern critic, and not in the Bible.

TWEED RAIDS BRING FIVE SENTENCES

Three Go To Jail For Breaches Of L.C.A.—Nine Let Off On Radio License Charges

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TWEED, Feb. 27.—Several officers together with Chief Constable J. C. Hayes, spent some very active days making searches of the premises of several alleged bootleggers, and as a result of the Saturday night raids one woman appeared on Wednesday before Magistrate Lloyd of Northbrook at a special session of police court. She pleaded guilty to a breach of the regulations of the Liquor Control Act and was fined twenty dollars and costs. The Magistrate ruled her home to be a public place.

Friday Court Session.

At the regular police court session held on Friday afternoon in the township hall, several cases were disposed of. Resulting out of the weekend raids Laurie Chapelle was charged with consuming liquor in other than a licensed house. He was fined thirty dollars and costs or one month, and subsequently took the month. Frank O'Coin also appeared on the same charge and was also given thirty dollars and costs, or one month, and took the month in the county gaol.

Arrested on Monday, Martin A. Pringle was charged with a breach of the L.C.A., when he appeared before C. H. Kerr, J.P., and when he appeared before Magistrate Lloyd on Friday afternoon, was given four months in the reformatory.

Vincent Chapelle also appeared before the magistrate and was given a fine of ten dollars and costs, and allowed two weeks in which to secure the necessary money.

Nine prominent local citizens who were unable to produce radio licenses recently, when J. J. McWatters, Dominion radio inspector, called upon them, were summoned to appear in police court on Friday, but as they had in the meantime secured the necessary licenses, the charges were dropped.

When his left hand was accidentally drawn against the teeth of a whirling circular saw on Thursday afternoon when engaged in cutting wood near the farm of Gerald Hall, Township of Sidney, William Colden suffered the loss of two middle fingers. A third finger, though practically severed by the saw, is expected to be saved.

The New Commandment — ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON — Scripture—John 12:12-13:38

By the Rev. Alvin E. Bell And Alfred J. Buescher

COPYRIGHT, 1937, CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

As Jesus entered Jerusalem with the passover crowds he rode upon a donkey's colt and his disciples waved palm branches and shouted, "Hosanna to the Son of David. Blessed is he that cometh".

In contrast to his own people, who were seeking to kill him, a group of Greeks came to Philip, saying, "Sir, we would see Jesus." This interest of Gentiles in Jesus pleased him greatly.

As Jesus ate the passover, he appealed to Judas by choosing him as the disciple to receive the sop or morsel of bread dipped by the host and given to show special love. But Judas arose and left.

Not one of the disciples would humble himself to serve in washing their feet. But Jesus did this for them as an example of humble serving love. (GOLDEN TEXT—John 13:34)

REV. GORE A. BELL TAKEN BY DEATH

Taught School In Hastings, Later Preached In Tamworth Retired In 1909

BROCKVILLE, Ont., Feb. 27 (C.P.) — Rev. Gore A. Bell, veteran of the ministry of the former Methodist Church and superannuate of the United Church of Canada, died suddenly at his residence here today shortly after having returned from a visit to the business section of the town.

Born at Bell Crossing, Elizabethtown Township, in 1850, he lived on his father's farm there until he was 22, attending the Carleton Place High School, the Ontario Commercial College, Belleville, and Albert College, Belleville, and becoming a local preacher in the New Connexion Church.

After teaching school in Hastings County, he entered the Methodist ministry in 1876 and served on the following stations in Ontario and Quebec: Milford, North Augusta, Renfrew, Tamworth, Lyndhurst, Harrowsmith, Cayon, Riceville, Chelsea, Frankville, Vars, Battersea, Ulverton, and Finch before he was superannuated in 1909. He had lived here since 1927, and is survived by several sons.

Using the Broom at Home

Rev. C. W. Barrett of Brighton, addressed a meeting of the Cobourg Presbytery of the United Church, and he was not moved to say soft things. The Church has been slipping badly for the last fifteen years. Mr. Barrett said that and more.

From a report of his address we quote:

> "Women in our Church get openly drunk, an action which ten years ago would cause the woman to be known as a trollop. Officials in the Church drink and get drunk, things which fifteen years ago we didn't see. The businessmen are losing confidence in our churchmen. Illegitimacy is increasing every year and is being winked at . . . The Church will recover her financial standing as soon as she recovers her spiritual standing."

If there is going to be any housecleaning done it is apparent Rev. C. W. Barrett of Brighton wants it to begin in the Church itself; and that is sound reasoning. What's more it takes a degree of courage to say the damage is being done by the Church members themselves rather than pursuing the softer path of making the accusation general so the Church members could with easy conscience pass the accusation on to the world in general.

This attitude is quite different from that of the Church sitting in judgment on the world in general and exempting itself from the findings. There is something frank and refreshing and courageous in the attitude of the pastor from Brighton.

A Point Often Missed

The sit-down strike has bothered and baffled not a few industrial leaders. They do not seem to know exactly how to deal with this new development, so they variously apply to courts for injunctions giving power to clear the strikers from the premises, or they refuse to negotiate with them until such time as they do vacate.

Walter L. Fry of Detroit has some ideas of his own. He operates a business where 100 girls make slip covers for furniture and automobile seats. Wages are reported at 33 to 36 cents per hour, and ten boys in the plant earn from 35 to 65 cents per hour. They all wanted more, so they tried the sit-down strike.

Walter Fry is not only the "boss" but he looks after most of the business himself. It is he who goes out and gets the orders to keep the place going. When the sit-down strike took place Mr. Fry did the same thing himself. He sat down and quit work, and had his meals sent to the office and decided the strikers might soon be coming to see if they could not induce him to go back to work. If he didn't work then there would be nothing for the others to do.

There are times when people try to make others believe the office of an industrial concern is a long way removed from the rest of it, but that is not so. The case of Mr. Fry in Detroit presents a plain example, one which is easily understood. If he does not go out and get the business then there would be nothing for the 100 people in his plant to do. Turn that around and make it read this way: If the folk in the plant did not work there would not be much use of Mr. Fry going about securing orders. Read it either way and the answer is the same. Mr. Fry in his office and the 100 people in his plant are very closely related. And that's a point which at times seems to have trouble enough crowding itself near enough to the front for people to get a good look at it.

Something About Music

A correspondent wrote a letter to the Examiner in defence of jazz music. He was replying to an attack made on much of it by a speaker who appeared in the city recently, and that speaker was an outstanding musician. At the conclusion of his letter our correspondent said this:

> "Bach, Mozart and their confreres have been dead many long years. Why continue to annoy us with their silly symphonies that very few of us wish to hear any longer?"

That is an example of a writer who in seeking to establish his own point of view leaned over too far. That is, he made too great a statement, and admittedly it takes a good deal of experience—some of it bitter enough—to avoid doing that.

It is quite true that these two master musicians have been dead for a number of years. Bach was born in 1685 and died in 1750. The extent of his work can be appreciated by the statement that there are 52 volumes of it preserved, but our correspondent is in error in referring to him as a writer of silly symphonies, for of these he wrote none at all. Bach has been dead for 187 years, but we consider it interesting to mention that when the Mendelssohn Choir of Toronto visits Peterborough shortly there will be Bach numbers on the programme, and Mendelssohn is recognized as being one of the great choirs of the world.

Mozart, the Austrian composer, too, has been dead 146 years. Nor was he known as a writer of symphonies, silly or otherwise. Of that part of his effort very little is left, and with the exception of Requiem in C major he left that field almost alone. But there are at least 624 of his compositions in use today and time appears to increase their popularity and recognition of their musical beauties. It is true the leader of a very ordinary jazz band today would make more money than Mozart ever received. At the age of four he was able to play the piano well; when he was six he appeared on the concert stage in Vienna. He was a favorite with princes and such folk, but he never made a living and his finances were always in the most precarious condition. When he died of malignant fever at the age of 35 he was buried next day outside the walls of Vienna in a pauper's grave.

Time alone is the testing ground of worth and value. Bach departed 187 years ago and it is 146 years since Mozart went his way. But the world has not grown weary of their work. People do not say of their material "I heard that before so I do not want to hear it again." And it is no idle prediction to say that as long as time itself lasts Bach and Mozart will live!

Life Grows Tougher

There can be little enjoyment in being a chicken or a hen any more. We noticed some new method they have adopted in the Western States. They have special buildings now. First floor is where the incubator operates; next floor up is where the chicks go when first hatched; up one more is the place where they are until they are bit bigger, and on the top floor the chickens are two pounds and ready for sale, because there is a market for what they call broilers. The chickens never get outside of that building and they never have a chance to weigh more than two pounds.

And that we submit is a pretty drab sort of a life for a chicken. It's different to what it used to be on Lot 4, Concession Ten. And worse too. There a chicken seemed to have a chance; it it didn't seem just right at birth it might even get a little sip of warm milk with a touch of red pepper to help it along; if it kept on ailing it would be put in a basket at the side of the kitchen range. It actually had a chance to have a little fuss made over it.

When it got to the pullet stage it learned how to lay an egg, and as it advanced in age it made bigger and better eggs and the law of progress had opportunity to run its course and be amply demonstrated in the hen house. If one of those crippled chicks turned out to be all right there was a sense of triumph in the family circle. In time the hen could cluck and raise a family; then she could shed her feathers and feel miserable for a season and the folk rather felt sorry for her.

And when time came for the hen to depart she'd be a good five or six pounds, and she had seen about all there was to see on Lot 4. Probably she'd followed the plow to look for worms and she'd been shooed out of the geranium bed; she'd dusted on the south side of the drive shed and hatched out a family and lived quite an eventful life in general. It seems sad to think of chicks that never leave the building. Hatched in it, fed in it and killed in it when they get to be two pounds. Life seems to be getting tougher all the time.

The City Trust Surplus

The fact that the City Trust in Peterborough has at present a fund of $231,137.48 created by surplus earnings of sinking funds has attracted the attention of aldermen in their quest for something to use for the keeping down of the tax rate. There is nothing in the Act by which the City Trust was incorporated to say that such money should be handed over for purposes of tax reduction, and it requires a careful study of a rather wide field to come to a safe conclusion. Other cities have had surplus earnings from the investment of their sinking funds, and there have been cases where a portion of it has been used to keep down the tax rate annually until the surplus has been dissipated. We believe this matter will disappear in future years because the sinking fund debenture is going out of use and is being generally replaced by the serial debenture. Under this newer form a certain amount of both principal and interest is returned to the bond holder each year, and that is collected directly from the tax rate.

The reason why there is a surplus in sinking fund debentures is not difficult to understand. Using a 20-year bond as an example, a certain amount is set aside each year, so that at the end of 20 years there will be sufficient on hand to retire the debenture at maturity. That is the sinking fund. It is separate entirely from the payment of interest which is attended to annually. Instead of this increasing sinking fund being left idle it is invested, but it must not be estimated that it will earn over 4 per cent. But there are cases where it does earn more than 4 per cent. and that is where the surplus originates.

The surplus in the hands of the City Trust in Peterborough today is the highest it has ever been, and the reason is that when passing through years when interest rates were high it was possible to secure more than 4 per cent. without going outside the field of desirable securities. There were about 14 years of such times. Earnings on invested sinking fund were as high as 6 per cent. Today it is not possible to estimate that investments will with safety earn more than 3.05 per cent., so it is quite possible that a period of low earnings when calculations had been based on 4 per cent. for sinking funds would tend to dissipate a portion of the present surplus.

Investments made by the City Trust have been fortunate. The total amount they have placed at the moment amounts to $2,350,066.52, and the one weak point in this investment is $20,000 worth of Alberta bonds, on which the interest rate has been cut in two. The City Trust has not accepted payment on that basis.

It is a mistake to say the City Trust is a body which is working entirely on behalf of the citizens of Peterborough. It is actually a trustee body for the bond-holders. It came into existence first in 1852 on the consolidation of the then current debt, and the idea was to so manage civic finances that the municipality would be assured of a better credit standing. The functions of the City Trust were again set forth in a city of Peterborough Bill passed by the Legislature in 1908. This much-discussed surplus cannot be regarded entirely as something which is waiting for some person to claim it, as it has been reinvested and is regarded as added security for the bond-holders.

The experience of other cities which have made use of sinking fund surplus earnings for the reduction of the tax rate has been that when this fund was finally dissipated there has been a shock at the manner in which the tax rate has increased suddenly because the temporary prop on which the taxpayers learned to lean was taken away.

We are now in a period when sinking funds investments are not going to earn as much as anticipated, and the trend of high interest money which created the surplus is being followed by a period of low earnings which can be counted on to make inroads on that same surplus.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Canada's market garden crop last year reached a total value of $20,000,000 but the report does not state how much of that total was contributed by spinach.

Indian railways have shown a profit for the past two years and a lot of folk including the Canadian Federal government would like definite details as to how the trick was done.

When an action against Rubinoff was dismissed in a New York court the violinist kissed his council. The lawyer will probably however send in his bill just the same.

The average age of the members of the Alberta Legislature is 48, but the chances are it will be considerably higher by the time social credit gets under way.

Hamilton man is spoken of as having been successful in 29 robberies. In fairness to others who might be considering a similar line of work it should be added he has been sent to prison for eight years.

Sir Archibald Sinclair, British Liberal Leader, says the Ottawa trade agreements are a menace to the world's peace. We thought the universal rush to re-arm was one thing that could not be blamed on Mr. Bennett but apparently we were wrong.

Professor Jackman says that the contemplated change in the capitalization of the C.N.R. "Is largely but a deceptive bookkeeping adjustment which will have no effect of any kind in solving the railway problem." The worst thing about that statement is that it is probably correct.

In the 1936 edition of "Echoes" published by the pupils of Peterborough Vocational and Collegiate Institute there will be pictures of those who received 80 per cent. Modesty forbids us to mention the name of one individual who would never have had his mug in the paper under those stern rules.

FOOLED

(By A. H. R.)

¶ My Aunt Lucile was coming in, and she is neither frail nor thin, she likes her victuals too; we'd have to keep her in good health, and load up high the pantry shelf, for nothing less would do.

¶ We bought a ten pound roast of beef, 'twould keep her off starvation's reef, and got a leg of ham; we got some canned goods at the store, and next day I went back for more, she eats just like a man.

¶ And next day on they went to bake, and made a dandy frosted cake, with icing up on top; they made three pies to put away, preparing for my aunt's glad stay, her weight could not well drop.

¶ We had some spuds, but I got more, and had ten turnips on the floor, a peck of spinach too; we'd feed my aunt up strong and good, and use her just like how we should, that's what we planned to do.

¶ Well Aunt Lucile came yesterday, and we were ready for the fray, the ham was boiled and boned; we piled the cake and pie around, until it made a sudden sound, as though the table groaned.

¶ But Aunt Lucile brought out a book, and written there was what she took, she ate not half a cow; she had got bravely over that, the doctor said she was too fat—she's on a diet now.

Fur Flies When Pouliot Speaks

(From Parliamentary Debates)

M. JEAN FRANCOIS POULIOT (Temiscouata): Could we not have Canadians filling, not only the humble posts but the more eminent positions in the Department of National Defence? I am proud of my fellow citizens and I believe that an English or French-speaking Canadian is just as good as an Englishman from the old country. I am very much surprised to find that after so many years since the British officers and men left this country Canada has taken a step backwards. We find that one-half of the staff of the Department of National Defence is made up of men who are not Canadians. These figures have nothing to do with the non-commissioned officers as another return to be tabled later will cover those men. I wonder whether among those who stayed twenty miles behind the fighting line or those who, while serving in the Canadian army, stayed in England or Canada, there are not some who did so in order that they might avoid going to the front? I shall have more to say about this later on. I want to know if there are cowards in the Canadian army, if there are in the department men who have done their best to stay away from the front.

I now come to something delightful, something which is like an oasis in the desert. If there is one decoration which is not the cover of a can, it is the efficiency medal. Is that not delightful—efficiency? It is an American word, signifying one who is efficient, who is able, who has in his hand the key of success. One who is efficient is worthy of confidence, of approval, of respect. So let me quote from our esteemed contemporary, the Ottawa Journal. It announces in its issue of July 11, 1936, "Military awards in Ottawa and district." Mr. Speaker, be careful! Mr. Clerk—I cannot address him, but he must be careful; so must the assistant clerk, lest they fall from their chairs. Listen, and be careful! The efficiency decoration is bestowed by this government on various men. And who is the most efficient man in Canada?

Mr. Bennett is honorary colonel of the Calgary Highlanders and has been awarded the Canadian efficiency decoration.

There is efficiency! I never knew that before, and I am surprised that the right hon. gentleman does not wear his medal and does not carry with him all his degrees of L.L.D. honoris causa.

What is a medal? The great Napoleon has said, "C'est avec des hochets qu'on mene les hommes"—a great saying of a great emperor who had a deep knowledge of the human heart. I shall never forgive the Minister of National Defence for having pinned that efficiency decoration on the lapel of the leader of the opposition. But time flies; let us speak about efficiency. There are also other efficient people. Last year I drew the attention of this house to the fact that if Colonel Steel had been returned to the Department of National Defence and granted the pension to which he was entitled, he would have had one-half of what he now receives. I complain about that.

Now, with regard to economy. Would it not be better to return General McNaughton to the Department of National Defence at a pension of $4,800 a year and replace him at the head of the National Research Council by a really efficient Canadian and a very eminent man who has been a benefactor to the race of mankind: I refer to Doctor Banting, the discoverer of insulin. McNaughton receives $15,000. His salary should be reduced to one cent. But if Banting were appointed to that position, I would be ready to vote $25,000, $50,000, even $100,000, to permit him to continue his scientific experiments in the interests of humanity. We are not stingy; we are ready to vote money provided that it serves the purpose for which it is voted. I am ready to vote money to rebuild the Moose Jaw armoury which was burned the day before last. It is a useful expenditure. But the objects for which we are to vote must be disclosed to us.

I have only five minutes more, and I shall try to use them as well as I can. We have been told that communism is a menace to this country. I do not know that we are entitled to go as far as that. It may become a menace if we continue to give absurd salaries to some members of the civil service who do nothing, when others who work are not well enough paid. Take, for instance, McNaughton's salary of $15,000 as head of the National Research Council; it is a provocation to those who suffer hunger; so is the salary of MacBrien, and so are other salaries which are in excess of $10,000. There should be a reduction in that regard, with the exception perhaps of the chief justice, I do not know of any civil servant who is worth more than $10,000. Not only that, but some others have recourse to tricks in order to increase their salaries. They do not have a flat salary of $15,000, they have apparently $10,000 or $11,000 or $12,000, and they have also some other gratuities or bonuses. That is a shame.

Great dangers result from distributing money too freely. Our votes would not be so high if Fullerton had not received $30,000, and if Hector Charlesworth had not been granted $6,000 purely as a gratuity, which he did not deserve. Either those two men were competent or they were not. If they were competent they should be in office now; they should not have been put out, and if they were incompetent they were not entitled to any award at the expense of the taxpayers. This matter is very serious, as we all know, and for my part I am ready to do anything that is essential for the defence of the country. I do hope that when any member recommends an honest citizen of his constituency who desires voluntarily to enlist to defend the country, the doors of the Department of National Defence will not be closed against him and that he will have an opportunity to serve his country, especially when there are people from outside receiving fair salaries and bonuses while our own people are on relief. This should stop at once. The Department of National Defence, before being reorganized, should be ventilated; the windows should be opened and the cobwebs brushed away, and there should be a general clean-up in the department to show that bureaucracy is about to die. There are enough good soldiers in the Department of National Defence; let them use their guns to kill bureaucracy and they will serve the country very well.

THIS desire for individuality which is universal among men, can and should be used as a basis from which to bring about character reform. Fostering a spirit of responsibility by means which are recognized and advocated by such enlightened and progressive officials as Warden Lawes of Sing Sing and others is likely to add to the good effects produced. Neither the Rev. C. E. Silcox nor those who think with him are advocating that prisoners be "coddled," but only that the penal institutions should take on its proper function—the reformation, as well as the punishment of the criminal—and should not deteriorate into a mere instrument of unremitting revenge.

To The Editor

WELL RECEIVED

Editor Examiner:

Sir: Recently a deputation composed of Messrs. Lancaster, M.P.P., Warden Brown, Councillor Anderson, treasurer Burgess and Reeve Griffith waited on the provincial government in connection with the payment of the government subsidy to be paid monthly instead of yearly, on all work done in the municipality of Belmont and Methuen.

We deem under this scheme that our municipality would be placed in a much better position, with our limited amount of working capital to carry the overhead expense for each month instead of for the year, as at present.

We also had a proposition before the government for the taking over, and building of an improved road north of Havelock by way of Round Lake, across the plains and connecting with the road leading to Apsley and Coe Hill. Our former request was practically granted, and on the latter the department is sending a representative in the early spring to consider our financial condition and the advisability of constructing such a road.

I further wish to comment on the able manner that our requests were placed before the different departments that we waited on, by our worthy member, Mr. Lancaster, and the courteous treatment that we all received from the cabinet ministers that we were before, as well as all civil employees that we had the occasion to meet.

(Niagara Falls Review)

NOTICEABLE in prison sentences on reckless drivers and motorists involved in accidents in Great Britain is the frequency with which sentences are accompanied by cancellation of driving permits ranging from thirty days to life. Perhaps greater use of cancellation power might do much to reduce the ratio of recklessness and carelessness on our highways. There are many men to whom a fine means nothing, who would be much more careful if they knew their driving permits were in danger.

A Bit of Nonsense

The Difficulty

For those planning a motor tour, it is best to get a large road map. This will tell you everything you want to know, except how to fold it up again.

Sweden Is Advanced In The Housing Plans

Like the other Scandinavian countries, Sweden is very far advanced in housing. About 130,000 dwellings were built between 1917 and 1929, fifty per cent of them subsidized or assisted in some way. Since the 80's, Stockholm has had a policy of purchasing land around the city for industrial and suburban residence purposes.

EXPECTING PAY BOOST

Pittsburgh Industry Hopes to Set $75,000,000 Extra Yearly

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Steel and labor circles in this steel city looked forward today to an impending increase in wages for the $5,000,000,000 industry, which would put $75,000,000 yearly into the workers' pockets.

The Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corporation, largest subsidiary of the $2,000,000,000 United States Steel Corporation, officially was considering demands of 50,000 of its 101,000 workers for a raise of 10 cents an hour, a reduction of 8 hours in its 48-hour work week, recognition of seniority rights and time and half for overtime work.

KITCHEN SHELVES

Almost any kitchen can use more shelf room, and there is usually at least one space in which open shelves can be placed.

For canned goods and other packaged articles they are just as useful as cabinets.

SHYSTER EMPLOYERS

Legislation Coming to Force Supplying of Complete Information

TORONTO, Feb. 27 — (C.P.) — Legislation will probably be presented to the Ontario Legislature soon to reveal "racketeering" employers by compelling all employers to furnish the government with public files of their employees, hours of work and individual wages paid, Captain T. E. Heron, Deputy Commissioner of Public Welfare, told a meeting of social workers yesterday.

"We have a number of shyster employers in Toronto," Captain Heron told the meeting. "But this legislation is in view and I understand it will be made into law. Then an employer will be ashamed to place a married man on his payroll to work a 40-hour week at $11."

DRAWER FOR DOILIES

A great convenience for the housewife is a drawer in the kitchen or butler's pantry containing a number of shallow trays for doilies. The front of the drawer may be hinged to drop down so that any tray may be drawn out without disturbing the others.

TREATMENT FOR ROOMS

Insulating board provides another possible treatment for many rooms. Where an attic or basement is being renovated, almost any of the standard wall boards will prove satisfactory. These, also, can be given various finishes; paint, applied directly to the wall, plaster (using the wallboard under lath or as lath itself), and wall paper are commonly used. The use of narrow wooden strips to cover the joints (with resulting panels) is another popular finish.

Russia has announced that 150,000 military fliers are to be trained there.

Remodelled Room For Boy Quite Easy

Early colonial is considered good style to use when decorating a boy's room. This period lends itself well to the sturdiness required in such a room. The floor can be covered with material of a red tile design or the wide Colonial plank pattern.

One end of the room can be panelled with wide boards put up lengthwise, the cracks to be covered with narrow strips of metal, wood or special material. The panelling can be stained a pine color and well rubbed down. Plaster painted a grayish blue might be chosen for the other three walls; the wood trim should be stained to match the panelling.

Lots of ideas can be executed in decorating such a room for the growing boy. A good sized map can be hung on one wall and some animal or boat pictures would be effective at other spots on the walls.

Toy Door Great Help To Mother, Children

A deep drawer on rollers at the bottom of a child's closet is a great convenience to the mother and is an effective answer to the usual excuse that he can't pick up his toys because he has no place to put them.

There can be a step covering the front of the drawer and hinged so that it can be raised when he wants to get at toys beneath it. This will enable him to pull out the drawer part way and step up to reach his clothes on the hooks above.

TELEPHONE NOOK

In almost every house there is some place under a stair or off the coat closet or beside a chimney where a telephone niche can be installed. Below this niche there may be a space with perpendicular divisions for telephone and other books. Somewhere in a convenient spot in the niche should be a pad and pencil for memoranda.

Improve Your Home On Instalment Plan

Money At The Bank For You On Basis Of Repayment In Equal Monthly Sums—Like Buying Car, Radio, Refrigerator

The Home Improvement Plan is extended to every home owner who is a reasonably sound financial risk.

You are a reasonably sound financial risk as broadly defined for the purposes of the Home Improvement Plan if you can pay in monthly instalments over a period of three years the loan which you obtain from a bank to be spent on repairs or improvements to your home.

If, for example, you borrow $300 for some job you want done on your house you can arrange to repay it in one year, if you wish, and the limit of time for repayment is three years.

Adoption of Instalment Plan

It is simply the instalment plan of buying repairs or improvements to your home. In that respect it is virtually the same well tried plan by which thousands of people buy automobiles, refrigerators, furniture, radios and so on.

If you want to make certain repairs or improvements that cost $300 you are given three years to repay the loan you get from a bank. In that instance the monthly instalment is slightly more than $8, something over two dollars a week.

If you can pay two dollars a week plus the interest charge of 6.32 per cent., the lowest rate of interest ever charged for a service of this kind, you are a reasonably sound financial risk for the loan of $300.

Red Tape Is Eliminated

The banker and the tradesman, whether he be carpenter, plumber, tinsmith, bricklayer, electrician and so on, probably know your reputation for honesty, and you will find it an easy matter to get the loan on your own personal note, or promise to repay the money. You don't need an endorser, and there is no question of a mortgage.

As has been explained to the tradesmen this week, the Plan is not intended for the person who is unfortunately out of work, and hasn't a steady wage, salary or other income.

If you can assume the obligation, you can borrow up to $2,000 for repairs and improvements to any one property.

"CAN I GET A LOAN IF THERE IS A MORTGAGE ON MY PROPERTY?"

The answer to that question is yes. However, if there is not only one mortgage but also a second one, and your equity in your house has just about vanished, the banker will have to give your application very serious consideration, and it may be in that case that the loan might be refused.

Arrears of Taxes No Obstacle

"I haven't got all my taxes paid; a little behind on last year's instalments. Can I get a loan in that case?"

And again the answer is "YES". Peterborough bankers have declared at this week's meeting that in these cases the bank will take a very broad view of the situation.

The mortgaged house and the other house with arrears of taxes against it are not excluded from the Home Improvement Plan.

What About Assessment?

Here's another recurrent question: "If I put on a new verandah what about the assessor increasing my assessment?"

Roland Denne has told the meetings of tradesmen this week that W. J. Henry, city assessor, has no intention of increasing assessment on homes that are renovated, repaired or otherwise improved under this plan.

PLENTY OF OUTLETS

The Home Improvement Plan is a grand opportunity to modernize the wiring in your home. End the peril of frayed insulation: put in plenty of convenient wall and baseboard outlets: have smart, modern switches: new fixtures. We will gladly furnish estimates as the basis for your negotiations with your bank. New wiring means new comfort, new convenience, new safety.

The Year For Putting Men Back To Work

Home Improvement Plan Acts As Oil On Machinery Driving Canada Towards Prosperity

Stewart M. Finnie Will Represent The Painters And Decorators

GET BACK PROSPERITY

Painters and decorators of Peterborough rallied to the great city-wide campaign for stimulation of the building trades through the Home Loan Improvement Plan at an enthusiastic meeting in the Chamber of Commerce Friday evening. More than thirty members of the trade attended the discussion.

Stewart M. Finnie was the unanimous choice of the meeting as representative of the painters and decorators on the Peterborough advisory commitee for the campaign. He will act with the representatives of other building trades of the city who were selected at meetings of three other trade groups earlier this week.

Harry B. Muir.

The purpose and aims of the campaign and the manner in which the Home Improvement Plan will oil the machinery of the drive were explained to the assembled tradesmen by Harry B. Muir of Kingston, one of the prime movers of the scheme in the national field as chairman of the advisory committee for Eastern Ontario.

He congratulated the men on their good fortune in having Roland Denne as the Peterborough chairman and in having the gratuitous assistance of many other prominent Peterborough men in their cause.

"I would like to say to you who benefit most that never before have you had the ablest and best men in your community working so whole-heartedly in your interests," Mr. Muir said. "It is the same throughout the country from Vancouver to Halifax."

Get Back Prosperity.

The move is not one of even the faintest political flavour, he declared. Its object is purely and simply to put Canada's workmen back to work and return prosperity to the Dominion, he said.

Arthur B. Purvis, of Montreal, with a record as one of the most outstanding men in Canadian business, was called upon for his aid as a leader by the Prime Minister and set out last summer to analyse conditions in Canada, he related. Mr. Purvis found that the building trades were hardest hit of all trades by the slump and, at the same time, the trades which could be most quickly rehabilitated. Further, he found that the rehabilitation of the building trades would mean more to the prosperity of the Dominion than recovery of any other individual trade since so many allied trades, industries and raw material producers would be involved, Mr. Muir explained.

The Eastern Ontario chairman then went on to detail the simple principle of the great move to stimulate the building trade. Countless home owners in Peterborough and throughout the Dominion have been delaying necessary repair and improvement work about their homes during the past six and seven years. Many have been too short of money and others have been guided by caution due to the general uncertainty. Most of these people are now ready to be "sold" the idea of going ahead without further delay with the work necessary about their homes, he said.

No Red Tape.

"This is not a scheme to induce people to borrow money," the speaker emphasized. "We are anxious to see these improvements financed privately whenever possible. However, for those home owners who have not money readily available the banks stand ready to advance the money through the Home Loan plan."

He explained that the loans will be made without mortgage and without even the requirements of endorsements. The home owner can go to his banker himself and obtain the simple form for application for the loan. he can go in company with the tradesman who is to do the job or he can have the tradesman obtain the form for him, he said. A personal visit to the banker is preferable, he suggested. All that will be required of the property owner obtaining the financial assistance is that he be a man of reasonable reputation as to honesty and integrity, he said.

Low Cost.

The banker will keep the money and pay the contractor upon the completion of the job, Mr. Muir explained further. Referring to the 6.32 per cent interest to be charged on the loans, he declared it was the smallest charge made on monies loaned in any such plan in any county of the world.

Mr. Muir urged the tradesmen to do a high class of work. "Make the people feel that they do not have to go out of Peterborough to get a good job done."

"We are here to stimulate this Home Loan plan and put it over," Mr. Denne told the meeting. "We need your help and you need ours. The bankers and everybody else in the city is lining up behind us. By summer you are all going to have so much work you will wonder how you are going to get through it all."

General Chairman

ROLAND DENNE

Primary results of organizing the Home Improvement Plan in the Peterborough district under the leadership of Mr. Denne have been highly encouraging. Group meetings during the week were more largely attended than was expected, and the members of the general committee are reminded of the next meeting Tuesday at 7.30 p.m. in the Chamber of Commerce.

the time the taxes are due until the end of the year, and ½ of 1 per cent. after that. This change was intended to simplify arithmetical work for the treasury staff.

A final reference to the possibility of obtaining a part of the surplus funds carried by the City Trust Commission was made by Alderman Glover, who said that the council as a whole believed that some of the funds should be turned over to the council to lighten the tax rate. The question was a hardy perennial, and would recur in future.

"There must be some proper authority with whom we could discuss what steps might be taken," Ald. Glover suggested.

Authority In Legislature.

"The Ontario Legislature is the only authority," City Clerk Armstrong informed the committee.

Ald. Dutton—A small committee might confer again with the City Trust Commission and see how far we can get with them.

Alderman Hamilton, chairman, said that course had been tried.

"What we might be able to do," said Alderman Gordon, "is to get a limit fixed as to the amount of the funds the Commission could hold in reserve. Anything over that would be for the relief of the taxpayers."

Laughter that rang sincerely with the tones of harmony greeted Alderman Gordon's pleasantry—"I'll let you add it to my private bill if you want to."

Another suggestion was that a small committee might interview Mr. Cummings of the Attorney-General's Department as to what step, if any, the council could take to amend the legislation which sets forth the duties of the Commission.

"We might see whether we could get a general amendment to the Municipal Act," Ald. Gordon said, "to limit the funds the Commission could retain."

Discussion of that subject was deflected at that point, and apparently the committee had reached an unexpressed opinion that for the present there was nothing they could hope to accomplish in changing the scope of the Commission's duties and authority.

CHIMNEY DAMPERS

Occasionally a fireplace will be found without any damper to check the draft up the chimney, which causes much radiated heat from the heating system to be drawn up the chimney. This trouble can be eliminated by placing a damper in the chimney, which is available for existing chimneys.

Cooking School Extremely Successful Event of Friday

Mrs. H. M. Aitken Repeats Former Successes In City

"Whites of perfectly fresh eggs don't beat well; for cake-baking use eggs that are three days old. . . And always beat the white before the yolks, and you won't have to wash the beater. . .

"Wear a work apron with deep pockets to save you making extra trips and sew an inch of bias binding inside them at either side to prevent catching on door knobs. . .

"To cut down holes in cakes mix cornstarch with the flour and use fine sugar. . . Beat egg yolks until they are thick and lemon-colored. They will do their best binding in the batter when they are thick and heavy. . . .

"If you can't get vegetable dyes for especial use, take spinach water for green coloring; beets for red; grated carrots for yellow."

With these and similar bits of homely wisdom, Mrs. H. M. Aitken entertained her listeners, over nine hundred in number, at the Canada Starch Company's Cooking School in the Collegiate auditorium on Friday evening and sponsored by the Peter Robinson Chapter of the I.O.D.E.

It was an absorbed and attentive audience of women that listened to Mrs. Aitken's expert advice, watched her clever hands making delicious foods in rapid style, and rippled with amusement at her flashes of humor. One and all, they reacted pleasantly to the friendly atmosphere she is able to impart at the first appearance on the stage of her trim, white-suited figure and sparkling countenance.

Opening the program in her usual fashion by community singing, with Miss Dorothy Whatley at the piano, Mrs. Aiken compounded several delightful eatables that were a pleasure to look at as well as attractive to the sense of smell. Her background was a cosy combination of white kitchen cabinets and enamelled electric stoves and spotless working tables, with touches of bright color in the mixing bowls and utensils.

Fit for a Queen

It was at the little town of Cardinal, many years ago, that the Queen's cake, compounded on the P.C.I. stage last evening, had its genesis. It was a stop-over for the train which bore the present King and Queen then the Duke and Duchess of York, during their visit to Canada, and the hospitable folk took refreshments to Their Highnesses at eight o'clock in the morning, including the delicious cake which was made last night with the aid of the Canada Starch Company's products. Benson Corn Starch and Crown brand corn syrup and Mazola oil, which also went into the making of its companions, Scotch shortbread, cabbage and tomato salad, jellied chicken, cookies and rose rolls, to say nothing of delectable grapefruit baskets filled with strawberries partially candied by Lily White syrup, and a wonderful cake filling of whipped cream.

With swiftness, dexterity and ease, Mrs. Aitken turned out some delicious comestibles. The salads were especially good-looking, the tomato salad, garnished by cream cheese and ripe olives, reposing on a bed of shredded lettuce and cress, with garnishment of cucumber slices.

The big cake was a marvellous specimen of confectionery. Covered and smothered in whipped cream, it rested on a circular wooden platter which went along with it to the fortunate winner, and it had a ring of tiny red candles set in marshmallows tufted with shredded cocoanut.

The cookies, in deference to the season, were in shamrock shapes with green ornaments, the jellied chicken, made in a circular mould with open centre, was filled with a Waldorf salad combined of diced apples, celery, a few dates, chopped walnuts, and a little onion.

The case for pastry vs. bread flour, which Mrs. Aitken termed an old argument with many, was brought up by her in a reference to the especial qualities of bread flour for the making of a batter to hold moisture, such as tea biscuits or chocolate cake.

"Remember," she said, "that pastry flour is made from Ontario wheat and is short in the grain, whereas bread flour is made from Western wheat and is long in gluten."

Little Hints

"To cream butter quickly in cold weather, turn up-end over it a bowl that has been heated by boiling water. . .

"To make flaky tea biscuits, leave shortening in big chunks, not fine, as in the old method. And pour your liquid into the batter as fast as possible, to avoid 'tunneling' . . . Cut your batter with scissors instead of a knife" . . .

"To make a variation in a base for salad, make a thin colored jelly coating on your large salad tin and allow to harden. . . ."

Introduced by the Chapter regent, Mrs. Alex Sollitt, the solo performer of the evening, Mrs. Aitken, greeted her audience with her characteristic friendliness and made a few announcements, crediting the stage tables to Belleghem's, and the door prize, a handsome floor lamp, to Grant & Loucks. She also spoke in praise of the splendid work done by the I.O.D.E.

Mrs. Aitken was assisted by her daughter, Anne, a student at the University of Toronto, who took the place of her regular assistant owing to the latter's illness.

Mrs. G. A. Macdonald drew the winning slips for the presentation of various prizes, which proved to be a popular part of the evening's program. Canada Starch Company's products, in packages of Corn Starch and tins of oil, accompanied by pouring spouts, were received by several dozen lucky ladies, while the door prize of a floor lamp was won by Mrs. C. H. McWilliams of 653 George street.

Mrs. W. J. Green of Hunter street west, received a lovely bouquet of flowers, having been married the longest time, and the delectable iced cake for being the oldest lady present.

The most recent bride, Mrs. Alfred Fairey of Charlotte street, who was married in December of last year, received a silver plate. And the mother of the largest family, Mrs. R. Parnell of 726 Elcome Crescent, with eleven children, was awarded a number of small labor-saving kitchen devices.

"Deb" prizes of small silver dishes went to the Misses Ruth and Manning, while the pretty three-piece silver tea service was won by Mrs. K. Beavis.

Winners of various good things to eat made by Mrs. Aitken last night were Mrs. C. G. Edwards, Mrs. S. A. Archibald, Mrs. M. Heasman, Mrs. T. C. Williams, Mrs. P. McNeely, Mrs. Harry Archer, Mrs. W. Fashion Service

Tiny girls and bigger sister will look simply adorable in this fitted and flared dress of princess lines. It has her favorite Peter Pan collar that always looks so neat and trim and offers schemes for contrast. The very short sleeves "puff up" so cunningly at the shoulders.

Mummy will like it also. It's so easily pressed after tubbing. Easily made, too, for it cuts in one-piece from shoulder to hem. This means practically only seams to join.

Plain or printed cottons are quite the smartest mediums. They're so fresh and cleanly, practical and inexpensive.

For Sunday school and "best" a washable peasant print silk with a crisp dainty white organdie collar and grosgrain ribbon tie will make her look like a picture.

An illustrated Sewing Guide accompanies the pattern.

Style No. 2669 is designed for sizes 6, 8, 10 and 12 years. Size 8 requires 2¼ yards of 39-inch material with ⅜ yard of 3-inch ribbon for bow.

A Daily Chat With Examiner Neighbors, Conducted by Roberta

"It is often better to have a great deal of harm happen to one; a great deal may arouse you to remove what a little will only accustom you to endure."
—Lord Greville.

Dear Friends:

This sounds like a peculiar quotation, doesn't it? How can it be better to have a great deal of harm happen to one? Yet, think it over. If you only have a little discomfort, you will not bestir yourself to get rid of it.

If you have a little pain, you think it will pass away, but if it becomes unbearable, you go limping off to your doctor to get relief. Many's the bad ailment could have been cured, had the pain been bad enough at the beginning to make one go after it in time.

And it is the same in our lives. If the troubles in our lives seem small and irritating, we feel that we should put up with them, whereas if we squelched them at first, they would not have got an us down.

I remember once in my life when my income was as it is now, very tiny for all I had to do with it, but I felt that I should put up with it for fear I would have none at all. (Fear is the darnedest thing for holding you back.) And then the constant pinching and scraping got on my nerves, and I came out flat-footed and said that somehow, in some way, we had to get a better income.

And curiously enough, when I had refused to put up with this harm in my life, I found that I didn't have to put up with it. About a month later there was a better income, and thinking back I realized that all the little harms, all the little irritating things like no money for a badly needed new dress, or better food, or a little change now and again, had mounted into big harm, due to repetition.

And this big harm had moved me to rebellion where the little ones each day, only tended to make me put up with them as best I could. Once too, I worked in an office with a man who was in a superior position to mine, and he had the most annoying habit of accusing the first one near him, for anything that went wrong, from lack of heat in the furnace, cancelled orders, or even the weather.

But I had happened to get it too often in one week, and I flared up and asked him if he was talking to me. Imagine how I must have looked, five foot one, and he was six foot three, and there I stood glaring at him in righteous anger, asking if he was talking to me.

And what happened? He was so taken aback at anyone talking back to him especially a shrimp like me, that he sat back and laughed. Afterward we talked it over, and I gave him our angle of it, and from then on, he put the blame where it belonged. But if he had not given me too much in one week to endure, I would have done nothing about it. It took a lot to make me strike out for myself.

A flood of water can do a deal of damage, but one drop of water can wear away a stone. Long ago, the Chinese had a way of torturing prisoners: by letting one drop of water fall on their head every minute. It doesn't seem like a very bad torture, but if kept up long enough it drove them insane. One little drop of water every minute.

And little acts kept up every day over a long period can make us resolve that we shall not put up with them any longer. It was the last straw that broke the camel's back, and it is all the little acts of betrayal, of bad temper, of lies and more lies, of no consideration, mounting up each day, that causes a great mountain of harm to loom up in our lives, so that we determine to remove it and have a little peace.

So, if you are putting up with small things that are making you unhappy, stop them before they get a chance to grow into a mountain of resentment. It is easier to stop small things before they grow up big. It is easier to have a small operation, than wait to have a limb cut off, so think it over and do your part now.

ROBERTA.

LONDON TO SUFFER FATE OF MADRID IN CASE OF WAR

Plea For International Peace And Denouncement Of War Made By Henry J. Moore

ADDRESSED KIWANIS

An impassioned plea for international peace and a strong denouncement of war was voiced by Henry J. Moore, recognized authority of horticulture and founder of the international peace garden on the Manitoba-North Dakota boundary, as guest speaker at the Kiwanis luncheon meeting Friday.

Introduced to the club members by Kiwanian Ed. Smith, the noted horticulturist, whose ideal is to see the attainment of beautiful peace gardens replacing fortresses and guns on all the international boundaries throughout the world, drew a striking comparison between conditions in strife-torn Europe and the spirit of friendship that exists between Canada and her great neighbor to the south.

Declaring that he is a pacifist and pointing out that he had good reason for his bitter hatred of warfare, Mr. Moore looked with alarm to the elaborate defensive system that is being built up around the shores of his native England, and branded as barbarism the fact that men, women and even children are being taught to wear gas masks.

Describing the erection of buildings along the English Channel, which resemble lighthouses but which are in reality forts bristling with anti-aircraft guns, he denied they would be of any practical value in the event of an attack from the air. He said aeroplanes travelling at an altitude of 10,000 feet would be freer to enter the country and lay waste to it without much difficulty, and London would suffer much the same fate as Madrid. He scored the British rearmament program, and looked to the American continent to set the example of peace for the rest of the world.

"We cannot afford not to have the goodwill of the United States. So long as Canada and her neighbor to the south are on friendly terms, Hitler and Mussolini dare not strike at Great Britain," he asserted.

Showing lantern slides of the Peace Garden—an immense project which has materialized into being and is now attracting thousands of tourists each year to the geographical centre of the North American continent, Mr. Moore remarked with deep conviction: "A peace garden is the most beautiful thing man has ever made. Man will never make anything more beautiful than a garden."

In pursuit of the peace garden project, Mr. Moore went to England and sought inspiration among the lakes and mountains of his own native shire. While there he was made an Associate of the Royal Horticultural Society of England in recognition of the work he has done to foster the ideal of international peace gardens.

A vote of thanks was extended to Mr. Moore by President Al. Sharpe, who presided, on motion of Jack Lewis.

The Rambling REPORTERS

SPOONS NOT SO RARE.

Souvenir replicas of the Coronation spoon with which the Archbishop of Canterbury carries out the ceremony of anointment during Coronations are not so rare after all. Mrs. R. M. Dobson, 477 Bonacord Street, reports she has a gold replica in her possession. The souvenir has been in her household for the past twenty years. She relates an aunt made a gift of it to her.—C.P.K.

LAD SELLS HIS PUP.

Little 8-year-old Frank Kelly of Romaine Street is already demonstrating that appreciation of the fundamentals of salesmanship which made such great salesman as Sir Basil Zarahoff great. He had a tiny "pooch" pup to sell, so he betook himself to the Farmers' Market. He noted that a nippy breeze blew by the market door where pup sellers usually make their stand, and, deciding that potential customers would be found in greater number in a warmer spot, he mounted the stairs to push his way through to a ringside position beside the big market stove, the pup in a box under his arm.

A short selling spell to the inevitable group of stove hangers-aroumd and the pup was sold at a price of fifty cents.—C.P.K.

THE STRONG HEART

Mrs. H. M. Aitken, conducting the Cooking School in the Collegiate auditorium on Friday evening, told in simple words the affecting little story of a youth, who after three years' study at the University of Toronto, had his back crushed beneath runaway wagon wheels on his father's farm. Now, he sits in a wheel chair in his mother's kitchen up in the Bruce Peninsula, uncomplaining, and acts as chairman for the Ladies' Aid Society of the little bare church, writes letters about its work, and conducts a Sunday School class for boys.—C.L.M.

Among the guests registered at the Empress Hotel are Mrs. C. E. Alton Coley of Victoria B.C., C. G. Seebold of Detroit and C. J. Brown of Ottawa.

DAMAGE RINK DOOR.

The crowd at Friday night's hockey match was in such a hurry to get out to celebrate the victory of the Peterborough team that they damaged the front door of the rink, carrying away a door post.

INCREASE FOR PARKS MEN.

To avoid any discrimination in wages of city employees, the Parks Committee on Alderman Stocker's suggestion Friday night increased the wage of its truck driver to $18 a week, and the other men employed at the rinks and parks are to get the same scale.

WINNER OF DRAW.

T. Montgomery, 193 River Road, was winner of the North Monaghan C.C.F. Club draw held last evening. His good fortune obtained him two free tickets to next hockey game in the Maple Leaf Gardens, Toronto, and a sum sufficient to cover expenses of the trip.

JUDGE McGIBBON TO PRESIDE.

In the absence of Judge Sheldon Smoke, who was called from the city by the death of his father, Franklin Smoke, in Paris, Ontario, Judge McGibbon of Lindsay will preside in the Peterborough County Court next week, it was reported to-day. The Peterborough Law Society was to meet this afternoon to decide upon a suitable tribute to the former member of Parliament for Brant County.

NOT RETROACTIVE.

That the 50 per cent. restoration of the depression time reductions in civic salaries should be made retroactive to January 1 was Alderman Gordon's suggestion at Friday night's meeting of the finance committee of the council. As the cuts were applied on a previous March 1st it was felt that the present increase effective next Monday was fairly well timed.

AN EXPLANATION.

In order to avoid any misconception that might arise out of a recent report relative to the sum of thirty dollars allegedly overdrawn by the Library Board on the 50 cents per capita grant from the City Council on this year's estimates, F. M. DelaFosse, librarian, points out that the 50 cents per capita allowed by the Government was changed to one dollar per capita some years ago, and that the Library Board has really only asked for thirty dollars over half the statutory regulation.

It is reported that several of the hockey enthusiasts who accompanied the Kingston hockey team to Peterborough Friday night departed with vacuum in their pocketbooks owing to their faith in the ability of their favorite team to hold the lead set up in Wednesday night's game. They ran across some Peterborough fans who held the opposite opinion and the net result was that some sizable chunks of Kingston money are being spent here to-day.

Mr. and Mrs. Robb who were married in the Michigan city in 1910, were in Peterborough on a visit late last summer and called on many of Mr. Robb's old friends here. Mrs Robb was a native of Saginaw.

ADDRESSES SUPPER CLUB.

Henry J. Moore, expert horticulturist, was guest of honor at the Y.M.C.A. Friday Night Supper Club last night and addressed the members on the International Peace Gardens. Mr. Moore pointed out that a road running from the North Pole to the Panama canal would cut through trese peace gardens which he said would eventually become the centre of attraction for the whole North American continent. Slides were used to illustrate the talk. Jack Richardson presided at the meeting.

MAGISTRATE'S COURT

Arising out of a recent accident at Park Hill Road and Armour Road in which three motor trucks were involved, Hector Bradley and Robert Hamlin, two youthful truck drivers were this (Saturday) morning fined $10 and $3 costs each and their licenses were suspended for 10-days, when they pleaded guilty to reckless driving charges. Noting that the charge against Bradley contained the information that the truck he was driving was being operated with 1936 markers, His Worship instructed police to lay a further charge against the defendant.

WOMEN'S MEETING

A mass meeting of the women of Peterborough has been called for eight o'clock on Thursday evening next March 4th, in the City Council Chambers, when the ladies will hear some interesting things about the Home Improvement Plan, a project that is especially dear to the hearts of womenkind. Ex-Mayor Roland Denne and Alderman James Dutton will outline the plan.

TWO COMPANIES HAVE EXCEEDED TERMS PROMISED

Alderman Glover Reports On His Interviews With Companies

DECLARATION MADE

Both the De Laval and Raybestos companies have exceeded the terms of their agreements, Alderman Glover reported at a brief meeting of the Finance committee Friday in regard to an enquiry which the Council had directed to be made as an outcome of Alderman Gordon's action in applying for a private bill in the Legislature to cancel the fixed assessments on these companies.

A statutory declaration has been received from the De Laval Company and it was stated that a similar affidavit would be submitted by the Raybestos Company as soon as it is drafted by John R. Corkery, city solicitor.

The Utilities Commission is obtaining "figures" relating to the C.G.E. agreement for rental of the surplus water at the waterworks dam, and it is expected that a statement will be forthcoming in the near future. Present information indicated that the city council, at the time the agreement was made, was guided largely by the Utilities Commission, Alderman Glover said, and the Commission apparently considered that they had got the best bargain they could.

DR. MOIR STARTS CRUSHER PLANT

Directors Present As New Crusher Started At Madoc

To Dr. A. Moir of Peterborough, one of the prominent shareholders in Canadian Slate Products Limited, was assigned Friday the honor of starting the big Deisel engine operating the company's new crusher plant which produces slate flour and granules.

Directors present were L. Ampleford of Toronto, president; John McKone and G. A. Gillespie of Peterborough; Frank Horton of Owen Sound; W. J. W. Armstrong and J. F. Noakes, Toronto. Other Peterborough men who attended the opening of the crusher department were R. J. Kidd, Rev. Dr. Barr, Harold R. Scott, Alpine MacNab and others. More than thirty men are now employed and it is expected that this number will be increased to eighty by the middle of May.

The daily output of the crusher is 20 tons of slate flour used in the manufacture of rubber goods, electric insulation and many other articles, and 30 tons of granules which are largely used in manufacturing patented roofing material. Seventy-five men attended the crusher plant opening, including directors, shareholders and others interested in this enterprise at Madoc. They were from Peterborough, Belleville, Toronto, Owen Sound and other cities.

200 MIXED VOICES TO MAKE UP CHOIR

Mendelssohn Choir To Give Concert In City Early In March

Early application for tickets for the concert to be given here in March by the world-famed Toronto Mendelssohn Choir is advised music-lovers of the city and district by the local committee in charge of the preliminary arrangements.

While the visit of the choir is still almost two weeks distant, the demand for tickets has been very brisk, indicating that the famous choral organization of 200 mixed voices under leadership of Dr. A. H. Fricker may be assured of an enthusiastic welcome.

The concert is to be held in St. Paul's Presbyterian Church under auspices of the Men's Association of that congregation. On their recent visit to the city two officials of the choir—which is a voluntary organization, whose officers are all singing members, looked over the seating plan and the available accommodation for the choristers. It was intimated that a special platform will have to be constructed in the church to accommodate the 200 choristers, the present platform being too small for the purpose.

COLLEGIATE JOTTINGS

More Early Tunes.

The assembly hall entertainment revived from former years by the student's council continued this week. The duty of obtaining talent for the week was in the hands of Jean Dorris of special commercial.

Jim Hawthorne of Form 2 Academic started the week out right Monday morning by singing in his fine soprano voice "The Sunshine of Your Smile." Merrill Smith accompanied him at the piano. Wednesday morning the offering varied. Corona Hambidge of 4b Academic gave a recitation entitled "The Bailiff's Daughter of Islington". Mary MacPherson and Florence Trebilcock played as a piano duet on Friday morning "Rendez-vous" by W. Aletter.

Enlarging Demonstration

At the Camera club meeting on Wednesday V. R. Henry, club leader, gave the members a demonstration on the enlarging of pictures. The nineteen members present displayed keen interest and asked many questions. Members are actively pursuing their camera hobby individually and bringing their better snaps to the club for display.

Final Rehearsals.

Next Thursday and Friday evening the operetta "In Old Vienna" is to be offered the public by the Literary Society. Final rehearsals are now under way and all reports indicate the production is shaping up well.

The costumes for the dancers — gypsies, Viennese girls, fairies and nymphs—are being made by the girls of the Household Arts department under the supervision of Miss Helen Gerrard. The costumes for the main characters were obtained from a Toronto firm and are reported to afford striking effects.

Martin B. Chenhall, musical director is assembling a special orchestra for the operetta. A number of ex-pupils who played in the school orchestra when they attended P.C.V.S. are being called back for duty. Some of the members of the present school orchestra will also be included in this special operetta accompaniment. The school orchestra itself will play at intermissions.

The case has been rehearsing with redoubled industry this week, meeting almost every day after school for a short session each evening. The girls' and boys' choruses have been practicing faithfully, as anyone who has been lurking around the school library will readily report. The girls have been reaching even the highest notes with the greatest of ease while the lowest notes of the operetta score have not yet daunted the boys. And there are some very high and very low ones to deal with, it seems.

Stage Decorations.

The Students Council, thanks to a grant from the Board of Education, has purchased new curtains and hangings for the auditorium stage.

They will be in three colors — gold, red and blue. A curtain for the back of the stage is to be gold and will be so hung that by the pull of a cord it can be draped to form an entrance to the stage. Side hangings or "legs" will be blue and red. The installation is expected to be in time for the operetta.

P.C.V.S. Alumni.

The names of Alex Rogow and Andrew Allan are among those of the alumni of P.C.V.S. who, since graduation, have made their mark in the world in their varied vocations.

Alex Rogow, after graduating with honors in 1927, studied medicine at the University of Toronto. Graduating from the Toronto medical school he served two year's as an interne in a Toronto hospital. He left Toronto to spend a year in Kirkland Lake and from there he went to England where he was awarded the M.R.C.P. degree by Lord Dawson of Penn., physician to the late King George V. He was at that time the youngest man to receive this degree. He studied for five months in Chicago and later returned to Toronto where he is now practising.

While attending P.C.V.S. he played senior basketball and was prominent in dramatics.

Andrew Allan was prominent in the activities of P.C.V.S. during his school days here. He was an editor of the school "Echoes" for two years. Graduating in 1928 he attended the University of Toronto where he edited the "Varsity." He left university before graduation and turned his attention to radio. He is now distinguishing as an announcer, impressario and continuity writer with the CFRB radio station in Toronto.

Girls In New Outfits.

Not to be outdone by the P.C.V.S. Cadet Corps, the members of the girls basket ball team have blossomed forth in new uniforms. They have been restlessly awaiting the new outfits and excitement ran high on their arrival. The uniforms differ from the navy blue shorts and garnet sweaters used up to the present. They are in the nature of one-piece, skirted garnet tunics with a grey school crest on the front and a grey number on the back. A grey blouse is worn under the tunic.

Sport Notes.

Tuesday afternoon the P.C.V.S. juvenile hockey team played an exhibition game with the Grove School squad at the Brock. The final count: Grove 5, P.C.V.S. 3. A large turnout was on hand and attempted in vain to cheer the team to victory.

Odds and Ends.

The seat plan for the P.C.V.S. production "In Old Vienna" opens Tuesday at 7 p.m.

The students of the Academic side of the school wrote their Easter composition examinations Friday afternoon. The rest of the exams will follow early in March.

The members of the girls' basketball team dressed in their new uniforms, posed before the camera on Thursday for the school year book.

James Morrow, the modern Cicero of P.C.V.S., gave the student body a pep talk on the selling of operetta tickets on Thursday morning.

AFTER THE POACHERS

Ontario Building New Fast Patrol Boat.

TORONTO, Feb. 27.—(CP)—Ontario Department of Game and Fisheries has laid the keel for a new craft to fight poaching by U.S commercial fishermen in the Sault Ste. Marie district and Georgian Bay waters.

The new 45-foot protection boat has been started at Midland and is expected to be ready in time for the opening of the fishing season early in April. It will have every modern appliance, including speed to combat poaching.

STANLEY CANNIFF NAMED MANAGER OF OTTAWA HYDRO

Former Peterborough Rugby Player Appointed To Important Post At Capital

EMPLOYED AT C.G.E.

The many friends in Peterborough of Stanley Canniff, former resident of this city where he was in the employ of the Canadian General Electric Company and was well known as a member of the Peterborough rugby club will be interested in learning that he was recently appointed general manager of the Ottawa Hydro Electric Commission. Mr. Canniff whose father the late James Canniff was a member of the mechanical staff of the Examiner for a long period had been assistant manager of the Commission for the last four years.

The Ottawa Citizen in announcing the appointment says of Mr. Canniff: "He was born at Napanee on August 27, 1885 and received his education there in the public schools and the Napanee Collegiate. As a youth Mr. Canniff was serious-minded and at the ageof 14 he made up his mind as to what business he would follow in later life. The decision was reached during a talk with his spiritual adviser, the late Canon Jarvis, rector of the Anglican church at Napanee. Canon Jarvis advised the young man to take up electricity as he was confident it was the coming thing in Canada.

Employed Here.

On leaving collegiate, Mr. Canniff entered the employ of the Canadian General Electric Company at Peterborough, the largest electric company near his home. He took a course in electrical engineering with this company specializing in designing, transformers and switchboard installation. After two years in the engineering department he was transferred to the C.G.E. head-office at Toronto where he was stationed in the engineering office. During his years with the engineering office in Toronto Mr. Canniff travelled about the country considerably supervising electrical installations in industrial plants, etc. and in designing such installations. In 1914 he joined the staff of the Ottawa Hydro Electric Commission as engineer and four years ago was named assistant manager of the Commission. He was named general manager to succeed Mr. Brown this week.

The advances made in Hydro since he came to Ottawa and since it was started here in 1907 have been wonderful Mr. Canniff told the Citizen. He remarked that when he decided to take up electricity there were no electric lights in his home and it was only in the last year he spent there, prior to going to Peterborough that his town had electric street lights. There were no electric lights in the homes there although he said there were lights in the homes in several of the bigger centres, including Toronto and Ottawa."

SCORING SPLURGE FOR ONE PERIOD STARTED DESILETS

Now 'Kid From Capreol' Wears Scarlet Uniform Of The Canadiens

ON NORTH BAY TEAM

MONTREAL, P. Q., Feb. 27—Carnival day in Capreol, Ontario . . . the town is thronged . . . the newly constructed rink, never before filled, is jammed to the very doors . . . Parry Sound and North Bay are to fight it out for the Murphy trophy, donated by C.N.R. superintendent of that division. . . . North Bay has only one sub, and to help out the weaker team Parry Sound consent, when they are three goals to nothing in the lead, to let North Bay use a "kid from Capreol."

This is the setting in which Joffre Desilets found himself—cast in the role of the "kid from Capreol!"

What happened that night can be remembered by everyone who helped jam the rink. The "kid" simply skated through the North Bay team four times in rapid succession and banged in four goals to put his squad into a 4-3 lead. The newly built rink threatened to totter and fall off its foundations as the townsfolk went wild with joyous acclaim as only a red-blooded railroad town can celebrate.

Parry Sound Changes Around

The one period of hockey that young Desilets played was enough for the Parry Sound squad, who refused to let the "one man team" from Capreol play in the next period; but the youngster who had been born in Uaida, Ont., on April 16, 1916, but had lived in Capreol from the time he was two until he was 15, had left an impression in the memories of those who had seen his feat, that they would never forget.

The story of young Desilets is the story of a strong-limbed youngster who always loved active life. Of French-Canadian parentage, with four brothers and one sister, Desilets spent his early life in Capreol, in northern Ontario. His first hockey was played on the Vermilion river, which at least gave a good ice surface even if the temperature did slip down to 40 to 50 degrees below zero from time to time.

Joffre was 15 years of age when he pulled on a sweater of the Stratford team, the team for which the now injured Howie Morenz had once played. For three seasons the youngster learned the mysteries of right wing under the guidance of Dorel Pinkney, who coached the Stratford team during the seasons from 1931-32 until the 1933-34 season. It was the final against Newmarket, played in Toronto, Ont., in which Stratfordites still claim their team was robbed, that saw Joffre ending his amateur career in Ontario.

The next season the salt sea breezes of Charlottetown invited the "kid from Capreol" to Charlottetown, where the lassies of Prince Edward Island quickly lost their hearts over his blond locks and classic profile.

At Home With Canadiens

It did not take much persuasion on the part of President Ernest Savard of Les Canadiens to persuade young Desilets to "sign on the dotted line" for Joffre had always aimed at a place on the "bleu et blanc et rouge" team, because his idol, Howie Morenz, had been the king of that club; and Joffre welcomed the chance to follow in his footsteps as well as to join a club of his own nationality.

A modest youngster, Joffre aspires to be "half as good as Charlie Conacher," whom he rates as the greatest right winger in the N.H.L.

Standing five feet 11 inches high, and weighing just about 170 pounds, Desilets is perhaps the ideal size for a fast and clever winger. This season he has been showing signs of vast improvement and with more experience he is due for a mighty high rating among the right wingers of the National Hockey League.

KING OF WINTER SPORTS

Ski-ing

By Charles Schaer

Sponsored By Peterborough Ski Club

.. 54—Jerked Christiania .. ..

The pure christiania and the unforced christiania are very easily made on a smooth, fairly hard surface. In snow of any depth, particularly if a bit wet, the resistence to a rotary action of the skis is considerably greater and by using the jerged christiania the swing is developed much more rapidly. Body muscular effort is the principal element entering into the production of the necessary rotary action. This is aided by an unweighting of the skis at the moment of its application. This swing is used principally for short, abrupt change of direction, especially on steep slopes, and for sudden stops.

In preparation for the swing advance the intended inside ski, body slightly forward of the erect position, knees thrust well forward, heels down, skis equally weighted, close together and flat. The forward lean of the body weights the toes somewhat in excess of the heels. Sink to a slight crouch, figure 1, rise to the erect, figure 2, and return to a crouch, figure 3, in a smooth unbroken motion. This is primarily a bending of the knees rather than a bending of the body at the waist. As the return to the crouch commences twist the body in a vigorous screwing motion in the direction of the swing, that is the hips are swung outwards and the shoulders inwards. It is important that the twisting of the body take place at the instant the skis are unweighted which is immediately after the erect position is reached from the crouch. As you sink into the crouch again the weighting of the skis, which are now practically broadside on to the direction of travel, will cause them to side-slip and continue the swing so the knees must be thrust forward and in toward the slope and the body leaned outward. Hold the ankles normal, thus giving the skis normal edging. The more vigorous and speedy the body twisting the more abrupt will be the swing.

Practise first from a traverse on a fairly hard surface with the skis slightly apart. The knees should never be completely straightened or the heels raised during the entire swing.

The Boulevard Boys took a 9-5 win over Rowers last night in an exhibition hockey game at All Saints' rink. It was exciting all the way with the winners having a margin on play. The teams:

St. John's Girls Lose To C.G.E. Juniors

C.G.E. Juniors won their sixth straight Ladies Basketball League game last night at the Y.W.C.A. when they copped a 6-2 nod from St. John's in a keen contest. Play was fairly fast most of the way with some close checking but only four fouls called on each side. Neither team clicked on a free toss. The score was 2-all at halftime but the Electrics pressed in the second stanza to notch two baskets while holding the Saints in check. Both sides missed regularly on shots to keep the score down. V. Bartley, Z. Birkhoff and M. Cummiskey collected two points each for the winners, while E. Craig got the lone basket for the other side.

C.G.E. Seniors Held To Tie By Marconis

Marconi Radio surprised C.G.E. Seniors by holding them to a 6-6 draw in a tidy Ladies Basketball League fixture in the Y.W. gym last night. The Radio girls rallied in the last half, after being down 4-2 at the rest intermission, to sew up the count with two neat baskets. It was a lively, even struggle from start to finish with much close checking. Marconi had six personal fouls called against them while C.G.E. had three, the latter team ringing the ball on two free throws. The split points put C.G.E. right on the heels of the league-leading Westclox team and gave Marconi their first point in four starts. M. Armstrong counted four points for Marconi last night and B. Flynn got two. For C.G.E., A. Craig and M. Hodson had two each and E. Bradley and E. Hodson one apiece. The teams:

Marconi Radio: S. Levine, E. Rogow, D. Ackford, M. Armstrong, L. Magee, J. Dawson, F. Bestard, B. Flynn, D. Seabrooke.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

(C.J.P.)

UP AT the Y.M.C.A. tonight, two Senior City Cage Loop basketball battles and an exhibition volleyball game will be staged. At 7.15, Dominion Life meets St. Paul's in a hoop fixture, while at 9.15 it's P.C.I. vs. Neill's in a similar setto. The volleyball joust is about 8.15 between Toronto Central "Y" and the Peterborough Y.M.C.A. team—these being Ontario Intermediate finalists last year, with the local squad winning out. The three contests ought to draw another good Saturday evening crowd to the "Y" gym.

BUNNY MORGANSEN tells how Dit Clapper of Hastings broke into hockey in Toronto. He was brought there by two sportsmen to play lacrosse. He got a trial next winter in hockey and these sportsmen were tickled with his showing. However, the coach of this particular junior team couldn't see him. Wanted to send him back to Hastings. But Eddie Powers, then with Art Ross of Boston, said: "Don't need to worry about the lad. I'm going to take him off your hands next winter. Why he is the best player down here." So the big rangy youth was kept around with the junior squad but seeing no action.

THE TALE goes on: "Shortly after the season started, Fred Radke, who played on defence for this junior team, came into the dressing room before game time one evening all wrapped up. He looked like the next thing to Mr. Flu Epidemic himself. 'What in the world is the matter with you,' his coach demanded. 'Got a bad cold and I feel terrible' said Radke as he found a resting place beside a piping hot radiator. Looking around the room the coach espied Clapper and said: 'Oh well, I guess you had better get dressed, Dit.' The players ready for the game paraded out feeling sorry for Radke, their star defence player who was putting on a real act of being just about all in. As soon as they departed the trainer said to the patient: 'Do you want me to stay in here with you, Fred?' Off came the muffler, the coat was flying. 'Heck, no, I'm going up in the crowd and watch this Clapper boy really play hockey.'

* * * * * * *

"AND THAT was how Fred Radke made it possible for Clapper to get his chance in local junior hockey. The rest is history. He soon signed with Boston and after one season in the Canadian-American minor league joined the Bruins where he has starred ever since." His many friends in this district will be interested in this account, we'll bet.

SOME RED Indians from Kingston came in like lions and went out like lambs last gloaming. Our Colts knocked 'em off 6-2 to take the round by an 8-7 score. Yeah, they spotted their rivals three goals in the Limestone City arena last Wednesday but rubbed 'em out of competition here last night. While some 1800 fans bellowed lustily. It was sweet music to the ears, marking the knell of that persistent Kingston jinx over local puck and ball teams in recent years. The Buckland boys now proceed into the second round of the O.H.A. junior "B" playdowns, while Kingston kids can break all the training rules in the world for all that it matters to 'em now. Can't say yet who the locals will be drawn against next—sometime next week—as there are some 10 or 12 squads still in playdowns, teams like Barrie, Parry Sound, Niagara Falls, Thorold, St. Mary's, Seaforth, Hamilton, Paris, Aurora and Northern Vocational of Toronto.

* * * * * * *

AS EXPECTED, our Colts went to work and proved bad medicine on their own ice to their rivals. They were aggressors from the start and earned the decision clearly. The boys were clicking better last night, turning on a world of speed, passing the puck neatly and checking back. Their scoring margin in each period indicates how much of the play they had. The losers tried hard but didn't look too impressive. You could see that the difference in rinks had 'em bothered, and then that long hike and the fast pace had them slowed to a walk at the finish. But they would have had to be very good indeed to hold the scrappy young Petes last night—the local lads figuring it was much too early in the season to hang up their skates. They should stay in the race for some time yet.

* * * * * * *

THE FANS liked this game. Because of the fast action, the uphill fight of the Colts and especially as the homesters were winning. All the boys gave a good performance. They worked hard and kept punching. Heal was fairly flying on the attack and doing some fine back-checking; G. Clark worked like a Trojan going both ways; Harding muffed one but made a flock of fine saves; Starr's whistling shot had the goalie shell-shocked; our defence were blocking effectively—in fact, the whole team clicked well. Ye referee was late arriving but made a fine job of officiating when he did come, despite the fact that our team drew most of the penalties. A good game to win, gang.

* * * * * * *

FIVE BASKETBALL games were run off here last night. Down at the Y.W.C.A., C.G.E. gals took a 6-2 decision over St. John's Juniors; Marconi Radio held C.G.E. Seniors to a 6-6 tie; and "Y" Quakers grabbed a 5-0 verdict from Westclox Juniors. Three very close contests, judging by those scores. Up at the P.C.I. gym, both local teams won, the senior girls getting a 33-13 win from Port Hope Seniors and the junior boys winning their section of the Lakeshore Group with a 40-20 smirk over Port Hope. The junior P.C.I. boys will now tangle with Bowmanville, winners of the other section, for the group championship. Our girls, alas, are out of the running, Cobourg copping the duke. But the senior P.C.I. boys are still in the thick of the fight.

HITHER AND yawn: Trenton Fliers go to Point Edward on Monday in the first of the Ontario intermediate "A" finals . . . . Belleville beat Norwood last eve, 9-1, to eliminate the Combines . . . . Oshawa scribe says the Motor City rink has the largest ice surface of any one in Canada, including Toronto . . . . And he corrects Morgansen, saying Dit Clapper began his hockey in Oshawa . . . . No C.G.E. hockey games today due to that company's excursion to Toronto . . . . The sudden-death Senior City Hockey League game between Marines and Lakefield on Monday night at the Brock will be at 7.30 o'clock, provided there is no O.H.A. missle that eve . . . . Bun Kingdon has suffered a bruised shoulder, sore leg, black eye, cuts in head and face and (last night) a couple of chipped teeth, in recent junior games . . . . He'd better be careful or he may get hurt some of these games! . . . . Guess that about covers everything for this week.

Carpetball League Notes.

In the cup games Old King Cole and his merry men showed Curtis' Brick Yard squad that hot coals can burn bricks.

The surprise of King Cole and his Presidential squad was beyond our ken when the lowly Moose snipers ambushed them on Hunter Street, sending them south on the run.

Old King Cole and his merry men put coals on the fire and made it hot for the Fighting Parsons.

The C.P.C. Trimmers cook house squad met in a local Derby and brought about the same results as the first half, No. 7 taking all the games for a total score of 47 to 27.

Cridland's Meats outstripped Rumary's Antiques by trimming them 4-all on the series for the count of 45 to 28.

Ski Notes

Take heed all members, friends, foes and devotees of the sport. There will be a jumping and slalom competition for members at the new jump on Nassau Hill, Sunday afternoon at 1 o'clock. The public is cordially invited to attend and an exciting show is guaranteed. It will be necessary for about 20 workers to be on hand Saturday afternoon and Sunday morning to get things in shape. Phone Otto Laderack, Jack Holland or myself for information. Every able bodied member should be on hand to help get the jump in condition and put this exhibition over. This meet should not be confused with the Winter sports carnival, it is purely a club affair and with the snow at last on the jump it seems a shame to let this opportunity pass without giving our many supporters some idea of the thrill of jumping. All competitors for the men's slalom be on hand early on Sunday to make your entries. The men's downhill and ladies' events will be held next week at Omemee (weather permitting). Spectators are advised to dress warmly and to wear heavy rubbers.

CANADA SWAMPS ENGLAND BY 3 TO 0 IN WORLD MATCH

Victory Today With Switzerland Means Coveted Hockey Title

RAGGED CONTEST

LONDON, Feb. 27.—(CP Cable)—Canada virtually clinched the world's amateur hockey championship last night by defeating England 3-0 in the most important game of the tournament. Eleven thousand crowded into the Wembley Stadium for the match.

Switzerland defeated Germany 6-0 in the second game tonight. The series ends tomorrow when Canada meets Switzerland and England plays Germany. Canada, with victories over Germany and England in the final round, needs but a tie or better tomorrow to capture the title, and nothing but a smashing upset can stop the Dynamiters from Kimberley now.

Not High-Class Hockey.

Kimberley, representing Canada, and the Canadian-trained players wearing England's blue and white, did not provide the high - class hockey expected, but the game was thrilling throughout.

George "Red" Goble gave the Dynamiters the jump in the first period by scoring the first goal on Jimmy Foster, the Moncton and English Olympic goalie, in eight games of the current tournament.

From then on the Canadians gave England a lesson in defensive hockey. Ralph Redding scored in the second period on a pass from Goble. Redding got his second goal in the last period.

Tempers got the better of the players twice. In the first period, Gordon Dailley, Winnipeg - born English player, traded punches with Goble. Again, in the third period, Bill Burnet, Kimberley defenseman, fought with Edgar Brenchley, Niagara Falls' contribution to English hockey. Both were ordered from the ice.

Crowd Raises Rumpus.

Their banishment was the signal for a fifteen-minute demonstration by the crowd, that littered the ice with newspapers, orange peel, tin cans and any other missiles within reach. Order was finally restored when the band played the National Anthem.

Kenny Campbell's shutout brought his total to six in the eight games that Canada has won without a loss or a tie. He was scored on twice by Poland in the first round, when Canada won, 8-2. France scored a goal on him in the second round.

"Y" Quakers Defeat Westclox Juniors

"Y" Quakers broke into the victory column of the Ladies' Basketball League last night at the Y.W.C.A. with a 5-0 win over Westclox Juniors. The winners turned in a nice performance to dominate play most of the way. They had a 3-0 lead in the first half and held off a battling Westclox crew in the final chapter. Play was open and clean with just two fouls apiece called. Quakers cashing in on one. The win puts the "Y" girls right into the race for a second-place berth, shortly behind the tied Westclox and St. John's teams. R. Dalliday and D. Bestard scored two points apiece for the victors while M. Boyle got the other point. The teams:

"Y" Quakers—M. Kingsbury, I. Holingsworth, L. O'Leary, D. Bestard, D. Frost, M. Boyle, E. Alexander, M. Sullivan, R. Dalliday.

Westclox—N. Pammett, D. Dawson, I. Walsh, A. Flynn, J. Crowe, T. Florence, L. Turcotte, L. McNaughton, P. Davis.

CURLING

By HERB MARTIN

Too much Clay Taylor — that is our summary of the final game in Group C between W. Harvey's rink and T. Donaldson's quartet.

And just for a little information, Taylor is the one who plays vice on Harvey's rink.

Both rinks played well, but Mrs. Taylor's son was so far the outstanding curler of the evening that when he played, no matter how the end was laying, he was the boy that turned the trick.

As far as the group winners are concerned the schedule is now completed.

It is to be hoped that the vice-skips will have their entire rinks out on Monday night and get off to a good start—and be on time.

Play for the "Sturgeon Trophy" commences on Monday morning.

We expect to entertain six mixed rinks from Lakefield this evening.

We offer congratulations to another one of our curlers—this time it is "Grandpa" Christopher George Graham.

BAER PREPARING TO VISIT EUROPE

Succumbs To Lure Of Night Club Contract, Movie Offers And London Fights

NEW YORK, Feb. 27 (AP)—Adding another snare to a heavyweight situation already in a serious tangle, Maxie Baer planned today to head for Europe in spite of the latest decision of New York State's unpredictable athletic commissioners.

Although the commission had another form reversal and granted the playboy puncher a boxing license and a sanction to meet Bob Pastor for Madison Square Garden, Baer apparently isn't having any.

London motion picture offers and a promised night club contract, piled on top of a guarantee of £4,500 ($22,500) for a couple of fights in the British capital, have proved too much of an inducement for the ex-heavyweight king. In spite of possible legal action by the Garden, his plan is to sail for England on the Berengaria next Wednesday.

Kingston Eliminated In Junior Playdowns By Battling Locals

Its Overcome Three-Goal Lead To Take 6-2 Win Here And Cop O.H.A. Round By 8 To 7—Will Advance Into Ontario Junior "B" Playdowns

HUGE CROWD CHEERS VICTORS

Overcoming a three-goal lead held by Kingston Red Inans before a full house at the Brock St. ring last night, a ttling gang of local Colts came on to win the second game a 6-2 score and cop their first O.H.A. junior "B" playdown hnd, 8 to 7. The young Peterborough crew will continue in ntario playdowns while Kingston is through for the season.

It was a classy contest with the scrappy Colts earning the cision all the way. They turned on the heat all through, aying fast, clean and effec- e hockey. The visitors found e local ice surface tough to ve and they were a weary nch of pucksters at the fin- . The score was 1-0 for Perborough in the first frame d 4-1 for them going into third. Only six penalties were wn with the locals getting four.

PLENTY OF ACTION

Action was fast and exciting ost of the distance to keep the ns yelling as the squads battled ck and forth. Fighting an up- ll way for two frames, the Buckd boys never eased up, tearing hard, passing unselfishly and ecking back in good style. The sers never quit trying but found e homesters bad news on their n ice. The shorter blue line— ter the long Kingston rink — mpered the Red Indians. The olts were outplaying them at the nish.

Heal, Gee Clark and Harding ne for the winners, while the t of the squad also went well. rr was always dangerous with his zing shot and Crowe turned in a t defensive game. The locals' t line looked more dangerous to other side than the second- ingers. All the Indians worked rd but they weren't clicking so if as in the first fixture. Partis, lwa, Carr-Harris and Smith went t for them. The goalie muffed eral but also made some good es.

Game Starts Late.

The referee failed to arrive on e and the game was half an hour e starting. It opened up at a edy clip on good ice with the lts early showing an edge. They red in two minutes when Starr k Heal's pass at close range. ngston shot the disc down the ice relieve pressure for a time and lon was redhot. A Starr-Brady mbination was robbed but, when owe went off for boarding, four d Indians pressed hard. Later it s fast and even with Carr-Harris wing a penalty for tripping and homesters swarming in dangerly at the bell.

Kingston began playing defensive ckey to start the second frame til Heal was gated for tripping. oy pressed for a time and finally awford's shot from the blue line t Harding to tie up the tilt. The lts came right back in a hurry to ly two, Gee Clark notching the t on Kingdon's pass and then e Clark scoring another on a hot gle drive from defence. The lo- s had nearly all the play through s torrid heat and had the crowd aring at their repeated thrusts at e Kingston goal. They kept Kingsn bottled up in their own territory d finally Heal took a smart pass m Wright to sew up the round id much applause. Harding had be good late in the middle chuk- r as Kingston turned on the heat a few minutes.

Colts Win Out.

A. Clark and Carr-Harris were wed off for roughing it in the ird and the Colts continued to ep command of the situation. arr got a nice pass from Heal in se to blast it by Bridgen but later rtis got it back on an assist from unger-Lewis. A. Clark was benchfor boarding and Kingston worked hard but play was even and slower after the hot going. Crowe took Brady's pass halfway through to life a high angle shot into the Kingston cage to score what turned out to be the deciding goal. The pace was quite a bit slower at the finish with the Colts still having a little margin on play when the gong ended it.

The bout was one of a series to find a successor to Gene Tunney who retired undefeated in 1928. Sharkey lost to Max Schmeling in June, 1930, on a foul, and the German was awarded the heavyweight championship.

Inside Sportin' Dope

BY A. WISE-CRACKER.

Mister Sporting Editor.

As this here epistle has to be wrote Fri. p.m. and the biggest sporting event of the week is scheduled for to-night it leaves yours truly a trifle stymied or something as it ain't possible to do much commenting ahead of time. I wasn't on the side lines when the local kids went down to Kingston Wed. nite and was bumped off 5 and 2, but anyway I got a idea that if the Peterborough talent bear down to-nite like they been doing at times all season they may weather through O.K. 3 goals is a lot when you ain't got them, but when the young Petes really turn on the heat like they done the last 15 mins against Belleville well them Kingston kids will have to be awfully good to hold them back. According to the reports from the east this young Mister Partis which figgered in 4 goals the other nite must have a lot on the ball, but he may find the going not so soft on the local cushion. Anway here's hoping.

The Pro Loop Doings.

The N.H.L. race is drawing along toward the playoff stage Mac and while the Amerks and the Black Hawks aint out of the running yet they're so close to it that nobody in Chicago anyway is bothering about tickets for the Stanley Cup series. The Detroit Red Wings riding along in front of their section climbed to the 50 point mark, the other nite, the first club to reach that lofty perch this season and I for 1 see no reason for saying Mister Jack Adams' athletes won't be right up there when the league championship and the cup is handed out. They got the best line in hockey and a coupla other attacking divisions that can come through in the pinches, while the defence hits hard and often in front of 1 of the smartest goalies of to-day. Personally I think the Wings will repeat for their season's record has showed they got what it takes, but the league playoffs has been notorious for upsets and 1937 may produce another of them upheavals.

The Scoring Race.

To me this goal-scoring battle is about as interesting as the league race. Right now with Mister Aurie of Detroit 3 points in front of his team mate, Mister Barry, Mister Syl Apps of Toronto, Mister Sweeney Schriner of the Amerks is tied for 2nd place and that, neighbors, is a hoss race at this stage of the season. Nobody would be sore to see Mister Aurie cop the scoring title. He's a great little workman who has never managed to finish on top before, and a lotta fans would be glad to see him come through. For me, although it wouldn't grieve me none to have Mister Aurie grab the honors, I gotta lot of respect for this Mister Schriner who is right up there despite the handicap of playing on a tail-end team, and who ain't never got justice at the hands of the Toronto writing brigade. He is 1 of the League's best.

Well old timer the ball teams is gathering in the south, February is going down for the ten count and before you know it the hockey season will be all washed up and we'll be talking baseball all over the shop. At that it can't come too soon.

Sportfully yours,
A. WISE CRACKER.

BELLEVILLE POPS COMBINES' HOPES IN FIRE BY 9 TO 1

Redmen Take Second Playdown Game Easily, Running Total To 20 To 6

ROUGH IN FINAL CANTO

HAVELOCK, Feb. 27.—Bringing a six-goal lead into the second game of the O.H.A. Intermediate "B" playdowns the Belleville "Redmen" invaded the Norwood Arena last evening to defeat the Norwood-Havelock "Combines" by a 9 to 1 count, clearly outplaying the locals and winning the round by a 20 to 6 score.

The Combines went into the first with a do or die spirit and succeeded in holding the Redmen in check until half-way through the period when Bentley, hard-hitting Belleville defenceman, came through with the first goal of the evening. His was followed shortly by another Belleville counter from "Speedy" St. Louis to end the scoring for the stanza. Play was exceptionally clean this period with no penalties being handed out.

The Redmen opened the second with a series of ganging attacks which kept the locals bottled up in their own defence zone and finally yielded two goals, one from Tompkins and another from W. Jackson. Eddie Bush, speedy Combine forward, injured in the first period by a severe but clean body-check, came back strong in the second to pick up the Combines' lone counter, while Ingram, Belleville defenceman, was warming the bench.

One Nice Fight.

The third was but a few seconds old when Morgan took a pass from Murphy to beat Davidson for the fifth Belleville goal. Play commenced to roughen up when St. Louis and Webb finally being chased for fighting. The Redmen continued to press the locals hard and bolstered their score sheet with an additional four goals, Tompkins grabbing off two, with Murphy and W. Jackson receiving one apiece.

Both goalies turned in a bang-up performance, Davidson and Watts kicking out a flock of hard thrusts close in. Body checks were handed out quite freely by both sides, and the match was the fastest exhibition of hockey witnessed here this season.

The line-ups:

Belleville—Goal, Watts; defense, Bentley and Murphy; centre, W. Jackson; wings, Tompkins and C. Jackson; alternates, St. Louis, C. Morgan, Barriage, McGuire and Ingram.

Combines—Goal, Davidson; defense, R. Webb and L. Rogers; centre, B. Hagerman; wings, E. Bush and J. Voyer; alternates, G. Puffer, E. Godin, N. Rogers and J. Rathwell.

Boundary Squad Wins Warsaw Hockey Title

WARSAW, Feb. 27. — The Boundary team took possession for the first time of the cup, emblematic of the Warsaw Hockey League championship, Thursday, by trimming Lightning Bugs, 6-5, for the second straight win in local playoffs. It was a clean game on good ice before a big crowd, play being close all the way though Boundary had a slight edge in the second frame due chiefly to fine work by Ivan Watts at centre. I. Drain opened scoring on a solo rush in the first 10 seconds of play and later got another this inning. But Coons also scored twice and Percy Cooper notched one to put the Bugs ahead. In the second, I. Watts and C. Payne each tallied. With the Bugs pressing in the third, Dan Sharpe accounted for a pair, but the heavier Boundary team fended off their rushes and it ended with the young boys still trying for the equalizer. Dr. Munro presented the cup after the game. The teams:

Boundary: Goal, H. Parcels; defence, O. Watts, M. Lonsberry; centre, I. Watts; wings, C. Payne, I. Drain; alternates, I. Watts, A. Watts, P. Drain.

Lightning Bugs — Goal, H. Clifford; defence, A. Darling, G. Payne; centre, P. Cooper; wings, P. Mills, D. Sharpe; alternates, D. Bell, W. Robinson, W. Coons.

IN MEMORIAM

SMITH.—In loving memory of our dear Mother and Father, George and Ethel Smith, who passed to their rest on February 23, 1933, and February 28, 1935.

Gone from us, but leaving memories
Death can never take away,
Memories that will always linger
While upon this earth we stay.

—Ever remembered by their family.

PETERS.—In loving memory of a dear Husband and Father, Walter Peters, who died February 28, 1934.

We who loved you sadly, miss you;
As it dawns another year.
In our lonely hours of thinking
Thoughts of you are ever near.

—Sadly missed by Wife and Family.

WOULD. — In loving memory of Charles E. Would, who departed this life, February 28, 1936.

'Tis lonesome here without you,
There is such a vacant place
Where we never hear your footsteps
Or see your smiling face.

As we loved you, so we miss you,
In our memory you are near;
Loved, remembered, longed for always.
Bringing many a silent tear.

—Sadly missed by Wife and Family.

ATCHISON.—In loving memory of a dear Brother and Nephew, Raymond, who passed away one year ago to-day, February 28, 1936.

Upright and just in all his ways
Faithful and true till the end of his days.
In silence he suffered, in patience he bore,
Till God called him home to suffer no more.

—Sadly missed by his sisters, Hazel, Mary and Violet, Aunt and Uncle, Mr. and Mrs. S. Todd.

CARD OF THANKS

The Day That I Forget
By MARIE BLIZARD

READ THIS FIRST:

CHAPTER 22

WHEN Janet closed the door of her drawing room after inviting Kelcey "of the New York Office" to leave, she found that all her bright anticipation had fled. Her fingers trembled a little as she smoothed her hair and drew on her hat.

She regretted speaking to him so harshly and realized, with a little pang, that she wasn't and never would be an entity. Joel and she could not be separated in the public mind. But they had separated them already.

A divorce!

The idiots! Resentment rose high in her and she wanted to scream to the world to leave her and her marriage alone. But she would never scream because it would do no good. For the first time she knew the power of public thought and she wished that she had never left Joel.

She opened the door and called Mr. Kelcey back.

"I'm sorry," she said, "I really didn't mean to blow up but what you said was rather a shock. I realize, of course, that the gossipers would start something like that. You'll have to think up something for me to say. I'm really here just on a little vacation to see my old friends and I'm going back to the coast as quickly as I can."

She said something like that to the reporters herself when her train got to New York. She tried to say a few words to Martha after that lady had gathered her into her capable arms but it was some time before she and Martha were alone in a taxicab.

Janet had to pose with a brilliant smile and her jewel case clutched in her hands on the platform, standing beside her luggage. She had to smile and smile reassuringly and protest that she was east only for a short time. She had to pose writing a telegram to Joel. She had to do all the meaningless things that would assure the public she was a bride torn from the arms of her bridegroom.

And then Martha had said that Janet looked very smart and Janet had said that Martha looked the same as ever. When they decided that they would go to Martha's hotel for a bath and fresh clothes and then catch an evening train to Boston, Martha said, "Is it true, Janet? Have you left Joel?"

"Oh, Martha, not you! Surely you don't believe it?"

"I just wanted to know, Janet. I'm glad to see that you haven't. I didn't have very high hopes that that marriage would last. I was afraid it wouldn't give you enough. I'm glad to see that it has. Now we'll talk about something else."

"No, just a minute, Martha. I want to say this, that my marriage has given me everything I want. If there was ever any question of one of us giving anything, it was that I had nothing to give to Joel."

Even Martha Colby, the one person in the world who knew Janet best, could never have persuaded Janet otherwise. Could never have shown her that she was the one who brought full hands to her marriage. It was as well, for woman's place is to believe as Janet did.

Martha and Janet hired a car to take them from Boston to Grannis which was a few miles out on the Cape and they arrived the next day. They found rooms that were cool and fragrant in a little Cape Cod cottage with the inevitable big blown bottles on the lawn, hooked rugs in the halls and hollyhocks growing up to the sills of their window.

"I adore it," Janet said first thing. "Oh, if only Joel were here! I can't wait to see the theater."

She had told Martha about buying the little theater.

The little theatre wa smore like a toy than an investment, Martha told her when Leslie Carleton, the actor-manager, had taken them over it, and returned them to the cottage where he insisted that they repack immediately and plan to return to his own cottage on the Dunes where Mrs. Carleton had anticipated their visit.

"But isn't it a fascinating toy!" Janet had retorted.

It was a fascinating toy. And a money-making one. For the records showed that it had established a reputation on the Cape and residents were flocking in from neighboring colonies and filling it to capacity every night.

It was called The Red Barn for a good reason. It had been a capacious old barn before the first owners had taken it over and converted it into a theater by putting in tiers of quaint boxes and a gallery with Sunday school benches painted maple color and covered with hard cushions upholstered in bright turkey red.

Old ships' lanters lined the walls an dthe curtains of the not-very-big stage had been painted with wood block figures in keeping with the style of the quaint background.

The stage was small but the mechanical equipment was superior to what might have been expected of an experimental theater.

So was the entertainment. The year that Joel bought the theater was the one that the little theaters were beginning to attract attention. Broadway stars were eager to try out new roles for audience reaction. Ambitious young playwrights found many an opportunity to make an auspicious debut through the medium of the small theaters. Productions were ambitious in theatre if nit in scenic effects.

Janet was surprised to find that the evening performance—the first one she attended—was attended by an appreciative, discriminating audience dressed in evening clothes if not in the ermines and diamonds that she was later to associate with a New York audience.

She sat there in the corner box and thought: This is ours!

She was enchanted.

She adored Grannis and had it not been for the one small thing that Joel was so far away from her, she would have felt that the weeks she spent in the little New England village were the happiest she had ever known.

Life there was keyed to the tempo that had been part of her abandoned dream. She lay in her narrow, little white bed in the early morning and absorbed all the quiet comfort of normal life about her. She could smell the coffee Mary Carlton was making in the breakfast room and hear her as she called to her husband to pick some lettuce in the garden where he was working.

The nursemaid was the only luxury the Carleton household could afford and she was a necessity. Mary Carleton was the wardrobe mistress and scenic designer of the theater. That meant that she selected the costumes the stock cast put together from its combined wardrobes. Also that she borrowed everything from wicker furniture to Grecian pillars from the all-too-willing members of the colony when such things were needed to complete the scenic effects.

Her jobs took a lot of her time but, somewhere in between, she found time to knit a sweater for Leslie, to cook delicacies for her family and guests, to keep the little cottage spick and span and to make sure that there were no weeds in the garden. Summer was her heaven. In the autumn when the colonists had gone and the theater was closed, she would go back to her family in Boston and wait until Leslie got a job in New York—if he got one.

Janet knew all that. Knew all the uncertainties of Mary Carleton's life yet Mary surprised her, when looking up from drying the wet little body of the active young Mary, she found Janet looking down at her with tears in her eyes.

"But Janet!" she said and sat back on her heels.

"I think I'm getting hay fever," Janet said hastily and pretended to sneeze.

UNCLE WIGGILY'S BOUNCIE OUNCIE

(By Howard R. Garis)

Such a delightful smell as there was in the house of the Longtail family! It was like roasting chestnuts, and molasses candy, and buckwheat cakes, and bacon and coffee all made into one delicious huckleberry pudding.

"Whatever is it?" asked Mrs. Longears who, with her husband, out riding in the auto with new tires, had stopped for lunch.

"Oh, it's a cheese cake I'm baking," said the mouse lady. "I'm so glad Jollie found some cheese just in time."

"So am I," said Uncle Wiggily. "For if there is one thing I am more fond of than another it is cheese cake."

"You must tell me how to make it as long as Wiggy is so fond of it," said the rabbit lady.

"I shall," promised Mrs. Longtail, while Jollie and Jillie, the nice twins, played about with Squeakie Eekie, the cousin mouse. "First," said Mrs. Longtail, "you get your cheese and then—Oh, e e e e eeee!" she suddenly cried as she dashed for the kitchen.

"What's the matter?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"I hope it isn't any of the Bad Chaps," said Mrs. Longears.

Worries Her

"Mother thought she smelled the cheese cake burning," said Jillie, the girl mouse. "She's always that way when she's baking it. Mother is very particular about her cheese cake."

"You were very lucky, Jollie," said Uncle Wiggily to the boy mouse, "to find right in front of your house, such a lot of cheese so your mother could make a cake."

"Oh, yes, I'm lucky that way," squeaked Jollie sort of careless and nonchalant like.

"I caught it just in time," said

Mrs. Longtail creep in from the kitchen whence came those delicious smells like Christmas and Thanksgiving. In another moment the cheese cake would have been scorched. But everything is now ready," she went on. "It's the maid's day out, so you won't mind helping yourselves," she said.

"Mind it? We'll love it!" said Mrs. Longears.

Soon she and her husband and Mr. and Mrs. Longtail (who came home unexpectedly as mice gentlemen sometimes do) were sitting down to lunch with cheese cake. The children mice had their lunch in the breakfast nook.

"Ah, this is delicious cheese cake," said Uncle Wiggily as he had a third helping. "I don't know when I have tasted better."

"It is wonderful," said his wife. "Don't forget to tell me how you make it, Mrs. Longtail," said the rabbit lady.

"I won't," promised the mouse lady. And Uncle Wiggily asked:

"Where do you get the cheese for such lovely cake, Mrs. Longtail?"

"Why, Jollie found it, very luckily," his mother answered.

"Jollie, tell me, where did you get the cheese for this cake?" asked the rabbit gentleman.

Surprise

And was his face red when Jollie answered:

"Oh there was a car stuck out in front of our house. It had cheese tires on, so I just pulled them off and brought the cheese in. I never saw a car with cheese tires before. I was lucky!"

Uncle Wiggily looked at his wife. His wife looked at Uncle Wiggily. Then the rabbit gentleman looked out of the window of the mouse house. All the cheese tires were gone from his car. Jollie hadn't known it was the rabbit's car from which he stripped the tires. Then Mr. Longears hopped to the telephone.

"Hello, Jolly Old Sea Dog!" he cried. "Send me some new tires! From now on I'm going to ride in a bouncie ouncie. So is my wife."

And if the Old Christmas Tree doesn't knock at the back door and want to sleep in the cellar, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's ups and downs.

BRITISH MARKET STAYS FREE, OPEN CANADIAN FARMER

New Pact Assures Dominion Chance Of Expanding Exports To 280 Million Pounds

DAIRY AGREEMENT STANDS

OTTAWA, Feb. 27 (CP)—Canadian farmers will continue to enjoy free entry into the British market for bacon, hams, fat cattle, beef and dairy products, according to terms of the new Canada-United Kingdom trade pact which Finance Minister Dunning made public in the House of Commons yesterday.

The United Kingdom agrees not to place any duty on Canadian hams or bacon and there will be no regulation of such imports unless they amount to more than 280,000,000 pounds a year (the same figure as in the Canada-U.K. empire trade agreement). When they would be considered "abnormal and such as to endanger the effective working of the system of supply regulation." Regulation could not be enforced, however, without consultation with the Canadian government.

This assures Canadian farmers an uninterrupted opportunity of expanding their export trade toward the maximum of 2,500,000 cwt., which is almost double the largest actual shipment of any year to date, Mr. Dunning said.

"The safeguarding of this market and the maintenance of our opportunity to expand our sales in it are in themselves major parts of the new agreement," the minister stated.

No Duty on Cattle, Beef

Beef and cattle will be free from import duties, the value of which is enhanced by the preferential margin created by the imposition, as from December 1, 1936, of a duty of 1½ cents a pound on foreign chilled beef and a proportionate duty on foreign frozen beef.

In regard to dairy products, no change is made in the 1932 agreement, when the United Kingdom guaranteed free entry for dairy products for three years. This expired in 1935, but the United Kingdom was at liberty, after that date, to apply either preferential control against Canadian dairy products. The British Government still has this right, but no action has been taken.

Mr. Dunning said the new arrangement provided reinforcement of the general assurance of exemption from duty for beef and bacon and at the same time did not interfere with the supply regulation policy of the British Government.

"This new agreement safeguards Canadian interests and at the same time enables the United Kingdom to proceed with a policy of marketing organization which they hope will result in stable and remunerative prices for bacon and beef, from which every Canadian producer of hogs and cattle will benefit," he said.

HON. JOHN BRACKEN

SIR ARTHUR SALTER

Plans for a royal commission to investigate the economic structure of confederation with a view to relieving financially burdened Manitoba and Saskatchewan of some of their obligations, is announced by Prime Minister Mackenzie King following the report by Graham Towers, governor of the Bank of Canada which declared that Manitoba's revenue would not bear the burdens of modern government, increased as they are by drought and depression. Sir Arthur Salter, brilliant British economist, has been suggested to head the commission to study the west's financial structure. Stressing his belief that the governments of Premier John Bracken (Manitoba) and Premier W. J. Patterson (Saskatchewan) have strenuously attempted by economics and increased taxation to meet their financial obligations, Hon. Charles Dunning, federal finance minister, announced that pending the commission report, the Dominion government will relieve these provinces of some obligations. Ottawa may relinquish such sources of revenue as income taxes, death duties and corporation taxes to assist the provincial legislatures.

Peterboro' Youth Asks Guelph Instead Of Jail—Cadi Refuses —"Company Bad There"

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LINDSAY, February 27.—Three months in the county jail was the sentence meted out in police court yesterday by Magistrate Gee to a Peterborough youth named Peters, who made a clean-up in pyjamas in a local departmental store on Saturday night last. The youth asked for a term in the Ontario Reformatory, Guelph. This brought the remark from County Crown Attorney that the Guelph institution must not be so bad after all. "I am inclined to think you would be in the wrong company at Guelph," Magistrate Gee remarked. The accused said he could secure employment in Peterborough, and that his mother was about to undergo an operation.

Lindsay's tax rate has been reduced to 46 mills—the lowest it has been in years.

Frank Weldon, county clerk and treasurer, was acquitted of a charge of criminal negligence, in Toronto police court this week. The charge arose out of an accident on Avenue road, Toronto, in January.

said the country had paid out more than $1,000,000,000 in pensions since the war, more than had been collected in income tax since the inception of that tax.

The Combines Investigating Act will be brought back under the jurisdiction of the labor minister. The Dominion Trade and Industry Act, one of the Bennett government social reform statutes recently before the high courts, placed the Combines Act in the hands of the tariff board and under jurisdiction of the president of the privy council.

Members of the tariff board were to have acted also as a Dominion Trade and Industry Commission and are still constituted as such technically, but have never functioned in that capacity. Some sections of the act were found ultra vires by the courts. A public prosecutor who was to have assisted the commission was never appointed.

In a brief discussion on the resolution which preceded introduction of the bill objection was raised by Conservative leader Bennett. He could not understand why the consolidation and changes should be made at this time and criticized the government for adding to the expense of administration by creating a new branch in the labor department.

Change Combines Act Control

In explaining his new combines act legislation Labor Minister Rogers said it was designed to restore to the labor department the control of the combines act and to strengthen it. Also that it would be administered now by a permanent commissioner and such special commissioners as it may be necessary to engage from time to time.

Heretofore, the registrar under the act made preliminary investigations but special commissioners were appointed to conduct formal inquiries. It is also provided among numerous changes, that documents used in inquiries may be used in subsequent court actions.

New definitions are provided for the terms, merger, trust and monopolies. A merger under the new act means "the combination resulting from the consolidating or amalgamating of the whole or part of the businesses of any two or more persons, or resulting from the purchase, lease or other acquisition by any person of any control over or interest in the whole or part of the business of any person."

How to Ease a Cold Quickly

Get Quick-Acting, Quick-Dissolving "Aspirin." Take 2 Tablets

The modern way to ease a cold is this: Two "Aspirin" tablets the moment you feel a cold coming on. Then repeat, if necessary, according to instructions in the box.

At the same time, if you have a sore throat, crush and dissolve three "Aspirin" tablets in one-third glass of water. And gargle with this mixture twice.

The "Aspirin" you take internally will act to combat fever, cold pains and the cold itself. The gargle will provide almost instant relief from rawness and pain, acting like a local anesthetic on the irritated membrane of your throat.

Try this way. Your doctor, we know, will endorse it. For it is quick, effective and ends the taking of strong medicines for a cold.

● "Aspirin" tablets are made in Canada. "Aspirin" is the registered trade-mark of the Bayer Company, Limited, of Windsor, Ontario. Look for the name Bayer in the form of a cross on every tablet.

RIBBENTROP IS IN DISGRACE WITH HITLER

Failure To Make Progress On Direct Anglo-German Pact Said Cause

GOES BACK TO BERLIN

Favorite Diplomat No Longer Says London Herald—"Surprise Waits Him"

LONDON, March 1 (C.P.-Havas) —Joachim von Ribbentrop, German Ambassador to London, is in disgrace with Chancellor Hitler, it was reported in sections of the press today.

The assertions were made in connection with comments on Von Ribbentrop's return to Germany on Saturday, ostensibly to deliver an address to-night at the Leipzig Spring Fair.

Von Ribbentrop's failure to make any progress on Hitler's favorite project — a direct Anglo-German pact—is the reason behind his visit to Berlin, The Morning Post said.

The Daily Herald reported "a surprise" awaited Von Ribbentrop in Berlin, where he would discover he is no longer Hitler's favorite diplomat.

FIND TWO ALIVE AT WRECKED PLANE

Five Others Die In Australian Wilds In Storm—Survivors Foodless Nine Days

SYDNEY, Australia, March 1 (A. P.). — Rescuers to-day reached two starved, desperate survivors of the Sydney-Brisbane airliner crash that took five lives nine days ago in the wild, sparsely settled Macpherson Range, 60 miles south of Brisbane.

A record rescue party, hearing the reported medical aid, was gaining through the thickly timbered country toward the two men who have survived without food since the liner disappeared in a storm on February 19.

The liner's two pilots and three other passengers were dead.

A farmer named O'Reilly found the two men on Sunday, their last hopes gone, writing farewell messages near the burned wreckage of the plane near the southern border of Queensland. Both were in serious condition.

The first interest of the two men, ardent cricket fans, was the England-Australian test matches now in progress.

"What's the score?" they asked O'Reilly.

They said the liner crashed in a severe storm soon after leaving Brisbane.

The two pilots and two of the passengers were killed instantly. A third passenger, C. G. Westray, was uninjured, but fell to his death from a cliff in the darkness while trying to summon aid.

Neither of the survivors knew of Westray's death, but thought he had been successful in summoning the rescuers.

GEISHAS, MARINES STICKING TO STRIKE

Girl Entertainers Catch Up On Long-Neglected Prayers And Sleep In Temple Retreat

TOKYO, March 1.—(AP)— Japanese Geisha girls and merchant marine officers were out on strike to-day in two unique labor conflicts —but with diverse aims.

Eleven ships' officers, not common seamen, charged their employers were disrespectful of Emperor Hirohito when they failed to order flags flown at half mast on the Emperor's birthday, April 29, and refused to obey orders.

The girl entertainers, perched in a Buddhist temple near Osaka on the third day of a sit-down strike, demanded recognition of their Guild before they would consider a return to Osaka's fashionable cafes and Geisha houses.

The brightly-gowned Geisha declined polite requests to come down from their mountain retreat, and stonily rejected their employers' pleas to come back and soothe Osaka's tired business men.

The girls, their leaders said, were catching up on long-neglected prayers and sleep.

There were indications the sit-down strike might be joined by others of Osaka's 2,000 Geishas, while newspapers reported all Japan's 61,000 Geishas were watching their sisters' strike with breathless interest.

SUGAR QUOTA SYSTEM

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Roosevelt proposed to the United States Congress today the enactment of a sugar quota system financed by an excise tax on raw sugar.

The tax, the president said in a special message, should be no less than ½ cent a pound on sugar, raw value.

Income from the tax, estimated at $100,000,000 annually, would make possible the resumption of benefit payments to sugar producers, which the president proposed.

Conditions — Money, Opposition, Sickness, Resignations— Worse Than Expected

By J. F. Sanderson
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

CALGARY, Mar. 1 (C.P.). — Men and women dotting the wide expanse of Alberta will decide whether William Aberhart, the Calgary school teacher who became Leader of the first Social Credit Government in the world in 1935, will continue in power or resign.

The Premier frankly told his supporters yesterday from the pulpit of the Calgary Prophetic Bible Institute he had been unable to redeem his election promise to establish Social Credit in Alberta in 18 months. He asked them to pass resolutions at constituency association meetings, advising whether they wish him to resign or continue his efforts toward a new economic order for Alberta.

In the meantime, the Aberhart administration will carry on and push through the Legislature the final moves for further action."

Not Flunking.

"May I assure you we are not throwing up our hands," Mr. Aberhart cautioned his supporters. He told them he had no intention of resigning unless the people desired a change either in leadership or party.

The Premier suggested no association votes be taken until the first week in June, after the roads are clear and the people have studied the legislation being passed at the session. In the meantime, of course, he would welcome expressions of opinion.

But he desired no advice from political opponents to whom his election promise was not directed.

His failure to establish Social Credit, Mr. Aberhart said, was due to conditions—he evidently referred

WINDSOR REPORTED TO HAVE SET MAY 2 AS WEDDING DAY

VISIT ENGLAND, AUGUST

LONDON, March 1.—(CP). —The Duke of Windsor was reported today to have set May 2 as the day for his wedding to Mrs. Wallis Simpson. The Associated Press said the Duke was generally believed to have made it clear he intended to marry Mrs. Simpson as soon as her divorce become absolute April 27. The date set would precede by 10 days his brother's coronation on May 12.

The Duke of Kent is on his way back to England after visiting his brother in Austria, while Lord Brownlow who accompanied Mrs. Simpson to Cannes during the constitutional crisis, is at present a visitor at Castle Ensefeld.

The Associated Press declared the Duke's recent conversations with emissaries from Britain were said by sources that professed to know to have been concerned with jewels of the Queen Alexandra collection as much as the question of an allowance for the Duke.

Before the abdication he is said to have given some of these jewels to Mrs. Simpson and is reported to claim now that he inherited the collection from his grandmother personally rather than as the heir to the throne.

The Manchester Guardian said it was reported His Royal Highness was planning to return to England in August it was being said in court circles, the Guardian explained "that the Duke of Windsor has spoken several times of returning to England in August."

DOCTOR, DRUGGIST MEDICAL RELIEF PAYMENTS RISE

Provincial Scheme Regarded By Croll As "Health Insurance In Embryo"

BASIS FOR FUTURE PLAN

TORONTO, March 1.—(CP). — Medical relief payments to doctors and druggists are increased under an order-in-council announced to-day by Hon. David Croll, Minister of Welfare.

Funds for medical relief were increased from 21 cents a relief recipient a month to 39 cents. Amount set aside for druggists who fill relief prescriptions was increased from four cents to six cents a month. The new rates went into effect Sunday.

Mr. Croll said he regarded the provincial relief plan as "health insurance in embryo," and said it would be the basis for any health insurance plan adopted by Ontario.

Croll's Statement.

Text of Mr. Croll's statement, follows:

The Ontario medical relief system is not only unique but it is the most effective method yet evolved anywhere. When it was instituted in March, 1935, the government and the Ontario Medical Association agreed that in return for a payment of 25 cents per relief recipient per month full medical service, up to the point of hospitalization, would be given by their family doctor to all the unemployed registered on the relief rolls of the province and to the families of small pensioners of the Great War.

We had little material on which to base our estimates of 25 cents. In fact, it more of a guestimate than an estimate. We didn't know whether it would work out fairly for the doctors and the contributing governments. As it happened, it didn't work badly in most parts of the province. Here and there it was inadequate but on the whole it was fair—as conditions stood at that time. Relief was much greater in its extent and density than it is to-day. A considerable fraction of the average practitioner's patients were on relief and he received substantial return for caring for them.

Relief Declining

However, the situation is much changed to-day. Relief is steadily declining. In very many cases the 25 cent rate—with a deduction of 04 cents for the druggist—scarcely repays the doctor for the expenses involved in treating the unemployed. The rate is no longer fair. Therefore we are raising the rate for medical attention in all cases on relief to 39 cents per individual per month. Of this amount 29 cents will go to the Ontario Medical Association for distribution to doctors on the basis of service. The remaining 06 cents will be paid to the Ontario Retail Druggists' Association for similar distribution. The 35 cents is, of course, the joint contribution of municipality and government on the usual basis of 28 per cent. municipality and 72 per cent. government.

FEAR NAVY ATTACK FROM BLOCKADERS

Madrid Uneasy As Italy, Germany Assigned To Patrol South Coast

VALENCIA, Spain, March 1 (A. P.). — Government quarters expressed fear to-day German and Italian warships, participating in the scheduled neutrality blockade of Spain, might attack the eastern seacoast of government-held provinces.

The prospect of the Italo-German coastal patrol, arranged by the 27-nation non-intervention committee to begin on March 6 in an attempt to halt men and munitions bound for the Civil War, resulted in bitter disappointment and foreboding in government circles.

German and Italian co-operation with the insurgent armies has been at least partially responsible, government sources assert, for the recent air-raids and naval bombardments of the eastern coast.

The London non-intervention committee assigned Italy and Germany to guard the coast of government territory, stretching from the French frontier to a point north of Malaga, while France and Great Britain will guard the balance of the coastline. Portugal and Russia, also members of the six-power neutrality sub-committee, withdrew from active participation in the blockade.)

ALL FIRMS MUST GIVE PAYROLL LIST TO RELIEF OFFICE

Will Aid Officials Checking Earnings Of Applicants For Assistance

NEW REGULATION

TORONTO, March 1.—(CP).— A regulation by the Ontario Cabinet Saturday requires all employers to furnish municipal relief officers with a complete list of their employees.

"It will be of immense help to relief officers in checking earnings of applicants for relief," said Mr. Croll. "The practice has been followed in many municipalities but government regulation was needed to make it a hundred per cent. effective. There have been too many cases recently where it was found heads of families or dependents have been earning good money and at the same time drawing relief from the municipality. We think the new regulation will put an effective stop to such fraudulent practices."

600 Employees Debate Tonight On Closing Toronto's Nine Factories

TORONTO, March 1 (CP)—Ontario's most extensive strike in years spread quickly today across Western Ontario with more than 1,000 furniture workers out and hundreds more considering failing in line. Obeying walkout orders issued yesterday by the Furniture Workers Union, workers went on strike at Penmore, Wingham, Owen Sound, Strathroy, Lucknow, Kincardine, Listowel and Stratford.

Fearing possible violence when two factories put a lock-out into effect, Mayor W. Dawson of Chesley swore in 20 special policemen. A group of 250 strikers from Hanover motored to Chesley, forcing the lock-out.

More than 600 union members at nine factories in Toronto decided to meet tonight and decide whether to strike. Kitchener plants were not affected immediately, though it was reported workers might vote to strike later this week.

Two union plants in Hespeller and Preston operated as usual while a union official went there from Toronto. He said a "slight misunderstanding" caused the decision of the men not to strike at once.

Workers Sent Home

When Hanover strikers reached the town shortly before noon, officials of the Chesley Chair Company and the Chesley Manufacturing Company sent their employees home and told them to remain away until a strike called by the Furniture Workers' Union was settled.

The lock-out made it necessary for the Hanover groups to picket at the two plants. It was not known immediately whether the third factory here, Krug Bros. Furniture Company, would be picketed. It was believed Krug Bros. employees would be locked out tomorrow.

Frank M. Wright, president of the district council of the union, said the workers were unable to agree to Mr. Marsh's request the union delay the strike until the new conference between manufacturers and

300 Animal Prizes Prove Embarrassing

Moscow, Mar. 1 (AP)

THE Moscow Zoo, one of the largest and most frequented in the world, has solved the problem of its excess animal and bird population by distributing young pets to children on a lottery basis.

The scheme has proved extremely embarrassing to parents of many children who drew young bears, wild pigs, large birds and other "pets" which they could not accommodate in their cramped living quarters.

So many protests came in that the zoo had to agree to exchange such pets for smaller animals and birds. Some 7,500 animals and birds were thus distributed.

VIVIAN MACMILLAN AWARDED $10,000 IN SEDUCTION CASE

Supreme Court Of Canada Reverses Two Alberta Rulings Favoring Ex-Premier Brownlee

CASE DATES BACK TO 1933

OTTAWA, March 1. — (CP).— Vivian MacMillan is entitled to $10,000 awarded her by a jury in her action for seduction against John Brownlee, former Premier of Alberta, the Supreme Court of Canada to-day ruled.

Reversing the findings of Mr. Justice W. C. Ives, who presided at the trial in Edmonton and the Court of Appeal for Alberta, a majority of the highest court in the Dominion directed that the jury's verdict be restored.

The majority judgment, written by Chief Justice Sir Lyman P. Duff held firstly that a woman suing for seduction under the Alberta Seduction Act need not prove loss of service or loss of ability to serve as in the case of a parent or master suing and, secondly, there was no cause for reviewing the facts as found by the jury or the reasonableness of the damages awarded.

The appeal to the Supreme Court was argued last summer chiefly on these two points, one of law and one of fact. The Alberta Seduction Act gives a woman seduced a right of action, whereas under the common law such a right belongs only to the parent or master on the ground of loss of the services of the woman.

Claim Loss of Service Not Proved.

For Mr. Brownlee it was argued the facts of the action was the same and loss of service or at least loss of ability to serve had to be proved. This was not proved as Miss MacMillan had been absent from her home and was not performing services for her father.

On this point after reviewing authorities the Chief Justice said: "We think that section five (giving the woman the right to sue) should be construed according to the ordinary meaning of the words and that damage of the special character mentioned, damage actually or presumptively entailing some loss of service or some disability for service is not the gist of the action under that section."

Mr. Justice Davis dissented from the Chief Justice and the majority. Miss MacMillan was awarded costs of the litigation throughout.

The case began in 1933 while Mr. Brownlee was still Premier of Alberta and the alleged acts of seduction

VIENNA TO PAINT PICKPOCKETS' EARS

Vienna, Mar. 1.

A PLAGUE of pickpockets in Rumania is said to have evoked a novel plan for dealing with these light-fingered thieves.

The Bucharest correspondent of the Viennese newspaper, Tagblatt says that the authorities have decided to mark all convicted pickpockets conspicuously by coloring their ears with indelible ink, and such pickpockets will have to report at police stations every month to have their ears inspected and retinted, if necessary.

SEAT AT OXFORD GOES INDEPENDENT

Failure Of Conservatives To Concentrate On Single Candidate Is Blamed

LONDON, March 1.—(CP, Cable.) —The British press, seeking to analyze the result of the Oxford University by-election to-day was inclined to attribute the government's loss to the failure of the Conservative party to concentrate on a single candidate.

The seat, for many years a Conservative stronghold, was won comfortably by Sir Arthur Salter, the economist, running as an Independent. Two Conservatives were in the field, Sir Farquhar Buzzard and Professor Frederick Lindemann.

"What the election does show," said Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express, "is what happens in a large, scattered and highly intelligent British electorate when the pressure of party control is relaxed or an effective alternative to it is offered."

Both youths had previous convictions.

Disappointed Office-Seekers Behind Whispering Campaign

Rumors King's Health Questionable Laid To Famous May-fair Hosts, Brokers, Politicians

TREASON SAYS PRESS

LONDON, March 1—(CP Cable)—The Sunday referee said in its news columns yesterday a "malicious whispering campaign" concerning the King's health is being conducted by scandal mongers, among whom it numbered "famous Mayfair hosts and hostesses, prominent stockbrokers and left-wing politicians, most of whom are disappointed office-seekers."

Denying King George's health is in any way questionable, the newspaper called attention to the fact it is a treasonable offence to spread slanderous reports regarding the person of the King.

The Referee said the basis for the rumors include the fact His Majesty did not broadcast a Christmas message, paid only one visit to the British Industries fair and the recent postponement of the Durbar in India.

The reason the King has not appeared more frequently in public since his accession, the newspaper continued, is because he is fully occupied learning the complicated jobs of kingship.

Footnote Blocked Out.

When the issue of the magazine Cavalcade for the week of February 14 appears on newsstands a footnote denying "rumors the King again had been attacked by epilepsy" had been blacked out. The footnote was attached to a story stating His Majesty would not attend the Indian Durbar.

William J. Britain, editor of Cavalcade, said only the footnote was objected to by the National Federation of Wholesale Newsagents.

"We have been hearing rumors on the stock exchange and in parliament that the King was suffering new attacks of epilepsy," Britain said. "A source somewhere near the palace called my attention to the rumor and suggested it should be denied. I considered it only right that a false rumor should be denied."

Hens Do A 'Stand-Up' Striking For Mash

A Peterborough newspaperman who lives at Lakefield and farms on a small scale reports his hens are on a "stand-up" strike. Only two out of his 42 hens are laying eggs and these two only lay on alternate days, he says.

"What is the object of their stand-up strike?" the gentleman farmer was asked.

"They want more and higher-cost feed."

"Why don't you give it to them?"

"The return on the eggs does not equal the high cost of the feed necessary to get eggs which will give a cash in pocket return."

And thus it appears the chicken and egg business is not all milk and honey—in other words its no "yoke" for the hen man.—C.P.K.

Bingo Can Be Perfectly Legal If Rake-Off Feature Omitted

Fact That Entire Proceeds Not Given Player Put It Outside Law Says Roebuck

ANY CHANGE UP TO OTTAWA

TORONTO, March 1.—(CP). — "Bingo could be made perfectly legal," said Attorney-General Arthur Roebuck to-day. "The only thing illegal is the rake-off end of it. You can have a legal game without the rake-off feature."

Ontario can do nothing about changing the law to legalize charity bingoes, said Mr. Roebuck. They are governed by the criminal code and a change in it is a matter for the Federal government.

It was learned, however, that a rake-off is presumed when the entire proceeds from a bingo game are not returned to the players.

STABILITY ON FARM LIKELY TO COST U. S. BILLION YEARLY

Soil Conservation, Crop Insurance, Care Of Tenants, Share-Croppers Major Problems

EMERGENCIES OMITTED

WASHINGTON, March 1—(A.P.)—Congressional leaders estimated to-day the United States administration's program to bring parity and security to agriculture may require upwards of $1,000,000,000 a year.

The major part would be needed, members of the House of Representatives Agricultural committee said, for these items:

Soil conservation, $500,000,000.

Crop insurance, $100,000,000 to $150,000,000.

Rehabilitation of farm tenants, share-croppers and laborers, $100,000,000 to $125,000,000.

An additional $50,000,00 has been suggested by some Congressmen to aid tenants to become landowners.

An appropriation of $25,000,000 will be required to refund to the Federal land banks for reduced interest rates on farm mortgages, expected to be continued by Congressional order.

These estimates do not take into account possible appropriations for emergency purposes. Congress already has voted $50,000,000 for emergency seed and feed loans and has received bills calling for $5,000,000 for eradication of grasshopper and insect plagues.

In addition the House committee has approved a bill to authorize setting aside $800,000,000 in gold as a reserve for $2,000,000,000 in agricultural reserve notes for use for farm credit at rates as low as 3 per cent.

INDIANS TO HAIL GOVERNOR'S VISIT

Will Be "Year-Date" When Tweedsmuir Tours National Park In August

OTTAWA, March 1 (CP). — The Governor-General's trip through the Tweedsmuir National Park this summer will be another "year-date" for the resident Indians, says I. Goldman of Columbia University.

Mr. Goldman spent some time last summer in this northern district of British Columbia studying the Indians with a view to recording their old culture. He says few white men have ever journeyed through this country, and such an event as the visit of the Governor-General, "the Big Chief" will be of far greater importance than the last eclipse of the sun, and the government survey of 1913 which are now the year-marks for the Indians. Hereafter children will date their births from this year, the time of the Governor-General's visit.

Mr. Goldman considers Lord Tweedsmuir has chosen the best time of year for his trip, for by the time he reaches Burns Lake, the starting point of the trek through the park, it will be late August, the mosquitos will be gone and the land will be dry and the weather pleasant.

Mr. Goldman likens the country to a "scene from a Wagnerian opera," deep forests, green foliage, a land of light and shadow against a background of high mountains.

TWEEDSMUIR HAS PRAISE FOR SCOUTS

Claims Canada's Most Vital Thing Is Her Youth—Comradeship Scouts Forte

TORONTO, March 1 (CP)—Toronto's Boy Scouts got up just a bit early today, mental axes sharpened to cut their way through a figurative forest.

They had the word of their chief scout that the "most vital thing in Canada is its youth," and Lord Tweedsmuir went into the realm of legend to illustrate.

"Canada is like the sleeping princess in the old fairy-story; before she can be awakened the young prince must cut his way through the dark forest to reach the enchanted palace," he said. "Every Canadian boy is like the younger son in the fairy-tale. He starts off with his mother's blessing and his lunch in his pocket, and not much else.

"He knows where are all kinds of dragons and giants and enchantments to be vanquished, but he knows, too, that there are tremendous rewards for a quick brain and a stout heart." Nothing better than this wide horizon could be offered youth.

The Governor General, speaking at a banquet of the Toronto and district Boy Scouts Association, made two main observations on scouting: it promotes comradeship and is of "enormous value" in national defence.

By that he meant the development of a spirit, not the "imitation of soldiering." The movement should not be "infected with the poison of militarism." But if actual physical defence of Canada ever became necessary, there could be no better foundation than the sense of brotherhood, the feeling of partnership and the love of country encouraged by scouting.

Lord Tweedsmuir was introduced by Sir Edward Beatty as "the personal representative of the sovereign whose person and crown unite our empire" and "in his own right a prince of letters."

U.S. Proposes To Transfer Personnel Of Consulates To Other Points

WASHINGTON, March 1 (A.P.).—The United States State Department announced on Saturday it had ordered its Consulates at Sault Ste. Marie and Kingston, Ont., closed because of the necessity of utilizing their personnel elsewhere.

The action, it was explained, was taken in line with the practice of checking constantly on the activities of Consular offices in the field so that all limited personnel available may be used to the best possible advantage.

The Consul in charge at Sault Ste. Marie and the Vice-Consul at Kingston, the only American foreign service officers at these points, are to be transferred to other posts in Canada. The Consulates will close "as soon as practicable."

HOUSE CONSIDERS PENSION FOR BLIND BEFORE AGE OF 70

Tuesday Expected To See Bennett Claim Trade Pact Repeat Of '32 Deal

AT INCREASED PRICE

OTTAWA, March 1 (CP) — The House of Commons today faced debate on two government measures and consideration of estimates, but public interest was centred on the start tomorrow of the budget debate.

Today the House was scheduled to consider the bill to amend the combines investigation act, returning its administration to the labor department, and appointing a combines commissioner, and the bill to give old-age pensions to blind persons of less than the statutory 70 years of age at which they are ordinarily entitled to such pensions. Also on the order paper for today was consideration of mines and resources estimates.

However, it is tomorrow galleries are expected to be crowded as conservative leader Bennett, financial critic for the opposition, rises to give his views on Finance Minister Dunning's budget, and the new Canada-United Kingdom trade agreement that formed part of it.

It was believed Mr. Bennett might suggest to the government that the new trade pact did no more than preserve for Canada the advantages gained in the 1932 agreement his government negotiated and that it did so only at an increased price.

The chief component of the budget was the revised United Kingdom trade agreement and Conservatives feel it is particularly appropriate he should be financial critic this year as it was he who was the chief negotiator of the original 1932 treaty on behalf of Canada.

What factors Mr. Bennett will single out for special consideration will not be known until he rises in the House of Commons Tuesday, but it is possible he may argue Canada has made further concessions and got nothing in return beyond the preferences she received under the 1932 agreement.

Did Well Enough

The answer to that from the government benches may be that having regard to protectionist tendencies in Great Britain in recent years, Canada has done well to preserve what she had.

Liberals may also draw attention to a reduction from 215 to 91 in the Dog Saves Family Stranger Saves Him

Winnipeg, Mar. 1 (CP)

JOBLESS John Ziniuk was happy tonight. Several months ago his dog barked, raced around and roused the Ziniuk family when the house was on fire.

Then Ziniuk, unable to pay for a license for the dog, was haled into court last week. He told the story of the dog and the fire. The dog had saved his life, he said, and now he wanted to save its life. But he couldn't afford a license.

Yesterday an unidentified benefactor bought the dog license on Ziniuk's behalf. Now he can keep the dog for another year at least.

CLYDESDALE MEN RE-ELECT STAPLES

Second Annual Field Day Will Be Held In Exhibition Park June 1

Peterborough Clydesdale Horse Breeders' Association on Saturday afternoon re-elected S. S. Staples of Ida as president at the annual general meeting in the offices of the representative of the Ontario Department of Agriculture here. Harry McIntyre of Keene was elected vice-president, and George McKnight, Millbrook, was named as secretary-treasurer. Honorary directors were as follows: R. A. Patterson, Millbrook; J. S. Stapley, Ida; Thomas Graham, Smith; S. F. Redmond, Otonabee. Directors Allan B. Mann, Bridgenorth; Robert Shaw, Otonabee; J. Whittington, South Monaghan; Fred Steinkrauss, Smith; Leonard Smith, Millbrook.

Encouraged by the success of the field day held at Exhibition Grounds last year and on which they received the commendation of the Dominion Association, the members of the local Association have decided to hold a similar event on June 1 next.

Discussion centred around a Spring Horse Show, and on motion it was decided to recommend that Peterborough Exhibition Board take over the running of the Show and work in conjunction with the different live stock organizations in the district. It was proposed that the Spring Show be held around May 1.

A committee, consisting of S. S. Staples, Harry McIntyre, J. Whittington, and Robert Shaw, was appointed to secure information as to the advisability of holding a spring horse sale. If it is found that such a sale is warranted, it will probably be planned for around April 1.

The meeting adjourned until the first Saturday in May.

HER KNEES SWELLED WITH RHEUMATISM

To Go Upstairs Was Agony

There is nothing in which rheumatism is a greater handicap than in doing ordinary household duties—kneeling, stooping, running up and down stairs. How to overcome the handicap, and relieve rheumatic aches and pains, is the subject of the following letter:—

"I have been taking Kruschen Salts for three months. When I started, I had rheumatism in both knees. They were very swollen. I could not rise from a chair without assistance. I could not kneel, and to go upstairs was agony. Now I can run upstairs and kneel as much as I like. Since I have taken Kruschen, I can work like a horse."—(Mrs.) H. S.

Two of the ingredients of Kruschen Salts are effective solvents of uric acid. Other ingredients of these Salts have a stimulating effect upon the internal organs, and assist them to expel the dissolved uric acid from the system.

$100,000 ASKED FOR E.P. RANCH

Three Groups Of Prospective Purchasers Are Negotiating For It

OTTAWA, Mar. 1. — One hundred thousand dollars is the approximate price anticipated for the Duke of Windsor's Alberta ranch, now for sale under the direction of an English bank, it is learned in Ottawa.

Three groups of prospective purchasers were negotiating for it, one of them a Toronto group, but the Toronto group is understood to have dropped out.

The ranch, soon to pass from the ownership of the Duke, is regarded as one of the finest in Canada. It has oil potentialities which have never been probed. It is understood the Duke of Windsor is in need of the cash expected to be involved in any transfer.

These Homes Depend on Each Other

TAKE a row of homes in any street — your own, for instance. You don't accept the hedge about roses or tomatoes, but it probably doesn't occur to you that each of your neighbors helps to pay your rent or taxes, and to buy the food, furniture, clothing and other things that make life worth living.

The man next door may work in an automobile plant. On the other side of you live men employed in paint and rubber factories. Across the street are a baker, a railwayman, the foreman of a textile mill, a steel plant superintendent, a shoe salesman and a theatre employee.

What affects one, affects all. Should the automobile plant shut down or curtail production, the steel, rubber, paint, glass, textile and numerous other industries will suffer, too. The railways will have less freight to haul. Stores, restaurants, theatres will feel the pinch. There will be less money in circulation.

A thriving automotive industry is therefore vital to the welfare of all. The security of any one man's job depends not only on the industry of which he is a part, but on the prosperity of industry as a whole.

We Again Remind You

. . . that the automotive industry not only in itself is an important unit in the business life of Canada, but that the manufacturing of cars and trucks entails the purchase of finished and raw materials from many other industries. Anything that would retard orders from automobile manufacturers would seriously affect many other important company payrolls.

Death of Mrs. A. J. Madill.

News of the death in Hamilton on Saturday of Mrs. A. J. Madill, wife of Dr. A. J. Madill of 806 George street, member of the staff of the Normal School, came as a great shock to their many friends in the city and vicinity.

Mrs. Madill, with her husband and her two daughters, the Misses Patricia and Virginia, left for Hamilton on Friday afternoon by train, to be present at the wedding on Saturday of Miss Patricia to Arthur Metcalfe of Hamilton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Metcalfe of 856 Water street, Peterborough. During the journey, Mrs. Madill appeared to be quite well, but complained of a violent headache on reaching Hamilton, and was seized with a stroke of apoplexy while in the taxi on the way to the hotel, from which she did not regain consciousness and which resulted in her death at seven o'clock on Saturday morning in St. Joseph's Hospital at Hamilton.

The funeral services were held at 8:45 on Sunday evening at the parlors of Brown Brothers' Funeral Home at St. Clair avenue and King street, Hamilton, and were taken by the Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe of Murray Street Baptist Church, whose duties at Murray Street Church were taken on Sunday evening by the Rev. R. D. Wright of Gilmour Memorial Church. Other Peterborough friends who attended the services included Dr. J. A. Bannister and Mrs. Bannister and their son John; Mrs. H. G. Webber, Mrs. H. H. Graham, W. G. Shiner, Wilmer Garbutt and L. H. Ingram.

The funeral was held this afternoon at half past one o'clock at the New Road Cemetery at Tillsonburg, Ontario. Dr. Madill and his younger daughter Virginia, accompanied by the Rev. Mr. Sutcliffe and Dr. Bannister, will return to Peterborough tonight.

Friends of the late Mrs. Madill, who was formerly Virginia Barclay and who was in her fifty-third year, recall her many kindly and charitable impulses. At Christmas time, she invariably remembered each child at the Shelter with a present, parcelled and tied in dainty fashion.

"On the insistence of Dr. Madill, who knew with what intense interest Mrs. Madill looked forward to the marriage of her daughter, the wedding of Miss Patricia Madill went forward as a quiet and subdued ceremony, at two o'clock on Saturday afternoon, when it was solemnized by the Rev. Mr. Jones of James Street Baptist Church, Hamilton, the young people returning afterwards to the funeral parlors and the sad duties incidental to the death of the bride's mother. They will live in Hamilton.

BISCUITS TOUGH WHEN HOUSEWIVES MANHANDLE DOUGH

"15-18 GENTLE PUNCHES"

WASHINGTON, March 1.—(AP)—The United States' Bureau of Home Economics dished out the startling theory to-day that strong-arm tactics made tough biscuits.

This means the cook can't manhandle the dough, and expect a batch of tender bread for dinner.

The ladies of the Bureau won't be quoted, but they don't deny they may have hit on the answer to one of history's kitchen mysteries—why the same cook never makes the same kind of biscuits twice.

If getting a strangle hold on the dough affects the biscuits-to-be, it doesn't take a government agency to point out the housewife's temper controls the whole business.

One who sweeps serenely into the kitchen at peace with the world—say, over the prospects of a new spring bonnet—naturally is going to be gentle with her dough.

By the same logic, the woman who storms up to the stove in a peeve is apt to loose her wrath on the defenseless mass of flour.

Dough which received 15 to 18 gentle strokes gave tall, light, flaky tender biscuits.

The chemical explanation is that getting rough with the dough causes the flour gluten to lose its elasticity. When it's time for the biscuit to rise, it stages a sit-down strike.

Weddings

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of the bride's cousins, the Rev. and Mrs. Earl Whitmore of Benedick Street, Trenton, at half-past five o'clock on Saturday, February 20th, when Cecil Buck, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Buck of Trenton, was united in marriage to Kathleen Orr, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Orr of 830 Captain Street, Peterborough. The Rev. Mr. Whitmore officiated.

Attendants were Miss Mary McKee of Trenton and Charles Orr.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the Rev. and Mrs. Whitmore, and dainty refreshments were served to twenty-five of the immediate relatives and friends of the young couple.

I'LL NOT meddle with it. It is a dangerous thing. It makes a man a coward. A man cannot steal but it cometh him: he cannot swear but it checks him: 'tis a blushing shame-faced spirit that mutinies in a man's bosom: it fills one full of obstacles: it made me give regions a purse of gold that I found: it beggars any man that keeps it: it is turned out of all towns and cities for a dangerous thing.

—Shakespeare.

Dear Friends:

I wonder what we should do if we didn't have a conscience? And I wonder what the world would do if if the thought of the follies they have committed did not return to haunt those who did them, making them alter their ways?

Some of us have a very active conscience, and some of us can shut it off pretty quick when its suits us to do so. We blame the things we have done on someone else, like Adam when he said "the woman tempted me, and I did eat."

We think he was a poor sort of a fellow to blame it all on the woman, but how often we blame what we have done on someone else, when all the time the whole trouble is that we lack the back-bone. We want to commit the sin, but do not want to pay the price.

After all, you are a free agent. If you drink, no one pours it down your throat, if you are immoral, you take part in the sin, if you are a liar or a thief, it is your tongue that tells the lie, or your hand that reaches out for the things you steal.

But do not misunderstand me. We might all be thoroughly bad, if it were not for the wee small voice within us that keeps digging at us, when no mortal but ourselves knows the sin we have committed. We are our own judges for good or ill, and woe betide us when we do not heed that voice.

Did you ever notice that when you though you were getting along pretty good, along came one of your besetting sins and tripped you up? And then old Mrs. Conscience gets in his work, and you feel as if all you had built up in your life had been torn down and you had to begin at the beginning again.

But do not lose heart. We all have to go through these experiences, and instead of having to begin at the beginning again, we can be sorry, and start where we left off. The trouble is not so much in failing, as in staying [illegible] a brake, nor [illegible] down in the [illegible] yourself up, dust yourself off, and start right over again."

We are of a person who does their work well, that they are conscientious, and that is a good way to be. But it can very soon develop into fussiness if we don't look out. We can very easily let ourselves be so much like that, that we make a god of the thing we are doing, as so many men know to their cost when their wives become conscientious about having a clean house that it is a misery to go into it.

When a person has a great many things to do, they soon learn to do the important things best, and do the rest as best they can. We cannot always do things as thoroughly as we would like to do them, but if they are done at all, that is a good thing in itself.

So, if you are doing your utmost, and your conscience seems still to be bothering you, just consider whether it isn't you that are driving yourself too much. Many's the man has become a nervous wreck, just because he thought it was his conscience bothering him to do things, when all it was was nervous tension, and a wrong point of view.

And, when you are ready to condemn anyone, just say to yourself, "there, but for the grace of God go I," for goby conscience held you back, where the other would not listen.

Does Not Approve of Guelph

Evidently the feeling has become established that the Reformatory at Guelph is not the proper place to send young men who receive court sentences. When a prisoner appeared in court at Lindsay and suggested he be sent to Guelph, Magistrate Gee remarked "I am inclined to think you would be in the wrong company at Guelph." So he placed him in the county jail for three months.

That is not the first time such a remark has been made, and there has been such a deluge of confusing evidence offered regarding that institution at Guelph it is difficult to state just where the truth lies. It could hardly be expected that inmates of a penal institution would come forward and say "This is a splendid place; I am well used and I approve of the discipline imposed." The average prisoner will complain rather than approve.

The inquiry has produced one effect, though, and that is the belief that Guelph is not a good place to send young prisoners. That statement is being repeated in our primary courts, and when a feeling penetrates that far it is going to require a good deal of undoing.

Yes—It's a Good Story

Of course such a story would not be considered good enough for the front page, it is not exciting; no person was hurt; no person stole anything, and the police were not called in. But it was a good story.

It came from Newbury, a little place in the corner of Middlesex county, and told about a young Englishman who came to this country ten years ago in order to seek his fortune or make his way in order that he might be married and have a home. He left behind him the lady of his choice at Little Harwood in Lancashire.

The young fellow from England did not make a fortune, and of course that is not exceptional, because so few people ever do. But he got along although the process of saving was slow. The point is that the lady from Little Harwood in Lancashire is arriving in Newbury in a few days because the young Englishman had sent her a ticket. After that there will be a wedding.

Something wholesome about that story. Ten years of waiting and of saving. The young man had an objective although the speed with which he attained it was slow. But the young lady is on the ocean now, and the new home in a new land will have in it fidelity, patience and love. We learn tdo it will be a humble place, but it is getting off to a good start.

Letters to the Editor

In a letter recently sent to the Examiner reference was made to the fact that it did not appear in print as soon as it was received in this office. Not infrequently a letter will arrive and with it the request that it appear in the paper that same day. It is not mechanically possible to do this.

A little explanation will show why. In putting together a newspaper which runs two editions each day it is necessary to start getting pages away early in the day. Each page as it is completed has to be rolled in to make the mat from which the printing plate is made, and there is a schedule of regularity which has to be followed closely in order that at closing time there may be only one or two pages open. These last pages are those which carry the latest news coming. In that programme the editorial page, on which letters appear, is one of the pages which "goes away" early in the day, so it is closed early. When a letter is accepted for publication it is put through just as quickly as possible, but the paper does not know as a rule when a letter is coming, and therefore has reserved no space for it. That is why it is mechanically impossible to handle letters as rapidly as news matter.

There Has Been a Change

Four young farm hands were in court at Goderich, and the charge was they had been stealing grain. There was no denial of the act, and the story in court was they had stolen grain, bought gasoline so they could go and attend hockey matches in Brussels and other places in the district. The magistrate after listening to the story said he suspected in advance there would be an automobile some place in it.

We believe it fair enough to say if these same young men had been living 25 years ago they would not have stolen the grain. There were hockey matches being played then, but people did not travel miles to see them. But today it is different. It is quite commonplace for people from Peterborough to drive to see a professional hockey game in Toronto, and they return after the game is concluded, and the same thing is going on all over the province. That is why people from the country would be driving to Brussels and other places in that district to see hockey games. We are not condoning the stealing of grain so that gas might be purchased, but we believe had those same young farmers been living 25 years ago they would not have appeared in court.

It Was All Quite Simple

Well, this is rather good. Merle Vandenbush has been sought by the G-men of United States for a good many weeks. He was given the title of "Public Rat No. 1," and he probably earned it. Vandenbush was handy with a gun; he had the nerve required to plan and carry out bank robberies. He was interested only in big hauls, and he was smart enough to get away—always.

Special squads of G-men were assigned to his case, and a good many detectives and policemen had worked on it, but they had no word of him until another bank had been robbed.

Vandenbush operated on a bank just a few days ago in approved style. With a revolver he chased five people into a vault, shut the door and then scooped up $17,000 cash and went off in a car.

Less than half an hour after when he stopped at some small place a "country cop" came along, reached in and pulled Vandenbush out. Then he kept his strong hands on him until he landed him in jail. Apparently arresting this notorious man was just as much a matter of routine as taking in the villager who had broken some minor law or regulation. The much-heralded G-men will have something to think over for a few days.

As It Was on the Tenth

When the sap season used to be on things seemed different on the Tenth Concession. It was different from all the other chores that had to be done every day in the year; different to using the scythe in the corners of the rail fence and in the orchard where they couldn't run the mower; different to driving the stone boat up and down the lane to pick up the whey cans from the cheese factory; it was different all through.

Even when they were boiling late at night no one seemed to mind; even if it did take four gallons of sap to make a pint of syrup no person seemed to mind.

The one thing strange about it was that the folk who lived in the village always got concerned about our health about that time of year. There was always plenty of days and weeks when the roads were a lot better, but they never seemed to be concerned then. Concern always registered the high point about the time we got some boiling down done, and then they all got concerned. That's what they always said when they drove up the lane and came in at the side door to the kitchen. They had been wondering how we were; they hadn't seen us lately or heard tell of us, so they had just concluded it was time to come and see if all was well.

It never did seem necessary to inform these people the folks on Lot 4, Concession Ten, were tolerably busy with tapping trees and boiling down and getting the wet boots dried out enough in the kitchen oven to start the next day's work. Always they would bring the conversation around to that topic. They wanted to know all about it; seemed as deeply concerned about the maple syrup business as they said they had been about our health. They never came to the point of saying bluntly they had come out to lug some home, but they came so close to it that you couldn't pass the blade of a hoe through the space that was left.

And then when it got to the point where it was suggested they might like to try a little of the syrup it always turned out they had a sealer in the back of the buggy. It had been there for some time and they just suddenly remembered its existence. Funny too, when they went and fetched it in it always looked shiny and newly-washed as though it had been brought out of the fruit cellar just before they left the village and headed toward the Tenth.

It was the same every year. If the sap season was a little backward then the concern about the health of the people living on the Tenth was delayed a little; it always became assertive just about the time when boiling down was well under way and before there had been a chance to sell off much of the sweet stuff. Then when the sealer had been filled why the business of being concerned about our health seemed to lapse until the following spring. In the meantime the folk would have to get along just as best they could without any kindly inquiries coming from the outside world.

Trying the Relief Diet

Twenty members of an Anglican group in Toronto intend to budget their food expenditures for a week according to the limits imposed by the relief schedule. They say that by so doing they will be able to get a better understanding of the problem of existence as faced by those on the relief lists. In the group will be a retired banker, a manufacturer, two clergymen, a lawyer, a clerk, and representatives of other lines of business.

The experiment will do the gentlemen no harm; it may increase their sympathies. But at best it will be only a partial experiment. They will know in advance that at the end of a certain period they can pass from the level of relief eating and go back to that to which they have been accustomed. They will also have none of the experience which comes from months of such living. Their utensils at home will not have been depleted through inability to replace them; their bedding and mattresses will be good, and there will be sufficient fuel in their homes to make certain they can use what they may need of it. Likewise their clothing will be sufficient regardless of the weather. They will make a mistake if they believe that getting something to eat is the one and only problem of the family on relief. The whole cycle of living and being clothed and being able to keep a home in some semblance of good order is involved.

But even the partial experiment will do them no harm. A bit of simplicity in diet may actually have a beneficial effect, and if it gives them a better understanding of how other people are living, then it will have served good purpose.

NOTE AND COMMENT

After all it does not matter just how March came in. The important thing is that it has come in.

Now and then some excellent news is stated in short space. Like this from Lindsay: The tax rate has been reduced to 45 mills, the lowest it has been in years.

Small personal gifts are to be admitted free into Canada under the Dunning budget. That gives a lot of time for the news to get circulated before next Christmas.

Finance Minister Dunning has sounded a warning against a return of the "get-rich-quick-spirit." Unfortunately advice of that kind never seems to reach the ears for which it is intended.

Hon. Peter Heenan made a speech in Toronto the other night in which he condemned the sit-down strike system. He practically said that the Canadian people would not stand for it.

They call the cells where prisoners are given solitary confinement "dissociation" cells now, but they are undoubtedly just as lonely as when they were known as the "hole."

The best feature about this home improvement idea is that every job undertaken not only improves somebody's home but also improves other folks' chances of getting work.

Tourists spent 24 per cent. more in Canada last year than in 1935, and the prospects are that the current year will see even a greater increase. That should help materially to speed up the march to prosperity.

There are fourteen different religious beliefs represented in the Alberta government. We are inclined toward the belief that in the field of religious beliefs was where over-production first got its start.

Toronto Minister has opened a marriage class with 35 members and he starts off on the right path by telling them not to look forward to an easy time in marriage. It does not seem necessary to say he is not a bachelor.

They are complaining in Branford about the noise made by folk roller-skating on the pavements and it will have to be admitted that is a novel kick to her heard in an Ontario city during a winter month.

There is reason to rejoice that the British market for Canadian bacon, hams, beef and dairy products is to be retained. It has meant much to this country during the last five years when other markets were closed.

Miss Halldorson, Manitoba's Social Credit woman member, says any proposal which offers a solution should be approached with open minds. We cannot say that we have detected many signs of open-mindedness in the Social Credit advocates we have heard, for they invariably claim their policy as the only way out.

WEE ANGUS

(By A. R. K.)

¶ The hound Wee Angus owns just now, is filling out in stern and prow, he does not look the same; the hollow spots have all but fled, he's showing for the way he's fed, there's lard upon his frame.

¶ I've read in books on dogs I know, that feeding should progress quite slow, a dog should run and play; and one place said you should take heed and get your dog so he would feed, just one good meal a day.

¶ The hound eats mush and he eats bread, he eats before he goes to bed, he eats at break of day; and he eats spuds and turnips too, and laps up gravy with his stew, I think he'd eat baled hay.

¶ And he'll eat pie and also cake, it never seems to make him ache, and he'll take bits of egg; and when he cleans up on a bone, I think if he was there alone, he'd eat the table leg.

¶ When morning comes he eats too soon, he's looking for some more by noon, he never gets enough; I marvel when I see his size, it fills me full of strange surprise, just where he puts the stuff.

¶ Wee Angus says his fat won't stay, if he has just one meal a day, he says he's looking fine; he says for years his life was tough, and never did he get enough—he's making up lost time.

Our Statesmen At Their Labors

(From Parliamentary Debates)

LET ME TELL YOU

Mr. LENNARD: How many temporary employees were taken on in Hamilton during the Christmas and New Year rush?

Mr. ELLIOTT (Middlesex): I cannot answer directly, but I could get the information from the postmaster at Hamilton. Probably there will be returns in the office here in Ottawa.

Mr. LENNARD: And the number of returned men?

Mr. ELLIOTT (Middlesex): Yes; I should be glad to get the information and send it to the hon. member.

Mr. LENNARD: Would the minister tell me the number of postal notes or post office orders issued on Christmas day in Hamilton? I can furnish the information, if he does not have it.

Mr. ELLIOTT (Middlesex): Then I wonder why the hon. member asks me.

Mr. LENNARD: I was wondering whether the minister knew.

Mr. ELLIOTT (Middlesex): No.

Mr. LENNARD: As we are aware, Hamilton post office was open Christmas day. I would suppose the wicket at which the postal notes would be handed out would be attended by possibly two employees. The fact is that only one postal note was issued, and that about five o'clock Christmas afternoon.

CHANGED HIS SEAT

Mr. GRAYDON: Mr. Chairman—

Mr. LENNARD: Mr. Chairman—

The CHAIRMAN: The hon. member for Peel has the floor.

Mr. LENNARD: On a point of order, Mr. Chairman, the hon. member who was given the floor is not speaking from his proper seat in this house.

The CHAIRMAN: The point of order is not well taken in committee.

Mr. GRAYDON: Mr. Chairman, I came down to this seat from the back benches with the idea of finding out whether there was anything in the suggestion made by the hon. member for Parkdale (Mr. Spence) with respect to being noticed by the chair when one desires to ask a question. After sitting here a moment or so I have a suggestion to make. I believe money would be well spent to provide rear-vision mirrors for hon. members sitting in the front seats, so that they will have an opportunity of seeing those on the rear benches who have stood up and wish to speak. Seriously, I should like to learn from the minister whether or not the advertising done by the Post Office Department to avoid a Christmas rush of mail has had the effect of equalizing the traffic. If not, at what time during the Christmas season does the peak load come?

Mr. ELLIOTT (Middlesex): My advice is that for years advertising has been carried on urging all persons sending extra mail to mail it as early as possible. Apparently in Canada we have not yet formed the habit of mailing early, as it is done in the old country. I am told the campaign over there has succeeded much better than has the one in Canada. I believe, however, that, in view of the large amount of mail handled, the advertising did some good last Christmas. I cannot express too strongly the wisdom of mailing as early as possible.

ALL OUT OF ORDER!

Mr. WOODSWORTH: Quite so; I referred to that to-night.

Mr. ELLIOTT (Middlesex): I take it now that the hon. member is entirely in accord with Saturday afternoon deliveries.

Mr. WOODSWORTH: No; I have always said, if I may say—

Mr. GRAY: Just like the defence estimates.

Mr. WOODSWORTH: I do not know why we have to have interruptions of this kind that are absolutely irrelevant even if they come from the chief whip.

Mr. LAPOINTE (Quebec East): An army man.

Mr. WOODSWORTH: If you are going to permit the defence debate to be continued to-night, I am quite willing we should go into it.

Mr. JACOBS: No, no.

Mr. WOODSWORTH: We were told the other day we were wasting time when we were considering an expenditure of $35,000,000, one which might involve this country in war—

Some hon. MEMBERS: Order.

Mr. WOODSWORTH: We were told we were wasting time.

Mr. LAPOINTE (Quebec East): Keep smiling.

The CHAIRMAN: The hon. member for Winnipeg North Centre is out of order in referring to a past debate.

Mr. WOODSWORTH: Quite so.

Mr. LAPOINTE (Quebec East): Keep smiling.

Mr. WOODSWORTH: But the chief whip of the Liberal party referred to a past debate before I did.

Mr. MACKENZIE (Vancouver): He was out of order too.

The CHAIRMAN: Any hon. member of the committee who, in this discussion, refers to a past debate is out of order.

Mr. WOODSWORTH: Quite so. The chairman did not call him to order but he did call me to order.

The CHAIRMAN: I did not hear him.

Mr. WOODSWORTH: The chairman never hears, when it is on the Liberal side.

The CHAIRMAN: That is a reflection on the chair, and I want it withdrawn.

Mr. WOODSWORTH: I will call it, Mr. Chairman.

The CHAIRMAN: Does the hon. member withdraw.

Mr. WOODSWORTH: I withdraw it. If you will permit me, Mr. Chairman, to come back to the question we are discussing—

Some hon. MEMBERS: Hear, hear.

MODERNITY, AS OF OLD

(Sault Ste. Marie Star)

Modernity seems to be displaying itself in large size magazines which require a suit case to carry them in, and in a wide diffusion of pocket size magazines. And in a large number of in between sizes as of old.

RADIO MUSIC

Editor Examiner,

Sir: So far from the work of great composers being dead thousands increasing yearly maintain the Philharmonic orchestras, the pride of all the great cities. Apart from instrumental music, violin, piano and organ, and sometimes a vocalist like Marion Talley or Helen Traubel, many people like this writer would feel better without any radio in the house.

Crooners, the moaning blues, and tom-tom beating jazz are merely nerve-wrecking disturbances. News and general information can be got better from papers, books and magazines, with the extra advantage that the advertising which is of no special interest to you is not quite so intrusive.

A. J.

Peterborough, Feb. 27.

TODAY'S NEED

Editor Examiner,

Sir: I have read with careful interest several recently published letters referring to Kirma. The first was that of G. A. Chambers, secondly that of Kirma in reply. The first mentioned, I find on inquiring was really intended to be printed before Kirma left town but not knowing exactly the correct time of publication, was too late. Kirma's reply was in his case, under the circumstances, justified. The other two letters were not definite to be interesting to myself at least.

Judging by observation, I do not think the writer of the first letter particularly condemned any one church, but was perhaps over zealous in his remarks; a little bit more compassion and love and not quite so much flavor of dictatorship might have appealed better. But reading it carefully, I think it was more of a challenge than thoughts of criticism. I cannot help thinking that, by the tone of the other two letters, there is more or less prejudice against the first writer, Mr. G. A. Chambers. Thank God our country still stands for freedom to voice our religious beliefs. As a resident of this city for nearly 30 years, I am in sympathy with any religious movement that is trying to build up righteousness, support the "Faith of our Fathers" and helping in any way to benefit our city. I for one have no prejudice against the Pentecostal Church. It's members I notice are respectable and good citizens, with whom we are all pretty well aquainted and I notice they are a self supporting church and have also helped considerably with the relief fund. Certainly God's blessing must be upon them or they would not have prospered as they have during the 6 years of depression that has been ours. I notice that G. A. Chambers name is not included in the Ministerial Association, but unity does not always imply strength, as we can readily see by results in the business and political world. One loses their identity and freedom sometimes. What we need in each of our churches today is a real old fashioned revival of conviction and soul saving power, that shall turn many to righteousness.

AN OLD FASHIONED CITIZEN C.S.C.

Peterborough, Feb. 27.

THE SEASON COMES

Editor Examiner, Sir:

Again draws near those days so dear, when springtime fair is blushing, and from our throats the cheery notes will merrily come gushing. With gust and pep and lusty step 'mid honkers loudly roaring, we'll tread the street with softened feet in graceful motions soaring.

We'll try to stand in poses grand to beautify our diving, into the slush, while on the plush the noble ginks are driving. Petitions sort will be our sport, as slowly we're progressing, for we will fain to ever deign to give those ginks our blessing.

And as we go aback and fro, they always will be dashing, with goofy grin above the chin to cheer the folk they're splashing. The nifty whelp will rear and yelp when they succeed in soiling, the apotless dudes and haughty prudes and those who live by toiling.

The silly ginks must have some kinks somewhere within their noodle, cause every bit of their fool wit don't make a hefty boodle; and if we nudge them fore a judge they'll pick up pert and haughty, then lie and whine to save a fine for cutting up so naughty.

So on we'll glide and slip and slide to wend our way to kither, and hum a beat the while our feet will stish and slush and slither. And loud we'll croon a merry tune and e'er be gay and jokin', and raise the note each time our coat will catch another soakin.'

And as they need to show their speed so we will think they're snappy, we wish them well, where'er they dwell, for making us so happy; and from above would shower love upon our naughty brothers, because we know they're proud to show, they have no heed of others.

GROUCHY GUS

Canada Is the Iron Land.

(From the Sault Ste. Marie Star.)

IF THERE were not now a "Hepburn" post office in Canada, this would be a very appropriate name for the new iron mining town soon to be born at the Helen Mine. The name of the man whose courage is going to give Algoma district probably its second largest community deserves to be linked with the new development which promises to grow with the years into major importance to Ontario.

Algoma amply appreciates the pronounced friendship of Mr. Hepburn. It is a fact that Canadians who have become a little nervous about the possibility that our present imports of iron ore might conceivably be interfered with under the new U.S. neutrality law, even if there were not signs that the Minnesota deposits were not inexhaustible.

Mr. Hepburn's move will tend to drive home the fact that Canada is the Iron Land, with enough of the ore to supply the world indefinitely. For hundreds of miles this province is dowered with iron formation. It is stated that in one of a dozen ranges in the Algoma Forest Reserve, the diamond drill has proved up literally billions of tons.

Our siderite ore is described variously as "low grade" which it is not, or "complex" which gives a rather foggy idea of the composition, but perhaps it is best described as requiring treatment or beneficiation before being suitable for blast furnace use.

The process of "beneficiation" is nothing new. It has been perfected and there is no guesswork about it. Over in Minnesota many of these plants have been working efficiently for many years. Algoma is merely adopting a process that is sure and certain in its results, and of which the costs are definitely known.

Perhaps when everything is ready at the Helen Mine, for active operations it might be well to have Mr. Hepburn up to turn on the power, or pull the box for the first blast, or at any rate to give us his blessing on the spot. As a good deal of the ore there is "above grade"—that is it will only be necessary to let it roll down into cars—the job will not take so long to get into production.

And then we mustn't forget Ontario's first iron hunter and founder Mr. Francis Hector Clergue.

THOSE RUMORS.

(Chatham News)

YESTERDAY Apparently was a day of rumors in Chatham. Early in the morning it was currently reported that a prominent citizen had passed away. Inquiries began to pour in through The Daily News telephone. Before press-time another prominent citizen's name was connected with the rumor. That made two—and we don't know how many more.

Fortunately we were able to deny both rumors verbally to all inquirers; but the public denial of such rumors is not the most pleasant thing; for men usually object to having their names published in connection with such stories—even a note saying they are not true.

It would be interesting to know how such rumors start. Also it would be a satisfaction to report the prosecution of persons originally responsible for them. They may have been caused by an innocent chance remark—a careless statement—or even an evil thought from a designing mind—but no matter how they start they usually cause considerable worry and anxiety; and the loss of valuable time in newspaper offices.

Hard to Believe How Time Flies

1907 Peterborough Lumber Company has bought 2,500,000 feet of timber from the Rathbun Company and it will be run down Bell's and Jack's Creeks this spring.

In a fire drill test the Central School was emptied of its pupils in 90 seconds.

Richard Lees, designer at the Auburn Woollen Mills who is leaving for Boston to reside, is presented with a watch chain as a banquet in the White House.

Frank Montgomery of Parry Sound has bought the Phelan House for $14,000.

1917 National service cards giving the names of local young men eligible for enlistment have been sent to Lieut.-Col. C. H. Ackerman of the 247th Battalion.

The city's banking account was transferred today from the Bank of Montreal to the Bank of Toronto.

Rev. Dr. Langrelds formerly of Peterborough has been elected president of the Bettleford Ministerial Association.

Walter Peters, weather observer reports thirteen days below zero in February with the thermometer dropping to 20 below on three occasions.

1927 Mayor Holloway is appointed chairman and F. H. Dobbin secretary of the citizens committee to arrange for the local celebration of Canada's Diamond Jubilee.

Francis Sutton formerly organist at the Murray St. Baptist Church has been successful in securing the degree of A.C.C.O.

The attendance at the local public schools in February was below the average because of an outbreak of German measles.

NORTHLAND WEATHER.

(Timmins Advance)

ON A number of occasions the Advance has suggested that North land Winters are so gracious and delightful that the day will surely come when people in the South will be coming up here to escape the abominable weather they have to endure during such months as December, January and February.

Probably the most attractive thing about North Land Winters is the remarkable variety. In one day here all the varieties of weather in the globe may be enjoyed. There is no about North Land weather. "Spring is here!" said a man on Saturday as he entered a local store to make some purchases. "Heavens," he exclaimed as he left the store for home, "it's another Winter!" Maybe tomorrow will be Summer here!

To appreciate Northern weather a man or woman has to live through 20 or 30 of them.

PENALTY OF GREED.

(Kitchener Record)

A NEWS STORY from a Michigan paper provides another bit of evidence of human folly.

Five men had good jobs in a county office. A slick-tongued young man came along and told them that, for $50 from each, he could get them better jobs with the State. They immediately quit their jobs, put up their $250 and waited. And waited. The glib job salesman vanished, leaving them minus the money and their jobs.

These unfortunate men, and thousands of other people who have been victimized by swindlers, would have done well to remember and heed the moral of a tale written by a sage of long ago.

The parable told of a dog which, with a big, juicy bone in his mouth, was crossing a bridge, and noticed his reflection in the water. Seeing this other dog with what appeared a bigger bone, he opened his mouth to seize it, and dropped his own in the water.

NO PERFECT CRIME.

(Detroit Free Press)

A MAN went to the electric chair in Pennsylvania this week for the murder of a young woman in 1927. Conscience and a brown overcoat button betrayed him.

At the time of the murder the button was picked up by a detective near the disrobed body of the victim.

All attempts to discover its owner failed and the case became another unsolved mystery.

About a year ago a second woman was attacked and slain near the same spot.

The similarity of the two crimes recalled the brown button.

The police learned that a man had been frequently seen in the vicinity, apparently searching for something.

They arrested him, showed him the button and he had been looking for, and he fainted, then confessed.

The "perfect crime" seems still to be a fiction of the criminal imagination.

A Bit of Nonsense

Incorrigible

The old stranger shuffled into the country inn.

"Sixty-two years ago," he said, "I left this place a penniless boy with no prospects. All I had was five dollars, lent me by my schoolfellow, Burrows—I suppose Burrows is dead?"

"That he isn't!" cried an aged voice, "I'm Jack Burrows, and let me be the first to welcome you back rich and famous to your old home."

All the villagers cheered.

"I'm wondering," said the returned native, "if you could lend me another five dollars."

VIVIAN MACMILLAN AWARDED $10,000 IN SEDUCTION CASE

tion took place from October, 1930, onward.

Miss MacMillan was the daughter of Allan D. MacMillan of Edson, Alta., an assistant locomotive foreman. At the trial evidence was adduced to the effect that Premier Brownlee met Miss MacMillan on a visit to Edson and persuaded her to go to Edmonton, where she took a business course and accepted a position with the Alberta Government.

From time to time, according to Miss MacMillan's story, the Premier took her motoring on country roads and seduced her. Further sexual intercourse took place in the Premier's home in which she was made welcome by Mrs. Brownlee and treated as a member of the family.

Had To Give Up Position.

She claimed she became ill as a result of the alleged relations and the physical strain and worry caused by them, had to give up her position and return to Edson.

At the trial Miss MacMillan and her father sued jointly, claiming unstated damages. The hearing lasted from June 25 to 30, 1934, and the jury returned a verdict awarding $10,000 to Miss MacMillan and $5,000 to her father.

Mr. Justice Ives reserved his judgment after telling the jury he strongly disagreed with their findings. Later he gave a written judgment dismissing the action with costs on the ground damage of the character required by the law, loss of service, had not been proved.

The first appeal to the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court of Alberta was dismissed with costs, two judges dissenting. In the appeal to the Supreme Court of Canada, the father dropped out of the action, and the decision is made of the verdict for $5,000 in his favor.

BRITAIN, EUROPE COUNT 19 VICTIMS OF ROARING GALE

Drifts Pile 20 Feet Deep In Sections Of Homeland, Isolating Many Towns

98-MILE AN HOUR WIND

LONDON, March 1 (AP).—At least 19 persons were dead today as one of the worst storms in recent years lashed the British Isles, the coast of Western Europe and North Africa.

A roaring gale reached 98 miles an hour at Holyhead, North Wales, and at numerous other points was greater than hurricane force of 75 miles an hour.

The death toll in Britain reached 12 over the week-end, in most of the fatalities resulting from exposure and exhaustion. Snow drifted 20 feet deep in some sections, halting transportation and communications, and isolating many villages.

English Channel steamers were delayed as much as five hours, while snow and high winds drove across England and Northern France.

Three men were killed at Brest in a quarry landslide loosened by continuous rain and snow. River transportation between Paris and Rouen was suspended as the flooded Seine continued to rise.

Important tributaries of the Seine had begun to fall, however, and it was hoped the crest of the flood, well below the record high, would be reached Tuesday.

At the height of the storm, a section of the Dover Cliffs, estimated at 3,000 tons, broke loose and crashed down on to a closed factory. There were no casualties.

Woolworth Girls Enter Detroit Picture Centre Of Auto Mediations

CHICAGO, March 1. — Uncompromising demands by disputants concealed efforts to solve labor disputes today as fresh discord developed in scattered parts of the United States.

Relatively little headway was made by mediators who sought to effect an amicable adjustment between employee and employer.

Detroit, its major motor corporations involved in negotiations with United Automobile Workers of America representatives, became a focal point of industrial unrest with the F.W. Woolworth Company drawn into the picture.

Saleagirls, demanding wage and hour concessions, remained in a Woolworth store as officials temporarily abandoned their avowed intention of closing all their stores in the Detroit area.

Operations were to resume at the Douglas Aircraft plant at Santa Monica, Calif., after a six-day suspension caused by an "sit-down" strike of 300 employees. Company officers predicted 2,000 employees would return to work. U.A.W.A. leaders reported more than 1,000 had signed for picket duty, but promised there would be no disorder.

A strike at the Fisher Body and Chevrolet plants in Janesville, Wis., presaged a longer conference between General Motors Corp. and U.A.W.A. leaders than they had anticipated.

W. F. NICKLE BEGINS CROSLEY'S DEFENCE

Claims Negro Insane Or So Under Drugs He Didn't Know What He Was Doing

KINGSTON, Ont., March 1 (C.P.).—Prosecution of Convict Chester Crosley, charged with the murder of Guard John McCormick at the Kingston Penitentiary, was finished to-day and a start on the defence was made.

The conclusion of the prosecution's case came abruptly when C. L. Snyder, K.C., Crown prosecutor, told Justice Keller Mackay that during the week-end he came to the conclusion that there was sufficient evidence produced for the Crown.

W. F. Nickle, K.C., said that the defence is Crosley was insane or so under the influence of drugs that he did not know what he was doing or appreciate the nature and quality of the act.

Convict J. Burrle was the first witness called for the defence. He said he was in the cell three cells from that of Convict Crosley. On the night of July 10 Crosley created a disturbance, calling for the guards, demanding drugs and screaming. The accused was claiming there were snakes in the bed and that someone was trying to shoot him. Witness saw the accused before he went for breakfast on the morning of July 11. He saw Crosley as the latter was going to the hospital and the accused was staggering and weaving from side to side. Witness said he had watched Crosley while he took a "shot in the arm."

Saw Only One Shot.

To Mr. Snyder, however, the convict said he only saw Crosley take a "shot" once.

Convict Shea also said he saw Crosley on the morning of the alleged stabbing and that Crosley seemed to be stumbling as he went to the hospital. He said Crosley was considered as queer by the other convicts, but he never heard him threaten any other convict.

The accused had taken very hard the "turn down" on his application for reduction of sentence.

Convict Baines also told of the noise Crosley made the night before the stabbing and of Crosley's condition in the morning. Convict Jackson said Crosley was of a very nervous disposition and that he had seen him taking injections in the arm. He said Crosley used a lighter to "cook up" the pills. Crosley was a different man after taking the "shots." He would put on a song and dance and stage a "broadcast."

ROYAL TREASURES TO GO ON EXHIBIT

Date Back 400 Years—Proceeds To Aid Westminster Hospital Building Fund

LONDON, March 1. — (CP) —A special attraction in London during Coronation time will be an exhibition of the intimate possessions of Royalty in Europe during the last 400 years. The Royal Treasures Exhibition will be open from April 12 to May 15, and possibly longer, in aid of the Westminster Hospital Rebuilding Fund.

Organizers of the exhibition, under the chairmanship of Lord Rennell, believe they will be able to assemble in eight or nine large rooms a collection of pictures, furniture, costumes, jewels and "personalia" together with an explanatory catalogue, such as has never been seen before.

Many articles have already been offered for inclusion and numerous sub-committees are busy making selections. The collection will be greatly varied: a pair of Queen Anne Boleyn's pink slippers; a vest of the robe, cape and mittens worn by the Baby Queen Elizabeth at her christening; a New Testament covered with silver-corded needlework bound with sequins given by Queen Elizabeth to her cup-bearer, Sir Francis Kynaston; relics of Charles I; needlework done by Mary Queen of Scots; an unusual clock made for Cardinal Henry Benedict; Royal portraits by Vandyck, Gainsborough and Reynolds; a lock of Napoleon's hair; and christening robe of Catharine of Russia.

ROTARIANS HEAR UNUSUAL FACTS ABOUT DOMINION

Robert J. C. Stead Deals Interestingly With Canadian History And Geography

TALKS ON "OUR HERITAGE"

Many unusual facts about Canada were pointed out for the benefit of Peterborough Rotarians by Rotarian Robert J. C. Stead, of Ottawa, in addressing the weekly luncheon of the Peterborough Rotary club today on the subject "Our Heritage." Mr. Stead, well known author, is superintendent of publicity and information for the Department of Mines and Resources and his talk was full of information of Canada's geography and history seen from a view point that was new to most of his hearers.

Introduced by Rotarian Rev. Dr. Barr, Rotarian Stead referred to a questionnaire that had been sent out by an American university to a number of high school students in the United States asking them questions about Canada and to a group of Canadian high students asking them similar questions about the United States. Some of the American replies were read by the speaker who said that the test showed that the Canadian students knew more about the United States than the American pupils knew about Canada. This was generally true he submitted and was easily accounted for by the fact that American newspapers and magazines had a wide circulation in Canada while Canadian publications had comparatively none across the border, that the American radio outweighed Canadian broadcasting and that Canadians in proportion to population did more travelling in the United States than American citizens did in the Dominion.

Travel Three Times As Much

As a matter of fact Canadians he said did three times as much travelling across the border as United States people did here, incidentally and contrary to the general opinion Canadian capital was invested in the United States, on a per capita basis, to a greater extent than American money was invested here. The figures showed there was $116 in Canadian money invested in the United States per head of population as compared with $33 of American money invested here. The fact was Mr. Stead pointed out that Canadians knew a great deal about the United States and he sometimes wondered if they knew as much about their own country.

In this connection the speaker gave a brief sketch of Canadian history, in the course of which he showed that the battle of Quebec from the viewpoint of results was one of the most important in the history of the world, having its effect not only on Canada but on the country to the south for there had been no talk of rebellion there so long as Canada was held by the French and therefore had been a refuge along the border of the colonies to the south.

Unusual Data.

Mr. Stead then gave some unusual data about Canada's geography pointing out that most of Canada's population lived south of the 49th parallel, that Winnipeg was in the same latitude as Berlin, and Edmonton in the same latitude as Edinburgh, that seventeen American states were north of the southern part of Canada and that the southernmost tip of Canada was in line with the northern boundary of California. He referred to the earlier industries of Canada, fur-trading and fishing and traced the development of mining and agriculture.

Finally the speaker dealt with Canada's national parks which were he reminded his hearers as much their property as were their own homes. He had found that many Canadians who had travelled extensively in various parts of the world had never even seen the national parks in their own country.

As a fitting conclusion to a very fine address Rotarian Stead quoted Kipling's lines "Fair is our lot, oh goodly is our heritage."

In expressing the thanks of the club to the speaker for his interesting talk Rotarian Rev. Dr. C. V. McLean voiced appreciation of the assistance given by J. J. Duffus M.P. in securing Mr. Stead for today's luncheon.

Today was President Graham's birthday and the club honored the occasion with songs and cheers for the popular chairman. Incidentally the fact that he has become a grandfather within the last few days was recognized by a suitable presentation, a very useful gift, the honors being done by Rotarians Ross Dobbin and Jack Seela.

KIDNAPPED BABY FOUND MURDERED, NUDE IN PIG PEN

Two-Year-Old Heir To Great Argentine Cattle Estate Abducted From Lawn Wednesday

PEON ONLY SUSPECT

LA PLATA, Argentina, March 1 (AP).—Baby Eugenio Ferrera Iraola, kidnapped son of great Argentine wealth, has been found dead, police announced Saturday. An uncle of the blue-eyed, two-year-old boy confirmed the police announcement.

He said the baby had been found, completely unclothed, in a pig pen in an outlying part of his parents' estate. A Peon found the body.

Eugenio, the chubby son of Simon Ferrera Iraola, wealthy sportsman and horse breeder, and the heir to baronial cattle wealth, vanished from the lawn of the vast "Estancia" on Wednesday afternoon.

An aroused countryside hunted him day and night.

The part of the Estancia where his body was found is about a mile and a half from the Ferrera Iraola residence, and is a section devoted to hog-breeding.

Cuts On Head And Leg.

The body, bearing a scalp wound and a cut on one leg, was believed to have been killed Thursday, the day after he was kidnapped. The chubby arms were crossed over the chest. The clothing was not found.

A Laconic communique from Provincial police gave no theories as to who carried the boy away from the flower-bordered garden of the Estancia while the baby's mother left his side to greet her husband, a wealthy sportsman and horse fancier, upon his return from another of his ranches.

But it was known the police, at first believing remnants of the kidnap band of the late "Pibe Cabesa"—"Baby Face"—might be responsible, had inclined to the theory the abduction was the work of a moral outcast.

One wandering Peon, who vanished from the Estancia environs about the same time the baby disappeared, was pled anew with questions.

number of items in the customs tariff in which she has undertaken to continue until 1940 the existing margin of preference for Great Britain.

This government members probably will contend, will give Canada greater bargaining power in trade negotiations with foreign countries. Already there have been rumors that a new trade agreement with the United States may be worked out as a result.

The lack of changes in taxation will no doubt tend to abbreviate the budget debate, but it is always one of the most important subjects for contention in parliament and many expressions of opinion from all parties in the House will be heard before it is concluded.

On Monday the House is expected to consider amendments to the combines act to return administration to the labor department and to appoint a combines commissioner. At present it is administered under the trade and industry commission which reports direct to the prime minister.

Another government measure, to bring blind persons within the old age pensions act at an earlier age period than the 70 years applying to others will also come before the House Monday.

A full-dress debate is expected this session on constitutional questions arising from the privy council judicial committee judgments on constitutionality of the Bennett social reform laws sent to it after expressions of opinion had been obtained from the Supreme Court.

It was said in some quarters that the judgments raised a doubt as to whether Canada's nationhood guarantees under the statute of Westminister were as airtight as it was believed when the statute was drafted.

BRITISH MOVIES REORGANIZE

LONDON, March 1—(C.P.)—The British motion picture industry started a raid on North American box office receipts today as the basis for its financial comeback campaign.

Declaring they were ready to compete with Hollywood on quality—and eventually on quantity—the newly-organized combine of Gaumont British Pictures, Ltd., and General Films Distributors looked to the quarters and half dollars of North American theatre-goers to pull them out of the doldrums.

union representatives in Toronto Tuesday. He said plans made for the strike this morning could not be altered.

Union demands are:

1.—A 44-hour week with an eight-hour day and four on Saturday for all employees.

2.—Fifty cents an hour for skilled men, 43 cents for semi-skilled, and 36 for unskilled. These are minimum rates.

3.—Boys under 21 to start at 20 cents an hour and receive an increase of three cents an hour each year; there shall not be more than 30 per cent. of boys in the entire factory staff.

4.—All the time worked outside of regular hours to be paid for at time-and-a-half.

The Firms' Offers

During the Toronto conference manufacturers were reported to have offered 32 cents an hour as a minimum and an average wage of 36 cents an hour covering the entire payroll for the zone including Stratford. A minimum of 31 cents or an average of 37 were offered for the northern zone, including Owen Sound and small centres in that district.

Union officials want the zone system eliminated and refuse to accept an average rate. They demanded the workers be graded as skilled, semi-skilled and unskilled.

It was stated by the union heads the McLagan Furniture Company in Stratford was the only plant where the strike has been called paying the code level of wages. The average wage in this firm is slightly above 41 cents an hour, three cents above the average offered by the manufacturers.

Following the meeting's decision here, employees of the Schmidt Furniture Company in Preston and the Hespeler Furniture Company gathered in special meeting and voted to remain at work. After hearing reports from their representatives at the meeting in Stratford, the men decided to delay action pending further conferences between workers and employers.

William Masill, living in a house nearby, heard the crash and found Captain Black had been thrown out of the right door and was lying in some slush. Flight Lieut. Minnes was unconscious and still in the car.

First Appeal of Kind.

The Premier's dramatic announcement was made as a result of a decision of the Social Credit caucus which preceded the opening of the session. It was understood he insisted on making it and persuaded his followers after a long discussion.

It was probably the only appeal of its kind in Canadian political history—the leader of a government, firmly entrenched in power, asking the men and women who elected him whether he should resign because an election pledge had not been redeemed.

JUNIOR FARMERS SHORT COURSE MOST SUCCESSFUL

Record Attendance Present At Many Of Afternoon Meetings

CLOSED ON FRIDAY

Commenting on the short course in Agriculture and Home Economics held under auspices of the Ontario Department of Agriculture at Ennismore during the whole of the past month, and which concluded Friday afternoon, A. D. Runions, declared: "In many respects it was the most successful course we have ever had in this county."

While the regular attendance was not as high as at some previous courses of a similar nature, Mr. Runions remarked there had been some particularly splendid afternoon meetings with record attendances of farmers from Ennismore and the surrounding countryside in which place the courses were staged.

Features of the afternoon work were the livestock judging and the judging of bacon hogs at the farm of John P. Young; the judging of Holstein cattle and Percheron horses at the farm of W. J. Scollard; the judging of Holsteins at the farm of Mann Brothers; Tom Smith and the judging of Shorthorns and agricultural horses at the farm of W. D. Cavanaugh.

Another popular feature of the course was the trip into Peterborough in the closing week of the course, when the young farmers and farmerettes were taken on a conducted tour of some of the city's leading industries.

At the closing exercises on Friday afternoon the classes put on a splendid program of entertainment with Miss E. Grough in the chair. Community singing was led by Miss Ethel Rivington of Navan, while there was a reading by Miss Lillian Hennessey; a mock trial by the boys' class; a posture demonstration by members of the girls' class together with a dress parade; and a class paper by Ralph Hanbidge and Frances Hennessey.

The Rev. V. J. Gillogly, parish priest of Ennismore and Reeve James Gifford both spoke briefly as also did the staff. Refreshments were served at the close of the program.

"Abide With Me,' and the choir rendered "Face to face with Christ my Saviour," as well as "Peace, Perfect Peace" as the cortege left the church.

Interment took place in Marmora protestant Cemetery, and following the committal, Wor. Bro. Cecil Bateman, Master of Springbrook L.O.L. 442 and Wor. Bro. W. J. Cottrell, Peel County Master, were in charge of the last rites of the Order. Visiting brethren from L.O.L. 442 and Nickle L.O.L. 265 attended the funeral.

Pall-bearers were W. R. Linn, T. Warren, T. Quackenbush, W. Wright, L. E. Neal, and A. T. Neal.

Nations Of World Must Learn To Conform To Golden Rule Or Perish, Open Forum Told

World Peace Conference Of Engineers And Economists Instead Of Politicians Urged

MUCH DISINTEREST

A world peace conference of engineers and economists instead of politicians was urged by P. J. Rowe, member of parliament for Athabasca, Alberta, in an address to the Open Forum in George Street United Church Sunday afternoon. Peace conferences up to the present have failed as the conferences have not had regard for the fundamental cause of war, the distribution of the world's resources, he said.

"Let the economists and engineers make a complete survey to determine if the raw material supplies and the productive machinery of the various nations is sufficient to feed and clothe the populations," he suggested. "If the distribution of raw materials proves to be the cause of war, remove that cause by a redistribution of the world's resources."

Speaking on the subject "Security and Defence," Mr. Rowe said the old slogan of the world has been, "In times of peace prepare for war." This should be replaced by the slogan, "In times of peace establish peace so firmly it can never be attacked," he declared.

Widespread Disinterest

Under present social and economic conditions, there was a widespread disinterest in the matter of peace or war since great numbers of people in the various nations lack sufficient goods of the world to make peace mean anything to them. In London, England, there were 120,000 families living in one-room homes. They had nothing to fight for or defend so it was natural that they display a definite apathy.

The member of parliament said Great Britain is existing under the constant threat of high explosive, incendiary and gas bombs due to the ever-present possibility of war breaking out on a few minutes' notice. So fast are modern bombing airplanes that there is no practical defence against them, he said. As the purely defensive measure it is advertised to be, the present great British re-armament program is virus of no avail, he asserted. He said the power and water supply stations of London are confined to small areas and thus are highly vulnerable. With power and water cut off, great damage could be done to the great city by incendiary bombs.

All Leads To Jealousies

"The nations of the world must learn to conform to the Golden Rule or perish. "The struggle for favourable balances of trade and arms superiority and attempts of groups of nations to obtain a balance of power lead to jealousy, the sense of inferiority and desires for revenge."

Turning his attention to the influence of the armament industry on peace and war, he declared treacherous armament trusts backed simultaneously both the Allied and the Central Powers during the Great War. He asserted the Bank of England is at the present actively assisting in the rearmament of Germany.

Mr. Rowe suggested Peterborough people could do their bit for the cause of peace by forming a peace study club and helping to direct public opinion against war.

E. L. Gaskville, president, at the Open Forum and introduced Mr. Rowe.

BOILERS READY TO PUMP WATER

Danger Of Frazil Ice Been Serious At Pumping Plant

Steam has been kept up in the boilers of the steam plant at the Waterworks during the past month as a safeguard against the cutting off of Peterborough's water supply by frazil ice trouble, Utilities Manager Ross Dobbin reported to the Utilities Commission meeting. In the event of an interruption of the flow of water to the turbines which drive the city water pumps, the steam power is ready for use on short notice.

The danger of frazil ice has been a serious one this winter due to the fact waters of the river have been unprotected by the usual ice surface. Utilities workers have watched their thermometers closely fearing a sudden dip in the temperature would be sufficient to block the intakes to the turbines with ice.

On several occasions during the past months, the intake gates have been frozen but the flow has been uninterrupted and no recourse to steam power has yet been necessary.

The pumpage during January 1937 was 71,970,000 gallons as compared with 71,860,000 gallons during January 1936.

FLOOD VICTIMS EXPRESS THANKS FOR FOODSTUFFS

Cash Was Distributed To Small Communities In Flood-Stricken Area

START TO REBUILD

Official thanks from the headquarters of Kiwanis International at Chicago have been received by officers of Peterborough Kiwanis Club, and through local Kiwanians are extended to the people of Peterborough and district, for the car load of food and supplies that was sent from here recently for the relief of flood victims in the Ohio Valley.

Addressed to Secretary John A. McKone two letters signed by Fred C. W. Parker, secretary of Kiwanis International were read to members of the club at their weekly luncheon meeting by Archie B. Gates.

In requesting The Examiner to publish the letters, Mr. Gates declared local Kiwanians wish on behalf of themselves and Kiwanis International to extend deepest appreciation to the people of the city and district who contributed in such generous measure to the gratifying result that was attained.

"The wonderful story of how our Kiwanis clubs and others have responded to the challenge of the needs of flood sufferers can never, of course, be adequately told. Our clubs in the flood areas have done a most heroic and self-sacrificing work and clubs outside the flood areas have certainly been most generous in the forwarding of supplies and funds. We have been especially touched by the gifts of some of the Canadian clubs, and I heard promptly from the governor of the Ohio district concerning the carload of food and clothing which was sent from Peterborough to the Cincinnati Club," Mr. Parker states.

In expressing officially and personally his deep appreciation of the fine exemplification of the Kiwanis spirit as displayed by members of the local Kiwanis Club in the emergency, Mr. Parker declares that while the floods are subsiding the terrible part of the recovery is now apparent as communities seek to rehabilitate and rebuild. "After the great mass of the public has long forgotten the flood many of these sufferers will still be struggling to get their affairs in order and to get their homes and stores cleaned up from the terrible ravages of the dirty, muddy and oily waters."

Aided Two Communities.

It is interesting to note that the three hundred dollars in cash that was sent by the people of Peterborough and district in addition to the carload of supplies, was distributed to two of the smaller communities in the Ohio Valley which suffered seriously from the floods. These places were Lawrenceburg, Indiana, which received two hundred dollars, and Ripley, Ohio, which received the balance of one hundred dollars.

"Lawrenceburg probably suffered as seriously as any community proportionately to its number of homes and population," Mr. Parker writes. "It was just about completely inundated. Three hundred and seventy-five homes are seriously damaged and moved from their foundations. About another hundred have been damaged and until rehabilitated are unfit to live in. The secretary of that club lived in an outlying section that was higher so that he was one of the few whose homes were not damaged or destroyed. However, he did his full part for in his six-room house he took care of eighteen refugees, some sleeping in the cellar and four sleeping in a bed. This gives just a glimpse of conditions as they obtained in that town."

He intimates that the secretaries of the clubs to whom money and goods were allocated will acknowledge directly their own thanks.

FEBRUARY CUSTOMS INCREASED $23,351

Total However Represents Slight Decline From That Of January

Another noteworthy gain over 1936 was indicated in the customs and excise tax returns for Peterborough for February. The total was $124,164.62 as compared with $101,813.50 for February last year.

Last month's total was comprised of $88,776.36 excise tax collections $36,294.84, and sundry collections $103.75. The total represented an even more sensational increase over February, 1935, collections, which amounted to $78,570.86. At the same time it represented a slight decline from January this year, which saw a total of $134,515.76.

FOUR SKIERS GIVE NEW SKI JUMP ITS FIRST TESTS

Large Number Of Spectators Watch Boys Take The High Jump

PLENTY OF CAMERAS

Four local skiers gave the new ski jump its baptism on Sunday and provided a large gallery of spectators with a thrilling exhibition of skill and daring.

Early arrivals at the towering jump said it couldn't be done. They believed any skier who attempted the jump would be taking foolhardy chances. But Bob White, Jack Holland, Otto Laderach and Andy Rutter showed the doubters that it could be done.

Members of the Peterborough Ski Club worked hard, prior to the exhibition that was staged in the early afternoon, and carried load after load of snow to be packed down on the steep incline of the jump and on the take-off platform.

Taking the intermediate jump as the first of the skiers to try out the new ski jump, Bob White suffered a spill, but notwithstanding he later made the jump from the very top of the high trestle which is said to be 205 feet above the level of the river.

Jack Holland followed White off the intermediate jump and then the pair climbed higher to start a thrilling exhibition from the topmost platform. They were followed later by Laderach and Rutter.

The latter fell heavily while making one of his descents, and later experienced another spill when giving an exhibition of salom racing down the steep hillside. He was not seriously hurt, although he will have his arm in a sling for some days to come. Dr. O. R. Scott who attended him said the ligaments of Rutter's right arm were torn.

By mid-afternoon there was a large crowd of spectators, included among which was the biggest gang of camera enthusiasts seen locally in many a day. As the skiers flashed past in mid air or glided gracefully to a stop at the end of the run, batteries of movie and still cameras recorded their movements.

Weather conditions were all that the photographer could desire, and expensive miniatures predominated over the more cumbersome box or reflex type cameras.

Viewed from the level of the river the ski jump looks a difficult enough proposition for an experienced ski jumper with the stoutest nerves, but to appreciate more fully the skill and nerve required for such a jump necessitates a long, tedious climb to the topmost tower.

An optical illusion from this point of vantage, creates the impression that a skier who launches out into the space below could not help but hit the hydro wires, but actually there is all kinds of margin for safety.

One criticism of the layout that was heard most frequently was the fact that there is not a large enough "apron" or clearance at the bottom of the descent and the swift flowing river. When skidding to a stop on the very brink of the river one of the skier's shed a ski, which continued out into the water. It was retrieved with some difficulty.

All in all the first of the series of exhibition jumps off the new structure was a most thrilling spectacle, and is a forecaste of what might be expected when conditions from the skiers standpoint are more favorable.

MAIN COMMITTEE FOR IMPROVEMENT PLAN MEETS NEXT

Second Phase Of Campaign Will Be Surveyed Tuesday Night

SPLENDID BEGINNING

Organization work in the preliminary progress of the Home Improvement Plan in Peterborough has been a signal success.

The building contractors and carpenters rang the keynote to success with the biggest meeting of the week last Tuesday night, but properly it wasn't much ahead of the other groups.

The movement has gathered an early momentum from the city's tradesmen. They have appointed their representatives to the general advisory committee for the Peterborough district which is now in a position to proceed with the next phase of its campaign.

Friendly Atmosphere.

Incidentally and as a by-product of the meetings, men of the various trades have shown a fine spirit of co-operation which the effort deserves and the whole country desires. The friendly attitude of bank managers, and their expressed willingness to help tradesmen and home owners who are already applying for Home Improvement loans has been another encouraging feature.

As chairman of the committee, Roland Denne attended all the meetings in spite of a severe cold, and injected into the week's program his characteristic enthusiasm and his ability to get things moving.

The painters and decorators closed the week on Friday night with another splendid meeting and the presence of Harry B. Muir of Kingston, a member of the advisory committee for Ontario, added inspiration to those who have been carrying the bulk of the preparatory work.

Meeting on Tuesday.

The general committee is scheduled to meet on Tuesday, March 9, in the Chamber of Commerce to proceed with the expanding of plans for the next phase of the campaign. Meanwhile Mrs. (Dr.) C. M. Scott has started wheels in motion to carry the Home Improvement Plan message to the women of the city and district.

Frankly, the general committee is expecting a great deal of valuable help from the women, and Mrs. Scott is regarded as one of the key members. They are meeting Thursday night in the Council Chamber.

Real Problem Ahead.

Enlisting the support of the general public, the home owners who are in a position to make use of the improvement Plan and the many others who have the means to undertake the modernizing of their homes without recourse to the present borrowing plan, will be the central problem.

It isn't the concern of the general committee alone, but of the citizens as a whole both in the city and country. Back of this national enterprise is the lifting of the load of unemployment, getting tradesmen and their industry rehabilitated, and providing opportunity for young men to learn trades and become useful citizens.

Everybody's Duty.

That isn't the responsibility of the public spirited men who are giving their time and effort to this big project. It rests on society as a whole, and the fact that the providing of money on easy terms for home improvement has been so remarkably successful in the United States is one of the strongest reasons for expecting similar surprising results in Canada.

Peterborough has this immediate sector to take care of, and before the details of the Plan are carried much farther along their ambitious and deserving way the public is going to be frequently reminded of the various ways in which they can do their bit.

Cable)—Fighting an uphill battle, England had made 184 runs for four wickets in reply to Australia's huge total of 604 at the end of the third day's play in the rubber match of the current test series between the two countries. The teams are tied with two victories each.

Bad light resulted in stumps being drawn before the scheduled hour, but during the afternoon the tourists lost their leading batsmen, Charles Barnett, Gloucestershire first-wicket star, was dismissed before lunch for only 18 runs; T. Worthington, Derbyshire, made 44; Walter Hammond, Gloucestershire, 14, and M. Leyland, Yorkshire, seven.

Batting honors went to Joseph Hardstaff, Nottinghamshire pro, who played a masterly innings and was unbeaten at the end with 72. There was nothing spectacular about his performance, but he put up a solid defence, hitting seven fours. At the close he was partnered by R. E. S. Wyatt, Warwickshire captain, who had made 30.

St. Paul's Cagers Win Senior City Contest

St. Paul's took a 31-26 Senior City Basketball League win from Dominion Life in the "Y" gym Saturday evening before a good crowd of fans. It was a wide-open, entertaining fixture with play close most of the way. The score was 26-10 for the winners at half-time, the Dominions coming back strong in the second stanza. They cashed in on four free throws to three for the Saints. Checking was fairly close but snappy passing and good shooting piled up the score. Ellis with seven and White with six points led the losers in netting; while Thorburn topped the victors with 10 points and D. Sedgewick was next with eight. The teams:

St Paul's: Mdrah, Morrow, Pullingthorn, Ascott, Thorburn, Weir, O. Sedgewick, D. Sedgewick, McIntyre.

Referee, H. A. Bamforth.

Remember When—

Gordon Hudson's Strathcona Rink of Winnipeg captured the Macdonald Brier tankard and Manitoba's second successive curling championship eight years ago today. The Strathconas went through the bonspiel undefeated. Manitoba rinks went on to win the championship five years in a row, finally losing to Alberta in 1933.

VOLLEYBALLERS BEAT TORONTO

Peterborough Champions Take Three Matches Out Of Five In Local Gym

A crowded gallery Saturday night at the Y.M.C.A. witnessed an outstanding display of volleyball when the Peterborough "Y" team—Ontario intermediate champions—defeated Toronto Central "Y" three matches out of five in exhibition games. Scores were: 9-15, 15-7, 15-8, 15-8, 8-15. Brilliant spiking was the order, the Toronto team shading the locals in setting up but being outclassed otherwise by Peterborough. The home team was slow starting but could not be stopped once it hit its stride. Changes were made in the local lineup for the last game. The teams:

Toronto: J. Sneath, F. Roblin, R. Carson, H. Cook, J. Weber and J. West.

Peterborough: S. Payne, R. Kitchen, R. Bolton, E. Vincent, N. Stanger, A. Dryland, A. Rhodes, D. Crawford, W. Stansbury, A. Fitzgerald and E. Short.

Referee, Claude Elliott.

Banquet Given

Preceding the matches, a banquet was held in the "Y" by the Volleyball Association with members of the Toronto team, the local team, the local Lifloch Cup winners, and others of the volleyball league present. Stan Payne, as chairman, made the guests welcome and introduced the Toronto members, led by Captain Sneath. A sing-song followed the supper with Ed Shortreading and Harry Northrop as the piano. Jim McClenaghan led in an entertaining stunt, while Ed Short brought applause with an amusing monologue. R. Dobbin and W. Ferguson presented the Lifloch Trophy and the cups to the winning local team. Claude Elliott and other officials were thanked for their work. Leo Cegg moved a vote of thanks to the ladies of the association for serving the supper. The ladies responding with a song. The 1936 Peterborough champions of the Ontario tournament were congratulated by Captain Sneath of Central "Y". Members of the Lifloch Trophy winning team were: A. E. Dryland, R. E. Cutting, J. L. Gillespie, J. E. Girven, N. Northrop, F. B. Potter, F. B. Randle and F. O. Tarr.

Central School Squad Finish Up With Win

Central wound up the School Hockey League on Saturday morning at All Saints rink by handing Prince of Wales an 8-0 trouncing. The game was merely a work-out for both teams as the standings were not affected by the result. Central were much superior to their opponents in all departments. The first period was scoreless but in the second frame the winners ran in three smart tallies. They added four more in the final session and were outplaying their rivals by a wide margin near the close of the fracas. R. Clark was the whole show from an offensive standpoint for Central. He notched six goals and looked good all the way. Ascott and Lee were the other scorers for the winners. Woodgate, in goal for Central, went well although he was not called upon to make many hard saves. Bucknell and Jackson were the pick of the losers.

The teams:

Prince of Wales: Goal, Spooner; defence, Todd and Lacheur; centre, Jackson; wings, Stewart and Gardner; subs, Bucknell, Doubty, Mosley and Saunders.

Referee—H. Fisher.

Neill's Basketeers Lose To P.C.I. Boys

P.C.I. took an easy win over Neill's in a Senior City Basketball League fixture Saturday evening at the Y.M.C.A., 26-8 being the final score. The winners took the offensive from the start with a nice passing attack, accurate shooting in close and effective checking. They had a 15-3 margin at the rest period and continued to hold a margin on play through the final frame. Neill's were better on penalty throws to get four out of seven tries, whereas the Students could click on but two in eight attempts. Dougherty and Galley carried the mail for the victors, each scoring 13 points with smart performances, Gunsolus getting the other two. Stanger got three for the losers, while Wolstenholme and Broadley had two points each and Hunter one. The teams:

P. C. I.	Neill's
Dougherty	Johnston
Galley	Patterson
Turner	Laing
Gunsolus	Smith

Neill's: Wolstenholme, Broadley, Hunter, Taylor, Oadd, Stanger, Rennie.

Referee, H. Hammell.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 1 (AP)—Greetings all. Here is your roving agent back at the mike with plenty of chatter. Baseball men (moguls except of course) are putting for Jimmy Foxx to win his salary battle with the Boston Golf Star. One "double x" was slashed from twenty to fifteen grand just like nothing had happened. Yep, those guys with the red pans are the ones who purveyed the "official" news that Doc Sutherland would quit it Pitt. The Dizzy Deans may have had a long, cold winter in mind when Mrs. Dis bought that Bradenton beauty foundry. Old Diz is being schooled to operate on the delta and sub came.

Although perhaps the highest paid sports editor in the country, the late Bernard William St. Denis Thomson of the New York Times seldom was seen at a sports event, but directed a huge staff from his desk in The Times office. The and Max Kase, also early arrivals winter colony here misses Babe Ruth and his hearty laugh. If you don't believe pneumonia has something on the ball, try it. Twice it had this correspondent headed for the last roundup, but that little dogie just wouldn't get it. Gene Tunney says a Braddock-Schmeling fight wouldn't draw $150,000 because of the anti-Nazi boycott.

Bill Dickey, unsigned Yank catcher, has been here two weeks but nobody has seen him. And when such gimlet-eyed sleuths like Charlie Berger of the New York Mirror can't locate a guy in two weeks that's real hiding out in our books. The Florida sports pages are rimming the bell louder than ever. That noise you hear is merely Johnny Buckley, fat Boston fight manager and his middleweight, Lou Brouillard, telling how they "were robbed" in the Tail light to Paris.

Rosemont Winner Of $100,000 Handicap

For the first time in its three-year-old history a favorite came home to roost in the $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap Saturday at the Santa Anita Park in California. And just did, requiring the aid of the photographic apparatus to determine that the Foxcather Farm's Rosemont had landed there ahead of Sea Biscuit. This soundphoto shows the finish with Rosemont first (on outside), Sea Biscuit, second (legs barely discernible behind Rosemont), third, Indian Broom and fourth, Special Agent.

OATMAN BOASTS HOCKEY RECORD

Canny Coach Of Yorkton Terriers Has 32 Years Of Hockey Experience

YORKTON, Sask., March 1.—(CP)—Eddie Oatman, canny coach of Yorkton Terriers in Saskatchewan's southern senior amateur hockey league loop, boasts an all-time record for activity in the sport.

As an amateur, minor and major professional leaguer, he has to his credit 32 years—an estimated 16 years after the average player's career is a memory.

The battle-scared mentor started his career as an amateur in 1902, turned professional with Quebec Bulldogs, in 1911, when they won the Stanley cup and ended his major league playing days with Victoria Cougars in 1927.

He returned to the minors with St. Paul in the Central League, where he played until the spring of 1934. This is his second season with Terriers.

CURLING

By HERB MARTIN

Six mixed rinks from the Lakefield Curling Club paid our club a friendly visit on Saturday night. The ice was in good condition and nearly all games finished up with only one or two points difference.

At the conclusion of the match the visitors were entertained with a light lunch in the club room parlors.

A nice crowd turned out on Saturday afternoon and when the scores were handed in, it was found that there was not a three-winner in the bunch. However, the winning skips were M. Cruthers, E. R. Shirley and J. Richmond.

Tonight begins the play for the "Patterson" Trophy. The draw for tonight and Tuesday appeared in Friday's issue of The Examiner. It is to be hoped that the vices have their rinks all lined up and ready to get away on time.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

(C.J.P.)

TWO PUCK tussles are slated for the Brock St. rink this p.m., one a playoff number. All Saints and Canucks tangle in the first of the Junior City League playoffs at eight bells, these teams having wound up their schedule with wins on Saturday. They should dish up a nifty serial. At nine bells, Lakefield and Outboard Marines meet in a sudden-death game, the winner to enter the Senior City Hockey League semi-finals against Maydalns and the losers to forget hockey for the year. Semi-finals in this loop will be home and home games at the Brock Tuesday and Thursday next week, if there are no O.H.A. games those nights. Westclox are in the finals. Both games at the rink this e'en should be well worth taking a slant at—no kidding.

* * * * * *

SPEAKING OF the Blood and Thunder Loop—or Senior City Circuit, to be technical—we'd like to slip in a bit of a boost for two of the teams you'll see no more this winter. They are Millbrook and Bewdley. These squads were in from the start, attending organization meetings and easy to get along with. They played out their schedule even after knowing they couldn't make the playoffs. They played good hockey and a clean brand of the game—never squawking about rougher rivals or referee's mistakes. Bewdley came mighty close but had tough luck in a bunch of games, while the Millbrook lads were handicapped by lack of practise all winter. Two good teams and we hope they are back again next winter.

SCHOOL HOCKEY League is all set for the playoffs now. Queen Mary beat Prince of Wales last Wednesday and then Queen Alex on Friday to cinch a berth, while Central finished up with a win over the Wales' lads Saturday. So it'll be Central and Queen Mary in the home-and-home playoff series next week, first game on Wednesday at All Saints' rink and the other one Friday at the Brock. Goals count. Central is out to repeat the title but will have a task, we imagine, before the final bell of the second struggle.

IN THE Southend Puck Loop, King Edward Bantams beat St. Peter's, 3-2, in the second of their three-game playoffs, the first being a draw. They play for The Examiner Cup. Canuck Midgets eliminated King Edward in a semi-final game, 3-2, and Canucks now play St. Peter's in three-game finals for the Graham-Rogers Trophy. In the juvenile section, P.C.I. is on top with nine points to date, while Aces and St. Peter's are tied with eight apiece. Canucks have five and King Edward two. Games Monday: King Edward vs. St. Peter's at six in bantam finals; P.C.I. Juveniles vs. Canucks at eight; and St. Peter's at nine vs. King Edward Juveniles. On Tuesday, Canucks Midgets meet St. Peter's at eight.

SECRETARY BILL Hewitt of the O.H.A. hasn't yet named the next opponent in the playdowns for our Colts. He told Coach Buckland over the weekend that, if Oshawa decided to enter a junior team in playdowns, it'd likely be Oshawa vs. Peterborough next. But no dope at this writing. Lot of the scribes are boosting the locals now. Says the Lindsay Warder: "Speaking of junior O.H.A. hockey brings to light the startling defeat handed Kingston Friday by Peterborough's scrappy crew. The Otonabee boys wiped them from the hockey slate and indications seem to be that the Liflock laddies are still as healthy as ever in a hockey sense." Yeah, they're able to sit up and take a little nourishment.

LINDSAY POST writes: "Congratulations to the Peterborough Colts. Down three goals on the series on Friday, they entertained Kingston Juniors in Peterborough and gave them a 5-2 trouncing to win the round 6 to 7. The Colts are deserving of all the tributes that can be thrown their way by the excited hockey populace and they won strictly on their merits, we're told. It was a grand victory for the young Petes and must have been a real thrill for the fans of the city in the east. Happenings like this provide much of the uncertainty in hockey which, after all, is one of the game's chief charms." Just for that we hope Lindsay Juniors beat Aurora this week.

* * * * * *

AND AN odd item from Belleville: "As we predicted previously, the Peterborough Colts proved their ability in junior hockey when they overcame a three-goal lead and defeated Kingston Friday, 6-2. What burns us up, however, is the fact that the Belleville juniors should have been in the position of the Colts today. Had Jack Carson been in the local nets in the Peterborough-Belleville playoffs there is no question but Belleville would have been in Peterborough's place now. We do not begrudge the Colts their honors but still wish to bring to the attention of the fans the fact that the Belleville-Peterborough series was lost right here in Belleville and through poor goalkeeping by a slack goalie, and indifferent playing of one local junior." No, the blame should be attached to Skipper Thomas for not entering the Quinte crew in a junior "C" series, by golly!

CANADA WON the international amateur puck title over the week-end to regain the prestige lost in that screwy Olympic setup of a year ago. This time, a good team represented the Maple Leaf and no committee-room decisions figured in the playoffs. The Canucks stepped out and whitewashed the English champs by a 2-0 score to clearly demonstrate their superiority. The jolly Britons—who must be learning to "barrack" their Australian and Canadian cousins—put on a mob scene after and a crew of Canuck sailors had a whale of a good time fighting off frothy fans from the Canadian team's dressing-room door. Yeah, they take their hockey pretty seriously in the Old Country, too.

ALL SAINTS' ARE TIED WITH KEENE

West-End League Is Developing Into a Very Close Race

KEENE, March 1.—In a closely-fought game between Keene and All Saints', the Saints' golfed their way to a 4-4 tie on Keene ice, which helped their standing in a very close race in the West-End League.

The game was fast throughout. Keene taking an early lead on goals by Joyce and Wood, by consistently peppering Jay, the Saints' goalie.

Play was more even in the second period, with All Saints' making it 3-3 on goals by Frost and Fisher for the visitors and Gall for Keene.

The third saw the Saints' score two quick goals, by Condon, on some loose work around the Keene net, to take the lead. Keene pressed hard from then on, and the play centered about Jay in the Saints' net, and finally Seabrooke in attempting to clear batted in D. McCarthy's pass out, to tie the score. Line-ups:

All Saints—Goal, Jay; defence, Ruaw and Seabrooke; centre Fisher; wings, Quirt and Condon; subs: Frost, Hope, Charlton, Beamere and Little Joe.

Referee, H. McFadden.

AGAINST TWO-REFEREES PLAN

LONDON — (CP) — Directors of Brentford, first division English Football League club, have roached a unanimous decision to oppose the proposed two-referees system.

MADISON TO SEE PEDEN BROTHERS

Torchy Takes Younger Brother Into His First Six-Day Whirl In Manhattan

NEW YORK, March 1 (CP) — Four Peden legs were unlimbered on Madison Square Garden's pine sanded today where previously New York bike fans saw only two, as the powerful Torchy from Victoria, B. C., teamed up with his younger brother Doug Peden in Manhattan's first six-day whirl of the year.

Gotham's first glimpse of the new Canadian combination means the realization of an ambition William "Torchy" has cherished throughout his six-day bike career—to partner Doug through the spooks and jams of a Madison Square Garden six-day duty spell.

Together for the sixth time, the Peden-Peden team already has one big-time victory to its credit, the recent Buffalo race, and should the Victoria pair win the present ride to nowhere it will mean complete realization of Torchy's hopes.

"I'm going to remember this race as long as I live," Torchy told newspapermen in one of the brief rest periods while Doug kept their place out on the saucer.

"For a long time now," he said, "I've been looking forward to the time when Doug and I would pair up before a New York audience. It's been a lengthy period of training for him but now that we're together, boy, if we can only win. . . ."

If the favored Pedens win, victory will give Torchy 28 triumphs to tie the record mark of Pete Van Kempen, the Dutch bikester.

Queen Mary Wins To Clinch Playoffs

Final standing of the School Hockey League:

	P.	W.	L.	T.
Central	6	5	0	0
Queen Mary	5	3	1	1
King Edward	5	2	2	1
Prince of Wales	5	2	3	0
Queen Alexandra	5	1	3	0
King George	5	0	5	0

Queen Mary clinched a play-off spot in the School Hockey League by downing Queen Alexandra 3-1 on Friday night at All Saints rink. The game was fast and well played with the winners displaying a bit too much staying power for the northenders. Queen Mary tallied their first marker in the first period and led by that score at the first intermission. Queen Alex tied the count in the second canto when Pakenham banged the puck into the net after a gangling attack. The two teams then battled through most of the third stanza with the game knotted at one-all. With a few minutes to play Queen Mary put the affair on ice when they ran in two quick goals, Horton, Ashford and Morley were the marksmen for the winners.

The teams:

Queen Mary: Goal, McBride; defence, Morley and Weir; centre, Mortimer; wings, Horton and Ackford; subs, Neiman, Smith and Rickard.

Queen Alexandra: Goal, Castle; defence, Lewis and Forsythe; centre, Staunton; wings, Pakenham and Clyde; subs, Mackie and Saunders.

Referee—A. Lasenby.

53—UNFORCED CHRISTIANIA

The unforced or supple christiania is so called because the rotary action of the skis is produced almost wholly by utilization of the body momentum and weight and emphasis is placed on keeping the whole body relaxed and supple. This swing calls for the least expenditure of muscular energy of any swing or turn and when properly done one has a feeling of ease and relaxation.

In preparation for the swing take the erect running position with knees thrust well forward; skis together, flat, and the intended inner ski leading. Turn the intended inside shoulder slightly forward and the intended outside one slightly back; reverse the shoulder turning and at the same time weight the heels, particularly the intended outside one, by leaning the body backward and out from the slope. Keep the knees thrust forward. As the swing starts the tendency will be to straighten the outside knee, but this must not be done. A slight dropping of the outside shoulder will aid in overcoming this tendency and will also help to keep the body from leaning in toward the slope. As the swing progresses hold the ankles normal and the skis will develop a side slipping and steamming action; the body also returns from the backward lean to the erect position.

Practise first from a traverse on a gentle, fairly hard surfaced slope, holding the skis slightly apart. Concentrate on leaning the body backward and outward from the slope, and keeping the knees thrust well forward and flexible.

This swing can be used at high speed in variable snow, and being very economical in the expenditure of energy is ideal for use on long tours.

TORONTO LEAFS BEAT MAROONS BY BARE 3 TO 2

Rip-Roaring Game Has 'Everything' — Plenty Of Bumps, Fluky Goals, Free-For-All

HAWKS TRIM RANGERS 4-3

Canadiens Beat Amerks 3-2 Then Go Scoreless Tie With Detroit

TORONTO, March 1.—Toronto's larruping Leafs lashed Montreal's morose Maroons to the hockey mast Saturday night, and did so in such a display of vim, vigor and pugnacciousness as to make the 3-to-2 score seem almost incidental. It was a grand spectacle; one of those rare games that "had everything," including good hockey, clever play-making, fluky goals, heavy bumping at all times, and, as a climax, the wildest free-for-all of the season.

The pace was torrid terrific, and the hockey was wide open, except when the teams were short-handed and, in the last few minutes of the game, when the Leafs found it expedient to go defensive in protection of a lead that a desperate Montreal team had whittled from three goals to one.

Spectator Is Hit

Expectation of the unusual was aroused in the opening minutes of the game when Lionel Conacher tapped a spectator on the head with his stick. If the fan, a rail-seat-holder, was asking from trouble, he got it in a hurry. He seized and held Conacher's stick as the big fellow skated close to the boards. The veteran Maroon defence star, exasperated, wrenched the stick free and brought the hickory down on the head of the interfering one. It was a fairly gentle tap, but it was hard enough to make the blood flow. Conacher was given a ten-minute misconduct penalty but the crowd cheered him when he returned to action.

Scoreless Opener.

The teams played through a scoreless first session and when Bob Gracie was penalized in the second, Jackson rapped in two goals in 10 seconds, Frankie Finnigan batted in his first goal of the season in that same period to make Toronto look sure winners.

But Jerry Shannon blasted a counter past Turk Broda and that signalled the start of a maroon attack that kept up for the rest of the game. Herb Cain got another counter but strong defensive work kept Maroons from tying the count.

The battle royal broke out in the third. It was a minor mix-up at first, involving Red Horner, Leaf defenceman, and Gus Marker of Maroons. But on his way to the penalty box Horner argued with Lionel Conacher. In a second, brother Charlie Conacher of the Leafs was in it as a battling peacemaker and that set off the spark.

Players rushed from both benches with two third-period goals and started the winning play that beat Americans 3-2.

Norm Smith, Detroit, and Wilf Cude, Canadiens, whose brilliant goaltending was the feature of last night's scrimmage draw between the sectional leaders.

Harvey Jackson, Toronto, who fired two goals as Leafs won a 3-2 decision from Montreal Maroons.

Louis Trudel, Chicago, whose two goals enabled Black Hawks defeat Rangers 4-3 and retain a slim hope of making a playoff berth.

Referees Preparing For Playoffs

Referees for the coming National Hockey league play-offs and Stanley Cup finals have been selected by the N.H.L. governors. In the order of pairing will be: Bill Stewart and "Ag." Smith, Mickey Ion and Johnny Mitchell, Clarence Campbell and "Babe" Dye. Stewart, Campbell and Ion were named as the senior referees, but all will work in the early rounds of the play-offs. In the above picture we see Bill Stewart (LEFT) and "Ag." Smith donning their hockey gear just before taking the ice to perform their jobs of whistle tooting and penalty giving.

McDONALD BRIER GETS UNDER WAY

Ten Curling Skips Dip In Hat For Honor Of Single Day's Opener

TORONTO, March 1 (CP).—Ten curling skips, the cream of Canada's wielders of besom an' stane, dipped into a hat today for the honor of inaugurating on a near-perfect sheet of ice the 11th annual Dominion curling championship.

The Macdonald's Brier Tankard was at stake as rink leaders, each a Provincial or regional champion, gathered to select the two who will meet in the first game of the week's spieling. Only one game will be played today. The grind will really get under way tomorrow, with games in the morning, afternoon and evening.

Jimmy Welsh of Winnipeg Deer Lodge, 27-year-old skip of a rink made up of youngsters, is this year defending the title Manitoba has held seven times. The youthful quartet is favored to win out over such curling veterans as Vancouver's Rolly David, Cliff Manahan of Edmonton and Judge Charles Barry of Fredericton.

Mayor W. D. Robbins of Toronto and other civic dignitaries were on hand to watch the first stone thrown in the 1937 title meet. The Brier trustees were there, too, to watch the play which this year, for the second time, will be truly representative of Canadian curling supremacy.

First played for in 1927, the Brier now is recognized as emblematic of the Dominion title. Nova Scotia won it that year from a handful of provincial champions. From 1928 to 1933 Manitoba won it with regularity until Alberta's representative took it to the Foothills province.

Back in Manitoba in 1934, the tankard went to Ontario in 1936, the year the famed Campbell brothers of Hamilton swept through all opponents. Kim Watson of Winnipeg Strathcona won it last year but was knocked out of British Consols competition in the recent Manitoba bonspiel in an early round.

Other entries in the 37 bonspiel are Hugo M. Ferguson for Nova Scotia; W. O. Roy, Quebec; Art Belcher, Prince Edward Island; Albert Dunker, Ontario; Ernest Smith, Northern Ontario, and Frank Smith, Saskatchewan.

Hockey's Big Seven

(By the Canadian Press)

Canadian section pointgakers made a general advance on the National Hockey League scoring leader, Detroit's Larry Aurie, during the week-end. While Aurie again went pointless, Syl Apps and Harvey Jackson of Toronto and Americans' Dave Schriner picked up one to two points, closing the gap between the leader and fifth place to four points. Apps, bidding for the title in his first year as a professional, crept up within a single point of the leading Red Wing.

The leaders:

	G	A	Pts
*Aurie, Detroit	22	18	40
Apps, Toronto	13	26	39
Schriner, Americans	14	22	36
Barry, Detroit	13	24	37

RUGBY UNION RULE ON CHARGING EASED

Bar Backs Galloping Up And Running Interference Yards Ahead Of Line

TORONTO, Mar. 1 (C.P.).—Widespread fear of injuries from charging interference under the single-zone football rule of 1936 brought a revised regulation into the code today for 1937. It was chief among amendments approved by the Canadian Rugby Union Rules Commission on Saturday.

Under the single-zone rule, backs could charge up and run interference three yards in advance of the scrimmage line. Some Eastern coaches and officials thought it so conducive to injuries that two of the Easts senior leagues, the Intercollegiate and Big Four, made no use of it.

Sarnia Imperials of the Ontario Union won the 1936 Canadian title by effective use of interference, and it was highly popular in the West. But on Saturday the rule was altered.

Under the new regulation players stationed on the line may move back after the ball is snapped and engaged in interference. Thus a play directed into the line will be slowed down, but rules committee members figured these linemen could be used to run interference at the ends.

Also they will be permitted for the first time to block for a forward passer. The passer will receive protection from backed-up linemen, paving the way for all five eligible receivers to go downfield. Fewer incompleted passes will be the result, it was expected.

Only other major rules change was reduction of the penalty against defending teams for offside from 10 yards to five.

The C.R.U. annual meeting accepted applications for affiliation from the British Columbia Rugby Football Union and the Western Interprovincial Union, both formerly affiliated with the Western Canada Rugby Football Union.

By affiliating directly with the C.R.U. they gave the West the same number of unions as the East.

BARR-PASTOR FIGHT LICENSED

NEW YORK, Mar. 1 (A.P.).—The New York State Athletic Commission to-day granted licenses to Max Barr and his manager, Ancil Hoffman, and approved a proposed 10-round bout in Madison Square Garden on March 19, between Barr and Bob Pastor. Whether or not the bout will go through as scheduled still was not definitely known since Barr is understood to have accepted an offer to box in London.

CANADIANS TAKE WORLD'S AMATEUR HOCKEY CROWN

Swiss Force Dynamiters Into Overtime Before Bowing 2-1

ENGLAND RUNNER-UP

LONDON, March 1 — (C.P.). — Kimberley Dynamiters added another trophy to-day to the Allan Cup they won a year ago.

They took the world's amateur hockey championship on Saturday night by defeating Switzerland 2-1 in overtime, the closest Kimberley came to defeat in the series.

Previously the Dynamiters had not been threatened as they rang up eight victories, six of them shutouts. Kenner Campbell's amateur record included the strong English team that was defending the honors won by England at the Olympic Games last winter.

England defeated Germany 5-0 Saturday to take the runner-up position in the tournament that started with 11 nations represented and ended with Canada, England, Switzerland and Germany in the final round, where each played the other once.

Bill Burnett and the other defencemen stood out as the Canadians fought off the stubborn Swiss-erland attack.

Puffy Kemp sent Canada ahead in second period and H. Lohrer equalized within a few minutes. From then until the third minute of overtime Goalie Alberta Hirz of Switzerland stopped everything the high-scoring Canadians threw at him.

Goble Gets Winner

Finally George Red Goble broke through for the winning goal, to the disappointment of the crowd of 10,000 at Harringway Stadium, who hoped for a Swiss victory that would have put Canada, England and Switzerland in a three-way tie for first place.

Canada scored 50 goals in the tournament, 10 more than did the Canadian-trained boys wearing England's sweaters.

Defensively, the Canadians let in four goals, while Jimmy Foster was beaten but three times in England's nets. But the goals on Foster were all scored in the vital Canada-England game Friday, the only meeting of the Empire teams in the tournament.

Ralph Redding took high-scoring honors for Kimberley with 12. Kemp scored 11; Fred Botterill and Jack Forsey, eight each.

TRAINERS SHAPING RACING TURTLES

Champ Of '36 Has Sponsors Worried—Fear Paunch Too Big

DETROIT, March 1—(CP)—University of Detroit campus burned with excitement to-day as trainers groomed entries for the 1937 Detroit turtle racing championship—a gruelling test won last year by "Joe Palooka." Entries are being received at the Detroit Zoological Park.

"Last year," Sanderson said, "the audience was disappointed when three turtles fell asleep in the middle of the course. Object of the examinations is to prevent a recurrence of this unfortunate incident.

"All turtles must be named, weighed in, and outfitted with an identifying flag fastened to their backs," he ruled.

A rumor that the champion was getting a little paunchy and might not be an entrant this year was set definitely at rest by his handler, who referred to the rumor as "a lot of baloney."

"Of course we're keeping a close eye on his diet," the handler said. "To-day he had a light breakfast of three poached eggs on toast, and then a fast workout on the quarter-yard track. All we're worrying about is that he might be a little fine at the barrier."

Last year the "Armored Terror," as his backers fondly named Joe, won a ticket to an important college dance. He couldn't use it, however, as the owner went.

Warsaw Members Decide To Go Ahead With Contest Feature

(Examiner Correspondence.)

WARSAW, March 1.—The United Church W.A. held an interesting meeting in the Sunday school room on Thursday afternoon, which was well attended. Mrs. Harold Payne presided. The opening hymn "Hiding in Thee" was in honor of Dwight L. Moody's centenary. Mrs. Mellvena thanked the members for the cox sent her during her recent illness.

There was a little discussion about carrying on the contests on "things used in cooking". It was decided to do so. It was decided to order some song sheets. Mrs. Arthur Payne handed around Willett spoon of "Count Your Blessings" and led in singing it. Mrs. Arthur Edwards read a poem. How Soon We Lose Our Children" was the title of Dorothy Dix on "Early Training Counts." A social half-hour was spent during which refreshments were served by Mrs. Wilkinson, Mrs. O. Weiler and Mrs. O. R. Mellvena.

Joint Meeting Held

The Presbyterian ladies held their Aid and W.M.S. at Mrs. Thompson's home on Wednesday, February 24, with a fair attendance. Mrs. Munro presided at the Aid. It was decided to hold a social evening in about a fortnight and when the roads are better Rev. Mr. Preston will give a talk on the Yung trip. Mrs. T. H. Crowe presided at the W.M.S. meeting. The study book lesson on the Chinese in Canada was taken in four parts by Mrs. Milton Train, Mrs. Munro, Mrs. Mary Thompson and Mrs. McQuaig. Miss Joan Munro was pianist. Corned Beef And Cabbage Featured In Enjoyable Affair At Hastings

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, March 1.—Over one hundred gathered in the basement of Trinity United Church on Wednesday evening for a corned beef and cabbage supper with the ladies of the group leaders, Mrs. C. Hoard and Mrs. A. E. Metcalfe and their committee of the Women's Association.

With Maggie and Jiggs as the two prominent characters the audience were kept in peals of laughter during the tea and throughout the evening. The supper was in keeping with the spirit of the occasion and consisted of corned beef and cabbage, brown bread and butter, rolls, apple pie and whipped cream. Maggie and Jiggs as plenty of home-style eating as the head table and they drew many approving comments on their attire and actions as they related several interesting and amusing anecdotes and sang together.

Mr. Grant Sine gave a remarkable characterization of Maggie with her prettily curled light wig and was attired in a gay dress, while shoes and hose as she carried her much-needed handkerchief to dry her tears. Miss Kate German, known to the people of Hastings for her comedy, was entrusted with the part of Jiggs and did her part exceptionally well. Dressed in white vest, long-tailed coat, trousers and silk hat she made an ideal Jiggs.

Following the supper Rev. T. W. Newell made a most capable chairman for the program which consisted of community singing; solo by Miss Miriam Newell; humorous solo by Mrs. Gordon Pask, with encore; caninium on the auto harp; reading, Mrs. Albert Brooks and a piano solo by Ralph Newell.

The March meeting of the Hastings Women's Institute will be held in the council chambers on Tuesday afternoon, March 2. Mrs. J. A. MacDonald will give a talk on "Mothers' Allowance and Old Age Pensions." Mrs. G. Sine will take charge of the question box. The motto will be "The Doors of Opportunity are Marked 'Push and Pull'."

Auction Sale Success

Over 200 men present at the auction sale held at the farm of Mr. James Yule of Percy township on Wednesday afternoon. From 10 a.m. well on into the afternoon a string of cars was noticed on their way to the sale and by two o'clock a record crowd gathered for the sale of registered cattle, several fine young horses, implements and grain. J. R. Rattray of Campbellford was auctioneer. 1935 oats sold readily at 52 cents a bushel and wheat $1.41. Horses sold as high as $183 and cattle $95 and up to $85.

The Day That I Forget

By MARIE BLIZARD

READ THIS FIRST:

In Hollywood following an ingenious manoeuver on the part of his young wife, Janet, Joel Paynter, second-rate Broadway actor, makes screen history in the course of eight months. Fame and fortune are his when following one outstanding picture in which Joel plays an important character part. He obtained the role because Janet cultivated the right people and Vernon Chester, a leading director. Denied a baby because the studio frowns on domestic mess in building up Joel as the popular American lover, Janet finds happiness eluding her, despite everything money can buy, because she has nothing more to do. Janet discovers that $5,000 a week melts rapidly living as they now do. After buying a small group theater in Cape Cod as a lark, Joel promptly forgets about it. Janet goes east alone for a visit. Because Joel is not with her by the time Janet has reached New York it is widely published that they are separated.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER 33

MARY CARLETON licked the edge of the knife with which she had been frosting a cake. She looked at the clock and calculated whether she had time to make her potato salad. She had to stop at the Berwicks to pick up a hairbrey for the set in the second act and she had promised little Mary's nurse that she would run up the new suit on the sewing machine.

She decided to let the salad go. Then she decided to let the sun stay go. It wasn't every day that a girl had a guest who was the wife of a screen celebrity.

Slicing the potatoes she looked at her hands regretfully. They weren't any lilies, she reflected, and thought of the creams and lotions on Janet's dressing table.

She thought of Janet and all the other things Janet had. The lovely simple sports thing, the soft cashmere sweaters, the white coat with the great collar of white fox, the clever little evening clothes.

She tried to picture the house in Beverly Hills over which Janet was mistress. She tried to picture the furniture, the servants, the rugs and paintings but all she could think of was that there was money to pay for all those things. Money—the thing that separated her and her Leslie every winter.

She sighed with envy.

Deftly she swished the dressing ingredients around in a wooden bowl while visions floated before her eyes. Visions of herself, Mrs. Carleton, shopping on Hollywood boulevard, selecting smart little sports things with never an anxious glance toward the price tag. Visions of Mrs. Carleton in silver fox sweeping through lines of curious gapers at a Hollywood opening.

Lucky, lucky Mrs. Paynter.

Mrs. Paynter was a dumb. There were no ifs, no pretenses about her. Mrs. Paynter had refused to be bored with the baby when the nurse had had to go to the dentist. Mrs. Paynter insisted on making the beds in the mornings even though there were maids. And she seemed to like it. Mrs. Paynter, who had only to touch a button in her own house and have servants rushing out of all the doors to wait on her! Well, women were funny.

Mary picked up the mixed salad and put it in the icebox.

Janet folded the corner of her bedspread the way that her father had taught her to do it, as it was done in a hospital. She surveyed the placement of the pillows critically, puffed one a little higher and rearranged her work.

Martha sat in a wicker chair and watched her. When Janet turned toward her, she would have masked the pity in her eyes.

Janet didn't look at her. She went out into the hall and came back with a long-handled dust brush and worked hard for she knew from experience that Martha would find something to criticize if she didn't. Janet wanted to scrub the floors. She knew that Martha was playing house. That all the things her money had deprived her of, she was finding by proxy in the home of another woman. And it made her heart ache.

There was nothing that she could do. She tried once to sound out Janet on her domestic life but Janet, fierce in her loyalty to Joel, would tell her nothing except to touch upon the beauty of her home and the convenience with which it was run and how much Joel liked it.

"Why don't you and Joel get a little place back here?" she said on another occasion. "Then you would have at least a place to come to for all your vacations." She didn't say it was a place where Janet could come to be herself.

Janet explained the studio didn't want them to have ties so far away from California. So much was expected of them, she said vaguely. And all that Martha could do was hope that Janet could be inveigled east to see her.

Now that she had her, she didn't want her to go back to the coast. Janet was the only affection that Martha had and she had a mother's heart for the girl.

Janet had said she was going to stay only a fortnight but Joel, in the vague letters, had intimated that she stay on. He was not as impressed with the little theater as Janet had hoped he would be, but he was glad that he was enjoying herself and urged her to stay.

At first his letters had been filled with little things that were love-like. Little things about his missing her. Her, of nothing but he complained. He was doing a bit of swimming, had played bridge a few evenings and missed her like the devil.

Then the letters had grown shorter, duller. The day that had happened at the studio. Toki had run the station wagon into the side of the garage and it was being fixed. He was thinking of putting in a swing in back of the garage so that service cars wouldn't have to use the front drive. Was their bill at the fruiterer's correct?

He complained and his sapphire studs. Why couldn't she tell him he had no more blue shirts? Somebody wanted to know if she were going to the New Year's eve party given by one of the wives of a French star.

He had gone down to Malibu to a party given by Carol Grieg. He had been sitting opposite the red-headed star in her beach picture and he had gone down to talk it over. Vernon Chester was going to direct and he and Vernon had taken Chet to the boxing bouts the night before.

They were the usual letters of any husband. They brought Janet back to him but not to Hollywood. That was something that she would have to do but she prolonged her visit because she did not want to end the peace and joy of this make-believe existence she was enjoying.

"Who's Carol Grieg?" Martha asked her one day. Martha was reading a newspaper.

"Good heavens, darling! Do you mean you haven't heard of the Glamorous One? She's a [illegible] on the screen. The new school [illegible]. Martha. She has bobbed hair and is [illegible] Janet explained.

Martha said, "Oh, I just wondered." Then she shook the newspaper downstairs and burned it in the fireplace.

Glamorous girls, was she? Well, she didn't have anything her balm hadn't.

Janet was to hear more of Carol Grieg. Lisa Carey wrote her. Lisa wrote frequently. Lisa disjointed notes of life in the picture colony and much in the manner of the columnists.

"... when Bert and I went to the push at Flowers—you'd have hated it because you couldn't cut the air what with heavy perfume—imagine my surprise to see Joel! Grieg! saw as if she owns him, the little fool! We're getting a great kick out of her performance. The gal is a hussy and stupid in the bargain. Everybody knows that JOEL adores you."

Janet read that letter over and over again and decided to forget about its implications.

Then she wired Joel:

"COME HOME AT ONCE STOP I NEED YOU AND I LOVE YOU STOP KEEP THAT IN MIND AND PAY NO ATTENTION TO SILLY RUMORS STOP WIRE IMMEDIATELY WHEN YOU ARE LEAVING LOVE."

Bedtime Story

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY'S UPS AND DOWNS

"Ouch!" cried Mrs. Longears, the rabbit lady. "Ouch!"

"Oh, my goodness!" exclaimed Uncle Wiggily. "I only kissed you, my dear. Why, what's the matter?"

Then he looked at his rabbit lady wife in surprise.

"I thought maybe you were going to bite me," said Mrs. Longears.

"Bite you, my dear! The idea! I'm not a Bad Chap."

"Indeed you are not, Wiggy," spoke his wife. "You are a jolly good rabbit. But you sneaked up behind me so quietly while I was reading and you kissed me so nicely I thought for a moment you might be going to bite me. Just for a joke, you know."

"It would be no joke if I really bit you," said Mr. Longears, twinkling his pink nose mischievously.

"Why did you kiss me at this time of day?" asked Mrs. Longears.

"Because I have a surprise for you," replied Mrs. Longears. "You are coming for a ride with me in the auto."

"Well, here's where YOU get a surprise!" laughed the rabbit lady. "I am NOT coming for a ride with you in the car."

"Why not?" asked Uncle Wiggily, disappointed like.

An Objection

"Because I don't like to go riding in a car that has cheese tires upon which the mice children nibble off every time you pass it."

"Oh, but I haven't cheese tires on my car now," said Uncle Wiggily.

"Well, your bologna sausage tires are nearly as bad. Some hungry dog will pop along and nibble them and we'd have to come home on four flats," objected Mrs. Longears.

"Tush, my car hasn't bologna sausage tires on, nor mate," said Mr. Longears. "I may put them on again, but the tires I now have are quite new and different."

"Well, that IS a surprise," spoke Mrs. Longears. "What sort of tires have you, Wiggy?"

"New ones the jolly Old Sea Dog put on for me," said the rabbit gentleman. "I'm sure you'll enjoy a ride on these tires. Come along, do, that's a dear!"

"Well, I'll try it just once," said Mrs. Longears. She put on her warm fur coat. So did Uncle Wiggily and soon they hopped out to the car with new tires. It was a cold day, but there wasn't much snow on the ground. The new March wind had blown it away.

"What odd looking tires!" said Mrs. Longears.

Sounds Jolly

"Aren't they," agreed Uncle Wiggily. "They are made of rubber balls filled with air. The Sea Dog said they were much more bouncie ourse than the cheese tires. In fact, he said I could have real bouncie ouncle rides in my auto now."

"I don't know what a bouncie ouncie ride may be," said Mrs. Longears, as she stepped into the car, "but it sounds odd and jolly."

"You'll soon know what it is like," said her husband.

He started the car. The ground was frozen hard and it was rough. Over the bumps on the new rubber-ball tires rolled the auto. Then, all of a sudden it went up in the air.

"My goodness!" cried Mrs. Longears. "Is this an airplane?"

"No, it's just the bouncie part of the ride," said her husband.

Down came the car. Mrs. Longears screamed.

"That's the ouncie part," laughed Mr. Longears. Then he stepped on the gas. The car went very fast, bouncing on the new bouncing rubber balls. Uncle Wiggily went up. Uncle Wiggily came down. Mrs. Longears bounced up. Mrs. Longears bounced down.

Oh, it was a very funny ride, but before it was over something strange happened. I'll tell you about it in the next story which will be called Uncle Wiggily's Island Trip.

But please ask the front window to keep from going around to the back to watch the cat walk the fence.

THREAT LETTER VANISHES IN SOO MURDER–SUICIDE

Inability Of Two Witnesses Who Read It To Recall Contents Peeves Crown

CLAIM IT "JUMBLED"

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., March 1 — (C.P.) — Disappearance of a "threatening letter" and failure of witnesses to recall its contents after assiduously reading it to-day puzzled investigators into the murder-suicide of Mrs. Lena Mertes and Robert MacPherson.

An inquest into the deaths returned a verdict Friday night saying Mrs. Mertes died from the result of gunshot wounds inflicted by MacPherson, who then turned the gun upon himself. The double deaths took place last Saturday.

Teresa McCoy, a maid in the Mertes home, testified she gave the letter to Mrs. Mertes' brother who lives in Sault Ste Marie, Mich., after the shooting. She had read the letter, she said, but could not recall its contents. Miss McCoy said on the afternoon of the murder she heard Mrs. Mertes tell a friend over the telephone MacPherson had threatened to kill her, her youngest child, and himself.

Herb. Meyers, who was at the Mertes place at the time of the shooting visiting Miss McCoy, testified he also had read it, but could not remember what it said. It was all "jumbled up," he said.

What Are You Covering Up?

"That's the same story Miss McCoy told us," Crown Attorney J. L. O'Flynn said. "Why is it every time we get to this letter everybody forgets what was in it? What are you trying to cover up?"

"I'm not trying to cover up anything," Meyers replied.

The telephone wires to the Mertes house had been cut, Meyers continued. Neither he nor Miss McCoy could say how MacPherson entered the house. After they found MacPherson in "a scuffle" with Mrs. Mertes in the hall, Meyers said he pulled the man away while Miss McCoy said she knocked a wooden club from MacPherson's hand.

Mr. O'Flynn asked why Meyers did not follow MacPherson when he chased Mrs. Mertes from the house. Meyers replied he was attempting to contact police.

Other witnesses said Mrs. Mertes dashed from the house and MacPherson pursued her. When he overtook her on the doorstep of S. Deakin nearby he fired a shot and she fell. He shot again, the witnesses said, then shot himself.

Where Bombs Have Reached Beautiful Homes

Of all the photographs from war shattered Madrid, swept by weeks of aerial and artillery bombardment that has taken hundreds of lives and caused untold damage, this picture perhaps tells the most dramatic story. This scene of utter desolation is the ruins of a block of once beautiful flats bordering Moncloa Park. The whole front wall has been blown to bits by shelling, and flooring joists hang in gruesome patterns against a background of shattered walls and blown-out windows. Hundreds of buildings in the beautiful capital of Spain have suffered the same fate.

MILLBROOK

LIVELY DEBATE AT Y.P.S. MEETING

Decision Is That Modern Civilization Has Not Deteriorating Effect

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, March 1.—"Resolved that modern civilization has a deteriorating effect on mankind" was the subject of an interesting debate well presented at the regular meeting of the Young People's Society of Grace Church and the Young People's Association of St. Thomas Church when the two societies held a joint business and study period in the Sunday school rooms of Grace Church on Thursday.

Miss Muriel Ball, president of the Grace Church society, occupied the chair assisted by the secretary, Miss Mary Eakins. Miss Margaret Simpson presided at the piano. The main item of the program was the debate ably supported on the affirmative side by Mrs. P. Handley and Miss Ruth Thorndyke. Miss Margaret Simpson and F. J. Deyell upheld the negative and were awarded the judges' decision as winners by three points. B. Russell was the timekeeper and Misses C. M. Duncanson, E. Montgomery and M. Smith officiated as judges.

Singing of the National Anthem dispersed the gathering, following which members of the executives held a brief business meeting and arranged the programs for the ensuing months, also soliciting Miss Muriel Ball to continue in the chair at all meetings due to the resignation of Miss Maretta Gray, formerly the A.Y.P.A. president, who has been forced to resign owing to continued ill health. Instead of the usual date of Wednesday evenings, the meetings will be held on Tuesdays of each week at 8 p.m.

Invitation Accepted

An invitation to visit the Centreville unit March 9 was gratefully accepted, the visitors to contribute the program, which will consist of an imitative Major Bowes' program under the direction of Miss Ruth Thornclyke. F. J. Deyell will be responsible for the topic.

LIFFORD LINE

HOME AND SCHOOL MEETING IS HELD

Mrs. R. S. Staples, Cavan, Is Guest Speaker For Affair

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LIFFORD LINE, March 1.—The Lifford Home and School Club held their monthly meeting on Thursday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Staples with an attendance of thirty members and friends. The ladies on the social committee had planned a hot pot-luck dinner for the occasion, each member making the contribution of one hot dish and a cake or pie, salad, jelly, pickle, etc. A long table extended the entire length of the kitchen in the farm home and when the many and varied tempting eatables were placed thereon a very appetizing appearance was presented. At about six-thirty all then present sat down and did ample justice to the good things provided. These passed on into another room while the remaining guests enjoyed supper. Games, music and a social time filled the space of time between supper and the presentation of an interesting program.

Miss E. Stephenson the president, took charge of the program. Community singing was heartily joined in. Mr. George Tims rendered a beautiful violin solo. Miss Vera Strachan gave an amusing recitation, "Ma's Cheque Book."

The guest speaker of the evening was Mrs. R. S. Staples of Cavan, who in a pleasing manner and fluent language addressed the club in a most encouraging manner, presenting informative details regarding home and school club work in general. For some time past Mrs Staples has been keenly interested in work of this kind and was well qualified to give the newly-formed organization at Lifford a view of what is going on among other similar clubs in a variety of centres. She also stressed the untold possibilities and opportunities offered by such clubs. A mind vision of the future was cleverly sketched when a fine large school centrally located in Manvers would stand on a choice fine acre stretch of land and our boys and girls would receive both elementary and secondary education under ideal conditions. Following this delightfully interesting talk a discussion period was enjoyed when the question of municipal, rural school boards travelling libraries and other interesting topics were viewed from various angles.

Miss Vera Strachen then gave a fine reading which was followed by a piano number by Stewart Staples. Miss Marjorie Page sang a pleasing solo which was heartily encored. The president sponsored a "Musical Romance." Mrs. Gervin Mulligan read a romantic story leaving spaces to be filled in by names of songs played on piano by the president. The meeting closed by singing of "God Save the King." Music and general recreation period followed.

Still keeping their destination a secret and making their hops in leisurely style, Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh are pictured plotting the course of their present aerial cruise after reaching Tripoli, north Africa. On the next leg of their flight they were forced down in the desert by a sandstorm. The flying colonel and his wife reached India still without disclosing their destination, though reports state they may continue on to Australia.

L.O.L. No. 64 Sponsors Successful Event In Janetville Hall

The young folk and some of the older ones as well gathered from far and near and judging from the ever increasing attendance the proposed enlargement to the hall cannot happen too soon if these dances are continued and the crowds accomodated.

Splendid music was supplied by Mr. P. Hamilton's orchestra which is comprised of Miss Bessie Howe, pianist; Mrs. P. Hamilton, banjo; spending the past few months with her daughter, Mrs. Thomas Cochrane, returned to her home here on Sunday.

Miss Rita Deacon of Hastings spent the week-end at her home here.

Mrs. Wm. Brooks of South Beach went on a visit to her sister, Mrs. P. G. Young, of Peterborough, last week intending to visit there for a week or so, but sorry to say she was seized with illness and had to return to her home in the village.

Miss Clara Young will leave on Saturday morning for an extended visit with her sister and brother-in-law, Mr and Mrs. Arthur Langlois in Windsor.

Mr. Alferd Davis met with a painful accident on Thursday while felling a tree. It fell on his back and shoulder and he was taken to Lakefield for treatment.

Messrs. Robert Johnston and Percy Stenner, both of Peterborough, were in the village Wednesday evening on business.

Mr. Cedrae Little of Lakefield was engaged in cutting down a big tree which in falling changed its course.

Harry managed to get out the way in time but Fred, in the excitement, became confused and ran in the path of the falling tree with the result that his leg was severely injured. The main bone was broken below the knee and was not only protruding through the flesh but through the overalls and socks as well.

Help was secured as speedily as possible and the injured man was removed to Port Perry hospital, where it was found that the main bone was broken in two places and a smaller bone also broken. The injured member was placed in a large cast constructed in such a way that it can be opened and the wound dressed. Grave fears are held that infection may set in. The victim is suffering excruciating pain but everything is being done that is possible.

Mr. Philp's many neighbors and friends are hoping for a speedy recovery.

Misses Leah Nobes and Laura McGregor of North Marmora were recent guests of Miss Marjorie Clemenger.

The many friends of Mr. George Wiggins of Havelock will be glad to know his condition is slightly improved.

A large number of young people was entertained at a dance at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. Parcels last Saturday night.

CITIZENS ARE ASKED TO TRY OUT RELIEF RATIONS

BILL TO SHELVE SPEED LIMIT BEEN DRAFTED

Prepared At McQuesten's Order As Alternative to Private Member's Measure

CABINET UNDECIDED

May Let Clark Bill Proceed, Have House Divide On Non-Partisan Lines

TORONTO, March 2 (CP).—Hon. T. B. McQuesten, Minister of Highways, has had prepared a bill to remove the speed limit on Ontario highways and substitute a safe-driving clause. The bill has been prepared as an alternative to a private member's bill, drafted by James Clark (Lib., Windsor-Sandwich) to the same end.

The Cabinet has not decided whether Mr. McQuesten's bill will be introduced as government legislation or not. It may be decided to allow Mr. Clark's bill to proceed and have the House divide on non-partisan lines.

If the speed limit is not abolished this session, it seemed today it would not be dealt with till next year.

DRUNK DRIVER HITS HEPBURN'S AUTO

Four Passengers With Premier And Driver Escape With Shaking Up

TORONTO, March 2.—(CP).—Premier Mitchell Hepburn, two cabinet ministers, Sir James Dunn and two passengers escaped injury Sunday when the Premier's car collided on the middle road highway near Mimico with a motor car driven by Thomas Rutledge, Toronto, arrested on a charge of drunk driving. He was remanded yesterday until Friday on $1,000 personal bail.

Hon. Admiral, the Premier's secretary, was driving the motor car. Passengers were the Premier, Sir James Dunn, Hon. Dr. J. A. Faulkner, Minister of Health; Hon. T. B. McQuesten, Minister of Highways, and Chester Walters, Comptroller of Finance.

Premier Hepburn said last night that Rutledge's car had just previously collided with the car of John Beigner. "We saw it hit another car up ahead before he piled into us," said Hepburn. "We almost completely swerved off the concrete to avoid him, but he smashed into the side of us. We were all pretty well shaken up, and I got a bump on the side of the head."

The door was torn off the side of the Premier's car.

JAPS TO USE GAS AS WAR WEAPON

Admiral Says When Naval, Air Plans Finished Fear Of U.S. Over For Three Years

TOKYO, March 2 (AP).—Admiral Mitsumasa Yonai, Minister of the Navy, declared today that when Japan's rearmament program for the navy and the navy's air force is completed, the Empire will not need to fear the United States for three years.

The Naval Minister made his statement during a discussion of the tactics of a naval war in the Pacific that brought out such detailed points the budget sub-committee decided to go into secret session to continue the debate on war appropriations.

Shortly before Admiral Yonai took the floor of the Diet, the Minister of War, General Gen Sugiyama, disclosed the Japanese army was concentrating on gas and other chemicals as war weapons to make up for numerical inferiority.

Japan the Naval Minister said, was ready to accept an invitation from a third power to discuss arms limitation with the United States, but would not propose such a parley unless there seemed to be a definite prospect for an amicable settlement.

"In the event the United States increases its air force in Alaska, the Aleutian Islands, Hawaii and other Pacific possessions," Admiral Yonai said, "Japan will be menaced."

"Some think the air force is more powerful than the warships, but our navy regards the air force as an auxiliary to the fleet, both being indispensable.

"If Japan's third replenishment plan for the navy and the naval air force is completed, there need be no fear of the United States for the next three years."

Toronto Furniture Men Stick Pending Talks

1,000 Remain Off Job In Western Ontario And Picket Factories

Fights Break Out At Sarnia As Foundry Employees Strike

MAY BE LEGAL ACTION

Furniture Heads Hint Renewal Of Code Impossible At Present

TORONTO, March 2 — (C.P.) — Union officials and manufacturers to-day were expected to get together shortly in an effort to iron out disputes over wages and working conditions in the furniture industry. While union officials prepared for conferences with employers more than 1,000 workers in Western Ontario continued on strike.

A bright side to the picture was turned up yesterday when Toronto furniture workers gathered at a meeting and decided to remain at their jobs pending negotiations by Andrew Cooper, Ontario representative for the Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, with J. E. Ferguson, manager of the Ontario Furniture Manufacturers' Association.

Following the Toronto meeting P. A. Farmer, union president, indicated the end of the strike started Monday morning might be near. After declaring the Toronto workers supported the strikers in other parts of the province and that they would be guided by Mr. Cooper's advice, he declared: "I believe negotiations are pending, and this may mean no action will be necessary to secure our demands."

Foundry Strike at Sarnia

Unrest entered another industry when 50 employees at Holmes Foundry Company Limited, Sarnia, tied up production of cylinder blocks for Ford motor cars by launching a sit-down strike, demanding an eight-hour day with a $5 daily wage. About 400 workers were affected by the strike which saw clashes by opposing factions during the noon hour.

Debate Legal Action.

After workers swung their fists and one declared his family was threatened with a beating if he failed to join the strike, W. B. Mulholland, manager, described intimidation as being on a large scale. To-day the firm's solicitors were deciding on what legal action could be taken.

Furniture workers are asking for an agreement to supplant the one which expired last July after it was in operation for 18 months. A uniform wage schedule for the whole province is sought with lowering of the working-week time. Employees maintain a minimum wage scale is a necessity.

Andrew Cooper, in his capacity as International Union representative, said negotiations have been going on since last August without success and he expressed the opinion "some of the manufacturers did not want a code at all."

In a statement yesterday J. E. Ferguson explained the attitude of the Ontario Furniture Manufacturers' Association. He declared Ontario manufacturers could not see their way clear to renew the code because tariffs caused a large increase in imports and also because of the much lower wage rate in Quebec.

Mr. Ferguson maintained since expiration of the code manufacturers attempted to operate on a 50-hour week basis. There has been wage reductions but the declared the rates were practically the same as before the agreement terminated.

BRITAIN OFFERS GERMANY A NEW LOCARNO TREATY

Appropriate Says Eden Now Spanish War Apparently Unlikely To Spread

LEAGUE FAR FROM LICKED

By George Hambleton
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

LONDON, March 2 (CP)—Foreign Secretary Eden in the House of Commons this afternoon offered Germany a new Locarno Pact.

Eden intimated that as the Spanish civil war now seemed less likely of spreading over the country's own frontiers, Britain proposed to renew efforts to secure a western pact.

"If we can do that," Eden declared, "we shall have taken another step towards securing a general European settlement."

The foreign secretary made Britain's continental commitments clear.

If France or Belgium became victims of unprovoked aggression, he said, Britain would go to their assistance.

At the same time, if a new Locarno pact could be negotiated, Britain would be ready and willing to reach a similar understanding with Germany. Mutuality, the principle of the old Locarno, was always welcome to Britain.

D. R. Grenfell, Labor, earlier in the afternoon questioned Eden on the government's policy regarding return of Germany's war-lost colonies.

No Colony Transfers.

The foreign secretary repeated the answer given to a similar question

POLICE ESTIMATES STRONGLY OPPOSED BY ALD. STOCKER

Chief Newhall Should Spend More Time In Office He Declares

TAX RATE IS STRUCK

The city council invested its budget with the authority of a by-law Monday night, completing its February deliberations which brought forth the 37 mill rate already announced as the Finance committee's recommendation.

For the Board of Education $89,450 is provided for the Collegiate Institute and $106,900 for the Public schools, a total of $346,350.

The Separate School Board receives $29,502.95 from a nine mill levy on $3,311,539 assessment; the Nicholls Hospital $200 a month; and the Board of Health $10,000.

Alderman Stocker objected to the increase in the police department estimates, contending that if Chief Newhall spent more time in the office the necessity of a secretary and inspector might be avoided, and two men could be added to patrol assignments without having to increase the present total strength of the force. Alderman Stocker's criticism was to the effect that Chief Constable often did not reach his office until 10 a.m., went home after the noon hour and sometimes did not return until the evening. He said that a man who was paid eight dollars a day should be expected to be on duty at 9 a.m. and if he did not return in the afternoon until 3 o'clock he would have time to look after the most of the office routine.

"Alderman Wilson said the truest thing when he said 'I don't think they put their men to the best use'," Alderman Stocker declared. And he added: "The fighters are going from the council or soon will be gone, and then you can have it all to yourselves."

On the other hand the administration of the police department was defended by Aldermen Gordon, Mayor Macdonald, Aldermen Cotton, Dutton and Glover. They agreed that the police force should be increased to enable the Chief Constable to assign men to patrol duty in all the wards. Alderman Gordon said a stronger force would create a greater feeling of security in the residential sections of the city, and Alderman Dutton remarked that it was unfortunate that reflections were cast on a department that had given good service.

"My objection," Alderman Wilson said, "was that the increase in the police estimates this year was 20 per cent. That seemed too big a jump for one year. It should be remembered that good citizens are really policing the town. They are doing a large part in maintaining good order by the fact that they are law-abiding and they help out in many ways. But they don't get credit for it."

The by-law was passed without further discussion, adopting the assessments made in 1936 and setting the tax rate at 37 mills.

TRIPLETS IN NORTH

Three Brown Girls "Weigh In" at 16 Pounds.

NORTH BAY, Ont., March 2.—(CP).—Triplets were born last night to Mr. and Mrs. Jacilian Brown, whose North Bay home is approximately 12 miles from the birthplace of the Dionne quintuplets. Like the quints, the Brown babies are all girls.

They weighed more at birth than the Dionne five, whose total weight, officially recorded seven days after their birth May 28, 1934, was 13 pounds, 14 ounces. The Brown threesome weighed an even 16 pounds.

Claims The Pound Is Non-Existant Coin

London, March 2 (AP)

LONDON'S greatest indoor sport is "letters to the editor," has decided there isn't any such thing as the pound sterling.

Letter-writers pointed out the Bank of England notes read: "Bank of England promises to pay the bearer on demand the sum of one pound."

But when you shove a one-pound note through the teller's window, you get either two ten-shilling notes or metal "small change."

There isn't in England a coin stamped "one pound." Therefore, concluded the letters to the editor, England is doing business with a coin which doesn't exist.

11-YEAR-OLD BOY'S SKULL FRACTURED CONDITION SERIOUS

RAN INTO SIDE OF CAR

Critically injured about the head as the result of striking the sharp-pointed handle of a door when he ran into the side of a moving car at 4.45 Monday afternoon, Francis MacDonald, 11-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Clare McDonald, 2 Crescent Street, underwent a blood transfusion at St. Joseph's Hospital at midnight.

Dr. J. M. O'Brien, who operated on the lad to relieve the pressure from an impacted piece of bone in the temporal region, said the boy suffered a compound fracture of the skull. He described the patient's condition as "extremely critical."

Constable Joseph Wheleer volunteered as the blood donor, the transfusion being given prior to the operation, to strengthen the lad, who was in an extremely weakened condition.

This morning hospital authorities said the child had experienced a restful night, but hope is held for his recovery.

The accident occurred in the vicinity of George and Perry Streets, as Miss Norma White, 139 Lansdowne street, was driving north. It was stated in the police report that the child attempted to cross from the south-west to the south-east corner of the intersection when he ran into the left front fender of the car. When in the act of falling it is believed the lad's head struck a handle of a door.

Stopping her car, Miss White rendered all possible assistance pending arrival of Bellegham's ambulance in which he was rushed to hospital. Drs. J. M. O'Brien and J. A. Morgan were in attendance.

The accident was investigated by Detective-Sergeant William Meagher and Sergeant John Thompson.

An enraged bull moose was about to overtake the farmer as he dashed for the security of a dugout. A pet cow moose, thinking Lincke was running to get her a daily tit-bit—raw turnips—jumped in front of the old bull.

Reaching safety, Lincke got his gun and shot the bull. The pet cow got a double portion of turnips.

GUARD TESTIFIES CROSLEY PLACED IN PADDED CELL

Convict Says He Saw Accused Take "Shots" 15-20 Times Then Sing And Dance

NOT WRONG IN THE HEAD

KINGSTON, Ont., March 2 (CP).—Assistant hospital overseer, a guard and a convict were called by the defence in the trial of convict Chester Crosley, colored, charged with the murder of Guard John McCormick, as the trial resumed today before Justice Keiller Mackay. They all told of the actions of Crosley in the penitentiary, stressing his insistent demand for medicine and of his creating disturbances.

As the court opened Crosley asked His Lordship to read a memorandum he had prepared. He asked that it be read before "this case goes any farther in the interests of justice." Justice Mackay agreed to read the paper and remarked that he had no further comment to make.

Guard D. A. Duncan, a guard at the Kingston Penitentiary since 1933, said he did duty at the prison hospital as a disciplinary officer. He told of Crosley being carried from his cell into the hospital in a stupor and pinned in a padded cell. He saw medicine administered to the accused.

Saw Him Take "Shots"

Convict Farmer, who works in the barber shop at the penitentiary, told of Crosley coming into the change room between May and July of last year and taking "shots" in the arm. He saw Crosley take "shots" 15 or 20 times. After he took the "shots" he would step

Famed Janetville Character Owner Of "Tommy's Ends" Dies

Apple Barrels Bulging In Display With Cloth Of Every Variety Drew Citizens Of Two Countries

GLOBE TROTTED IN WINTER

LINDSAY, Ont., March 2.—(CP).—Thomas C. Hawkins, proprietor of "Tommy's Ends," the village store patronized by residents of every province of Canada and every State in the United States is dead.

Word reached here from the Lines Lafayette, bound from New York to the West Indies, that "Tommy" died last Friday from a heart attack. He was bound for a two months' vacation in the tropics.

Tommy, as he was known by everybody, has conducted his strange store in the village of Janetville for about 30 years. Although Janetville's population is less than 100 and the village is situated off the beaten track, citizens of two countries send a postcard to his door from South America.

Went South in Winter.

He never advertised, never sent out circulars and never accepted purchase. He closed his shop for two or three months each winter while he went globe trotting, usually to New York, Bermuda, the Pacific Islands or the West Indies.

Tommy had no credit worries, he didn't bother about month-end accounts of any kind. He did all his bookkeeping in his head—and made a success of his business, for he is reported to have been more than moderately wealthy.

Ministers Are Urging Food List Prescribed Be Given Week's Trial

Be More Able To Appreciate The Position Of The Reliefers

RESOLUTION PASSED

List Supplied By Relief Office As To What May Be Secured

Caviar, pate de foie gras, truffles, and other luxury foods will be forbidden to Peterborough tables during the week of March 15 if the recommendation agreed upon by the Ministerial Association to-day is adopted by local citizens. The Association urged that the food list prescribed for relief recipients be given a trial in order that an appreciation of the position of indigents may be gained.

Rev. W. P. Robertson, rector of St. John's Anglican Church, put forth the suggestion, following the lead of Anglican church officials in Toronto. He pointed out that actual existence on relief rations for one week would give Peterborough ministers and citizens a deeper understanding of the relief situation and place them in a better position in dealing with the recipients.

Adjutant Neil Warrander of the Salvation Army seconded Mr. Robertson and the following resolution was adopted by a vote of 7-3 after a brief discussion:

"The Ministerial Association suggests to its members and to city citizens willing to do so that for one week beginning March 15 they live on the standard food rations prescribed for relief in Peterborough."

No stipulation that those joining in the one-week experiment restrict themselves to expenditures in accordance with relief allowances appeared in the resolution. Apparently that restriction was in the mind of the Association, however, for the experiment would otherwise be pointless.

Inquiry at the Relief Office revealed that relief recipients may choose from the following list in any two-week period:

Apples, bread, beans, butter, baking powder, barley, cheese, corn starch, cabbage, carrots, eggs, 24 pounds of pastry flour, 24 pounds of bread flour, milk, condensed milk, macaroni, rolled oats, cornmeal, wheatlets, cooking onions, peanut butter, potatoes, prunes, black pepper, China rice, raisins, salt, shortening, syrup, sugar, tinned tomatoes, tapioca, turnips, tea, and choice of raspberry or strawberry jam, or plum jam, or five pounds of honey. No restriction as to meat cuts is enforced.

Rev. Dr. A. T. Barr and Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe were appointed to consider a slate of nominations for Association offices for 1937. The slate is to be returned at the next meeting.

BLOW FOR GEORGE V COSTS DETROITER HIS STORE, COUNTRY

Hit Man Who Cursed Late King —U.S. Would Send Him To Syria—Canada Bars Him

FOUGHT FOR HER IN WAR

DETROIT, March 2.—(CP).—Because he admired King George V and struck a man who insulted the late monarch, Samuel Joseph Abraham, 46, native of Syria, is without a country.

United States' immigration officers want to deport him to Syria, but that country won't have him because he became a naturalized Canadian citizen in 1912. Although he served with the Canadian army in the Great War, Canadian authorities say he has forfeited his citizenship in the Dominion by staying away from the country more than a year.

A few days later immigration men questioned him. Abraham believes the victim of his big fists was responsible for that. He was jailed and released on $500 bond five days later. The case dragged on, but finally, last week-end, Abraham learned Washington had ruled he was to be deported to Syria.

Halted at Border.

He immediately made for Canada but was stopped by Canadian immigration officers who told him he must return to the United States. It required two burly Windsor police officers to persuade him he should move from the immigration office. He was placed in a police cell for a few hours until released by his lawyers.

He's back here now, bewildered, waiting disposition of the case.

"That's my country—Canada—across the river," he said. "I don't care if I stay in Detroit or go to Canada, but I don't want to go to Syria."

Abraham joined the Second Garrison Artillery in 1916 and was discharged at Halifax after the war, he said. He has a Mons Star, General Service and Victory medals.

In 1922 he went to Detroit. "I didn't know anything about head tax," he said. "It was just like going from one town to another in Nova Scotia."

He started his little store and married a Syrian woman in 1928. They haven't any children.

CENTRAL STATES ROCKED BY 'QUAKE

Tremors Are Felt In Chatham, Ontario, Ohio, Kentucky, Indiana, Michigan

COLUMBUS, O., March 2—(AP).—Earth tremors shook Ohio between 9.45 and 9.50 a.m. to-day, but reports indicated there was no damage.

Accompanied by a slight rumbling in some districts, the quiver shook buildings and caused the movement of desks and chairs. Dishes in homes were knocked to the floor.

The tremor was felt throughout the west central and northern portions of the State. There were no reports from the hilly south-eastern section. Shocks lasted about two minutes.

School children at Zanesfield, in Logan county, were dismissed.

The tremors also were reported in Kentucky, West Virginia, Indiana and Michigan.

Cincinnati Sways.

Buildings throughout the Cincinnati area rocked slightly about 9.50 a.m. E.S.T. to-day as if from an earth tremor. It was not determined immediately the source of the disturbance.

Lifetime Military Service For All Italians Age 18-55

Fascist Decree Issued In Challenge To Britain's Vast Re-armament Program

CLOSER NAZI TIES

ROME, March 31.—(AP).—Fascist Italy decreed virtual lifetime military service to-day for all citizens between the ages of 18 and 55 in a challenge to Great Britain's vast rearmament program.

Declaring "even the remote possibility of limitation of armaments now has been definitely excluded," the Fascist Grand Council pledged Italy to a five-point plan to increase her armaments and war forces.

At the same time, the official communique issued after the near all-night session of the governing body of Fascism stressed the "realistic" cooperation of Italy with the Fascist line of nations, particularly Nazi Germany.

In addition to what was generally considered the direct answer to British re-arming, a veiled hint to Britain to consider Italian power in her foreign program was seen in the council's comment on the Anglo-Italian gentlemen's agreement.

While the Grand Council declared it considered the accord clarified the relations between the two nations in the Mediterranean, the insulation of the clarification to that specific area was deemed significant.

Italy, the Council emphasized, declared to collaborate with those na-

Manitoba Adopts Idea Despite Opposition From Stubbs.

WINNIPEG, March 2 (C.P.). — Although the proposal was opposed by L. St. George Stubbs (Ind. Winnipeg), the Manitoba Legislature henceforth will open its daily sittings with prayer beseeching Divine guidance in all its deliberations.

"This is a secular body; not a religious one," Mr. Stubbs said last night when the proposal was made by General H. D. B. Ketchen (Cons., Winnipeg).

"We are of various religious beliefs. Some of us believe in prayer and some of us do not."

The motion was passed, however, without a recorded vote.

Turkey Rules Women Must Serve In War

NEGRO CONVICT WAS GIVEN DRUG AS EXPERIMENT

Queen's Professor Admits He Acted At Request Of W. M. Nickle, K.C.

"DISCOVERED SOMETHING"

Brands Accused's Actions Those of Raving Maniac During Stabbing

KINGSTON, March 2 — (CP) — Chester Crosley was given ephridine as a "scientific experiment" by a doctor who had no license to practice in Ontario, testimony at the murder trial of the Negro convict showed today. Crosley is on trial for the fatal stabbing of Guard John McCormick at Kingston penitentiary last July 11.

As Dr. John Wylie, professor of preventive medicine at Queen's University here, testified yesterday, Crosley jumped to his feet in the prisoners dock and cried out against "racial feeling" being introduced into the trial.

"Stop him from introducing racial feelings into this trial," the heavy set Negro pleaded. Tears streamed down his face. "I was born in this country and nowhere in the world is a colored man treated as he is under the British flag. Make him stop those South American tactics."

As Crosley sobbed bitterly Mr. Justice Keller MacKay warned him such actions would force him to place guards in the box with the prisoner. "You will get a fair trial here, Crosley," Mr. Justice MacKay said. "It makes no difference if a person is black or white, man or woman, there will be no discrimination by the law."

Dr. Wylie described Crosley as a physical wreck when he met him at the penitentiary last September. Crosley was a "moron and of low mental type," the doctor said. He was also drug addict. He admitted at the request of W. M. Nickle, K.C., defence counsel, he had injected ephridine into the convict.

No License For Ontario

Crown Prosecutor Snyder asked the witness if he had a license to practice in Ontario and Dr. Wylie, a graduate of Glasgow University and Cambridge University, said he had not.

"Do you mean to tell this court you have no license to practise and yet you went to the penitentiary and administered ephridine?" asked the prosecutor.

"I did it at the request of Mr. Nickle and as a scientific investigation," Dr. Wylie said. He added when he made the injections on Crosley he discovered something not in the text books. It was the effects of ephridine on a human and he intended to write a paper on it.

Mr. Nickle started re-examination of the witness and declared he would take the responsibility for the "scientific experiment." He asked the court to permit a study of the lengthy bill were passed and the rest stood over until Wednesday.

Dr. Snyder asked Dr. Wylie what theory he had for Crosley going to breakfast on the morning of July 11, and, if he had a knife, concealing it, going to the hospital, passing a number of convicts, and yet picking out the two men against whom he had a grudge.

"I would call it the actions of a raving maniac," the doctor replied.

"Yet, among all those men he, though you call him a raving maniac, was able to pick out the men he wanted," Mr. Snyder continued.

Dr. Wylie said he did not think Crosley picked out the man. "Crosley knew there was no escape from the penitentiary and to slash away as he did were the actions of a raving maniac," he maintained.

ANY AMENDMENTS SUCCESSION DUTY ACT TO BE BARRED

Sinclair, Hunter Attack It—Nixon Says Gov't Taking All Responsibility

SAID UNINTELLIGIBLE

TORONTO, March 2 (C.P.).— The Throne Speech debate will resume in the Ontario Legislature to-day with Russell Nesbitt (Con., Toronto-Bracondale) taking up the attack where he left off last Thursday.

A "Labor and Industry Board" to consolidate the administration of the Industrial Standards Act, Minimum Wage Act, and the Apprenticeship Act was announced to the House yesterday by Hon. David Croll, Minister of Labor.

The board will be given the power to investigate labor conditions in any Ontario industry under the terms of a Bill introduced for first reading by Mr. Croll.

Second reading was given yesterday unanimously to a Bill to repeal the 1933 Ontario Hairdressers' and Barbers' Association Act.

Mr. Croll explained the two trades are subject to the Apprenticeship Act, and in any case no enthusiasm had been shown for the effort to set up an association fostered by the Act now being repealed.

Succession Duty Amendments

A government-sponsored bill to amend the Succession Duty Act ran into fire from two government members, W. E. N. Sinclair (Lib., Ontario) and Fraser Hunter (Lib., Toronto-St. Patrick's) when it reached committee stage yesterday. Both declared the measure was unintelligible and the government should revise the whole act and present a finished piece of legislation.

Wilfred Heighington (Con., Toronto-St. David's) led the attack on the clauses of the measure. He particularly censured that enabling the government to go back to 1892 in looking into estates for fixing their values. He wanted to make 1932 the limit.

Mr. Sinclair said he feared government investigators might dig him up 10 or 15 years after he is dead to take the gold out of his teeth.

Provincial Secretary Harry Nixon leading the House, said the government was taking responsibility for its own legislation and would not accept amendments. After nearly two hours wrangling three clauses of the lengthy bill were passed and the rest stood over until Wednesday.

CHURCH ASKS MORE NATIONAL PARKS

Claims Ontario's Present Reserves Are Worth Nothing, Attract Nobody

OTTAWA, Mar. 2 (CP)—Thomas L. Church (Cons. Toronto Broadview) last night deplored in the House of Commons what he called the lack of national parks in Ontario, "except for a few acres." He had been urging increased national park areas since 1921, Mr. Church said, and believed Ontario was "entitled to something."

Hon. T. A. Crerar, Minister of Mines and Resources, told him there were three national park areas in Ontario. He agreed with Mr. Church's declaration of the scenic qualities of Ontario.

Mr. Church replied he would not give Queens Park in Toronto for 100 such national parks as they have in Ontario which were "worth nothing and attract nobody."

HOUSE IS UNITED IN GIVING SANCTION TO BLIND PENSIONS

First Reading Passes Without Debate—Combines Bill Advances

CHECK-UPS COMING

OTTAWA, March 2 (CP).—Conservative Leader Bennett, who negotiated the first trade agreement between Canada and the United Kingdom in 1932 at the Ottawa conference today will give his views on the new agreement signed last week under the Liberal Government.

As chief financial critic for the Opposition, Mr. Bennett will be the first speaker in the budget debate and will discuss the financial statement given the House last Thursday by Hon. Charles Dunning, Minister of Finance, in which the terms of the new treaty were disclosed.

Yesterday the House pushed business along at a lively pace in an atmosphere of complete good humor. All sides of the House applauded the introduction by Mr. Dunning of a bill to provide pensions for the blind.

He announced the provinces had given the plan unanimous approval. The bill was given first reading without debate and Conservative Leader Bennett said he could see no reason why it should not pass speedily.

Labor Minister Rogers' bill to bring the Combines Investigation Act administration back to his department, "strengthened and fortified," and under a permanent commissioner, was introduced and explained last week. Today it was given second reading and placed with the Committee of the Whole House, where it will be debated later.

On this measure there was also apparent unanimity but Mr. Bennett questioned one of its provisions which places the power to proceed in the hands of the Federal authority. He was afraid it would conflict with the constitutional rights of the provinces in the administration of justice.

Urges Further Study.

Provision of power for the Federal authority to act in these cases, Mr. Bennett said, was "a consummation devoutly to be hoped for but one the possibility of which I doubt very much under existing constitutional practice, certainly not if the latest judgments of the Privy Council are to be relied upon." He indicated he would like to see the Bill go to committee for any further debate and examination.

Mr. Rogers said the Government had no intention of making any wholesale series of investigations along the line of "inquisitions" but intended to initiate a vigorous administration of the Combines Act in view of the lull in these proceedings.

NATIONALIST WING SCORES DUPLESSIS

Insist French-Canadian Majority Enjoy Major Position In Quebec

QUEBEC, March 2. — (C.P.). — A Nationalist wing of Quebec's Union Nationale government was established today with a slogan of "Quebec for the French-Canadians." The new group is not against the English or other races in Canada, but insists the French-Canadian majority of this province should enjoy the dominant economic position here, members told a mass meeting here Sunday.

Speakers heckled Dr. Philippe Hamel, Union Nationale member for Quebec Centre and champion of public ownership of electric power, as the true leader of Union Nationale and the future premier branding Premier Duplessis as a betrayer of his race and a breaker of promises. They charged they had not left Union Nationale, but were the real adherents of the program of the party which gained 76 of the legislative assembly's 90 seats at last summer's election. Premier Duplessis had led the others on strange paths, they claimed.

Oscar Drouin, member for Quebec East; Rene Chaloult, member for Kamouraska; Mayor J. E. Gregoire, member for Montmagny, and Hon. Ernest Ouellet, member of the legislative council, supported Dr. Hamel at the meeting and aligned themselves with him in his fight for economic emancipation of the French-Canadians and abolition of trusts and monopolies.

Enter No Candidate.

The group declined a request of Mayor Odilon Cliche of St. Joseph de Beauce to nominate a candidate for the provincial by-election in Beauce. They would support any candidate who chose to carry their program, said Dr. Hamel.

"Canada for the Canadians, but Quebec for the French-Canadians," said Omar Drouin, who resigned last week as minister of lands and forests because he claimed the premier would not grant Quebec public ownership.

"We are not against the English, nor the Irish, the Italians, the Jews" said Rene Chaloult, who was asked to leave a Union Nationale caucus last week," but we are for the French Canadians."

SAVE OUR FOREST WEALTH IS DEMAND FROM ALL PARTIES

Members Urge Government To Lend Provinces Every Assistance

SEEN GRAVE PROBLEM

OTTAWA, March 2. —(CP)— A forest conservation campaign that would enlist the active support of all governments, woods operators and individuals was urged on the government last night by members of all parties in the House of Commons during consideration of the mines and resources estimates.

Faced by the constitutional jurisdiction enjoyed by the provinces over all forest lands except those in the Territories, the government was urged on all sides to offer whatever assistance it would to the provinces and seek to create a more lively realization of the gravity of this problem.

Finance Minister Dunning declared that the problem was not only one of conserving a commercial asset but of maintaining human life. Hon. T. A. Crerar, minister of Mines and resources, told of the research work being done by forest laboratories and experimental farms in an endeavor to fight forest depletion by commercial activity, insects and forest fires. The importance of this problem was being impressed more and more on the minds of those concerned.

Conservative Leader Bennett initiated the discussion when the supply committee adopting an item of $98,300 for the advancement of forest conservation. Last year, Mr. Bennett said, $5,000,000 acres were denuded to obtain the wood necessary for export pulp and paper requirements.

When the Trees Go.

Mr. Dunning referred to the constitutional barrier to any direct action by the dominion but was most emphatic in his declaration that this was a problem in which the co-operation of the provinces should be actively engaged.

"If the history of the world shows anything it is that when tree life goes human life does not long survive in that area," Mr. Dunning said. He referred to the constitutional barriers to federal action on forest conservation but expressed the hope that people could be moved to "co-operate with nature" to save the forest not only for commercial reasons but because of their importance to life and health.

Mr. Bennett told of a forestation work that had been carried on in Western Canada for the past half century for windbreaks and shelters. Trees were grown from seedlings. In Canada the jurisdiction over the forests rested with the provinces and about all the federal government could do would be to extend assistance through its forest experimental stations and experimental farms.

When it was considered that some of the large trees in British Columbia were well grown when Columbus discovered America one could appreciate, Mr. Bennett said, the time necessary to restore such forests.

Mr. Bennett told of steps taken in Western Australia systematically to control the cutting of timber and establishing of mills. In Canada there were too many paper mills established to supply requirements of the United States.

At this point Mr. Bennett spoke of the drawback in the Canadian customs tariff on certain types of paper imported from the United States for printing papers and magazines in Canada, and probably made from raw material imported from Canada in the first place.

WIFE VANISHES VISIT TO THEATRE

Sick Baby Son Crying For Her —Windsor Husband Stunned

WINDSOR, Ont., March 2 (CP)— Stunned by the disappearance of his wife and fearing foul play, Leonard Michaelis nervously paced his Windsor home today, attempting to still the cries of a sick baby son and a small daughter for their mother. The wife and mother, attractive 26-year-old Dorothy Michaelis left home a week ago yesterday to see a theatre and do some shopping in Detroit. Nothing has been heard from her since.

Michaelis has told the children, Leonard, four, and Joyce, six, that their mother is visiting friends. Leonard cries for her as he had a bad cold.

His wife's mother, Mrs. George Mulholland of London, Ont., is not in good health, Michaelis said, and he has not informed her of her daughter's disappearance and for fear she will collapse.

BALTIMORE DEFIES EDICT OF THE A.A.U. WILL PLAY BEARS

Other Teams In League Assure Orioles They Will Play Out Schedule

RISK SUSPENSIONS

NEW YORK, March 2.—(CP). — Baltimore Orioles, whose suspension was announced yesterday by Frederick Rubien, chairman of the A.A.U. hockey committee, because they had not secured A.A.U. registration, play in Hershey against the Bears tonight.

General Manager Sam McCallister of the Orioles, said he had assurances from other teams in the league that the schedule would be continued, even though such action might mean, as A.A.U. officials said, suspension of other teams.

Rubien coupled his suspension of the Orioles with announcement the A.A.U. was terminating its player-transfer agreement with the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association April 1. This agreement allows a certain number of Canadian players to transfer to United States' teams each season, returning at the end of the playing season to Canada.

Rubien held that the C.A.H.A. was no longer affiliated with the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada, the agreement actually was void.

This opinion brought from league officials the statement the eastern loop would consider setting itself up as an independent body and function outside the jurisdiction of the A.A.U.

Thinks Tie-up Can Be Arranged.

In London, Cecil Duncan of Ottawa, president of the C.A.H.A., who has been attending to various hockey matters abroad, agreed with Rubien that the Canadian-United States player transfer agreement was now void. However, he said, Rubien's announcement was not unexpected and he felt a tieup between the Canadian hockey body and the Eastern United States Hockey League could be effected.

A spokesman for New York Rovers said the League would consider affiliating with the C.A.H.A., a move which, it was said, would simplify matters because then "first-rank amateur hockey on the North American continent will be under one head.

"The Eastern Amateur Hockey League will stick together and carry out its schedule," said Phil Thompson, Atlantic City Seagulls manager.

The A.A.U., he said, could not stop Baltimore playing league games. He believed the situation was not as bad as it sounded.

"As I interpret the ruling," he declared, "all the Seagulls now registered by the middle Atlantic district A.A.U. will be eligible next season."

APPS IS POINT BELOW AURIE IN GREAT RACE

JACKSON IS FIFTH

MONTREAL, March 2 (CP). — Rookie Sylvanus Apps, Connie Smythe's candidate for the Calder Cup, is making it a hot race for another National Hockey League honor—the league's scoring leadership. And he's just one point away from it now.

The young Toronto Maple Leaf forward picked up two points during the week, and official league statistics put him a single point behind the leading Larry Aurie of Detroit Red Wings. Aurie went pointless during the week to leave his standing at twenty-two goals and eighteen assists for a forty total.

Apps now has thirteen goals and twenty-six assists, and he's leading the league in the helping-out division. Likewise Aurie is tops in actual goals, three up on Harvey Jackson of the Leafs. Johnny Gagnon of Montreal Canadiens and "Butch" Keeling of the New York Rangers.

Campbellford Wins In O.H.A. Juvenile

Campbellford Juveniles won the first round in the play-offs of the Juvenile series 4-3 when they tied the Warkworth team with a score of 2-2 in a game played in Davidson's arena before a fair crowd. Reddick started the scoring for the locals after seven minutes of the first period had been played and a scramble in front of the visitors net found the puck inside the crease. McKee tallied for the visitors in a solo effort which tied up the score momentarily while Farrell scored the final goal of the period on a pass from Kelly which brought the locals out in front the score standing at 3-1 when the bell sounded the end of the period. The only other goal of the game was scored by Austin on a pass from Greenly in the second.

The third period opened fast but neither team was able to get the break it needed to overcome the tie, however towards the last the locals settled down to defensive hockey realizing that to hold the score at 2-2 meant they would win the round.

Penalties:

First period — Nelson, Nicholos. Austin, Nicholos. Second period — Nicholos, Kelly, Reddick. Third period—Nicholos, McColl, Buchanan.

Warkworth—Goal, Fouler; defence Beatty, McColl; centre, Buchanan; wings, Greenly, Austin; subs, McKee, Nelson, H. Edgar, Smooker, A. Edgar.

THE SAFE, SENSIBLE WAY TO RELIEVE CONSTIPATION

Every one knows the dangers of constipation. Pills and drugs usually bring only temporary relief. That's because common constipation is due to meals low in "bulk."

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN contains "bulk" that does not break down in the body as does that of many leafy vegetables. ALL-BRAN absorbs twice its weight in water and forms a soft mass that gently sponges the intestines.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is a food—not a medicine. In addition to "bulk"—it gives vitamin B to tone up the system, and iron for the blood. It is a healthful way to get rid of constipation and all its evils.

Eat two tablespoonfuls daily with milk or cream—three times a day in severe cases. Or use it in making bran muffins, breads, in salads or soups. Guaranteed by Kellogg in London.

C. W. L. Holds March Meeting

Program Includes Musical Numbers And Papers—Reports Given

A pleasing program which covered a lot of ground was presented at the meeting of the Catholic Women's League of the Cathedral parish, held on Monday evening in the assembly hall of St. Alphonsus Lyceum, with a good attendance. The president, Miss Lillian Hurley, was in the chair.

The program, arranged by Miss Mamie McCarthy, included some beautifully-rendered music that received much appreciative applause. Miss Madonna Hurtubise played two piano selections: "Monastery Garden" and "Danny Boy," and vocal numbers were presented by Miss Trucie Pearson and George Daly, the former singing "In the Garden of my Heart" and "Long, Long Ago," the latter singing "Macushla" and "For You Alone." Miss Veronica Scollard, A.T.C.M., was accompanist.

Papers were also given by Miss Bernadette Galvin and Miss Cathleen McCarthy, the former honoring the Patron Saint season by speaking on "Traditions and Legends of Ireland," the latter speaking on "Women of Achievement."

Miss Hurley announced a forthcoming tag day in aid of St. Vincent's Orphanage and also spoke of the Women's Mass Meeting to be held on Thursday night of this week in the City Council Chamber in connection with the Home Improvement Plan.

Brief reports were presented by Mrs. H. O'Keefe and Miss Annie Simons. Members of a nominating committee to prepare a slate of officers for the annual meeting in April were appointed, with Mrs. J. R. Corkery as convenor, and members in Mrs. C. O. Hiland, Mrs. Joseph J. Galvin and Mrs. Frank Eano.

Miss Bernadette Galvin's paper on Ireland was most entertaining. It touched on the highlights of Irish character, its humor and pathos, with a recital of the tales centering around national famous places, such as the Blarney Stone (which to salute properly "upside down," as it were, is to ensure the possession of audacious wit and charm), St. Kevin's Kitchen and spots made famous by the green isle's patron saint.

"The charm of Ireland due to the delicious slowness of life there," said Miss Galvin. "Spiritual values take precedence over material values. In America, we think of a man first as a grocer or a policeman, but in Ireland the order is reversed. There, the Customs Officer is Mr. Casey first and a Customs Officer second."

Miss Cathleen McCarthy's paper was concerned with the difficulties which have attended the efforts of many women who have achieved prominence and fame in various walks of life.

Peggy and Hubby Face Bigamy Charges

Dramatic climax to her unsuccessful suit against Dave Rubinoff, violin genius, Peggy Garcia, former hat-check girl in a New York night club, finds herself in jail along with her husband, Michael LaRocca. They are charged with bigamy, Mrs. Kathleen LaRocca of Queens, N.Y., claiming that she is the lawful wife of LaRocca whom Peggy married some months ago, and Peggy herself admitting to a marriage when she was 12 years old, the status of which is still not settled. So here are Peggy and Michael studying the situation with some indication of worry.

Just Between Us Women

A Daily Chat With Examiner Neighbors, Conducted by Roberta

THE CARDINAL rose with a dignified look,
He called for his candle, his bell, and his book!
In holy anger, and pious grief,
He solemnly cursed that rascally thief!
He cursed him at board, he cursed him in bed;
From the sole of his foot to the crown of his head.
He cursed him in sleeping, that every night
He should dream of the devil, and wake in a fright;
He cursed him in eating, he cursed him in drinking,
He cursed him in coughing, in sneezing, in winking,
He cursed him in sitting, in standing, in lying;
He cursed him in walking, in riding, in flying;
He cursed him living, he cursed him in dying!
Never was heard such a terrible curse!
But, what gave rise
To no little surprise,
Nobody seemed a penny the worse!
—Barham.

Dear Friends:

Do you go around cursing people and things, when life does not suit you? The worst thing I have ever said about anyone is, (if they have injured me) that they get what is coming to them. If they have not willingly hurt me, nothing happens, but if they were malicious then it recoiled on their own heads.

Of course there have been curses that really came to pass, but those were usually by holy men who had a reason for their cursing. There have been curses put on jewels, and the owners have wished they never received them.

But I think one human being should think twice before they curse anyone else, for "curses like chickens, come home to roost." After all, why should you think you are so infallible, that you should lay a curse on anyone who has done you wrong. Maybe you left yourself wide open for whatever you got.

But in the majority of cases, "Nobody seems a penny the worse" when someone wishes all kinds of evil on them. My own idea is that if you do not fear such kind of evil, thus giving importance to it, nothing ever will happen. It is your fear that draws your notice to it, that acts like a magnet to bring bad things to pass. And maybe these things were slated to happen anyway.

I had an old Irish friend in Scotland, whom I called Granny because I never had a Grandmother, (they died before I was born) and she used to amuse us by the colorful curses she heaped on those who annoyed her. She brought in everything imaginable, their ancestors, themselves, every last member of their family, and generally you could hear her rumble in her throat, "bad cess to them."

One day I asked if she wasn't afraid to wish these things on anyone, and she said, "shure acushla, and I don't mane a word of it. I only did it to relieve my feelings. I wouldn't be wishing any harm on the poor creathers for the world, sure and I wouldn't."

So when it was all said and done, she was only letting off steam, and we children would get a great kick out of listening to her. And never will I forget one morning when I had gone there with my mother and they were having a cup o' tay together, and she said "here now wean have this pancake," and oh how I hated the stuff.

But it never occurred to me to tell her so, so I dug manfully into the cold porridge and after I had finished, I heard her say to mother, "I fixed it up good for the cat, and the dotted thing wouldn't eat it," and never again would I eat the stuff after that.

Which has nothing to do with cursing, but it popped into my mind and many's the laugh we have had about it since. I was about four at the time, and a lot of water has gone under the bridge since then, but I will never forget it. But truly, I think those who go around cursing others must have a dark and turgid mind.

Not long ago, I heard a woman wish that another would fall downstairs and break her neck, just because this woman was coming to see her, and the only thing that happened was that the one who wished this, caught her heel in the hem of her skirt and twisted her knee painfully.

So, be like the three monkeys and "see no evil, hear no evil, and speak no evil," and I would add to that, wish no evil on anyone, for God knows there is enough of it in the world without wishing it on anyone.

Your Friend,
ROBERTA.

JESSIE THE COW "GETS" RIVERSIDE

Council Resolves To Forget Her After Publicity Begins To Irk

RIVERSIDE, Ont., March 2 (CP) —"Jessie the cow" came up for more discussion at a meeting of this suburban Windsor town council last night, but if members have their way about it, Jessie won't get into print so much in future.

Jessie first appeared to get in council members' hair in 1936 and a by-law was passed forcing her owners, the Nowicki family, to remove the bovine from the town-run fire grounds she wasn't a fit resident for a residential district.

Attempt of a member of the audience to criticize council for enforcing the exiling by-law brought Jessie back into the meeting last night.

"She has got us on the map, so let's forget about her," Councillor Clifford Chauvin said. "An attempt is being made to make us look like damn fools again."

"I'd like to know who was responsible for Jessie's picture appearing in a Toronto paper last week," Reeve Harry Drouillard said. "I'm sick and tired of Jessie."

WOMAN EXPLORER TO "GO IT ALONE"

Mrs. Martin Johnson Wants No Companion On Return To Jungles

WICHITA, Kas., March 2—(AP)—Mrs. Martin Johnson is determined to "go it alone"—rejecting all proffers of companions—in backtracking the jungle trails she traveled with her famed explorer husband, who died in a California air crash.

She wants to carry on her husband's work, she said to-day. "I just couldn't stay over here in civilization more than six months. It's no nofey. Over in Africa it's so quiet and peaceful. You go to bed early and you get up feeling like doing a hard day's work."

Small, vivacious, Mrs. Johnson has the appearance of a girl half her 42 years. Her rapid recovery from injuries she suffered in the plane crash which killed Johnson amazed her physicians.

MAY TINT HAIR TO MATCH DRESS

New Shampoo Gives Lavender, Blue, Green And Pink Shades

CHICAGO, March 2—(A.P.)—Ladies with blonde, gray and light brown tresses soon will go dancing with their hair tinted lavender, blue, green or pink.

That's the latest fad President Marc Gartman of the Illinois Hairdressers' Association, said to-day at the annual Midwest Beauty Trade Show.

The idea of the tinted hair—and it is done, Gartman explained, with a shampoo tint that can be quickly and easily washed out—is to match or contrast the evening gown.

Thus a blonde, wearing a shell-pink tulle dress can have her locks rinsed with a shell-pink tint, Gartman said.

At the Theatres

AT THE REGENT
"THREE MEN ON A HORSE"

Erwin was a gentle soul who longed to spend his time in manufacturing verses appropriate to "Mother's Day" for a more or less irascible old guy called J. O. Carver (Guy Kibbee). Erwin had a bossy brother-in-law named Clarence and a tearful, pretty wife named Audrey and he lived in a suburb called Dobbin's Road, where the houses were all alike (and all of them had water in the cellar).

Erwin, who is none other than our old friend (usually stewed) Frank McHugh, was getting along fairly well on forty per, until he met up with (by way of a prolonged jag, brought on by overdoses of Caffeine), a trio of hard-boiled guys who were playing the horses (with more or less luck, usually less). Erwin was a good amateur pitcher of the peanuts he having developed a system of his own (while commuting to and fro on the 'bus). Then he also meets up with a more or less (really more) classy blonde called Mabel (Joan Blondell) who takes his mind off his troubles (and his hangover) by going into her dance while Erwin modestly strives to keep the blankets from slipping off his chin. And then of course, there is the somewhat demented Mr. Patsy and the colored elevator boy and the charlady who tries to patch up Erwin's "Mother's Day" verses and a black horse called Mr. Khayyam for no reason at all and another horse called Equipoise. Jumbled all together, they give you plenty of laughs in a swiftly-moving goulash that illustrates beautifully the new fashion in farce comedies for the silver screen.

Along with it goes a bittersome musical short and a delicious little "Colored Rhapsody" in which a pair of romantic glow-worms with incandescent bodies have a lot of frolicsome fun.—O. L. M.

One Thing Commendable

Premier Aberhart is to be commended for the frankness which he displayed in saying plainly he had not been able to carry out his election promises and have Social Credit in operation 18 months after he was elected. We believe that is why people in Alberta voted for Social Credit; it was popularly expected that at the end of 18 months they would be receiving a credit dividend of $25 per month. They were persuaded Mr. Aberhart knew how to make this new scheme work, and he did a good deal to encourage that belief.

The Premier of Alberta seems to have a peculiar method of mixing his politics with religion. All his important announcements are reserved for the pulpit of the Calgary Prophetic Bible Institute and they come on Sunday. That may be no better or no worse than the use other folk make of Sunday and its hours, but making a religious effort into a vehicle in which to carry a political burden is not highly commendable.

Premier Aberhart now wants the leaders of Social Credit to tell him what to do. If they say so he will resign; if they do not say so he will go ahead. The answer to that one seems simple enough. They will tell him to stay where he is, because if they told him to resign they would be knocking down the last hope they have of securing Social Credit and its promised dividends.

The only bright feature in the announcement is the fact that Premier Aberhart made it himself; he said plainly he had failed to do what he had promised during the election campaign, and for such a statement he should receive full credit. There have been a good many other political leaders who have failed to carry out their pledges and they seldom have the candor to mention it after they have been elected.

Poor Start For March

Fifteen hundred workers in furniture factories went on strike when the month of March began. Points affected are Toronto, Hanover, Wingham, Hespeler, Preston, Owen Sound, Strathroy, Kitchener, London, Kincardine, Listowel and Stratford. Places like Hanover and Wingham will be hardest hit, as five plants are involved in Hanover and three in Wingham. Stratford, which bore the brunt of the last strike, has but one plant closed, the McLagan Furniture Co., and we heartily hope for the sake of Stratford that the strike may be held within that limit.

It is all a matter of wages. The men want 50 cents an hour for skilled workers, a 44-hour week and time and a-half for extra hours. The employers want a wage scale which varies according to zones. It would be higher in the larger centres of population and less in the smaller places, but the workers will have nothing to do with that.

Furniture workers have not been highly paid, and we doubt if some of the plants are in condition to do much about it. There were a good many years when the competition among the furniture plants was nothing short of ruinous and the large buyers of furniture took full advantage of their discovery that they were operating in a buyer's market where they could pretty much name the price they were prepared to pay. There were factories which accepted orders on a basis where factory costs were barely recovered, and there were cases where they took business in order to keep the men employed at prices which represented a direct loss. Whether the manufacturers themselves have cured that situation is something we do not know, but it was a patent fact at the time no one else could cure it for them.

We doubt too whether there are funds in the union treasury to take care of 1,500 men who have quit work. Like a good many other workers and average citizens their resources will be used up in a short time. One stubborn fact is this: There are too many furniture factories competing for the available business, but of course that applies to almost any line. It does look from this distance as though negotiations could have been carried on longer without resorting to the strike.

Price Is Too High

It is not likely readers will find any pleasure in looking over details set forth in this item:

> Fractured left arm, lacerations above the left eye, a compound fracture of the right leg, a compound fracture of the foot and four broken ribs over the heart.

That refers to one man who was in a car accident. His companion's injuries:

> Lacerations over the head and a fractured skull, six broken ribs over the heart, a fracture of the left leg and lacerations of the right leg.

We agree there is nothing pleasant in that. And yet traffic was much lighter than usual when all that happened. They were driving too fast when the car came to a turn in the road and there was a tree right straight in the path the car took.

There are curves in many of our roads and there are many trees at the side of them. You may save a few minutes on the trip but the price is frequently too high. The young men whose injuries are described here are both dead.

A Saddened Home

It will be a lonely and a saddened home to which Dr. A. J. Madill returns in Peterborough. Dr. and Mrs. Madill and their two daughters left here on Friday for Hamilton where the elder daughter was to be married the following day. On Saturday Mrs. Madill was stricken and died in a Hamilton hospital a short time after.

Before their departure from here there had been the usual round of prenuptial events; everything was centred on the coming marriage, and in all the plans Mrs. Madill was enthusiastically interested. Everything appeared to be normal and bright as it ought to have been. When one tries to fathom the reason why she should be taken on a day which should have been filled with happiness and wholesome delight the human mind is forced to admit it has reached depths which it cannot fathom.

The sympathy of the community will go out in large and whole-hearted measure to Dr. Madill. The marriage of a daughter and the death of a wife is an experience through which few men have passed in the same hour.

He Is Called a Prince

The Ethiopian Legation in London has announced that Crown Prince Asfaou Wosan, eldest son of Emperor Haile Selassie, will attend the coronation on May 12 as the representative of his father. The Prince is now in Jerusalem.

And that of course raises the question as to how long a Prince remains a Prince and how long an Emperor remains an Emperor. Haile Selassie may find some satisfaction in being known as the Emperor of Ethiopia, but he is not in Ethiopia, nor is he ruling that land. The fact that the world may or may not approve of the means of which he was chased from his throne makes little difference. The bald fact remains he is not the Emperor of Ethiopia because it is in other hands.

This son who is Crown Prince has that distinction on the assumption that his father is actually Emperor of Ethiopia, and again hard fact seems to indicate he is Crown Prince of nothing at all.

The world seems to have quite a number of folk today who indulge in the wearing of titles which have ceased to mean anything, and it might be well for them to understand that the majority of people indulge in a mental question mark each time they see the title parading in print.

Now It's a "White Elephant"

Toronto papers have a habit of referring to Casa Loma, the great show place of a home which stands on the hill, as a "white elephant." It is so called because the city closed in and took possession of it for non-payment of taxes. It is not the only property which went the same way. Toronto is possessed also of a hotel and an arena.

When Casa Loma was being built people in Toronto did not refer to it as a "white elephant." Not a bit of it. There were folk, and plenty of them, who used to go around that way on a Sunday afternoon or a week-day evening to watch the progress. If they had friends from outside the city that was one place to show them—the building of a castle. They all seemed to think it was pretty fine.

When it was being built no person made any complaint about the money which was being spent. Tradesmen were busy and they were receiving good wages. People whose business it was to supply the needed materials were getting a slice of the expenditure and they thought that was quite all right. No person referred to it then as a "white elephant."

But when Casa Loma proved to be too great an undertaking to keep up and when the taxes mounted and the city became the possessor of the place it came to be known as a "white elephant." People become apt enough in applying such phrases after the full course of events has demonstrated failure. It is all in the difference between being able to pay what the city demands in the way of taxation and not being able to pay it. A few years ago Toronto people viewed with pride and pleasure the erection of such a great place. Today they call it a "white elephant" and seem content they have discovered some new and adequate phrase.

Who Owns the False Teeth?

A court in Philadelphia has made a decision, and we believe it is by this continued process of making decisions and fighting or appealing them in the next court that law is finally made. A lower court had fined Dr. George B. Irvine, a dentist, $100 because he removed a set of false teeth from the mouth of a lady who had not paid the bill for making them. Now the Pennsylvania Superior Court has ruled the teeth remain the property of the dentist until they are fully paid for.

We know well enough that goods purchased on the instalment plan generally have some sort of string attached to them until the final payment is made. It has not been unusual for a wagon to appear at the door and furniture and other trappings to be taken back to the place from whence they came. But we never put false teeth in that class at all. They seemed separate and apart from the gross mercenary coloring of ordinary commercialism, and were associated more with the intricate system of professionalism and its pleasantly intoned ethics. If there were any unpleasantness regarding financing a set of false teeth then one knew no wagon would draw up in front of the house and take them away, and thus there would be no talk in the neighborhood.

But now these plans have been changed. The matter of who owns a set of false teeth has been dragged into open court; it has been fought and appealed, and it has been declared the dentist owns the teeth until the person in whose jaws they are to be moored has paid the last ducat of indebtedness.

One may venture gingerly enough on the serious experience of making the new things work; he may become quite expert in removing them and putting them back again, and may even find pleasure and satisfaction in indulging in a broad grin which shows no loopholes in the implements of mastication, but unless he can produce documentary evidence that the bill has been paid in full, there follows after him the grim thought that the dentist can and may touch into action the arm of the law which will take from his jaws their newly-found decoration and leave him to gum it as best he can. The moral of the thing seems to be to pay for your false teeth. In that way lies safety.

NOTE AND COMMENT

When they have a sit-down strike in a "five-and-ten" store how do the strikers find enough places to sit down?

There will be a few smiles around the province if the Hepburn government should be forced to endorse a dry candidate in North Wellington.

They stop hockey riots in English rinks by playing the National Anthem. If that stunt were to be tried here the crowd would probably go home thinking the game was over.

There will be regret in the foothills of Alberta over the decision of the Duke of Windsor to sell the E. P. Ranch. The Westerners have always been proud of their royal neighbor.

A Texas man has been sentenced to five years in penitentiary for stealing 25 cents in a hold-up. That figures out at the rate of 5 cents a year and clinches the old adage about crime not paying.

It is probable that the Italian Legions are not any more popular in Ethiopia than they are among the high school pupils who first make their acquaintance in Caesar's commentaries.

It is stated that Toronto schools are turning out far more stenographers than can find employment. That is surprising in view of the fact that so few young folk like to be dictated to these days.

One reason why temperance organizations find it difficult to make much headway with the Ontario government is the profit of over $8,862,719 made on the sale of liquors, wines and beers in the province during the last fiscal year.

Judges apparently are not always sure of their law. Some of the Saskatchewan occupants of the bench declared that they were not liable for provincial income tax but the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council says they are.

A Toronto group of church workers will live for a week on the budget prescribed for relief recipients. The experimenters should have an interesting week adjusting themselves to the reduced incomes.

Forty-seven Calgary men have been committed for trial following a sit-down strike in a packing plant on charges of intimidation and forcible detention of property. The thing does not seem to work out here as it has been doing on the other side of the line.

STRUGGLE

(By A. R. K.)

¶ I sometimes try to save some bait for days when I am bent and frail, and I can work no more; I hate to think when I get through, there's nothing else for me to do, but kick the poor house door.

¶ And when I draw my pay each time, I'll pickle some in goodly brine, I'll put it 'neath a plank; and when that pile begins to grow, perhaps I'll lift it up and go, and lodge it in the bank.

¶ I'll let my bills just run behind, I figure that the folk won't mind, nor go into a rage; they might approve of what I did, if they knew of the bills I hid, to guard me in old age.

¶ And yet the butcher man looks queer, I've paid him nothing yet this year, he smiles at me no more; I fear he'll take his longest knife, and threaten shortening my life, if I go near his store.

¶ The coal man sent a note today, suggesting that I start and pay, I need some kitchen wood; I'm trying to fix days when I'm old, but meantime I can't shiver cold, for that is not so good.

¶ I fear I'll have to go and pay, and use the scads I laid away, and hid beneath the floor; in years to come I may be glad, and I may find it's not so bad—to cross the poor house door.

Our Statesmen At Their Labors

(Parliamentary Debates)

SAYS IT NOW

An hon. MEMBER: No, no.

Mr. MacINNIS: The hon. member for Parkdale says "No, no."

Mr. SPENCE: I did not say "no, no," but I will do so now.

IN TOLERANT MOOD

Mr. DEPUTY SPEAKER: Order. I regret to interrupt the hon. member, but his time is up.

Some hon. MEMBERS: Go on.

Mr. MARTIN: I am in the hands of the house.

Some hon. MEMBERS: Go ahead.

ANYTHING TO OBLIGE

Mr. CAHAN: May I ask whether the Russian documents are voluminous?

Mr. MACKENZIE KING: Oh, no.

Mr. CAHAN: Could they be published in the votes and proceedings?

Mr. MACKENZIE KING: There is no objection to that. They have already appeared in the press.

Mr. CAHAN: It is very difficult to keep copies of what appears in the press.

Mr. MACKENZIE KING: I shall ask that they appear in the votes and proceedings to-morrow.

BUYING MACHINE GUNS

Mr. COLDWELL: What are we paying for these guns?

Mr. MACKENZIE (Vancouver): I believe we paid $1,000 apiece for the first two.

Mr. COLDWELL: Anyone who has seen one of these guns and compared it with an automobile realizes that there is very little mechanism about it. These guns are manufactured particularly under mass production, very cheaply, and here we are paying $1,000 apiece for machine guns from Czechoslovakia, probably from a factory owned by a gang of international munition makers, possibly to practise slaughter upon other nations who are using exactly the same guns to slaughter Canadian boys. It seems to me that if we are going to buy guns we ought to buy them without encouraging these enormous profits that are being made by the munition companies, and I call attention particularly to this gun from Czechoslovakia. We are paying $1,000 each for these guns and I venture to say they can be made for at least a quarter the cost of a Ford car.

NO NEW ORDERS

Mr. DOUGLAS: Has the minister at hand—

Some hon. MEMBERS: Question.

Mr. DOUGLAS: —the contracts that were placed outside Canada for light and heavy artillery, small arms and tanks, et cetera, the countries in which they were placed, and the firms with which they were placed?

Mr. MACKENZIE (Vancouver): I do not think that in recent months we have placed any contracts of the kind my hon. friend has mentioned.

Mr. DOUGLAS: Do I take it that no contracts were placed outside Canada?

Mr. MACKENZIE (Vancouver): There were for aeroplanes, but that was twenty-four months ago.

Mr. DOUGLAS: None for small arms or artillery or tanks?

Mr. MACKENZIE (Vancouver): No, not recently.

IN THE DRILL SHED

Mr. MACKENZIE (Vancouver): The minister, the hon. member knows. The deputy minister sits in front of me, Colonel LaFleche, the chief of the general staff is major-general Ashton; the director of naval service is Air Commodore Nelles; the senior air officer is Air Commodore Croll; the adjutant general is Major General Constantine; the quartermaster general is Major T. V. Anderson; the master general of the ordnance is Major General Caldwell, and the judge advocate general is Colonel Orde.

Mr. POULIOT: Oh, Colonel Orde. Has he ever been in the line of a theatre of war?

Mr. MACKENZIE (Vancouver): Yes.

Mr. POULIOT: Did he get an increase in pay last year, and are there many other officers in the drill shed or armouries at Ottawa who have had an increase in pay?

Mr. MACKENZIE (Vancouver): I believe his classification was changed.

Mr. POULIOT: An increase of $600 was it not?

Mr. MACKENZIE (Vancouver): Yes, approximately.

Mr. POULIOT: Are there other officers in the drill shed who have had an increase in pay?

Mr. MACKENZIE (Vancouver): There are bound to be every year because there are promotions and retirements every year.

GETTING ADVICE

Mr. MacNEIL: In view of the fact that experts of the British war office have advised the government in regard to these fortifications, is it fair to assume that our coast defence plan is part of an empire defence plan, and that provision is being made for establishments in Canada as bases for imperial forces?

Mr. MACKENZIE (Vancouver): No, it is not. These services were asked for by the Department of National Defence, and before this officer arrived our own officers had worked out plans, and speaking broadly and generally the recommendations agreed in each case.

Mr. POULIOT: Did Major B. D. C. Trait have anything to do with it?

Mr. MACKENZIE (Vancouver): He is the gentleman I have been speaking of for the last ten minutes.

Mr. POULIOT: I like so much to hear of him. But I do not see the use of having him here if he has only repeated what others have said. Probably he spoke only after having heard the good Canadians—I know there are some in the department—and then repeated that, and so he was a great man. Why does not the minister leave him outside of this country?—because he is of no use at all.

Letters To The Editor

Correspondents Discuss Various Topics

IS RELIGION MODERNIZED?

Editor Examiner:

Sir: Just recently through the columns of your paper there seemed to be a difference of opinion regarding the definition of religion.

The early church was founded on great fundamental principles, and the teachings of Christ, the head of the church, were very clear and definite that we should not only shun evil, but also shun the very appearance of evil. If we follow the teachings of Christ we will find no change in His definition of religion, but making it a means to one great end, "the redemption of the world." We cannot but admit that, we that are identified with the church have become indifferent in proclaiming the gospel of redemption. The environment of evil that exists today has influenced us to some extent, we have lost that close contact with the Divine and have also lost that power which makes life victorious and our service to the Master joyous.

The question might be asked—why the cause of this luke-warmness and indifference? Perhaps our many churches may be somewhat responsible, we listen to splendid sermons but there may be a lack of background teachings for every day life and Christian living. Religion may be expressed in the highest vocabulary of language but we cannot change Christ's definition of it. There was nothing in Christ's life which called forth His Divine displeasure more than the knowledge of His followers trying to serve two masters. In the business world, if we find a man insincere in his actions, the public will soon put him in the class which he belongs to, so in religious living. Let us be sincere, and our lives will not be a mockery.

"WAR"

Editor Examiner:

Sir: It was my pleasure to attend the open forum of the George St. United Church and hear Mr. Rowe's able exposure of the international armament racketeers in their crusade to foment tension between nations in order to sell their wares of death. Mr. Rowe evidently has a very thorough understanding of his subject and his suggestion that Peterborough should organize a peace movement and institute study groups to probe the causes of war are commendable.

There is, however, a responsibility connected with such a course, a responsibility that comes with knowledge, a responsibility that calls for action. There is an old saying that where ignorance is bliss 'tis folly to be wise, so Peterborough might get along very nicely till some one drops a bomb on us and, supposing we were sufficiently awakened, might do something about it.

Suppose, however, we undertake a war probe in Peterborough, and our findings are that the autocracy of the rich who foment wars are motivated by the same incentive that causes our store keepers and tradesmen to wage a never ending battle of publicity in order to maintain or increase the number of customers whom they are privileged to serve. Supposing we find these things will Peterborough take action? And if we decide on action are we willing to start at home, or would we be content to give our government a mandate to clean it up some place else?

Are the citizens of Peterborough prepared to forever wave the sacred privilege of exploiting their fellow man in order that we should not be subject to exploitation by others? Are we prepared to shoulder the responsibility of building a new social order, a co-operative commonwealth in which the principles regulating the production, distribution and exchange of wealth, shall be the supplying of human need and not the making of profit for I am sure, we shall find that the only motive industry has for fomenting war is the lust for profits, the eternal driving force to sell. It would be interesting to know what Peterborough citizens thought about it.

For one who was privileged to hear Mr. Rowe, it is quite obvious why he was banished from the Social Credit party. He knows too much, and would not, knowingly be a party to leading Canada up a blind alley. Social Credit does not believe in eliminating the waste of competition or of armament and war as is evident by their support of increased armaments in the House of Commons, and every citizen is aware that a more favorable distribution of the good things of life can only be accomplished through the elimination of waste and a thorough nationalization of our whole economic life.

Inflation, or the mere pumping of more money in circulation, such as Social Credit's purposes, is an old theory. It has been tried many times and has been found to produce more waste and misery instead of lessening it.

MORE ABOUT MUSIC

Editor Examiner:

Sir: Having read the letter in Thursday's Examiner of Feb. 25th, re Modern Music, signed by "Swing Fan," in which he complains about an attack on popular music by Dr. Charles Peaker, who by the way has forgotten more about music than most of the modern jazz band musicians will ever know.

I think, that Dr. Peaker put it mildly when he said that the blaring saxophones of the jazz band were suggestive of the love of the baboon. To me these violent distortions of rhythm sound more like a hippopotamus making love to a gorilla near a water hole in the African jungle. I would suggest that "Swing Fan" listen to the New York Philharmonic Orchestra or the Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra, then he will hear real music. He mentions to listen to Cab Calloway's orchestra, why of all the jazz orchestras, this one? When this orchestra plays, and once the leader starts in with "Hi-de-ho," then the whole band gets delirious. They start to wiggle and distort themselves, like if they were trying to get something off their stomachs. He also asks if there were any classical compositions that can compare with "Star Dust," "Sophisticated Lady" but he forgot to mention the jewels of popular music like "Yes, we have no bananas," "Barney Google" and "When the moon shines over the cow shed." Yes, Mr. Swing Fan, Bach, Mozart and the rest of the great composers are dead long ago, but their works will never die, they are immortal, that is one thing you can't say of popular music, which is here today and gone tomorrow. In my opinion, most of the jazz band musicians can't read music. As long as they have a few nickel-plated saxophones with an empty tomato can or a discarded chrisie hat, which they can stick in the bell of the instrument for a mute, a snare drum with an electric light inside of it, and a whisk to pet the drum head with it, a bass violin, with the player getting a half Nelson grip on it, and lacking a bow to play with it, pessers it with his fingers, then they can go ahead and blare and blast away, no matter what kind of tunes come out of it. The more cacophoners the better they like it. Here is to real music. Thanking you, Mr. Editor,

I remain yours truly

THE SINKING FUND

Editor Examiner:

Sir: The recent controversy regarding the sinking fund surplus and your editorial regarding same has I know been followed with deep interest by many taxpayers, and in my opinion members of the City Council are to be congratulated upon the action they have taken.

The surplus (or profits) of $231,000.44 in the hands of the City Trust is the highest in the history of our city, and the financial condition of many of the taxpayers is the lowest in the history of our city. Surely this is no time to split hairs and quote precedents in an effort to withhold some of this surplus from the city treasury, where it may be used to reduce taxes.

The members of the City Trust have carried out the duties remarkably well, and deserve the highest commendation, and I am sure they have the interest of the citizens at heart just as much as the City Council has.

I believe the situation boils down to this. The City Council feels that the plight of many of the taxpayers is so desperate that a portion of the sinking fund surplus, or at least the profits thereof should be used to reduce taxes this year. The City Trust feels that the plight of the taxpayer is not so bad as some people try to make out, and that sound, conservative financial practice calls for the retaining of the surplus of $231,000.44, to take care of any reduction of earnings of the sinking fund in the future.

We have been paying high taxes for many years, and have been told so often that in a little while annual payments for the sinking fund will be reduced, and taxes will come down, but no reduction is in sight yet. In the meantime owners are losing their property and their lifetime's savings, and all their thrift and self-denial has been in vain.

The City now owns hundreds of vacant lots, and will own some hundreds more next month, and while all these tragedies are going on before our eyes there is in the hands of one of the departments of the city, a sum of $231,000.00 (or-ee and above all legal requirements, it should be used) which sum is ample to reduce taxes to a reasonable figure for many years.

When all is said and done no one knows how interest rates are going to go in the future. While rates of interest are down at present and give every indication of remaining so for some time, a few hasty words, or one hasty action on the part of Hitler, Mussolini, Stalin, General Franco or many others, would precipitate a European war, and interest rates would bound upward.

Surely then this is no time to withhold a little financial help from the taxpayer, because of the fear that interest rates will remain on a low level for a long time to come.

Yours truly

W. TINKER.

COBOURG'S HISTORY.

(Belleville Intelligencer)

SEVENTY-SIX pages of verse tell the story of Cobourg in "The Fields of Yesterday," written by John F. Ivey of that place. According to an expert poetry critic: "It runs to about 375 seven-line stanzas in rhymed iambic pentameters—which are five two-syllabled bars, each accented on the second. Rather unusual in form, but strictly formal." The poem tells a story of rural life in and about Cobourg dating back many years and picturing outstanding incidents of the time, including a murder and a hanging, but principally concerned with the love affairs of the principal characters. "From train to town, from town to hills, . . . And there the tale begins: at first a simple old-time rustic story of the log-bee days . . . a love story with all the old-styled background . . . snake fences, stumps . . . logs, axe-men . . . slowly weaving into the idyll of Florence and William; but this is only the prelude to a still more intense story of the next generation, which leads into a still more graphic tragedy of "triangle and murder." An ambitious task anyway you look at it weaving so much story, local history, tragedy and romance into verse and making it interesting. "The Fields of Yesterday" has a particular appeal to anyone familiar with the locale and the history of the past one hundred years.

FICKLE FASHION.

(London Daily Mail)

AFTER ten years, skirts have come full circle, as indeed skirts should, and are again to be short. The soothsayers of Fashion in Paris prophesy a garment tight and ending just below the knee. In 1926 skirts soared so high that women had to call in Russian boots to redress the balance. The effect was extravagant—as though the "monstrous regiment of women" were a Highland regiment. But the 1937 specimens ought to make a workaday dress, active and unhampering. And after a while, they will once more plunge suddenly towards the ankles, for that is the long and short of women's fashions.

NEED JOBS, TOO.

(Niagara Falls Review)

IT IS FINE to give a man on relief a job, but there is point in the protest of the Trades and Labor Congress of Toronto to Hon. D. A. Croll against announcement that recipients of relief alone should be considered in the jobs to be created by the government's new housing scheme. In Niagara Falls and elsewhere, there are many men who have been able to keep off relief, often a tremendous exercise to themselves and to their friends and it seems unfair that they should be debarred from such jobs. A great deal of credit is due to the many men who, without steady work, have been able to live on their own resources or by aid of relatives. They also should be included when jobs are being handed out under the government's housing scheme.

A Bit of Nonsense

Not Much Fun

There seems no end to the queer tortures people will undergo to do something longer or better than the other fellow, and the latest in this respect is a Hungarian who has been trying to beat the "stay in hot water record."

He tried his attempt in a spring at Debreczen. For four days crowds flocked to see this sensation-monger getting pinker and pinker.

Finally the police intervened, and the pickled one, resembling a boiled lobster, was rushed off to hospital—to recover.

After which he will be prosecuted.

CALGARY LADIES SEEK PUCK TITLE

Triple Titleholders Concentrate On Eastern And Western Playdown

CALGARY, March 2 (CP).—Flickering hopes of the Far West for the women's hockey championship of Western Canada soared high here today under the flying skates of Calgary Grills.

Weaving and slipping their way through a maze of playdown assignments this season the trim Foothills squad have won 30 claim to the Calgary city championship, the Southern Alberta cup and the Alberta title.

They captured the last-named trophy by defeating University of Alberta ladies' sextette 1-0 in a two-game, total-goal series at Banff. The lone counter came in the second period of the first game.

Accomplishments of the Grills are considered remarkable when the fact is considered they have been playing hockey only three seasons. Recruited from vacant lot rinks they gave observers little to ebtinuse over when first organized.

Even Coach Tommy Kok admits to moments of despair. When his fair pupils at first tripped over blue lines, fell when rounding corners, or "were lucky to hit the end boards when trying for a shot," he entertained small hopes they would progress in the fastest of sports.

In possession of all trophies within reaching distance, Grills have set their eyes for a Canadian championship this year. They are working out daily in the hope of travelling east for a shot at the title held by Preston Rivulettes.

Financial difficulties last season precluded an east-west title series between Winnipeg Falcons and Rivulettes. Several games remain to be played this season before a Manitoba title can be selected.

The regular forward line consists of Winnifred Elder, Hazel Nicol, and Audrey Royal. Dot Waring, Dorothy Tellesson, Louise Lassiter, Daisy White and Teresa Towers compose the substitute roster.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, March 2. — Strength in outside markets and scarcity of offerings combined to boost prices on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange. Closing quotations were up 1¾c to 1¼c.

Despite minor recessions, values advanced steadily to touch the high points in the final hour of trading. Operations were mixed and trading generally dull, with export business being placed at 300,000 bushels.

United States markets forged ahead and were up similar amounts to Winnipeg, mainly due to fair weather reports in the United States winter wheat belt, with no moisture reported over the week-end. Liverpool was strong, finishing ¾d to 1d higher, while Buenos Aires at noon was ⅜c up.

Favorable new crop prospects in India were offset by the Argentine official figures showing a remaining exportable wheat surplus on February 27, at 8,323,000 bushels, compared with 122,500,000 a month ago.

Cash wheat was generally neglected and spreads remained mostly unchanged. Coarse grain trading was quiet.

tion in the Commons a few days ago. The question of such transfers had not been considered, he said at the time, and was not under consideration by His Majesty's Government.

"That statement," Eden continued, "remains the policy of the Government. I have nothing whatever to add to it to-day."

He declared the Government stood firmly by the policy of non-intervention in Spain and said he believed it contributed materially to the cause of peace.

"After many anxious months this policy is beginning to bear fruit," he said. "We intend to persist in it."

The Foreign Secretary went on to say he thought the League of Nations, while having difficulties, still was far from being entombed. People remembered the failures in the cases of Manchuria and Abyssinia but forgot that since 1931 the League had been successful in settling 13 disputes, some of major importance.

However, the Government could not endorse a policy of universal military commitments, Eden declared. They were not a part of the League covenant.

Hospital Overseer G. W. Cherry, recalled various complaints of Crosley at the hospital, saying that at times the accused was very noisy.

350 STRIKE DOWN MINE

Report They Are Living and Will Stay Down

UNIONTOWN, Pa., March 2—(AP)—From the deep subterranean chambers of a coal mine, 350 men sent word to-day they were "living well" and satisfied to continue a sit-down strike 400 feet beneath the earth's surface.

A score of other miners stolidly guarded the mine entrance after an all-night visit, while women-folk and children milled about the scene waiting for word from husbands and fathers "on strike."

STRIKES MAY TIE 2,000 WOOLWORTH STORES ACROSS U.S.

Union Threatens Spread Unless Detroit Situation Settled By Saturday

GIRLS OCCUPY PREMISES

DETROIT, March 2 (AP)—A union official said today that "sit-down" might be called in the 2,000 five-and-ten-cent stores of the F. W. Woolworth Company throughout the United States unless the strikes in two of its Detroit branches are settled by Saturday.

"I will petition my national executive council," declared Louis Kosiki, financial secretary of the Waiters and Waitresses' Association, which called the strike, "to call a national sit-down if the strike in Detroit is not settled within a week from the time the first one started."

In New York R. C. Mauchy, vice-president of the company, said last night he knew of no threat to extend the strike in Detroit to other chains and indicated the current dispute was being handled by the chain's Cleveland office.

Two Stores Closed

One hundred employees, mostly young women clerks, have occupied the company's largest store, located in the heart of Detroit's business district, since Saturday. The "sit-down" spread to a second unit where, the store's manager said, 11 of the 26 women clerks joined the strike in mid-afternoon yesterday. Both stores were closed and the strikers barred even company officials from the downtown store.

Here, the women demanded—and obtained from the union—slacks to wear during their vigil. They availed each other's hair, danced, and played cards for amusement. They sleep on mattresses spread in the aisles between the counters.

The strikers in both stores are seeking wage increases of 10 cents an hour, a 48-hour week for women and a 54-hour week for men. Full-time counter girls had been receiving $13 weekly until an increase to $14 was made effective last Saturday. Strike leaders said half of the downtown store employees were not working full time and earned only $10.44 a week.

FORGOTTEN STARS CLAIMED BY WEST

Former Major League Players Shape Allan Cup Challengers

WINNIPEG, March 2—(C.P.). — Forgotten men of hockey. They are to be found directing keen-eyed eager youngsters in Saskatchewan's senior amateur circuits. One of them may guide the destinies of a Western challenge for the Allan Cup when playdown time rolls around this spring.

Out of the realm of missing men, Art Somers, Eddie Oatman, Percy Traub, "Cissie" Hart, and the durable "Duke" Keats have found fame in exile. They are developing puck pupils who some day promise to assimilate after the fashion of their old masters.

Colorful Art Somers who carved vivid pages in hockey history as "Little Caesar" of New York Rangers, has come back to life as unostentatiously as he dropped out back in 1934. The dark-haired dynamo is shaping ice fortunes of Prince Albert Mintos, top-bracketed pride of Saskatchewans northern loop.

Managed Millers.

Oatman, former resident of Minneapolis and another of the West's illustrious sons, is responsible for the pleasing showing of Yorkton Terriers. He is better remembered as a member of Victoria Cougars in the old Pacific Coast Professional League and later as manager of the Minneapolis Millers and St. Paul in the Central League.

Regina Vics, in the Southern Saskatchewan division, point with pardonable pride to "Duke" Dutkowski, who at one time or another saw service with a majority of clubs in the National Hockey League. Percy Traub, considered by many one of the finest of all defence players, preps an up-and-coming Regina amateur club.

Memories of "Newsy" Lalonde, "Rusty" Crawford and other hockey greats that made up the roster of the old Western Canada League would not be complete without "Cissy" Hart and "Duke" Keats. The tireless energy that featured their active playing days is reflected in their coaching ability.

Hart, coach of Weyburn Beavers, has hustled his charges into a playoff spot in the Southern Division, that includes Moose Jaw Millers, Yorkton, Regina Aces, and Vics.

The fiery and aggressive Keats who rounded out a lengthy professional career with Edmonton Eskimos, has directed playing policies orf Saskatoon Quekers in the Northern loop.

The 40-hour week has not yet been generally adopted in France.

Winner of Amateur Radio Contest

Sylvia Duignan, 11, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Duignan, 801 Water street, and Irving Parnell, 12, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. Parnell of Elcome Crescent, who won the Children's Radio contest in the Capitol Theatre on Saturday morning and then were heard over CFRB on Saturday evening. Between forty and fifty children took part in the amateur competition. The winners did dancing and singing stunts.

EAST WILL HAVE 8 PLAYS IN FINALS

Two Others Recommended By de Warfaz May Also Go To Ottawa

TORONTO, March 2.—(CP).— At least eight plays, and possibly 10, will be presented by Eastern Canadians in the Dominion drama festival at Ottawa in April.

Winners in the five eastern provinces of regional competitions which are held as preliminaries to the finals of Canada's amateur theatrical contest, the eight plays are scheduled for presentation in the Ottawa festival. The other two were recommended for the Dominion contest.

George de Warfaz, the regional adjudicator of the 1937 Dominion drama festival, yesterday headed for western Canada to examine its contributions to the growing little theatre movement and choose entries for the finals from regional festivals in the three prairie provinces and British Columbia.

Since January, he had been occupied with criticism of numerous eastern Canada festival performances and selection of the best amateur groups in each region for the Dominion festival.

The adjudicator completed his work in eastern Canada last Saturday when he named the winners of the Central Ontario region's amateur dramatics competition held at Toronto.

Best of the Festival.

Mr. de Warfaz selected as the best play presented during the festival in the Queen City, "The House in the Quiet Glen," written by John Coulter, Dublin playwright, now a resident of Toronto, and presented by the Toronto Mummers.

Also sent to the Dominion festival were "Bury the Dead" by Irwin Shaw, New York dramatist, which the Toronto Theatre of Action did powerfully, and "The Cradle Song," written by Gregorio and Maria Martinez, contemporary Spanish dramatists. The Dramatic Club of the University College Alumnae Association performed the Convent play.

The adjudicator recommended Hart House Players to Ottawa for their rendition of "This Mad World." The startling insect drama by Czech playwrights, the brothers Capek.

For a good performance of "The Secret" by Ryman Sender, Queen's University Dramatic Guild was picked as the best group in eastern Ontario a week earlier. Brantford Drama League were named the best in the western Ontario region for a performance about two weeks ago of "A Sunny Morning." Spanish fantasy by Joaquin, Alvarez and Quintero Serafin.

Lauds The Players

Montreal's regional winner was the Sun Life Dramatic Club which presented Maurice Mastermaekn's "Interior." The play, said Mr. De Warfaz, were "better left on the library shelf" but its players' enthusiasm made it a "masterpiece." The school teacher directed the Charlottetown group and also played a leading role in the drama.

Five Other Plays

Contests in eastern Canada brought out five other Canadian plays besides Mr. Schuli's and Mr. Foster's. Cast players used as their vehicle in the Western Ontario Festival "Home Coming" by H. J. Bassett, Galt industrialist, active in the local Little Theatre organization. "Release" by Luisa Stewart, 28-year-old Ottawa insurance company employee, telling of the Moose River, N.S., mine rescue last year, was seen in the Eastern Ontario contest.

At Toronto, Little Theatre audiences saw "The Alms Box of Ste. Anne" by Leonora McNeilly; "The Mighty Mr. Samson" by Virginia Coyle Knight; and "Swords on the Altar" by Miss Stephanie Jarvis. The three women authors are Torontonians. None, however, received the praise given Mr. Foster for "Nocturne" by the adjudicator.

John Coulter, author of "The House in the Quiet Glen," best play in Central Ontario region, is eligible for one of seven awards made during the Dominion finals. A prize of $100 is given by the festival committee for the best play in a regional contest by an author domiciled in Canada.

Czechoslovakia is increasing taxes to pay its national defense debts.

IN "IRON LUNG" COURAGEOUS GIRL FIGHTS DISEASE

Suffering From Infantile Paralysis Girl Has Been In Respirator Since September

STAVED OFF DEATH

ST. BONIFACE, Man., March 2.—(CP). — Pretty, blue-eyed Inez Woollam, 22-year-old girl, who has spent most of her time since September 25 last, in an "iron lung" following an infantile paralysis attack, looked forward to-day to the time when she might again swing to the music of a dance orchestra.

"It's very nice here, but I'd love to go to a dance or movie," said the cheery, curly-haired girl who has been encased in a 350-pound cylindrical respirator because of paralysis of her respiratory organs.

Her diaphragm and abdomen were affected, and the big machine staved off death as Miss Woollam lost control of the motor nerves in her breathing organs, arms and legs.

Able to Breathe.

She is now able to breathe outside the "iron lung" for five or eight hours each day, said Dr. Ellen P. Taylor of the staff of King George Isolation Hospital where she is confined.

"We believe her breathing will re-establish itself, but cannot say how long before Miss Woolam can be removed from the respirator or whether or not she will ever walk again."

The patient has gained use of her left arm, and is able to move her right hand. Already the attendants have changed her food from a liquid diet to regular meals.

Medical authorities, who have not been able to determine the cause of infantile paralysis nor find a sure cure, are eagerly watching the progress of the girl in the "iron lung."

Miss Woolam's attack, Dr. Taylor said, affected the motor nerve, or sense of movement, while the sensory nerves remained active inside the dormant muscles. The patient can feel the prick of a needle, but can not move away from the needle point.

Ines' plucky battle against the dread disease has attracted wide interest, and Mayor George C. MacLean and other officials visit her occasionally. The city council have been meeting all costs incurred by her illness.

MADRID, March 2 (C.P.-Havas)—Striking hard on three widely-separated fronts, Spanish government forces to-day battered stately Toledo with artillery shells, repulsed an insurgent onslaught in the Madrid sector, and reportedly were closing in on the south-eastern town of Motril.

Opening up suddenly against ancient Toledo in a drive which may threaten the rear of the forces besieging Madrid, government ordnance sent shells thudding into the heart of the old Moorish capital ringing in mediaeval majesty on an eminence skirted by the Tagus River.

A building near the Alcazar, destined for occupancy by the insurgents' military governor, and a number of barracks, were struck as field guns found the range from their posts north-east of the city, in the vicinity of Cigarrales.

At the same time, governmentals shattered the second insurgent attack within as many days in the West Park-University City sector in north-western Madrid.

The insurgents stormed out of the Santa Christina Hospital and other points last night only to be pushed back by government counter-attacks which saw the militia improve its positions at the French bridge.

Other contingents, battling the insurgent thrust northward from Malaga and Almeria, Some reports said they had practically surrounded Orgiva, 10 miles inland from Motril, apparently seeking to drive a wedge between insurgent contingents in south-eastern Spain.

FEAR WIPING OUT OF GRETNA GREEN

Scotland Takes Drastic Measures To Stop Marrying Smithy

GRETNA GREEN, Scotland, March 2.—(CP)—Recommendation of the Committee of the Law of Scotland that penalties be imposed on all unauthorized persons who profess to "attempt to conduct marriages or marriage ceremonies" seems to signal the end for this "star" for runaway couples. At the same time Richard Rennison, the marrying blacksmith, says he will marry people as long as he can.

It is recalled that up until 80 years ago Scotland was very liberal as regards marriage. There was no necessary formalities, such as banns or licenses, nor was any parental consent required in the case of a minor. Marriage could be constituted simply by consent. To avoid the English law it was fairly common practice for English couples to go to Scotland.

Runaway lovers sought this marriage hospitality of Scotland at the nearest place, and the border-village of Gretna, situated on the main road to the north, became famous. No ceremony was usually performed by the blacksmith, but the toll-keeper, ferryman, or almost any person, might officiate.

Then, in 1856, an act of parliament made invalid all "irregular" marriages contracted in Scotland unless one of the contracting parties had lived in Scotland for 21 days preceding the marriage. But the "anvil" marriages continued as a sop to romance for the most part.

Drastic reforms which would eliminate Gretna as a marriage centre are forecast through the conclusions of the committee.

TORONTO DRIVER KILLED IN CRASH

Car And Truck Wrecked As They Collide On Hilltop Near Hamilton

HAMILTON, March 3—(C.P.)—A Toronto motorist was killed, his car was destroyed and a truck wrecked in a head-on collision on the Dundas Street Highway, about three miles west of the Clappison cut early to-day.

The dead man is Jack Dolgoff, Toronto. His car and the truck, driven by Norval Bell of Seaforth, Ont., met at the top of a slight hill, and both vehicles were catapulted into the air by the impact. The heavy sedan driven by Dolgoff rolled over and over, and the transport somersaulted twice, hurling its cargo all over the highway for hundreds of yards.

Neither Bell nor his companion or the transport, Stewart Cudmore, also of Seaforth, suffered injuries.

M—STEM CHRISTIANIA

As the name implies this swing is a combination of the stem turn and the christiania swing, and is useful under almost all condition of slope and snow. The change of direction is first promoted by single stemming and completed by rotary action of the skis as the christiania. The point of transition from the stem to the christiania is relatively unimportant and will depend on the steepness of the slope and the speed of running and snow conditions. Just sufficient stemming action to get the outside ski in a partially broadside on position where the rotary action can be developed by

INSECT HORDES CAUSING DAMAGE TO BIRCH TREES

Steps To Curb Spread In Northern Ontario Are Urged

PORT ARTHUR, Ont., March 2.—(CP)—A scourge of insects is threatening the valuable stands of white birch in Northern Ontario. Those who have travelled through the Rainy River and Kenora districts have noted numerous dead or dying trees, all victims of insects.

Arthur Bitch, a lover of forests who has travelled through the area, declared here that some effort be made to save the trees and exterminate the insects. Unless something were done, the white birch might become extinct in two years, he said.

"Both from the standpoint of beauty and the commercial angle we should try to save our birch trees," he said. "Birch is our only outstanding hardwood, now that the saw-fly has depleted the tamarac in the district. Unlike tamarac, birch rots soon after it is killed and so is not even of use for firewood."

The damage, he said, is being done by a species of beetle which lays its eggs under the bark of the birch trees. The insect pierces the bark, deposits eggs and departs. In due course the eggs produce a small, boring insect about an inch and a quarter in length.

This is the insect that does the damage. Feeding off the tender inner bark of the birch, the borer girdles the tree trunk, eating the sap. The tree dies within a comparatively short time, the uppermost branches first rotting away and spreading downward until every bit of the tree above the ring-like scar is dead.

TWEED

OLD BROADWORTH HOME IS BURNED

Little Is Saved From House Built In Early Pioneer Days As a Hotel

TWEED, March 2.—Fire, thought to have originated from overheated stovepipes, totally destroyed the William Broadworth home at Broadworth Corners on the Stirling to Marmora highway on Saturday afternoon.

Fanned by a strong north wind the flames rapidly spread through the house, the top part of which was ablaze and beyond salvage before the fire was noticed. Neighbors and passing motorists flocked to the scene but so intense was the heat and smoke that only a few articles of furniture were saved. Spreading of the alarm and calls for assistance were handicapped by the lack of telephones in the vicinity.

The home, which housed two families, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Broadworth, and Mr. and Mrs. William Broadworth, and son and daughter, was one of the old landmarks of Hastings county. Built in the early pioneer days, it was originally a hotel, and was constructed of square timbers. It was remodelled some years ago by the late John Fanning and converted into a double dwelling. The Broadworth family have resided there for the past thirty-five years.

Little is Saved.

Practically everything in the William Broadworth part of the home was destroyed with the exception of the piano. A small amount of furniture was salvaged from the Ernest Broadworth section of the house. A strong, prevailing north wind carried burning embers to the barn of Blake Ketchabon, a short distance away, and ignited the roof, but the flames were extinguished before any damage was done.

The loss is estimated in the vicinity of $3,000. There was a little insurance carried.

while legislation of the last Government was under review by the courts.

"I would submit," Mr. Rogers said, "there has been no more appropriate time than the past few years, with the very disparity between loss of income suffered by many and the artificially maintained prices and restrictions imposed by others, to serve as a demonstration of the need for a vigilant application of the principles that lie at the basis of this legislation."

Progress was made in the estimates of the Department of Mines and Resources with the main debate on coal subventions.

In moving second reading of the Combines Act amendments, Mr. Rogers said the purpose of the Bill was not to prevent trade organizations or to condemn large scale business. Unquestionably large scale enterprises operated in some instances to the benefit of the public. The purpose was to bring all monopolistic or partly monopolistic organizations, whether trusts, mergers or combines, under review so that if they were found operating to the detriment of the public, through price control, or other methods, they could be checked.

Stronger Penalties.

It was felt, increased penalties were needed in order to deter large corporations from violating the Act and making up their fines in a few months' operations, he said. The maximum penalties were to be increased from $10,000 for individuals to $25,000, with or without imprisonment, and from $25,000 to $100,000 for corporations.

Hon. T. A. Crerar, Minister of Mines and Resources, obtained approval for several items in his estimates and gave the House information on a variety of subjects.

The Government proposed no change in the coal subventions, he said. An increase of $300,000 in the appropriation for subventions this year was due to the fact last year's vote was too low.

Reforestation and aforestation brought members of all parties to their feet urging the Government to do all possible to conserve the forest wealth of Canada. Mr. Crerar agreed as to the desirability of this, but stressed the need of building up public opinion.

The Federal Government had no control over forests, but the provinces which had control were alive to the problem and were taking steps along various lines to protect the forests, he said.

REVOLVING TABLE STILL SERVES WEST

May Yet Be Seen In The Ranch Homes Of Southern Alberta

HIGH RIVER, Alta., March 2.—(CP)—Survivor of pioneer days, the odd revolving table may yet be seen in ranch homes of Southern Alberta.

A sturdy product of home carpentering, the revolving table obviated the necessity of diners, in polite voice, asking "please pass the butter."

There was nothing "small" about the pioneer table. It was a double-decker, circular in shape, supported on a substantial central base. The lower tier was usually six or seven feet across, the size depending largely on the expansive ideas of the owner. On it were placed the plates, cutlery, cups and saucers.

It swung to and fro in response to the touch. On the upper deck was spread the meal. It was the father and mother of all the modern self-serving plans.

But it must not be supposed that that sturdy rough-hewn pioneer, the old revolving table, has left no progeny. They have become a feature of city homes. But they are small creations, beautifully fashioned in oak and walnut.

SALT MINE PAYS RICH DIVIDENDS

Artesian Lake In Southern Alberta Fosters Healthy Livestock

OYEN, Alta., March 2 (C.P.). — A thriving salt mine on the shores of an artesian lake in nearby Acadia Valley is paying dividends, not only from its market prices, but also in the healthier cattle, sheep, hogs and horses it gives to farmers using it.

Located on the farm of Tom and Sidney Abbott, the salt bed covers about 30 acres. So far no mining operations have been undertaken in the summer time, although for years it has been a popular watering place for stock of the district.

Last year D. W. Bohannon of Garfield, Alta., leased the property and appointed Abbott brothers to attend to the mining. They do it all in winter. Last winter 400 tons were taken out and this year they expect to market 1,000 tons.

Laboratory tests by the Alberta Government have shown the salt contains sodium sulphate, magnesium, and other minerals not found in common salt. It is completely soluble in water and contains impurities amounting to only .38 per cent.

At agricultural schools in Alberta the salt is being used with success as a conditioner for live stock and poultry and as a soil dress in potato and hay fields. Sidney Abbott also claims that it will conserve moisture in garden plots.

Bohannon attends to the selling end of the industry and as a salesman he has a unique record. So far he has placed some of the product in every town visited.

TELLS ROTARIANS ABOUT LOBSTERS

Dr. E. A. Stuart Gives Interesting Address To Campbellford Club

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, March 1.—At the weekly luncheon of the Rotary Club held in the St. Lawrence Hotel yesterday Dr. E. A. Stuart addressed his fellow club members briefly explaining some of the interesting factors concerning the lobster industry of his native province, Nova Scotia.

The speaker explained that although lobsters weighing as much as 47 pounds had been taken out of the Northumberland Strait the average size of this member of the crab family measured some two or three inches in length. The method of capturing lobsters was today much more arduous than it was 90 years ago since the supply is diminishing, as indicated by the fact that the average number caught in a single trap was now two per day while some years ago it was quite possible to wade into the water at low tide and rake them out of the mud in large numbers.

The present method of trapping lobsters whereby a slatted box about two feet long and three feet wide with a funnel shaped entrance was dropped into the sea weighted with stones and attached to a long rope from which a buoy floats on the surface was comparatively slow.

The speaker explained how they were kept alive in ponds about 10 feet deep and fed on herring until they were shipped alive to the local market being killed only when they were served or canned.

Dr. Stuart concluded his address by telling of how it was necessary, in order to overcome the cannibalistic habits of the crustacean to put small plugs of wood behind the pincer like claws in order to prevent them from opening them during captivity.

THE FAVORITE BEAUTY SOAP OF CANADA'S YOUNGER SET

"Palmolive's GENTLE BEAUTY CARE KEEPS MY SKIN FRESH AND LOVELY... ALL OVER" SAYS Peggy Oliver

Popular Montreal Society Girl

"Palmolive is the only soap that really cleanses my skin," continues Miss Oliver. "It's smooth lather seems to go right into the pores, leaving my skin so refreshed."

And this lovely young lady is correct. Costly Olive Oil gives Palmolive its mild penetrating lather. It goes gently, deep into the pores, floats out cosmetic particles and other impurities, lets your skin breathe and function properly. And as Palmolive cleanses, it soothes and refreshes your skin, leaves it soft . . . lovely all over.

Why don't you try this simple Palmolive Beauty Treatment? For your face, throat and shoulders, and for your bath, gently massage into your skin a warm, rich Palmolive lather. Cleanse the pores thoroughly. Rinse with warm water, then with cold. Easy, isn't it? Yet there is no surer way to real, all-over skin beauty.

DR. DAFOE SAYS:

"At the time of the birth of the Dionne Quintuplets, and for many days afterward, they were bathed in Olive Oil . . . When the time arrived for tub and water baths, we selected Palmolive Soap exclusively for daily use in bathing these famous babies."

Asks City Council For Work Or Increased Schedule Of Relief

BUILDING RESTRICTIONS

A petition for building restrictions in the north end area bounded by Benson avenue, Park Hill Road, Aylmer street and Wolseley street, was presented to the city council monday night by A. L. Elliott, representing a large deputation of the property owners in the comparatively residential section which has developed rapidly in recent years.

The proposed restrictions were a minimum value of $5,000 for new houses, exclusive of the value of the land, which are to be at least 30 feet from the street line, and the lots to be of at least 40 feet frontage.

Mr. Elliott said that in a three month period ten lots had been sold, three for $1050 and four for $1100 each. Some years ago three of these lots were bought for $50 each. The recent sale indicated the increase in property values in that district.

Mrs. Agnes Fitzgerald as owner of a substantial part of the area had imposed a building restriction of $3,500 and had increased it to $5,000. Mr. Elliott said that the petition was signed by a large majority of the property owners affected by the restrictions sought by the delegation. Some of the petitioners were K. G. Leeh, A. S. Faris, J. E. Smith, G. W. Haley, T. Mark, John S. Curtis, J. R. Morrow, Walter R. M. Blackwell, A. W. Spence, J. J. Pettit, John Taylor, F. J. A. Morris, Frank Barrett and others.

The request was referred to the property committee.

More Relief on Work

Charles Lambert addressed the council on behalf of a numerous deputation from Peterborough Workers and Unemployed Association, which he said had been recently reorganised, asking for work or an increased schedule of relief for those who were unemployed. He quoted comparative allowances for relief in five Ontario cities supporting the association's appeal.

Kingston's relief allowance for one person was $1.80 a week and for a family of twelve persons $9.65. Woodstock $2 and $13; Kitchener $2.27 and $17.30; London $1.85 and $11.37; Peterborough $1.65 and $10.10. These rates were in effect at the end of January.

Cost of Living Advances

Mr. Lambert said that the cost of living was estimated to have increased 30 per cent, but the council was imposing a cut in its relief allowance for the coming summer.

"We understand the position of the council and the ratepayers," Mr. Lambert said, "but that consideration does not alter the fact that 450 families in this city are living on a standard that is a disgrace to a Christian community. We don't ask for relief at all. We ask for work at a decent standard of wages so that we will be able to banish the lie that the unemployed are lazy and good for nothing."

Mr. Lambert said that the relief allowance was a menace to those who had to accept it and to the rest of the citizens as well. Moreover, men had to put up with low wages that threatened the wages of all other workers. "We ask for social justice. We love Canada, and we want to bring up our children to be healthy and strong, who in turn will take their place in the community. Our aspect is the need of work and wages. Your aspect is to reduce taxes. If you deny us work we must have adequate ration, which means more than we are receiving now for for our children and families."

Mayor Macdonald told Mr. Lambert that his written appeal would be referred to the relief committee.

Property Committee

The report of the property committee authorized the chairman, Alderman McIntyre to advertise for tenders for painting the public rest rooms on Charlotte street, and that the committee award the contract. Tenders will also be called for the sale of the market tolls for the year beginning April 1. The wages of the driver of the garbage collection truck and the foreman at the incinerator were fixed at $22 a week each, and the assistant collectors and other employees at the incinerator get $20 a week.

The report of the manufacturers committee, read by Alderman Glover, chairman, granted $300 to the Kawartha Lakes and Haliburton Tourist Association. Ald. Glover and E. A. Cutran, assistant city clerk, are to prepare copy for a Peterborough page in the association's booklet. The question of erecting signs near Port Hope giving directions to Peterborough was left with Alderman Glover for further investigation.

A. G. Metheral, relief officer, reported 430 families on relief last month; dependents of those families 1351; single men 52; single women 44; total number of individuals 1,877.

Number of orders for provisions 1,393; milk 304; fuel 633; clothing 684; rent 427; medicine 26; mattresses 3; doctors' orders 187; dental orders 31; ambulance 2; funerals 3; indigent patients 6; inspections and investigations 169; meal tickets at police station 209.

Fights Renewal

Senator W. E. Borah (Republican) is the latest member of the U.S. Senate to oppose extending of the Canada-United States reciprocal trade treaty which expires June 12 of this year. Senator Borah declared on the Senate floor that "the burden of these reciprocal agreements falls on agriculture." The U. S. House of Representatives voted to extend the treaty for another three years.

THREE RINKS ARE LEADING BONSPIEL WITH 2 WINS EACH

Nova Scotia Scored Stunning Comeback Triumph Over Ontario

MANITOBA ALSO WINS

TORONTO, March 2.—(CP)—Nova Scotia scored a stunning comeback triumph over Ontario today in Macdonald's Brier tankard play to move out in front of the pack with Manitoba and Alberta after two rounds of play. The Maritime rink scored an extra-end 9-8 victory.

Jimmy Welsh's Manitobans from Winnipeg, defending the Canadian championship for his province, led the way for the unbeaten rinks by defeating New Brunswick 16-6 in a match that was close until the last two ends when the Winnipeg snipers piled up eight points.

The Cliff Manahan quartet from Edmonton handed Saskatchewan its defeat by an 8-6 score. But it remained for Hugh Ferguson's men from Truro to provide the highlight of the second round at the expense of Ontario's contender from Kitchener, skipped by A. E. Dunker.

In other matches British Columbia trounced Prince Edward Island 17-6 and Northern Ontario won by 15-12 from Quebec, despite an amazing rally by the Montreal foursome, led by W. O. Roy, who scored 11 points on the last four ends.

Ferguson's Nova Scotians started their comeback after the eighth end when they trailed 7-4, having scored on only two ends against the efficient Dunker rink. Ferguson tallied one at the ninth, dropped one at the 10th and counted singles at the 11th and 12th to tie the score.

It seemed impossible for Ferguson to pull into a tie when he threw his last stone on the 12th. A house with two well-guarded Kitchener stones faced him. But Ferguson drew beautifully for shot and Dunker was unable to nudge the stone out.

On the extra end lead G. Y. Thomas laid down the Nova Scotia shot around which victory was built. It was good until Dunker drew inside with his second last rock. When Ferguson carried out this Kitchener shot, the Ontario skip was unable to duplicate his draw.

Hydro-Provincial Relations.

A second motion made by Mr. Ellis was intended to lead to a general investigation of the financial relations between the Province and the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission. Mr. Ellis' second motion would have called for an investigation of certain Hydro accounts for the year ended March 31, 1935. Provincial Secretary Nixon and Attorney-General Roebuck objected the committee could not go back this far without specific instructions from the Legislature. Mr. Ellis deleted this part of the motion.

Mr. Ellis said there was no rule prohibiting the committee going back as far as it pleased.

"What objection is there unless you're worried," he asked Mr. Nixon.

"As far as I know there is nothing we want to hide" said Mr. Nixon. "It is not in accordance with well-established procedure."

Attorney-General Roebuck objected to Mr. Ellis making insinuations there was something to hide.

"I don't anticipate any objections being raised in the House to going back," he said.

THE STARS SAY . . .

For Wednesday, March 3.

A DAY NOTABLE for the breaking up of old stagnant and crystalized conditions is the augury based on an important lunar aspect. This should clear the way for decided progress in starting new enterprises and speeding up old undertakings. Such transactions should prove financially profitable, but guard against fraud, treachery and misrepresentation. Rings, combines or secret sources of co-operation may prove helpful.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year in which congested conditions may be broken up. New projects and progress in old ventures are probable, but guard against loss through fraud or misrepresentation.

A child born on this day may have a fine and ingenious intellect, and be profound, studious and diligent, although given to tempestuous and impulsive moods. It should have a successful career because of its practical and constructive endowments.

'NOTHING TO HIDE'—NIXON

TORONTO, March 2 (C.P.). — Expenditures of the Department of Northern Development for the fiscal year ended March 31, 1936, will come under the scrutiny of Opposition members of the Ontario Legislature; it was decided to-day when the Public Accounts Committee met for the first time this session.

James Clark (Lib., Windsor-Sandwich) was elected as chairman.

Arthur Ellis (Cons. Ottawa South) presented two Conservative motions for investigations. First motion called for summoning R. M. Smith, Deputy Minister of Highways, and R. A. Campbell, former Deputy Minister of Northern Development, to look into public account items under the heading of unemployment relief in the Northern Development Department.

The items to be investigated include: Road and bridges construction, $2,327,490.92; Trans-Canada Highways, $6,380,288.70; total, $8,807,779.62.

The first motion also called for a particular investigation of a contract to the Dufferin Paving Company for clearing and grading the Fort Frances-Kenora Highway, $1,671,292.73, and of seven miles of grading east of Kenora, one of the same company for $14,220.50.

The Rambling REPORTERS

STARTED SOME EXCITEMENT

A prominent local insurance man who lives on George street north innocently started a bit of excitement in his neighborhood the other morning.

Stepping from his house on his way to work, he was shocked to see a crepe hanging on the door of one of the neighbor homes. So he returned to his own home to ask his wife if she had heard of any deaths in that household.

His wife had heard of none, so, in anxious excitement, she telephoned a neighbor on the other side of the street to inquire. Soon all the telephones in the vicinity were busy and expressions of condolence were being framed on many tongues. Then the insurance man ventured forth again to discover that what had appeared to him to be a crepe was merely a coat the postman had hung temporarily on the door-knob while he made his trip up and down the block—C.P.R.

NIAGARA ICE FLOES BATTER AT DOCKS

Fear All Buildings In Gorge May Be Swept Out As Jams Pile Up Thirty Feet

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., March 2. —(CP)—Greatest movement of ice in the Niagara River since the disastrous jam of 1909 took place today and the three floating docks of the Maid of the Mist, each 50 feet in length were pinned against the cliffs. It was feared further movements would tear them downstream.

For more than 300 feet the ice has spread over the bottom of the gorge near the Maid of the Mist landing, forcing evacuation of a family living in the house on the Canadian side.

Heavy damage has been caused by the swirling ice which covers the dry docks where the Maids of the Mist have been undergoing their annual overhauling.

A boiler out of one of the boats has been carried away by the ice. The booming of the breaking, crumbling ice could be heard for a considerable distance as it pushed and tumbled at the remaining buildings at the landing. The railing, stand railings and buildings at the landing have been destroyed and the incline railway endangered and surrounded by huge ice floes.

Salvage work started was halted by fear of a sudden ice movement which would crush the men at work. The ice in the middle of the river piled more than 30 feet high in places and the ice bridge has been forced many thousands of feet downstream. It was feared the experience of 1909 would be repeated and all buildings crushed and swept away, endangering the two Maids of the Mist supposed to be high and dry and far from danger of ice and water.

Old trees have been uprooted and sheds torn away. So far there has been no damage caused at the big Ontario Power Company plant, nestled just below the Horseshoe falls.

BRETHEN'S SALE WAS BIG SUCCESS

One Cow Brought $300 While Another Was Knocked Down At $260

Norman McConkey informed the Examiner today that G. A. Brethen's sale of pure bred Holstein cattle at the Coliseum in Toronto was a complete success. The attendance of buyers was exceptionally large, and the auction was smartly staged. Mr. McConkey bought the herd bull for W. A. Hodge of Dorval, Que., for $170. John Houck, Chippawa, paid $260 for a cow and $47.50 for its calf. Another cow went to a buyer from East Aurora, N.Y., for $300; and a calf only a few days old brought $45. Archie Muir of Courtice paid $150 for a one year old bull, and other prices were in proportion. The auctioneer was L. E. Franklin.

STRIKE SETTLED IN SHORT ORDER

23 Employes Of The Allin Ice Company Are Given Wage Increase

Twenty-three employes of The Allin Ice Company staged a walk-out at the firm's Townsend Street plant early this afternoon in a demand for an increase of from 20 cents to 35 cents an hour.

The strike, which was of short-lived duration, was settled within an hour, when the men compromised by accepting the firm's offer of 30 cents an hour, according to Robert S. Allin, son of the proprietor.

In the midst of storing large quantities of ice recently cut on the Trent Canal near Peterborough Golf Links, the workers downed their tools at 1.30 p.m.

Truckers working under contract arrived at the warehouse yards, where the whole fleet of ten trucks was held-up awaiting unloading while negotiations were proceeding between employers and men.

The spokesmen of the employes who went into conference with Mr. Allin and his son at the plant offices, were Mike Gahagan and William Shields.

One of the strikers told an Examiner reporter: "I am a married man with a wife and seven children dependent on me. I cannot make a living on twenty cents an hour."

Other men made similar complaints, claiming they were giving the firm a good day's work, but were being asked to do the work of two men and only being offered a boy's pay.

There was no disorder at the plant, the men having made their demand in a quiet but determined fashion.

WELSH DO HONOR TO PATRON SAINT ANNUAL BANQUET

Dr. Lorna Cotton-Thomas Special Speaker At St. David's Day Banquet

DEEDS OF HEROES RETOLD

Singing Welsh songs of old and retelling the deeds of Welsh heroes in song and speech, sixty Peterborough members of the Saint David's Welsh society gathered about the table for their annual banquet at the Paragon Hall last evening. Significant was the note of pride with which the emigrants acclaimed Canada their new home, sounded throughout the program.

"With all her faults yet we love her," declared Dr. Lorna Cotton-Thomas in proposing a toast to Canada. "It is probably because her faults are so insignificant against those of other countries that we can so readily overlook them. Canada has her faults yet it allows its citizens freedom of speech, freedom of action and freedom of religion. These are the blessed things we are thankful for in Canada."

Dr. Cotton-Thomas declared the love for those fundamental freedoms still exists everywhere in the world, even in Germany and Italy. The three freedoms may be temporarily suppressed but they could never be permanently abolished.

Cling to Cultures

Common people throughout the world cling to their cultures, just as the Welsh have clung to their time-honored culture through many years in their new Canadian homeland, she continued. "The common people even in those nations such as Italy and Germany where iron-handed rule prevails think only as you and I think. Nothing can ever destroy the culture of a people which produced a Beethoven or of a people which produced a Michael Angelo."

The speaker said Canada is in a curious position as the cultural realm in that Canada must produce a Canadian culture out of a group of cultures. Many cultures were represented among the people who have settled in Canada — English, Scot, Welsh, Irish and even the cultures of Northern and Southern Europeans. She expressed the hope that tolerance should be the guiding keynote in the blending of these cultures and that the principle of the three freedoms — freedom of speech, freedom of action and freedom of religion—prevail over all.

Thomas Davis presided over the happy Welsh gathering and served ably as toastmaster. Following the toast to the King, Mrs. Robert Jones proposed the toast to Wales, recalling famous figures and famous incidents of Welsh history. Morris Parry responded.

Mrs. John Cairns to Dr. Cotton-Thomas' toast to Canada and John Cairns offered the toast to Our Society which drew a response by William Williams.

The musical section of the program afforded a distinct Welsh flavor, a number of the songs being in the native Welsh tongue. Soloists were Miss G. Mills, Miss Jessie Pattison, William Williams, Arthur Siddall and Ted Bartley. Mr. and Mrs. John Cairns, Mrs. John Davis and Alex Kirkaldy sang as a quartet. Miss Margaret Flowers provided the piano accompaniments. The entire gathering joined in traditional Welsh songs.

NO WAR FOR 25 YEARS

Everyone Too Busy and Too Well Armed.

SYDNEY, N.S., March 2.—(CP)— There will be no world war for another quarter century, in the opinion of Lord Riverdale, British steel magnate, who arrived here today.

"Everybody is too busy and too well armed to start another major conflict," said the owner of the Arthur Balfour Steel Company of Sheffield, England, as he arrived here from New York on a tour of Canada.

Speaking of industrial conditions in England, Lord Riverdale said they were "good, in fact too good. There is a shortage of 2,000,000 tons of pig iron and 3,000,000 tons of scrap. We will be unable to supply our steel requirements this year and next year."

Brokerage Costs Of $12,000 Paid By City Trust Alderman Charges

The Council opposition to Alderman Gordon's private bill was approved at Monday night's meeting with Alderman Gordon and Alderman Wilson voting against the recommendation as embodied in the Board of Works report read by Alderman Sloan. A slight amendment of the wording of the resolution was adopted on Alderman Hamilton's suggestion. For the words relating to the opposition "on the well considered ground that the effect of this private bill would be contrary to the will of the people," etc., the phrase was substituted "on the following amongst other well-considered grounds, etc. . . ."

Amplifying his former criticism, Alderman Gordon said that the City Trust Commission was trading in the bond market. In 1934, he said, the Commission sold $513,000 bonds and bought $474,139, with brokerage costs amounting to $12,000.

Small Boy Finds Badly Injured Dog Constable Investigating Finds Dog His

Called to the south-end of the city in company of a fellow officer on Monday afternoon, when a small boy discovered a badly-injured dog lying in the ditch near Ware street railway crossing, Constable William Piercy learned that it was his own dog "Queen"—missing for two days that was seriously hurt.

Presumably struck by a passing train hours before being found, the dog a valuable Kerry Blue said to be one of the only dogs of its breed in the Dominion, was removed to Dr. Art Johnston's animal hospital on Brock street.

"Queen" was exhibited by Miss Alyce M. Price at the show held under the auspices of Peterborough Kennel Club last year.

Though painfully injured and suffering paralysis of the front paws, the dog gave her master a joyous greeting when he visited her at the animal hospital. She gave him a mute look of appeal through her shaggy-haired eyes, and wagged her tail with evident pleasure.

PRIEST IS ROBBED

Burglars Take Time for Lunch Then Leave with $25 and Victim's Car.

ELORA, Ont., March 2.—(CP)—Police today sought two men who bound and robbed Rev. Father N. L. Sullivan of St. Mary's church of the Immaculate Conception here. Elora is about 25 miles northwest of Guelph.

The hold-up occurred Sunday night. Police were informed yesterday and started their investigation immediately.

Two armed and masked men entered the priest's home, trussed him up and then opened cupboards to prepare lunch for themselves. Two hours later they departed, taking $25 and the priest's car.

Mrs. Mary Collins, who saw the first train on its way from London to Bristol, England, has just died, aged 102.

NOT content with merely taking the oath administered to him, a witness at a hearing before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., this (Tuesday) morning asked leave of the court to offer prayer before giving his testimony. Ere the Cadi and others in the courtroom had grasped the nature of the man's request, he had raised his right hand on high and closed his eyes, and was launched into the recital of a somewhat lengthy prayer in which he invoked God to witness to the truth.

GIVE AUSSIES THE SERIES

MELBOURNE, Australia, March 2—(CP Cable)—Overwhelming defeat faces England in the final cricket test match with Australia. With only two wickets to fall tomorrow the Mother Country requires 300 runs to stop the Antipodeans from winning by an innings.

Aided by a wicket made extremely difficult by overnight rain, the home bowlers routed their opponents to-day for totals of 230 and 165 for eight wickets. Batting throughout Friday and Saturday, Australia compiled a record score of 604.

Victory will give the Aussies the series, as the teams are tied with two wins each in the five-game series. England won the first two tests at Brisbane and Sydney, but met defeat at Melbourne and Adelaide in the third and fourth counters. Score card:

PUCK EXECUTIVE RULES ON GAMES

Church League Officials Settle Senior Section Playoff Disputes

The Church Hockey League executive met last night to settle the two senior playoff games which have been under fire. It was unanimously decided to allow the members of the executive who were also players for a team or officials in a game to have a full part in dealing with the protests. It has not been the custom to have team representatives at protest meetings in the past. The two members of the executive who were affected by the above conditions withdrew from voting on the first protest. This was by Murray St. over the referee allowing the winning All Saints' goal on the goal judge's decision, despite the fact that he did not see the goal scored and had called a faceoff in the corner. The protest was thrown out, the three members voting unanimously. The secretary's motion that the protest be settled by an outside protest committee received no seconder.

Award Contest

A lengthy discussion took place regarding settlement of the third senior game. With the members being agreed to all decisions. The game was awarded to Murray St. on a 2-1 score, the All Saints' tying goal, coming after the timer called "Time," not being allowed. It was agreed that the changed rule calling the timer's signal to end the period had not been one of the three exceptions to the new O.H.A. rules which the Church League had adopted at the first executive meeting. There was no record in the minutes of that exception and the fact the league secretary could not change the rule. It was felt the timer's call was an acceptable substitute for a gong, bell or whistle. It was not decided whether the league or the rink should supply a proper timers' mechanical signal.

Commendation was expressed at the capable manner in which the game and final mixup had been handled by Referee Cliff Cadd. Dissatisfaction was expressed at the failure of the rink officials to make a definite decision regarding overtime in final senior games. Most of the executive scorned Murray St. of poor sporting spirit or co-operation with the league executive or game officials in refusing to play overtime in the first and third games. Due to lateness of the season, it was decided to hold the games when possible. If Wednesday's game is rained out, it may be moved later to an indoor rink.

St. James' Beaten In Scout Loop Game

St. James' suffered their first defeat in the Scout Hockey League at the Sacred Heart rink when Immaculate Conception qualified for final playoffs by pulling out a 5-4 win. The ice was poor and long shots and scrambles near the nets figured in the scoring for both sides. Passing plays were impossible but it was a close scrap all through. Curtin and McAuliffe scored two each for the East City gang with R. Garvey getting one. For St. James' Leavitt got two, and Thorne and W. Lawson one apiece. The winner of a St. James'-St. Peter's game goes into finals against Immaculate Conception. The teams: Immaculate Conception.—Goal, Spencer; defence, Curtin, McAuliffe; centre, F. Garvey; wings, Heffernan, R. Garvey; alternates, Crough, McCabe, Roche.

St. James'—Goal, Leather; defence, Thorne, S. Leavitt; centre, F. Lawson; wings, Anderson, Campbell; alternates, W. Lawson, Greerson, Stanley.

Referee—G. Cournyea.

MURRAY ST. WINS JUVENILE FINAL

Pull Out 2-0 Verdict Over St. Paul's In First Of Playoffs

Murray St. won the first juvenile final game in the Church Hockey League last night over St. Paul's, 3-0. It was a close battle with the winners having little edge against the dogged checking of St. Paul's. The first goal was a gift on a long shot by Cox which rolled through the goalie's pads. It came in the third, and Cox again scored in a scramble in the fourth—four periods being played. These two goals were the only ones this player has scored in nine games all season.

Play was hard but clean. Foster and Mackness drew most of the penalties. St. Paul's were dissatisfied with the refereeing most of the way. Neither goalie had much to do in the heavy checking till on slow ice. Pammett was about the best player present with Easton close behind. Foster roughed it too much to be outstanding. Cox, Lasenby, Crary, King and Morrow all went well. The losers missed a couple of regulars but hope to even it up in the second game, Wednesday night at seven. The teams:

St. Paul's: Goal, McBride; defence, J. McMillan, King; centre, T. McMillan; wings, Easton, Morrow; alternates, Lookington, Mackness.

Murray St.—Goal, K. Gillespie; defence, C. Gillespie, Foster; centre, Pammett; wings, Whatley, Crary; alternates, Cox, Smith, Lasenby, Duncan.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

(C.I.P.)

AS THE Governor of North Carolina said to the Governor of South Carolina: "What do you say?" After due deliberation, the Governor of South Carolina replied to the Governor of North Carolina: "Make mine a silver fizz." And with this important matter disposed of, these worthy Governors then settled down to discuss baseball. And that reminds us that the annual Spring meeting of the Central Ontario Baseball League will be held on March 13th—one week from this Saturday—in Belleville. At that time, teams will be entered, projects for the coming summer outlined, and plans made for the annual O.B.A.A. session in Oshawa on April 3rd. Every local ball club should holds its annual meeting within the next 10 days.

* * * * * * *

LAST YEAR, the O.B.A.A. took in 250 clubs playing over 1200 league games. To decide the Ontario championships it was necessary to play 147 games in the seven sections, the playdowns running from Aug. 9th to Oct. 28th. Oshawa GM-men won the senior title as well as the junior flag and thus that town deserves the honors of holding this huge and colorful sports convention—Peterborough being the only other town in Central Ontario to have played host to the baseball men of the Province, and that was in 1931. Nominations for officers and executive as well as amendments to the rules must be sent in to the secretary by March 20th.

* * * * * * *

THIS ITEM appears in the O.B.A.A. bulletin: "Every player who changed his place of residence from one city, town or village to another after Aug. 1st, 1936, must fill in a form supplied by the O.B.A.A. secretary, otherwise the request for a transfer will not be considered. Kindly refer to Page 31 of the O.B.A.A. Constitution and By-Laws relative to players applying for a change of residence. A transfer fee of two dollars is required for all senior and intermediate players who apply for a transfer." Harold Buck, from Sudbury to Kingston, is the only one listed so far which affects the C.O.B.L.—but there'll be more, folks; oh, yes, indeed!

* * * * * * *

AS THE Big League ball teams head south for training, the poor U.S. baseball writers must pack up and go along to toil nearly an hour a day under balmy southern skies while club owners fawn on 'em and treat them like unattached millionaire uncles. We'll be going south, too, with the local ball club; only not so soon nor so far—down to the Exhibition Grounds in April!

* * * * * * *

AND STILL no word—at this writing—as to what team the Colts meet next in O.H.A. junior "B" playdowns. Lindsay is playing Aurora this week, and it looks like Oshawa will stick to that O.H.A. juvenile class and play Richmond. Maybe we'll get Barrie, but there's nothing definite yet and local officials at noon could find out nothing. By the way, Coach Frank Buckland of the Peterborough Hockey Club suffered a severe loss yesterday afternoon in the death of his father, a former sportsman himself, in Toronto. Our sincere sympathy to the local coach. He will not likely handle the Colts in their next game.

ALL SAINTS won the first of the three-game Junior City Hockey League playoffs over Canucks, 6-3, last night at the Brock St. rink. It was a fine junior joust with plenty of action, speed and some smart puck play dished up. Those All Saints' lads will be hard to knock off now but Canucks will be back battling harder than ever tomorrow (Wednesday) when they clash at eight in the Brock. If they even it up, the third tilt should be a torrid one. This has been a fine young loop all winter with lots of exciting games played—and these playoffs are a fitting climax.

* * * * * * *

THE BLOOD and Thunder Loopers were at it again last night—at least last night and part of this morning! They staged a sudden-death game at the Brock last night between Lakefield and Outboard Marines to see which team would go into the Senior City Loop semi-finals against Mayfairs. Well, it'll be Lakefield but they had to play eight overtime periods—yeah, eight, count 'em!—before squeezing out a 3-2 decision. It got so the teams weren't leaving the ice but running two overtime frames in together. We lost count but the official timer tells us it went 80 minutes overtime, that is on top of the regular 60 minutes of hockey! A total of 140 minutes, ending up half an hour after midnight. The players were dead on their feet, the fans (quite a few of whom stayed to the bitter finish), and yours truly were hanging on the ropes at the finish. Another of those Bruins-Leafs' marathon struggles. What a game, what a game! Those Lakefield lads have to come right back tonight at 8.30 to meet Mayfairs in semi-finals here (in 60 minutes of actual play) and they'll be very tired boys indeed. It should draw a huge crowd tonight after that redhot number last p.m.

* * * * * * *

THAT WAS the bitterest brawl staged here this year. Furious hockey studded with fights, arguments, penalties, injuries and bad feeling. You had to see it to appreciate it—the fans were limp at the windup. Two classy teams knew it meant the finish of one and they shot the works. Anyone who carried his stick below his shoulder was just leading with his chin like a sap. The liveliest free-for-all we've seen in months took place in the third. Lakefield nearly left the ice once after their claim to a goal was disallowed. Yeah, it was just plain arsenic all through. We must slip an orchid to that gallant gang of Lakefield fighters for staying in there and battling from Monday till Tuesday. And we must mitt the scrappy Marines for fighting their heads off to the finish. Two bunches of battling players, with every man on either team giving his best. It was a sudden-death game all right and looked like a sudden and violent death to anyone anytime. The cross-checking was very cross, indeed. What a game, folks, what a game!

* * * * * * *

GRAB-BAG: Young "Pat" Gournay played in both games [illegible] Brock last eve, and all that overtime—can he take it! . . . Cobourg rubbed out Lakefield while Campbellford eliminated Warkworth in first-round juvenile O.H.A. playdowns . . . . Quite a local demand for tickets to the Canadiens-Leafs game this Saturday; you have to phone Ed Wright at 2115 for 'em by Thursday night to be sure . . . . Lindsay gal pucksters took a 3-1 nod from Cobourg damsels the other eve . . . . Dope on a bitter argument which arose last night in Church Puck Loop playoffs is published elsewhere tonight; also game accounts . . . . That Lakefield-Mayfairs' Blood and Thunder Loop playoff tonight at the Brock at 8.30 promises to be another sizzler and rates a real crowd of fans . . . . Folks here are getting fed up on no word from the O.H.A. as to when the Colts go into action again . . . . Trenton Fliers won the first game of the intermediate "A" finals last p.m. over Point Edward, 3-2 . . . . A guy next to us last q'en said of Sailor Maudsley—who was playing a good game: "He must know something, he don't say nothing; but like ol' man river, he jes' keeps rollin' along!"

ALL SAINTS' WIN BUT LOSE GAME

Cop Senior Church Playoff Game But Executive Rules Game For Murray-Street

The third game of the hectic senior Church Hockey League finals was staged Monday night at All Saints' rink with All Saints copping a 3-2 win but their last two goals being disallowed later at an executive meeting, with Murray Street thus being awarded a 2-1 decision. As the Murray Street protest of the second game was thrown out, this leaves the series even at a win each and a draw. The deciding game is billed for Wednesday night at eight. This was All Saints' first loss in five years of senior campaigning—disputed goals resulting in the reverse.

It was a close, hard but clean contest with Murray Street having an edge the first half. All Saints, reinforced later by their regular goalie, Jay, and their smart line—who had been playing Junior City League earlier in the night—had the best of it the last half. Fisher got the first goal in the second and Johnston and Whatman tallied in the same frame. The unlucky tying goal came at the close of the period. The timer, without mechanical means of making a noise, yelled "Time." The Murray Street goalie and defence heard and made no attempt to stop Mortimer's shot. The referee, however, did not hear the call and faced off the puck. As there has been controversy over the rule in force regarding the ending of games, the referee took the advice of the league secretary and allowed the tying goal.

Refuse Decision.

Murray Street refused to accept this decision, throwing it back on the executive's shoulders. They declined to take the ice, taking a choice of a win or loss rather than a draw. The league executive later upheld the Murray Street claim. Fisher starred for All Saints while Seabrook went good on defence. Beaudero and Frost were also effective. Though lacking their rivals' finesse in play, Murray St. played good aggressive hockey. The Spencely brothers were effective, while McNabb in goal and H. Pammett went well, too.

The teams:

All Saints: Goal, Seabrooke; defence, Beaudero, Fraser; centre, Maudsley; wings, Fisher, Frost; alternates, Charlton, Hope, Mortimer, McDougall, Williams, Jay.

Murray St.: Goal, McNabb; defence, E. Spencely, F. Spencely; centre, Johnston; wings, Palmer, Mann; alternates, G. Pammett, H. Pammett, Whatman.

Referee, C. Cadd.

ALL SAINTS' WIN JUNIOR PLAYOFF

Defeat Canucks 6-3 In First Of Junior City Puck Loop Three-Game Finals

All Saints won the first game of the Junior City Hockey League playoffs, 6-3, over Canucks last night before a fair crowd at the Brock St. rink. The series is two out of three games, next one being Wednesday night at eight provided there is no O.H.A. contest that evening. All Saints earned the verdict in the first frame with a slight edge on play in the second and third frames. They dished up a fast, passing attack with effective back-checking. Play was fairly even and quite speedy most of the distance, the winners not having a big margin on play. It was 1-1 in the first and 2-1 for All Saints going into the wide-open third. The game was clean all the way.

Mortimer scored early in the first but Fleming evened it late in the period for Canucks. Legon scored as All Saints ganged up in the second with Courney off for boarding. Each team in turn pressed in the third but All Saints showed more system. The McDougall-Mortimer-Williams' line looked fine and figured in several markers. Williams got two, Watson one and then Clarke for the victors. For Canucks, Collins and Courney scored in the third. Both Foward lines were outstanding, but the alternates on both teams were also effective. There was little to choose between the defences or the rival goal-tenders in this playoff tussle. The teams:

All Saints: Goal, Jay; defence, Watson and Quirt; centre, McDougall; wings, Williams and Mortimer; alternates, Legon, Rosebotham, Collin and Clarke.

Canucks: Goal, McKinnon; defence, Cournik and Ridley; centre, Gilbert; wings, Fleming and Courtney; alternates, Clavitto, Courney and Collins.

Referee, Ernie Wolff.

CURLING

By HERB MARTIN

The Vice-skips' Competition got away to a good start on Monday night, when every rink turned out and played its game as scheduled. There were two games that stood out among the rest: McWilliams vs. O'Brien, and Comstock vs. Robertson.

Both games went extra ends with McWilliams winning from Green while Comstock took care of Robertson.

And the best part of the Comstock-Robertson tussle is this: that both boys are recruits from the junior club, an organization that has been allowed to slip badly the last couple of seasons.

Comstock was trailing seven to one at one stage, but kept plugging away and was two down coming home, but made a lovely pick out of Chatten's two shots to count two himself; tieing up the game. In the extra end Max put one right on the button and Chatten missed by inches, with his last stone.

And we have to hand it to the skips: while some of them were not so hot as leads, yet they played their positions well; they stayed within the blue lines.

Lakefield Curlers Drop 54-49 Total

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, March 2.—Seven mixed rinks representing the Lakefield Ladies' and Men's Curling Clubs motored to Peterborough on Saturday evening, where they were entertained by members of the Peterborough Ladies' and Men's Curling Clubs.

A very enjoyable evening was spent. The Peterborough curlers came out on top in the curling when they scored an aggregate of 54 points to Lakefield's 49 in the seven matches played.

After the curling the visitors were entertained with a musical program, a variety of Scotch songs were much enjoyed.

Dainty refreshments were served by the ladies.

A return match is being planned to take place in Lakefield in the near future, possibly this week.

COBOURG SQUAD WINS ON ROUND

Lakeshore Juveniles Lose Second O.H.A. Game, 2-1, In Lakefield

WIN ROUND 7 TO 4

LAKEFIELD, March 12.—The Lakefield High School juvenile hockey team defeated the Cobourg juveniles 2 to 1 in the second game of the first round in the O.H.A. series in the Lakefield rink on Monday night, but failed to gain the three goals they needed to tie up the round. Goals count in the O.H.A. series, and Cobourg got off to a flying start when they defeated Lakefield 6 to 3 in the first game played on Cobourg ice on Friday.

Lakefield played a much better game here Monday and kept the Cobourg crusaders right on their toes all the time.

The Lakefield lads went on the ice with the intention of tying up the round and they certainly worked hard to do it, but the Cobourg lads were on the defensive and kept a close check on the Lakefielders, the result being a fast game with lots of excitement.

Both teams failed to score in the first period, and when Dawe, on Cobourg's second line, scored the first goal of the game in the second session, the crowd — mostly Lakefield supporters — held their breath. But this misfortune served to put the Lakefield lads on their mettle and they waded into the Cobourg squad with spirit. This do-or-die attitude carried them to victory in the game, but the Cobourg squad's defensive tactics prevented them tying the round as they had hoped.

Stabler, on the Lakefield defence, scored in the second period when he took the puck almost the length of the ice to register Lakefield's first goal.

In the third period J. Birch scored on an assist from Marquis Bullock, who played a beautiful game. The smallest boy on the ice, he did a good share of the playing and gained the admiration of fans and players alike. Lakefield's defence players deserve a lot of credit for being on the spot so consistently when they were needed, though there was nothing spectacular about their play, and Morrison in the Lakefield goal put on a fine show.

Shaw, the Cobourg goalie, and Woods and Blasterah, the back-bone of the Cobourg defence, did some nice playing, while Dawe and Telford were outstanding amongst the Cobourg forwards.

Buster Whitton of Lakefield acted as referee. Several penalties were meted out and the umpire had to take a lot of ranting from fans.

Two of the boys started a fist fight in the third period and the play was interrupted until peace was restored. Altogether, the fans got a lot for their money.

The line-up:

Lakefield—Goal, J. Morrison; defence, Quigley, Stabler; centre, Lloyd; right wing, Burr; left wing, Robinson; alternates, M. Bullock, J. Birch and J. Bullock, sub-goal.

Lakefield Wins 3 to 2 In Marathon Puck Tilt

Eliminates Outboard Marines In Red Hot Game That Went Eight Overtime Periods

BLOOD AND THUNDER LOOP

Outboard Marines were eliminated by Lakefield in a marathon sudden-death game last night to decide which team would meet Mayfairs tonight in the Senior City Hockey League semi-finals. The game, played before about 200 excited fans at the Brock St. rink, ended in a 3-2 win for the Northerners in the eighth overtime period. Play lasted for a total of 140 minutes, straight time being used in all periods.

It was a bitter, bruising battle from start to finish. It was marked by fights, threats by Lakefield to leave the ice, hot arguments, dangerous penalties and several injuries. With hard checking and high-sticking the order of the contest, feeling ran high throughout. A free-for-all broke out in the third period of the regulation game, requiring five minutes to quell with players of both teams mixing furiously and spectators out on the ice. Four penalties were handed out when peace was restored.

CLOSE AND HARD.

There was little difference in the play of the teams. With so much at stake, they gave all they had in a memorable melee which has not been equalled in any game seen around here this season. Play was fast, exciting and rough. They slowed up for a time in the overtime periods due to leg weariness, but when Lakefield scored the winning goal, the Marines turned on the heat again in a desperate attempt to get it back. The furious action kept many of the fans there till the final gong half an hour after midnight.

Some spectacular goaltending was shown on the part of both net-guardians. With Lakefield having more close-in scoring chances, Clarke starred with a brilliant performance in the Marines' cage, repeatedly robbing the opposition. Junkin was also outstanding in the other net and had a flock of fine saves to his credit. The rival defences bumped incoming forwards high, wide and handsome; and the forwards fought furiously all the way. The first forward lines in each case were most effective but their alternates were practically as good.

Lakefield Gets First.

In the first frame, Chittick's long shot beat Clarke for the only marker of the inning. Dallin got it back for the Outboards early in the second on a pass from Maudsley. Courneyea later tallied in close, there being some dispute when the goal-judges could not find the light to flash for a moment. Shortly after, Lakefield almost scored, the puck coming to rest just about on the goal-line. They claimed the goal and threatened to leave the ice when it was not allowed, but the Lakefield partisans induced his players to continue the game.

Early in the third heat, Blewett notched the equalizer on assists from Chittick and Jewell. Halfway through the period, Dundas and Jewell mixed in a fist fight which soon embroiled five or six players on each side and had substitutes, officials and fans pushing around. After much effort, order was restored and Dundas, Payne, Jewell and Goalie Junkin were sent to the cooler. Blewett played in goal till Junkin returned. Tempers were hot and action fast but nothing further happened till the period closed.

In the first overtime period, Blewett had a penalty shot but it was stopped. Play was hot, even and without a score. Lakefield tallied in the second overtime session but it was called back when Marine players were being changed during a faceoff near the Marine net. Dundas drew a major in this inning. The third and fourth overtime periods went by with action gradually slowing up, both sides at times threatening but being unable to fool the goalie. Early in the fifth overtime stanza, Blewett intercepted a puck in close, pulled out Clarke and scored. Lakefield then stayed off a desperate Marine attack the rest of the chapter to gain the nod.

The Teams

Lakefield—Goal, Junkin; defence, Sabatino and G. Charlton; centre, Chittick; wings, Jewell and Blewett; alternates, J. Charlton, Death, Pearson, Lennox and Chappell.

Outboard Marines: Goal, Clarke; defence, LeBarr and Cripps; centre, Maudsley; wings, Dallin and Dundas; alternates, Courneyea, Howe, Coursay, Payne and Wood.

Referee, Herb Payne.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 2 (AP)—The big hold-out round-up is next week's headline attraction here...Col. Jake Ruppert is due with his money bags and his fountain pen, ostensibly for a couple of days of sunshine, but confidentially, to see what can be done about herding the rebels back into the fold...The Colonel has sent word south he doesn't care about being bothered with baseball. Just the same "them as wants to can be heard."

Col. Ruppert doesn't propose to see the boys personally, but will conduct negotiations with the trust Joe McCarthy as go-in between... Herr Lou Gehrig, Joe Di Maggio and Charlie Ruffing are on the tough list. Bill Dickey and the temperamental Lefty Gomez are likely to be signed this week. A lot of folks here think Gehrig, too, already is under contract and that they're only waiting the Colonel's arrival to put on one of those old Ruthian signings with grinding cameras, sound machines and the like.

You should see old Eddie Roush, former Giant and Red outfielder. Cutting up like a colt as he works out with the Boston Bees just for the "L" of it... Bill McKechnie said: "It is the first time in his life the guy ever showed up on time and he ain't getting anything for it." Roush was tops as a holdout in his prime ... Once he stayed on the farm an entire season...He could tell the modern crop a thing or two about big league holding out.

Reports from the east coast say Daytona Beach has fixed up a swell arena for the Cards to do their stuff in...Floridans were given a good job yesterday when the morning practice of the Boston Bees was "postponed because of cold"..... Ouch!...Mickey Cochrane pounds heavier and completely recuperated from last winter's illness, is watching the ponies run at Miami before starting his Tigers through their paces at Lakeland next week.

TRENTON FLIERS TAKE FIRST GAME FROM PT. EDWARD

Losers Slip In Counter In Last Three Minutes To Tie 3-2 Score, But It Is Disallowed

REFEREE ATTACKED

SARNIA, Ont., March 2 (C.P.)—Trenton Fliers, in two quick rallies, nosed out a 3-2 victory over Point Edward last night in the first game of the Intermediate A finals of the Ontario Hockey Association. It was the first provincial final played here since 1914. The second game of the best-in-three series will be played at Belleville on Thursday.

Point Edward, fighting back after trailing twice, skipped in a counter in the last three minutes that was disallowed by Referee Roy Reynolds and the fans littered the ice with torn programs and booed the official for the remainder of the game.

Infuriated spectators attacked him as he was leaving the ice and police had to be called to conduct him from the arena.

It was a rugged battle from the outset. High sticking and charging were plentiful. Eight penalties were handed out, six of them in a torrid third period.

Lecompte, the McNeilly Brothers and Gibson in the Fliers' net were the pick of the winners. Gibson was knocked out twice, both times by Charles Levan. Paterson, Wood, and Clute and Rutter were the pick of the Point team.

The line-ups:

Point Edward — Goal, Harris; defence, Manore and Paterson; centre, Prudence; wings, Manning and Levan; alternates, France, Clute, Rutter and Gulteridge.

Trenton — Goal, Gibson; defence, Lalonde and Partridge; centre, Lowery; wings, Cowley and Ernie McNeely; alternates, Lecompte, Eric McNeely, Laing, Beck and Carling-Kelley.

Referee—Roy Reynolds, Chatham.

The Summary.

First Period—

1—Trenton, Eric McNeely from Lecompte 13.20

Penalties—None.

Second Period—

2—Point Edward, Levan from Paterson 9.25

Penalties—Lowery, Eric McNeely.

Third Period—

3—Trenton, Lecompte, from Eric McNeely 12.00

4—Trenton, Lecompte from Partridge 13.05

5—Point Edward, Clute from Rutter 14.00

AMERICAN UNION BARS CANADIAN HOCKEY PLAYERS

Agreement Between Two Leading Hockey Organizations Will Not Be Renewed

PLENTY OF U.S. PLAYERS

NEW YORK, March 2 (CP) — Canadian amateur hockey players will not be allowed to play in United States at the conclusion of the present season, Frederick Rubien, chairman of the United States Amateur Athletic Union Hockey Committee, said today. The American A.A.U. will not renew its agreement with the Canadian Hockey Association permitting exchange of players between the two countries, Rubien further announced.

The agreement between the two leading hockey organizations of the respective countries terminates April 1. Under its terms at least 75 players are in the United States and compete for Hersey, Pa., Atlantic City, Baltimore, Pittsburgh and New York Rovers.

Watched By Scouts

The players come from all over Canada and are constantly under the eyes of scouts from the National League to which a number will graduate next season. Other Canadian puckmen are to be found in many border and New England cities.

"We are old enough to stand on our own feet," said Rubien. "After April 1 we will not permit Canadian amateurs to play in this country."

Previously Rubien had revealed suspension of Baltimore Orioles, a powerful aggregation of Ontario and Manitoba hockeymen, ranking third in the U.E.E.A.H.L. standing.

"The South Atlantic group complained about Baltimore and wasn't satisfied with the amateur status of the players or their means of livelihood and wouldn't approve their registration with the A.A.U.," said Rubien.

"So we decided to take a firm hand and they are now ineligible for league competition. Any league team, or, for that matter, any amateur team at all, that plays Baltimore now will lose its amateur standing."

Canadian Line-Up

The Baltimore team is coached by the veteran major league star, Gordon Fraser, and has the following players on its roster:

Gordon Lee, goal, Hamilton, Ont.; Clarence Behling, Kitchener; Jack Astel, Niagara Falls; Rop Dupuis, Cornwall; Freddy Roth, Hamilton, and Johnny Squarebriggs, P.E.I., defence; Stanley Kowalski, Kitchener; Douglas McDonald and Harry Nicholls, North Bay; Borden Armstrong, London, Ont.; Windy Steele, P.E.I.; Kenny Kip, Brantford; Alvin Cook, Hamilton and Vernon Buckles, Baltimore, forwards.

All Canadian players in this league, and probably elsewhere in the United States, must return to the Dominion at the end of the season, unless they have taken out citizenship papers. Few have. The players are under nominal bond which the player's club collects when he returns home. Therefore under Rubien's plan none will be allowed to remain unless the league proves more powerful than the A.A.U. and operates as an independent unit.

WESTERNERS TAKE EDGE FIRST DAY IN CURLING TILTS

B. C. Rink Only One To Drop Point—Manitoba Downs Quebec 16-6

ONTARIO BEATS N.B. 14-5

TORONTO, March 2 (C.P.). — Their ice mastery unquestioned, convincing in victory, and impressive in defeat, Western rinks held a distinct edge to-day over Eastern entrants as the second round of the Dominion curling championships got under way.

Even in this second day of the 1937 bonspiel in which are entered 10 of Canada's crack rinks, the Macdonald's Brier Tankard appeared destined again, to go to a Western province with young Jimmy Welsh of Winnipeg favored to win the tubular emblem.

The West made almost a clean sweep in yesterday's first-round matches. Manitoba, Saskatchewan, and Alberta had little difficulty in winning their first games of the round-robin series. And only a single point brought defeat to British Columbia's representatives.

Manitoba turned back Quebec 16-6 in the first round, the only one played yesterday. Alberta defeated Northern Ontario 10-7, and Saskatchewan pushed Prince Edward Island aside by a 22-7 score as Ontario was administering a 14-5 defeat to New Brunswick. The pell-mell, throbbing game of the day was Nova Scotia's 9-8 win over British Columbia.

The last stone of the match, thrown unerringly by Skip R. M. Ferguson, gave the Maritime rink its victory over Roly David's Vancouver quartette. That last shot ended at battle in which Nova Scotia throughout clung stubbornly to a small lead, beating off David's attacks that on the 11th end finally brought them even with the Truro four.

Winner over half-a-dozen curling greats in Manitoba's recent spiel, the 37-year-old Welsh took Skip W. O. Roy's Quebec city rink in his stride. The Manitobans led all the way. Roy had little chance against the rink that won 94 of its 30 games in marching to the Manitoba title in February.

R. F. Smith of Moose Jaw, Saskatchewan titlist, won an easy victory over A. Belcher, Charlottetown, skip of Prince Edward Island's champion rink. The Islanders took a one-point lead at the start of the match, but once the curlers from the mid-prairies got going, they couldn't be stopped.

Two veterans of Brier play hooked up in the Alberta-Northern Ontario game. Cliff Manahan's Edmonton rink proved the steadier to win out over Skip E. S. Smith of Haileybury, Ont. This is Smith's third try at the Tankard, held seven times by Manitoba, and once each by Alberta, Ontario and Nova Scotia. Manahan has been in the finals before, too.

Lack of practice of late hampered Judge C. R. Barry of Fredericton, N.B. in his match with Ontario's 1937 champion, A. E. Dunker of Kitchener took an early lead in his game with the curling rebate court judge and never was headed. Curling weather hasn't been all it should have been in the Maritimes this winter and the New Brunswick rink found lack of recent practice a handicap.

Yesterday's matches were only the prelude to intensive Brier curling. Games will be played this morning, afternoon and night.

NORTH'S SENIOR SQUADS PROVING BEARS FOR BATTLE

Two Kirkland Lake Clubs Play Three Tie Games, Two Going Overtime

PLAY TO FINISH TONIGHT

TORONTO, Mar. 2—(CP)—Ontario hockey fans may bemoan the fact that year by year the province's senior teams are becoming fewer and fewer but they certainly can't complain that the small 1936-37 crop is failing to give full value. The puckmen are doing so much overtime work in playoffs they'll soon be spoiling their followers.

Two Kirkland Lake clubs, finalists in the Gold Belt League of the Northern Ontario Association, are proving bears for the greatest punishment. The battlers—Tekimas Red Flyers and Lake Shore Blue Devils—were supposed to play a two-game 120-minute series for the league title and the right to meet Fraser Mine in N.O.H.A. finals. So far they've played three tie games and a total of 240 minutes—tonight they'll clash again.

In the first of the finals last Thursday, Flyers and Devils went 60 minutes to a 3-all score. No overtime was played because the round is on a total-goals basis. When 60 minutes had passed in the second meeting Saturday, however, they started into added time and went 30 more minutes to another 3-all draw.

Bruised and tired, they stepped on the ice again last night. When Armstrong and Olliver gave Lake Shore a 2-0 lead in the first period it looked as if the series was finally coming to an end. But Campbell of Tekimas scored in the second session and spectators wondered if this fray would require overtime, too. It seemed only natural when Swayze tied up the round again in the third.

Matters seemed to be pretty much in control of the fates as the game wore on. At the end of 90 minutes of play officials decided to call it a night and to send the rivals back at one another to-night. They'll fight to a finish this time—if that's possible—and the winner will have to take on Flood Thursday and Saturday.

The N.O.H.A.'s affiliate, the Ontario Hockey Association, seems to have taken a page from the Kirkland Lake team's book, for semi-finalists of the Toronto and York Mercantile League, only O. H. A. senior group, put on a marathon last night. Dominions needed three periods of overtime to defeat Cornells 1-0 and force a third game. The winner will oppose Goodyears in the finals.

Two Weyburn, Sask., products were heros of the grind. Len Loree combined with Dillon Brady to score Dominions' only goal after just less than two minutes of the sixth period.

Cornwall Flyers have taken up the fad. After losing the first game of Ottawa Senior City League finals to Hull 2-0 Saturday, they staged a determined overtime stand on home ice last night. When the additional periods had been played the game was tied at 3-all. The series is on a best-in-five basis and will be resumed in Ottawa to-morrow.

Intermediate Eligible.

The O. H. A. Intermediate 'A' champions are also eligible for senior playdowns and Point Edward Red Sox made a noble effort to carry on the overtime motif as they started finals in the Intermediate 'A' series last night against Trenton Flyers.

When all this overtime business is over the Intermediate 'A' Millets will play Parc Colborne, only Senior 'B' team in the province. The winner of that series will play the N.O.H.A. victor for the right to oppose the O.H.A. Senior 'A' survivor in Allan Cup playdowns. Right now Fraser Mine, which has lost only one game all season, is being regarded as a heavy favorite, largely because its players are only standing and waiting.

WRECKERS DEFEAT HASTINGS JUNIORS

4-3 Victory Ties Round In Kawartha Finals And Forces Third Game

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HAVELOCK, Mar. 2.—Defeating the Hastings Juniors by a 4 to 3 count in the second game of the Kawartha Junior League finals last night, the Wreckers evened it up on the round and forced a third and deciding match to be held Wednesday evening. The largest crowd of the season, close to two hundred fans were in attendance to cheer the locals on to victory. The game was played in four fifteen minute periods instead of the usual twenty.

Play commenced very slowly in the first stanza, McCarthy, of Hastings securing the lone counter, with the Wreckers running into a streak of bad luck when a goal by Brunton was disallowed, after much argument, Referee Sargent claiming he had called the play on an off-side.

Going into the second, one goal down, the locals began to turn it on and finally Voyer breaking clean through the Hastings defense slipped a passover to Brunton, who drew out Montgomery and made no mistake in ramming it home.

Hastings again went into the lead early in the third, Bradford stealing in on a pass from Radford. Moore of the Wreckers once more evened it up with Ketchen notching another soon after to put the locals one up for the first time.

Brunton was hurt early in the fourth, receiving a nasty cut on the mouth and was forced to retire for a rest. Hastings banged home their third goal of the evening to tie it up once more, forcing the Wreckers to again put on the pressure, with Voyer finally crashing it with a backhand shot which completely fooled the Hastings goalie.

The teams:

Hastings—Goal, Montgomery; defense, Boyle and McCoy; centre, Coughlin; wings, Scriver and McCarthy; alternates, Radford, Phillips, Fox, Calberry and Turner.

Havelock — Goal, Hamden; defense, Aboud and Whitney; centre, Brunton; wings, Ketchen and McMullen; alternates, Voyer, McLaughlin, McCutcheon, Moore.

Births Marriages Deaths

In Memoriam
Card of Thanks

BORN

HOPTON. — At Detroit, Michigan, Saturday, February 27, to Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Hopton (nee Grace E. Chambers), the gift of a daughter.

ENGAGEMENT

Mr. and Mrs. G. N. Cowan announce the engagement of their daughter, Gwendoline, to Harold Stewart, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. Stewart; the marriage to take place quietly in March.

IN MEMORIAM

McCRACKEN.—In loving memory of a dear Wife and Mother, Mary McCracken, who passed away March 2, 1936.

Rest, dear mother, your troubles are o'er.
Your willing hands will work no more.
You did not fail to do your best.
You worked so hard for those you left.
You lived your life and lived it well
With always a smile whate'er befell.
We have lost but God has gained
One of the best the world contained.
You oft times said we'd miss you;
Those words have proved too true;
We lost our best, our dearest friend.
Dear mother, when we lost you.

—Sadly missed by Husband and Family.

CARDS OF THANKS

Mrs. Frederick Shearer and son, Gordon, wish to express their sincere thanks to the many neighbors and friends for kind expressions of sympathy and floral tributes during their recent sad bereavement.

Mr. C. M. Watson and family wish to extend their most sincere thanks to the sisters and nurses of St. Joseph's Hospital, the attending doctors, Rev. Mr. Easton; also neighbors and friends, for messages of sympathy and floral tributes during their recent sad bereavement.

LIGHT SILHOUETTES BODY OF SUICIDE

Crowd Of 1,500 Gather Outside Store Till Police Cut Body Down

ROUYN, Que., March 2 (CP)—In stark silhouette against a curtained window, the body of Sebastino Rizzotti, 40, was found hanging last night in his lighted shoe store in full view of main street crowds.

Fifteen hundred persons, milling in the street outside the building, watched as the body was cut down after police had smashed through the glass in the store's locked door.

The Italian had been dead around nine hours, doctors estimated. The store lights had been left on when he apparently leaped from the counter, and when darkness closed down the light threw his body into bold relief against the window.

$25,000 RADIUM REWARD TO CEASE

Ontario To Cancel Offer, Sufficient Now Coming From West

TORONTO, March 2.— (CP)— Radium now being available in commercial quantities in the Canadian west, the Ontario government intends to withdraw its offer of $20,000 for the finding of radium in commercially-sufficient deposits in Ontario, Hon. Paul Leduc, Minister of Mines, said to-day in explaining introduction of an act to repeal the radium act.
The act became effective May 1, 1914, and in the 23 years elapsing since several deposits of radium-bearing ores and pitchblende have been found in Ontario, notably near Parry Sound, in Haliburton county and Lanark county, the Department of Mines, Ottawa, has reported none of the deposits would be commercially profitable.
The act was intended to put the government in control of radium deposits should they be found on a commercial scale, the government intending to make the radium available for medical uses.
"Nobody has ever established a right to the reward and we have radium in Canada now, from the west," said Mr. Leduc.

The Day That I Forget
By MARIE BLIZARD

READ THIS FIRST:

In Hollywood following an ingenious maneuver on the part of his young wife, Janet, Joel Paynter, second-rate Broadway actor, makes screen history in the course of eight months. Fame and fortune are theirs following one outstanding picture in which Joel plays an important character part. He obtained the role because Janet cultivated the right people and Vernon Chester, a leading director. Denied a baby because the studio frowns on domestic notes in building up Joel as the popular American lover, Janet finds happiness eluding her, despite everything money can buy, because she has nothing more to do. Janet discovers that $3,000 a week melts rapidly living as they now do. After buying a small group theater in Cape Cod as a lark, Joel promptly forgets about it. Janet goes east alone for a visit. Because Joel is not with her, by the time Janet has reached New York, it is widely rumored that a divorce was imminent. Janet and Martha, an old friend, go to Cape Cod to see the Little Theater and stop with Mary Carleton, wardrobe mistress and scenic designer of the theater. After a prolonged stay in New England, Janet receives a telegram from Joel urging her to return to Hollywood at once. (NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER 24

JANET said, "Martha, I've had a wire from Joel. He wants me to come home."

"Well, that's no reason for you to look so worried. Now, if he didn't want you to come home, that'd be different," Martha said reasonably.

If Martha had hoped that her matter-of-factness would banish the cloud from Janet's brow, she met with no success.

"Martha, I'm a little worried. He says in his telegram that I'm not to believe any silly rumors. What do you suppose that means?"

Martha was up on her newspaper columns. She hesitated only a moment. Then she said, "Well now, dear, you ought to know what Hollywood is by now. You can't brush your teeth without some one of those writers thinking you're doing it because you want to bedazzle someone of the opposite sex. They pry into everything and first thing you know they've manufactured something that isn't true."

"I know all that," Janet said patiently. "But do you have any idea what rumors these are? You've got an evasive look in your eye and I suspect you."

"I don't know anything, except that . . . well, there was that little item about Joel taking that Grieg girl to dinner at what's that place? The Truckerdero?"

"The Trocodero," Janet corrected absently. She was thinking.

There had been Lisa's letter. Joel himself had said that he had been to a party given by Carol at her Malibu Beach house. But then he was playing opposite her in a picture. It was only natural that he would be seen with her.

Except that—

He had said he'd been to the boxing bouts with her. Lisa said she had been surprised to see him at the Flowers' with her.

She acts as though she owns him!

Janet felt suddenly as though she had been hit by a very large, very devastating cyclone. She sat down on the side of Martha's bed.

Little things that by themselves were of no moment added up to a total that rather took her breath away. It mightn't have been a total of any importance except that Carol Grieg was part of it. Little things Janet had heard regarding the star before she left Hollywood began to assume proportions in her mind. Carol's unscrupulous annexation of the man she wanted. Carol's insistence that her studio get Joel to play opposite her; Carol's agreeing to give Joel equal billing.

"Martha," Janet said, "it looks as if one of those well-known crises is coming into my life."

"What crises?" Martha asked absently.

"It looks like another woman."

"Husbands don't usually run to their wives when it is another woman, child."

"Mine would," Janet said conclusively.

"As long as he does, you've nothing to worry about."

"No, I don't suppose I have—now."

"Meet trouble when it comes to you, Janet. Don't go out to welcome it."

"I'm not going to." Janet rose and went to the window.

She was surprised to find that nothing had changed. The gray film that spread itself over her peace had not affected the world. The sky was bright blue, the green and pinks of the garden were the same hue. A puppy played in the garden and small Mary chased it as happily as she had an hour before Janet's world had suddenly become an insecure place.

"It's not the first one I'm afraid of," she went on. "It's the habit of them. I've seen it happen to other girls who had attractive husbands. At first the men are a little frightened and a little surprised that other women find them attractive and they recognize that it affects their plan of living. Then there is the next one and since the first one worked out all right, they feel they have a little more rope."

"Nonsense!"

"Oh, no, it isn't. I've seen it. After a little while they discover they are in no danger and the game gets to be exciting. It doesn't really do them any harm but oh, Martha, it does destroy something. There is no longer that feeling of just being part of two people. The complete closeness is gone."

"Now, young woman, you're getting morbid. I've known a lot of young married people and they all feel the same way once or twice and then it works out all right. You aren't going to be any different. Wait and see."

"I'd wait and see but we aren't like other young people. Out in California our lives aren't like the lives of young people anywhere else. Everything we do is exaggerated. It's a make-believe world that comes out of nothing and frequently collapses into nothing."

That was the first time that Janet had ever said those things to Martha.

"Most of us out there were once poor. Suddenly we are rich, Martha. I used to spend 30 cents a day for three meals for two people. Today my dinner parties cost as much as $500 a piece. Everything is like that. It's all out of proportion.

"There are wars going on in the world. People are born and die. Great discoveries are made; books are written, skyscrapers are built; careers are made or ruined all around us, yet everything is translated into picture terms. If it can't be, it is not recognized. It just isn't happening. If it doesn't fit into the narrow confines of our little, tinseled circle!"

Martha cleared her throat but Janet didn't hear her.

"How can you expect normalcy in a world that trades on emotions? Everything is emotional. Register pain! Register joy! Emote! Suffer for the camera! What have you got left when it is over? Fatigue or synthetic emotions left over from the day working before the camera. It's got to affect your point of view and it does!

"I wanted to have a baby. I thought that was one way to give some substance to our lives. The studio — the studio! — said we couldn't. It wasn't a good idea because it would affect Joel's box office draw with the public!"

"Then why not assert your right, dear? No studio could tell me what I was going to do," Martha said stoutly.

The fire of Janet's denunciation had died down. "Yes, it would, Martha, if you husband was in my husband's place. Joel spent too many years of his life not knowing where the next penny was coming from. Now we don't know where the last one went. But I intend matters to be different when I go back. We're going to save something out of this against the day when Joel tires of it. Then we'll be free. We'll have our own lives to lead then!"

When Janet said that, she realized that if they had their own lives to live independently of Joel's picture work, they would have something that she could not even see. For there was nothing that Joel ever said he wanted to do. Unlike Janet, there was no future for him. He had long since stopped speaking of what he wanted to do in the theater. He was a movie actor now; the artist had disappeared.

She realized as she had once before, and that was only an hour after they had been married, that she knew little of the man she had married.

She knew his faults and his virtues, his reactions good and bad, the things he liked to eat, the thousands of intimate things a wife knows about her husband. But she did not know what was behind the curtain of the present in his mind. If he had a philosophy of living, it was foreign to her because it was unknown to her.

"I'd better start packing," she said, "and send a wire to Joel. I'll surprise him. I'll fly out."

Bedtime Story
By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY'S THUMB RIDER

"Wiggy! Wiggy! Stop! Stop!" suddenly shouted Mrs. Longears.

"What's the matter, my dear?" asked the rabbit gentleman husband. "Don't you like riding in my up and down bounce ouncie car with the new rubber ball tires? Don't you?"

"No-o-o-no I do-do-do-do-don't!" said Mrs. Longears with a sort of spoonery effect for the words were broken into letters as they bounced out of her mouth. "You-o-o-o-ou are go-o-ing too-oo-o fa-a-a-ast!"

Uncle Wiggily kindly slowed the car. Then it didn't bounce up and down so hard and his wife could talk properly. She said:

"You had better drive me home, Wiggy dear. I've had a lovely ride and a nice time and all that, but it does shake me up a bit."

"All right," agreed Mr. Longears, who was one of the kindest rabbit husbands known to science. "I'll take you home and then I'll go for a ride all by myself. I must get accustomed to my new rubber ball tires."

Much Worse

"You may like them, but I don't," said his wife. "The old bologna ones, patched with linen rims, were better. Or even the cheese ones, though the mice children nibbled them all away."

"I'll drive around to the Jolly Old Sea Dog's garage and see if he can take some of the bounce ouncie out of these tires, after I take you home," said the rabbit gentleman.

"It will be a good idea," said the rabbit lady.

Soon she was safely back at the hollow stump bungalow, a little shaken but still all together. Uncle Wiggily drove on to see the Jolly Old Sea Dog.

"Oh, you'll get used to those new rubber ball tires of yours in no time at all!" barked the dog. "Just keep on riding. In a little while you will hardly notice the bounce ouncie business. And you will get to like it."

"All right," said Uncle Wiggily sort of resigned like and patient.

Away he drove in his car. He thought the best way to become accustomed to the bouncing tires was to pick out a rough bit of road and let it do its worst. So he took a short cut through the woods where there was a very rough road leading to one that was even worse. Half way through the woods Uncle Wiggily saw a thumb rider.

You know what thumb riders are —those who walk backward along a road and keep jerking their thumb over their shoulder which means they want to ride with you in that direction.

A Kind Thought

"Ha, there is a poor old tramp dog," thought Uncle Wiggily. "He is thumbing his way down to Florida, perhaps. But he is late. If he stays here a little longer it will soon be Spring. I'll give him a ride, though."

Uncle Wiggily stopped his bounce ouncie car. The thumb rider jumped in, mumbling his thanks. His cap was pulled almost over his face and he had a scarf twisted about his neck. In fact all Uncle Wiggily could see was a red nose sticking out.

"Going far?" asked Uncle Wiggily of the mysterious thumb rider.

"Um-um," was all the answer he received.

"Are you cold?" asked the rabbit as he started the car.

"Umpti-umpti," was the answer this time, for the car was beginning to bounce ouncie on the rough road.

Uncle Wiggily looked more closely at the mysterious thumb rider. Then the rabbit gentleman gave a gasp of surprise and stepped on the gas. And what happened next you shall hear tomorrow night in the story Uncle Wiggily bounced him out.

And please ask the snow shovel not to go digging in the coal and getting its hands all black.

ENNISMORE REEVE AGAINST LARGER HIGHWAY SYSTEM

Would Not Have Provincial System Take In Township And County Roads

PRODUCE RED-TAPE

Extension of the provincial highways system to include county or township roads does not appear to be a commendable step, Reeve J. A. Gifford, Ennismore, said in an address at the Ontario Good Roads Association convention in Toronto last week.

"Increased centralization would produce red-tape and might lead to extravagance and inefficiency," Reeve Gifford said. "On the other hand a spirit of co-operation and mutual understanding on the part of all concerned would pay dividends in economy, self-reliance, and satisfaction.

"With reference to township and county roads I am of the opinion that township councils would be well advised to provide their engineer and obtain his advice before embarking on their yearly programs. Few townships are in a position to employ superintendents as well qualified as county engineers, and should at least consult them. In certain operations, such as crushing or extensive grading, townships could advantageously employ the usually more efficient county machinery, whenever such is available, on a rental basis."

Closer Relations

"We must admit that the Province is in a better position to carry on extensive construction work. On the other hand, considerable maintenance work, such as snow plowing, sanding, dragging, etc., could be capably handled under the directions of county engineers and road committees on contract or rental basis with the province. By so doing, the counties would be justified in purchasing more efficient machinery which could be used to advantage on county roads as well.

"Having the maintenance of all heavily travelled roads in a county under local supervision would obviously be in the interests of economy. This system could be so arranged as to prevent any overlapping in maintenance operations. Labor could be controlled more efficiently and machinery kept in more constant operation.

Close co-operation between county and provincial engineers should prove beneficial to both. The former, through local knowledge of road conditions, should be of assistance to the latter in the laying of culverts and in the alignments and grades of roads."

The counties should assist by giving unbiased information as to the most logical roads to be taken over as Provincial Highways.

"The adoption and placing of standard signs for county and provincial roads would be a step towards lessening our heavy accident toll and an assistance to motorists.

"We take part in many delegations each year, asking the Department to assume more roads as Provincial Highways. A program of improved road extension can be carried only so far. In the matter of several heavily traveled county roads at the present time, it would be advisable as an intermediate measure for the province to contribute subsidy of 75 per cent. on these roads and leave them to be satisfactorily improved by the county."

SKATING FOLLOWS JANETVILLE PARTY

Young People Of Mount Horeb And Yelverton Guests At Enjoyable Event

(Examiner Correspondence.)

JANETVILLE, March 2.—Of special interest was the Y.P.U. meeting on Monday evening last week when the local society entertained the Young People of Mount Horeb and Yelverton.

The president, Leonard McNeil extended a hearty welcome to the guests and requested the president of each branch to be seated on the platform.

The devotional program was in charge of Mount Horeb for which the president, Ross Parks presided. Mrs. Vern Bell was the capable accompanist.

Vance Wilson, president of Yelverton Y.P.U. presided for a short musical program consisting of a vocal solo "Good Old Days" by Miss Hazel Jackson of Bethany accompanied by Mrs. (Rev.) Ferguson.

A vocal duet "Standing in the Need of Prayer" by Miss Jackson and Rev. Mr. Ferguson was also very much enjoyed, also their encore "Swing Low Sweet Chariot."

Miss Edna Robinson, a faithful worker of the local Y.P.U. was then presented with a lovely silver flower basket as a small token of appreciation prior to her departure from this vicinity. The address was read by Miss Isabel Malmnis and the presentation made by Miss Isabel Marshall. Miss Robinson replied in a few well chosen words.

Skating was then enjoyed on the rink until eleven o'clock and those not wishing to skate played crokinole in the church.

At the conclusion of the skating, a bounteous lunch of sandwiches, cake and coffee was served, cafeteria style, in the Sunday School rooms to over one hundred young people.

The appreciation of the guests was expressed by Vance Wilson, Yelverton and Ross Parks, Mount Horeb and the National Anthem and the Mispah Benediction brought to a close a very happy evening.

CONGRESS PARTY CARRIES SIX OF 11 STATES IN INDIA

Seen Blow To Form Of Responsible Government Proposed In 1935 Act

CLAIM IT TOO NARROW

By George Hambleton
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

LONDON, March 1 (C.P. Cable).—Responsible government in India faces its first test. Complete election returns for the Provincial Legislatures of British India show a clear majority for the Congress Party in six out of 11 provinces. The Congress is also the largest single party in three other provinces.

The provinces in which the Congress Party has a clear majority are Bombay, Madras, United Provinces, Central Provinces, Bihar and Orissa. The provinces in which the Congress is the largest single party are Bengal, Assam, and the North-West Frontier Province.

Pro-constitution parties secured majorities in Punjab and Sind.

Under the Government of India Act of 1935 the provinces of British India secure responsible government hedged by safeguards as the first step in a scheme to create a Federated India, including both British India and the Indian States. The new constitution, so far as the provinces are concerned, comes into being on April 1. The polls just concluded were for the purpose of electing new legislatures.

Now everybody is wondering what the Congress Party will do with its victories. The Congress, of which Pandit Nehru is leader, already has rejected the Government of India Act as inadequate. It decided to contest seats in the Provincial Legislatures, but made clear that its purpose in sending Congressmen to the Legislatures under the new Act was not to co-operate in any way with the Act, but to combat it and seek to end it."

Too Many Safeguards

The complaint of the Congress party is that the form of responsible Government provided under the act is "so hedged and circumscribed by safeguards and special powers for the protection of British and other vested interests that it cannot yield substantial benefits."

But in the provinces where it secured a clear majority the Congress party is now faced with the issue of whether it shall attempt to form a government or not. Mohandas K. Gandhi is understood to take the view that if Congressmen take office they should demand that special powers given the provincial governors should not be used. The Congress itself meets in the third week of March, when the full party fipally will decide.

In the meantime formation of new ministries is delayed.

It is reported an informal understanding has been reached between Congressmen favoring acceptance of office and those against such action. By this arrangement, where a majority of Congressmen favor acceptance, office could be accepted, but under stringent conditions.

BAILIEBORO

RECENT SNOWFALL PROVES BLESSING

Has Protected Crops And Provided First Sleighing Since New Year's

BAILIEBORO, March 2—The recent snow which has provided a covering for fields in the district as well as township roads, has been of estimable value to those engaged in agriculture.

During the recent cold wave which has lasted over a period of the past week, the crops have been safely blanketed under a fair covering of snow. Traffic on township roads has been exceedingly heavy. Farmers have been hauling logs, wood, ice, chop, etc. The snow has provided the first sleighing the district has been privileged to have since the New Year. Residents have made the best of it.

The mid-day sun has already made it scarce in places on the road but teamsters have been able to find sufficient snow on the shoulders of the road and sides to get the major portion of their hauling completed.

Many have been removing ice from Rice Lake during the past week and report fourteen inches of prime blue ice. In some parts of the district feed is becoming scarce for live stock. There is a decided shortage of straw this winter owing to the light spring grain crop in 1936. The hope of the farmers is for an early spring which will allow them to get their cattle out to pasture at an early date. Farmers are also finding it difficult to obtain a good quality of seed oats and barley for seeding purposes.

EUROPEAN FRUIT SEEDLINGS TESTED

Ontario Museum Directors Making Extensive Experiments On Port Hope Farm

TORONTO, March 1 — (C.P.). — Experiments in planting fruit trees from Northern Europe are being conducted by Professor C. T. Currelly, Director of the Royal Ontario Museum, at his farm near Port Hope, about 45 miles east of here.

Seedlings of the plants, Prof. Currelly said Saturday, are selected with great care by Paul Crath, a former Toronto Presbyterian minister, in North Europe on a fruit-tree gathering mission.

On the Currelly farm there is a grape vine imported from Poland which has stood the rigors of three winters and shown great development. The fruit of the Polish vine, an enormous bearer in its native country, is a small black grape, particularly noted for its juice.

There are Carpathian apricots on the farm which have withstood two Ontario winters without a single bud freezing in the Spring. In Northern Europe, these same apricot trees are said to produce heavy crops and thrive in low-temperatures.

Professor Currelly also has hopes his Northern European mulberry trees will help to solve problems for Ontario farmers. The mulberry, besides being a food for human beings, is relished by chickens and pigs, he said. The tree will grow on hillside pastures which otherwise might be unproductive. He has 10,000 of the trees on the farm.

ARABS EXPECTED TO RENEW FIGHT ON JEW SETTLERS

British Leaders In Palestine Making Ready For April Disorders

SHOOTING EVERY DAY

JERUSALEM, March 2.—(AP)—Nationalist leaders here predict Fawzi Bey Kaukji, labelled "Public Enemy No. 1" by British troops during the 1936 riots, will return to Palestine as "commander-in-chief of the Arab army" and that guerilla warfare will be resumed in a few weeks.

Opinion generally is that rioting will break out again about April 1 with the end of the orange exporting season. Both Hebrew and Arab newspapers point to the growing frequency of shootings, holdups, bombings and assassinations as an indication of renewed Arab warfare against Great Britain and the international home project being established under Britain's mandate for the League of Nations.

Asked to Leave Baghdad

Fawzi gave up a commission in the Iraq army to lead the insurgent forces in Palestine last year. Recent reports from Baghdad said the new Iraq government had asked him to leave Baghdad because the demonstrations excited by his presence there had brought protests from Great Britain. He now is said to be in Kirkuk.

"We will welcome him back," one nationalist leader said, "if only for the enthusiasm his return will arouse among the young nationalists who worship him as a hero and a patriot.

"We must continue the sort of guerilla tactics that enabled Abd el Krim in Morocco to defy the French and Spanish for years and cost them millions of pounds. Britain won't spend millions for the privilege of handing our country over to the Jews."

Meantime, sentinels of the Jewish agricultural colonies in the Emek, or valley of Jezreel, are on guard 24 hours a day against raids by bands of Arab marauders.

Close Watch Kept

Troops of Jewish supernumary police drill daily, and by night searchlights on the watch-towers of the colonies sweep over the plains and the hillside forests planted by the settlers. Keys to the colony armories—each containing five shotguns supplied by the government—are kept close at hand.

Yet almost nightly somewhere in the Emek a colony is fired upon. Frequently trees are destroyed, crops burned and occasionally a watchman is found shot or beaten to death.

The colonists live almost in a state of siege, for the formal ending of the Arab general strike last October has not meant an end to Arab raids on the settlements.

Anticipating a renewal of trouble Lieut.-General J. G. Dill, commanding British troops in Palestine and Tranajordan, is supervising personally a new topographical survey of the Holy Land.

Getting Ready For The Dominion Skiing Championships At Banff

A most unusual angle picture during ski competition on Mount Norquay, near Banff, Alta., in the Canadian Rockies. The picture gives an idea of the competition western skiers will provide in early March, when the Canadian amateur ski championships are held. A new jump will provide marks upwards of 250 feet, it is hoped, while the downhill run, which drops 3,000 feet in a mile and a half, should produce some spectacular skiing.

HEENAN-HENRY DEBATE ALMOST COMES TO BLOWS

Henburn Forced To Adjourn House "In Disgust At Conduct Of Colleague"

ROAD MONEY DISPUTE

Kenora Member Ignores Speaker, Fellow-Members As He "Gets His Irish Up"

TORONTO, March 3.— (CP)— History of a sort was made in the Ontario Legislature early to-day when Premier Mitchell Hepburn adjourned the House because of the conduct of a Cabinet colleague, Hon. Peter Heenan, Minister of Lands and Forests.

Mr. Heenan's Irish ire was raised when George Henry, Conservative House leader, condemned the expenditure of $605,000 on a six-mile stretch of the Trans-Canada Highway in Mr. Heenan's constituency of Kenora.

The one-time railroad engineer argued insistently with Mr. Henry, ignored Speaker Norman Rigel's rulings, disregarded the advice of his colleagues and seemingly was stopped from crossing the floor of the House for closer combat with Mr. Henry only by the restraining arm of Hon. Paul Leduc, Minister of Mines.

Throughout all the excitement, given a wisecrack touch by Mr. Heenan's "Dumb Dora" charge that zinged across the chamber, Mr. Henry stood smiling.

Premier Hepburn had refused adjournment at 10.30 p.m. at the request of the Conservative Opposition and said he would go through to a division on the Throne speech debate. At 12.30 am. Mr. Hepburn, white-faced, rose and said:

"In view of the conduct of my colleague, I'm willing to accept a motion of adjournment."

Mr. Henry quickly made the motion. The House rose and the Speaker left. Without a glance at Mr. Heenan or anyone else the Premier strode from the Chamber.

Thoroughly Disgusted.

"I'm thoroughly disgusted," said Mr. Hepburn in the lobby just outside the corridor. "That's all."

It was understood the premier would issue a statement later.

Mr. Henry rose to speak after the Conservatives had offered an amendment to the address in reply to the speech from the throne. When he mentioned the $605,000 expenditure—

NIXON PREPARES TO END BUCK LAW

Says Deer Plentiful Again — Allow Up To 50 P.C. Of Kill In Does

TORONTO, March 3 (C.P.). — Ontario's "buck" law will be scrapped at the present session of the Ontario Legislature, Hon. Harry Nixon, Provincial Secretary, told the Fish and Game Committee of the Ontario Legislature to-day.

Present hunting regulations prohibit the killing of does, female deer, but Mr. Nixon said it would be changed to permit hunters to take up to 50 per cent. of their kill in does.

"The purpose intended by the buck law, propagation of the animals, has now been served, Mr. Nixon said.

STABBER SUICIDES AFTER KILLING GIRL

Timber Worker Slays Victim 16, In Bedroom Of Her Home, Parents In House

FORT WILLIAM, Ont., March 3 (CP)—Murder and suicide was suspected by Ontario Provincial Police today in investigating the deaths last night of Miss Victoria Reesor, 16, and John Beles, timber worker, 25, of Jackfish, Ont., 100 miles east of here.

The bodies were found in a home on the International Highway 30 miles south of here and it was claimed by police Beles stabbed Miss Reesor to death with a butcher knife and then stabbed himself.

Mr. and Mrs. Reesor, parents of the girl, were in the house at the time, police said. Miss Reesor was said to have entered the bedroom and Beles followed her. The stabbing took place in the bedroom. Cries attracted the parents but Miss Reesor was dead and Beles fatally wounded.

An inquest has been ordered by police but no date for the inquiry has been fixed.

WOMAN TO FACE TRIAL

Wounded Man Says He Was Separating two Cats.

OSHAWA, Ont., March 3 (C.P.). —Mrs. Sophie Desmara, charged with wounding and causing bodily harm to Nicholas Zwareen, was committed for trial by Magistrate F. S. Ells in court here to-day. The charges followed a shooting incident two weeks ago, when Mrs. Desmara was alleged to have fired both barrels of a shotgun at Zwareen. She told then she found him pouring something into her well at daybreak, but Zwareen, appearing with his head bound up, denied this. He said he ran over to separate two cats fighting on the Desmara property and the woman shot him.

New Methods Promise Future Marmora Gold

Extraction Of Gold From Arsenic Ores Is Believed Solved

British Company Offers Contract for Gold Ores of High Arsenic Content, Lieut.Col. C. H. Ackerman Reports —Prices Quoted Regarded as Highly Encouaging

OLD REPORTS RECOMMENDED DEVELOPMENT BUT TREATMENT OF ARSENICAL ORE PROBLEM

A new method of extracting gold from the arsenical ore that is found in the Marmora section of Hastings county is regarded by Lieut.-Col. C. H. Ackerman as probably the solution of a refining problem which has frustrated the development of mining in that district for nearly three-quarters of a century.

Successful treatment in Great Britain of arsenical gold concentrates has attracted Col. Ackerman's attention for months, leading to negotiations which have reached the stage of a proffered contract so promising in its possibilities and implications that hopes and expectations for the revival of operations on old working in the Marmora area have to be held in restraint to avoid a repetition of the disappointments that are recalled by abandoned shafts and trenches in the townships on both sides of the Peterborough-Hastings boundary.

"Arsenical gold concentrates" is the key phrase in the prospective reorientation of the outlook for mining in the eastern district. It means that ore containing arsenic and gold is put through a preliminary process to remove the bulk of valueless rock, and thereby reduce its constituent minerals to concentrated form.

East of Marmora

A British company has given Col. Ackerman tentative quotations that may be issued from the old Bloomfield property on No. 7 highway two miles east of Marmora, and shipped across the Atlantic.

"The firm would be prepared to open a credit at any point in Canada providing for an advance (say 80%) of the estimated value of a shipment to be paid immediately on presentation of certain documents (including certificate of assay); the balance to be remitted after verification of material at its destination."

That sentence from a letter to Col. Ackerman by a representative of the British company affords in-

ACCOUNTING ASKED OF CROLL GUARDIAN JOB OVER QUINTS

Henry Asks Lists of Contracts, Parties Involved And Sums Received And Spent

MINISTER'S EXPENSES?

TORONTO, March 13 (CP)—Notice of intention to move for a full accounting to the Ontario legislature of Hon. David Croll's guardianship of the Dionne quintuplets appeared on the legislature order paper today in the name of George S. Henry, Conservative House leader. He will move the resolution Friday.

Mr. Henry's resolution will ask:

1 (a) What contracts, arrangements, engagements or obligations with respect to the Dionne quintuplets, or any of them, with respect to their persons or estates have been entered into by the Minister of Public Welfare as special guardian under the Dionne Quintuplets Guardianship Act, 1935.

(Mr. Henry repeats the question as it pertains to the other three guardians.)

2—What are the names of the contracting parties, dates of services or rights given them, and the amount received for each contract, arrangements engagement or obligation and the amounts yet to be paid.

3—What special expenditures have been made by the Minister of Public Welfare as special guardian of the Dionne quintuplets and their estates under the act, what are the amounts paid particular parties and what services were received.

4—What expenditures have been made by the active guardians of the Dionne quintuplets.

Trial Has Figures Ready.

Mr. Croll, confined to a hotel with an attack of "flu," said he was ready to provide George Henry, Ontario Conservative House leader, with the information.

Mr. Croll said all accounts during his regime as special guardian of the Dionne quintuplets would be passed by the Surrogate Court Judge at North Bay before a pending change in guardianship is made. A bill now before the legislature would substitute the official Ontario guardian, Percy Wilson, Ottawa, for Mr. Croll as one of the four quintuplet guardians.

"The auditor has been up north for two weeks preparing the accounts for passage," he said. "If Mr. Henry wants the information now, he can have it."

It was learned Mr. Croll will not table answers to Mr. Henry's questions relating to contracts with private firms. He will supply Mr. Henry with the information and leave it to his discretion as to how much should be made public.

FALLS MAN VANISHES

Not Been Seen Since Hour After Wife Died.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., March 3 (C.P.). — In spite of a night-long search by dozens of cars and scrutiny from an airplane, no trace has been found of O. Russell Todd, 34, who disappeared an hour and a half after his wife's death here yesterday. Mrs. Todd, ill only since Thursday, died on Tuesday, and Todd emptied all his pockets on his table, got into his car and has not been seen since. The car, of distinctive color, a light tan, has not been seen and it is feared it may have been driven into the river.

Britain To Spend 525 Millions Bolstering Her Navy In 1937-38

Great Program Calls For Addition Of 11,000 Officers And Men To Staff

NO RESTRAINING TREATIES

By George Hambleton
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

LONDON, March 3—(CP Cable)—Britain intends to spend £25,776,000 more on her navy during the financial year 1937-38. This is the increase over total navy estimates, including supplementaries, for 1936. New construction accounts for £14,039,000 more.

"The increase is due," Sir Samuel Hoare, First Lord of the Admiralty, points out in a memorandum accompanying the estimates, "not only to the commencement of a building program appreciably larger than that provided for 1936, but also to full annual provision for the 1936 program, which in itself was more than double the program of immediately preceding years."

Other large increases in the 1937 estimates are £9,061,000 for fleet maintenance, including modernization of capital ships, large repairs, increase of personnel, and the making good of deficiencies in stores, material and reserves. There is in addition to an increase of £316,000 for additional aircraft (other than for new construction) and maintenance of the fleet air arm, an automatic increase in non-effective services of $144,300.

The new construction program for 1937 is:

Supreme devotion to his leader seems to be portrayed on the face of this Italian workman as he greeted Benito Mussolini during Il Duce's visit to the site of the next world's exhibition to be held at Rome in 1941. Greenland Tipping Over So Noted Explorer Says

MacMillan Aims To Find Out What Is Happening To Great Ice Sheet

16TH ARCTIC TRIP

By Tom Horgan
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

BOSTON, March 3—(AP)—Scientific research and humanitarian aid will go hand in hand when the noted explorer, Lieut. Commander Donald B. MacMillan embarks upon his 16th Arctic expedition June 18 aboard the Gertrude L. Thebaud, famous Gloucester racing schooner.

Strange things are happening in the North, said MacMillan to-day as he discussed plans for the trip. Greenland is tipping over, the west coast sinking slowly and the east coast rising slowly, he said.

No one knows whether a new glacial age may be in the making or whether the ice sheet which once blanketed New England is continuing to recede, said the explorer.

He said one of the chief objects of the expedition, which will include 30-odd scientists and students, will be to study the two ice gaps on Baffin Land, through which he hopes to establish whether the ice is advancing or retreating.

The humanitarian aspect of the expedition is covered by the school MacMillan established at Nain, Labrador. He is attempting to feed, clothe and shelter 40 Eskimo children and the ship will carry a large variety of clothing and supplies for them. At their Provincetown home MacMillan said his wife is directing this work and will include Christmas boxes for everyone in Nain.

Captain Ben Pine, who has sailed the Thebaud in her rousing bouts with Canada's champion Bluenose, will be aboard the old fishing schooner.

Commander MacMillan said he had informed the Canadian Government he would be very happy to take a Canadian scientist along with the expedition.

He expressed hope the govern-

TRIPLET DIES

Two Other Baby Girls Reported Doing Well.

NORTH BAY, Ont., March 3 (C.P.). — One of the triplets born two days ago to Mr. and Mrs. Jonathan Brown died to-day. Dr. C. W. Smith, North Bay physician who attended the birth, had said he feared one of the babies would not survive.

The Browns, who live within 12 miles of where the Dionne quintuplets were born, have three other children. The two surviving triplets and Mrs. Brown were reported as doing well.

No Shouts of 'Louder' For Joe Harris, M.P.

Ottawa, March 3 (CP)

No one ever shouts "louder" when Joe Harris, Conservative member for Toronto-Danforth speaks in the House of Commons. Last night Mr. Harris, who has a deep loud voice which carried to all parts of the chamber and galleries was holding forth on his favorite subject of tariffs when Prime Minister Mackenzie King entered the chamber.

"I am glad to see the prime minister coming in," said Mr. Harris. "He ought to know about this."

"I could hear my friend outside," said Mr. King.

"I wish you could throw open the doors and let the whole world hear," said Mr. Harris.

BRITISH PEOPLE HOODWINKED ARMAMENT RACE

So Declares Dr. Lorna Cotton-Thomas In Addressing C. C. F.

TO VOTE ON WAR ISSUE

Our Loyalty Is to British People And Not to Government Speaker Says

"The C.C.F. expresses its profound loyalty to the people of the British Empire—not to the Baldwin government in England. There is a distinction between England's Baldwin government and the English people. And we believe that the English people are as true and as firm in their desire for peace as we are in Canada and that they are being hoodwinked there by a party government just as our people in Canada are being hoodwinked by party government.

"Our loyalty is to the people and not to the government. The party press does its best to create prejudice against the C.C.F. by raising the cry of disloyalty. But patriotism and religion have always been tools in the hands of party politicians and their press. By dealing in patriotism and religion, they whip you people into such frenzy that you defeat yourselves in the major issues.

"We will not support Baldwin's steel corporation in the next war. We want to support the working man who has everything to lose and nothing to gain by war. In the last great conflict, the working people of Canada sent 60,000 of their boys to France. That was their contribution. And at the same time, 600 new millionaires were created as a result of the war. That was the contribution of the upper classes."

Dr. Lorna Cotton-Thomas, speaking with her incisive brilliance of logic and thought, driving home her points with her customary force and vigor, winning, as usual, the riveted attention of her listeners, talked in the Moose Hall on Tuesday night, under the auspices of the south branch of the C.C.F. her subject being the Defence Estimates recently passed in the Federal Parliament. The vice-president of the local club, W. S. Johnson, was in the chair.

The meeting also listened with interest to a report on the Coal-Buying committee which has functioned this year, presented by the chairman, A. Birkhoff.

To Vote on War Issue.

Dr. Cotton, opening her address, explained that E. J. Garland, the embodied speaker of the evening, was released for organization work in the West Hamilton by-election, and promised that he would be in this city for the week of April 24th to May 1st and will speak in the city on April 27th. J. S. Woodsworth is expected also in April.

Turning her attention to the subject of her address, the Defence Estimates, she spoke of the manner in which J. S. Woodsworth, who had been described by Hon. R. B. Bennett on one occasion as "the greatest Parliamentarian in the Federal House," had been able at all times to force discussion of his pet projects, in spite of Parliamentary procedure brought to bear by those who sought to outwit him.

"We have to get this Defence Estimate picture straight," she declared. "What we stand for in Canada is the right for us, as Canadian people, to say whether we will or will not share in a European war. Why should parliament of any other nation, even if it is England, take us

FURNITURE MEN ASKED TO PARLEY

Ontario Labor Department Also Invites Union Heads In Effort To End Strike

TORONTO, March 3 (C.P.). — Labor Department of the Ontario Government invited all furniture manufacturers affected by the widespread strike of furniture workers in Western Ontario to-day to attend a conference here to-morrow under the chairmanship of Louis Fine, Industrials Standards Officer.

Union leaders also were invited to attend the conference, Labor Minister David A. Croll said in stressing the Government was doing everything possible to end the walkout.

Entry of Toronto furniture workers into the strike was threatened when Andrew Cooper, Ontario representative of the Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, charged a Toronto firm locked out union men yesterday morning. He said when union workers appeared at the Spanner Products Company plant they were informed the firm was no longer manufacturing furniture products.

Quiet prevailed yesterday at the 11 points in Western Ontario affected by the walk-out. They are: Hanover, Owen Sound, Stratford, Listowel, Kincardine, Lucknow, Wingham, Strathroy, Chesley, Hespeler, Preston.

Birds Going Sissy After Getting Relief

Quebec, March 3 (CP)

WILD birds and animals are going sissy, according to Dr. J. A. Brassard, Director of Quebec Zoological Gardens. Most of the animals housed there prefer being looked after in captivity to foraging for themselves during the winter, he says. Of twenty wild birds hatched in the gardens last year, sixteen returned after being released in the fall.

Wedding Cake Baked Fifty Years Ago Forms Unique Centrepiece On Table

A section of a wedding cake baked by the bride-elect of half a century ago, formed the unique centrepiece of a tastefully laid table, at the golden wedding anniversary celebrations held today at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Crowe.

Mrs. Crowe, the former Mary Olive Colingham of Concord recalled with pride that she baked the cake in February 1887, a short time before her marriage at St. John's Church. It was a five-tiered fruit cake of conventional wedding design.

Following the wedding breakfast, the top tier of the cake was carefully placed on wax pins. For the next fifty years of a happy period of married life it was never under a glass case on the dining room sideboard at the home of the couple.

78 Sit-Downers Lose Hand-To-Hand Scrap To 150 Non-Strikers

Iron Bars And Clubs Are Swung Freely As Loyal Crew Clear Out Plant

SCRAP RAGES ON ROOF

Police Watch From Sidelines, Arresting Men As They Are Handed Over

SARNIA, Ont., March 3 (C.P.). — Nearly 20 were injured, 5 in hospital to-day when non-striking employees ejected 78 sit-down strikers who had been in possession since Monday of the Holmes Foundry plant here while they demanded minimum wages of $5.00 a day. Only three, however, were seriously injured.

Twenty-six others were in police cells on bench warrants issued as a result of their failure to heed summonses charging trespass issued as a result of the sit-down strike. They were brought to the cells after they had been evicted from the plant and turned over to the police by non-strikers.

It was not certain when they would be arraigned before a magistrate.

Resumption of operations at the foundry is expected to-morrow.

The plant was only slightly damaged as 150 non-strikers, some armed with clubs and iron rods, ejected the squating strikers.

The Battle Starts.

Early today non-strikers lined up in front of the foundry and for a time taunted the strikers, peering out of windows. Later the non-strikers attempted to force their way into the factory through the main entrance door but it had been barricaded and it withstood their assault. Some of them were armed with clubs and iron rods. Some next went to the rear and mounted to the roof where they were met by strikers who climbed out through window ventilators. Here the major part of the fighting occurred. Clubs and iron rods were wielded. The injured men were taken away at once by companions for treatment.

The non-strikers continued their drive until all of the strikers had been evicted. There was no intervention by police during the fight as the plant is outside the city limits. A group of Barrie police stood by across the road from the foundry to keep spectators in order but they did not attempt to enter the grounds. Non-strikers claimed all sit-downers had been ejected.

Many of the sit-down strikers fled the plant and took refuge in company-owned cottages on foundry property. These were sought in a house-to-house search staged by the non-striking employees after they had cleared the plant.

NOT CRAZY NOW CROSLEY CLAIMS AT MURDER TRIAL

Challenges Defence Claims Of Insanity—Does Not Remember Killing Guard

WORRY KILLING APPETITE

KINGSTOI, Ont., March 3. — (CP).—"I am not crazy now," exclaimed Chester Crosley, negro convict, at his trial for murder on a charge of having fatally stabbed Guard John McCormick as he dramatically challenged his defence counsel's claims of insanity.

"I was not aware of having killed Guard McCormick on July 11," he added, standing up in the dock and addressing Mr. Justice Keiller MacKay.

Defence Counsel W. M. Nickle, K.C., has sought to show that the accused Kingston penitentiary convict had been under the influence of drugs. To-day Convict Crosley quoted to the Judge and jury an article from Literary Digest, where a youth killed his family while under the influence of drugs and did not know what he was doing.

"Mr. Snyder (Crown Prosecutor), said Bromidia was given me," declared Convict Crosley to-day. "It was given me on a number of occasions and was of no use. A man may be drunk and not know what he is doing when under the influence but afterwards remember about things which happened before he got drunk."

3 Pieces Bread in 9 Days.

Crosley said the "weight of the trial on his mind prevented him from eating and asked that a physician designated by the Crown Prosecutor, C. J. Snyder, prescribe his medicine while the trial was continuing. He said he had come to court for nine days, during which time he had eaten only two pieces of bread.

Guard McCormick, alleged to have been fatally stabbed by Convict Crosley, in the penitentiary July 11, 1936, had formally complained on May 9, 1935, against Crosley "for threatening and trying to do bodily harm to an officer." Clerk Leonard Millard told the trial to-day in identifying Crosley's record of misdemeanors during his sentence McCormick's charge was dismissed by the Warden because of mentality of the accused," records showed.

The long list of offences charged against Crosley was read into the record and showed offences such as smoking in his cell, writing notes, having banned articles in his possession, refusing to work, interfering with others at work, throwing a pitcher of water on Hospital Nurse Tromey, and threatening McCormick.

HEENAN ANXIOUS RENEW ARGUMENT

Has Not Been Asked For Resignation And Has No Intention Of Resigning

TORONTO, March 3 (CP) — Stung by what he called "Tory misstatements" and not by a rebuke from his leader, Hon. Peter Heenan, Ontario's Minister of Lands and Forests announced to-day he would renew his argument with Conservative Leader George S. Henry on the floor of the Legislature.

"I think I'll get a chance as the member for Kenora to speak and express my views," asserted Mr. Heenan, one-time "Peter the Peacemaker" of the Mackenzie King Dominion Cabinet.

Adjourned House.

At the height of a dispute in the House last night, during which members thought Mr. Heenan was about to cross the floor for closer combat with Mr. Henry, Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn adjourned the House. He said: "In view of the conduct of my colleague, I'm willing to accept a motion for adjournment."

But Mr. Heenan said to-day he didn't hold that against the Premier.

"I haven't been asked for my resignation and I don't intend to resign," he said. "Premier Hepburn is human. He knows what it is to be Tory mis-statements get a man's dander up. Sure I was angry and I'm still angry."

Mr. Heenan said he hoped to pick up his argument with Mr. Henry to-day in the Legislature. His ire was raised last night when the Conservative House leader condemned an expenditure of $605,000 on a six-mile stretch of the Trans-Canada Highway in Mr. Heenan's constituency of Kenora.

Game Resources Of Ontario Never Be Run By Commission

Nixon Says He Would Rather Abolish 50 P.C. Of Present Bodies Than Name New One

NICE ELECTION ISSUE

TORONTO, March 3 (CP) — No commission will be appointed for the administration and conservation of Ontario's game resources, Hon. Harry Nixon, Minister of Game and Fisheries, told the fish and game committee of the legislature to-day. Mr. Nixon said there was a determined propaganda abroad favoring the creation of such a commission. It had been threatened, he said, to make it an issue in the next election.

"I know of no issue that would be more welcome in an election," said Mr. Nixon. "I would rather abolish 50 per cent of present commissions, provincial and federal, than appoint one new one. Never as long as I have anything to do with it will control of our natural resources be delegated to any irresponsible commission."

Mr. Nixon said the game and fisheries department "was in the red" when the present administration took over. Last year there was a profit of $335,000.

WIDE-OPEN DEBATE LOOMS IN HOUSE SCHOOL TAX ISSUE

Dr. Welsh In Maiden Speech Urges Bonuses For Doctors In Rural Areas

MINES IN DISCUSSION

TORONTO, March 3.—(CP)—Ontario's school tax legislation, passed in 1936 appeared to-day headed for another wide-open debate in the Provincial Legislature.

Avenue for another full-dress discussion on allocation of corporation and other taxes to Separate and Public schools was opened in the Legislature last night.

It came about through a counter-move of Conservatives after Premier Hepburn had refused to allow George Henry, Conservative House leader, to speak again on the main motion in reply to the Speech from the Throne.

Goldwin Egle, (Cons., Toronto-Woodbine) offered an amendment to the main motion. It was seconded by W. D. Black (Cons., Addington) and regretted "no assurance is given to the people of Ontario that chapter four of the statutes of 1936 being an act to amend the Assembly Act, will be repealed."

Shortly after midnight the debate was under way, Mr. Henry sharing the floor with Hon. Peter Heenan, Minister of Lands and Forests, in a warm verbal exchange. The Premier suddenly called for adjournment because of the conduct of his Cabinet colleague.

Earlier Mr. Hepburn had indicated the House would sit until the Opposition was exhausted and the Throne speech debate could be ended.

Only by offering the amendment could the Conservatives prolong the debate. None of the opposition except Mr. Henry was ready to go on the main motion when it became evident the debate was to be driven on by the premier, the Conservatives sent out for reinforcements and Leopold Macaulay (York South) hurried to the chamber, ready to follow Mr. Henry.

Bonuses for Rural Doctors.

Last night's session produced the maiden speech of Dr. Harold Welsh (Cons., Hastings East), victor on the December 9 by-election. He suggested bonuses for doctors in certain rural areas.

There were parts of his constituency where physicians charged $25 to make a call and the result was minor ills went unattended till they became serious and required expensive hospitalization of patients, often at the community expense.

Dr. Welsh said he did not advocate state medicine but favored voluntary, co-operative health insurance plans such as operated in Windsor.

E. A. Lapierre (Lib., Sudbury) charged that J. J. Glass (Lib., Toronto-St. Andrew's) had used a 24-hour visit to the north as basis for a statement made in the House with respect to the mining industry escaping a fair share of taxation.

Mr. Lapierre declared waste rules in the mining industry in the North were good. Men who would earn lit-the Prince of Wales, now building, with a displacement of 35,000 tons and carrying 14-inch guns.

Two aircraft carriers.

Five cruisers of the Standard 8,000-ton class.

Two cruisers of about 5,300 tons.

Sixteen destroyers.

Seven patrol-type submarines.

Forty-five smaller vessels of all types.

11,000 More Men.

This will involve an increase in personnel of 11,000 officers and men, bringing the navy's total strength to 112,00. The entire 1937 program will cost £103,065,000, ($528,330,000) of which £27,000,000,000 will be met from the £400,000,000 it is proposed to raise in defence loans.

Sir Samuel Hoare's memorandum accompanying the figures comments "that as the Washington and London (1930) naval treaties expired December 31, 1936, there is no longer any quantitative limitation on naval construction in any category of warships, but pending ratification of the London naval treaty of 1936 the qualitative limitations contained therein are being observed in the construction of ships now laid down or projected.

The memorandum observes that the imperial conference to be held will provide an opportunity for discussion with the dominion authorities of important questions of naval defence. Under the head of cooperation with the Dominions, the memorandum remarks that the Australian cruisers Australia and Sydney had been for some months attached to the Mediterranean fleet, leaving the Mediterranean last July for Australian waters.

"The cooperation of the Australian government," the memorandum adds, "in consenting to the stay of these ships in the Mediterranean has been greatly appreciated."

Canada's purchase of two destroyers, the Fraser and the St. Laurent, is noted. "It is intended that the Fraser and the St. Laurent shall take part in exercises with the America and West Indies squadron during March," the memorandum added.

The estimates show that India makes a contribution of £100,000 to the maintenance of British warships in Indian waters.

Searching Two of Sit-Down Strikers

TOWN LOTS SOLD

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, March 3.—N. Alex McColl, chairman of the Finance Committee of the Town Council read the report of that committee at the regular meeting of the Council held in the Public Library on Monday evening which showed that $783 had been collected during the months of January and February to apply on tax arrears of $16,517 up to the year 1935. He also stated that the $12,074 due in December 1936 had been reduced by $1,461 during the same two months.

Councillor Doris reported that he had been offered $25 for the Fraser property now owned by the town and situated on Balsam Ave. street. It was moved that this offer be accepted provided the purchaser build within one year's time a house of not less than $1,300 value. It was also decided to accept the offer of $200 made by Mr. F. Beaudoine for the house and lots recently acquired by the town on Bear street. The motion of Councillor O'Sullivan to accept the offer of $320 less the penalty charges for the two houses south of the Masonic Temple, made by Clem Bayes was also carried.

Wants Better Drainage

F. C. Bourgeaustle representing the School Board and Clarence Massey on his own behalf addressed the council requesting that steps be taken to level off the road on Rainey street in order to facilitate the drainage of that particular section where it is claimed the water is running over the sidewalks during wet weather. The matter was left in the hands of the Road and Bridge Committee who will go into the entire question of drainage when the roads are scarified in the spring.

A communication from the Department of Health regarding the chlorination and purification of the town's supply of water suggested that more adequate protective measures should be taken as the present system was not readily adjustable to varying circumstances such as when the pumps were speeded up. It also pointed out that the town should either put into operation automatic machinery to govern the flow of chlorine or install an elevated tank. This matter was left in the hands of the Fire, Water and Light Committee.

"No Parking" Sign

Geo. Gillis, mail carrier also addressed the council with the request that "No Parking" signs be placed on the mail boxes on Frost street and also at the corner of Bridge and Tice streets where he claimed it was impossible to drive his car into the curb while emptying the boxes and thus rendered himself liable in the case of an accident caused by his car being left on the travelled part of the road. The matter was left to the hands of the Road and Bridge Committee who intend to restrict the parking in these areas between the hours of seven and eight p.m.

Following the presentation of a by-law governing the conduct of the council presented by Deputy-Reeve Calder and another transferring the authority for issuing dog tags and licenses from the police to the assessor the pay sheet was passed and the council adjourned.

Alberta Farmer Reported Shot To Death In Fort Vermilion Area

FORT VERMILION, Alta., March 3 (C.P.).—Silence to-day closed the movements of a Royal Canadian Mounted Police officer who left this settlement, 390 miles north-west of Edmonton, yesterday to arrest J. F. Porter in connexion with the slaying of Bill Ware, farmer.

Ware, married and with several step-children, was reported to have been shot to death yesterday, but other details were not known.

Constable Grayson was absent on patrol duty, but wireless messages from R.C.M.P. headquarters at Edmonton brought him back to the settlement and he advised headquarters "Am proceeding to make arrest."

BENNETT CHARGES NOTHING BEEN DONE ON UNEMPLOYMENT

Comes As First Want Of Confidence Motion On Tory Part This Session

MACNEIL IS CRITICAL

OTTAWA, March 3.—(CP).—Canada's 1937 budget came under fire from many angles when Conservative Leader Bennett launched an attack in the House of Commons yesterday and concluded with an amendment lamenting what he called failure of the government to take any effective measures to deal with unemployment.

It was the Conservatives first want of confidence motion against the government this session.

Labor Minister Rogers spoke for the government in defending the employment program but this phase of the budget came under bitter denunciation from Grant MacNeil (C.C.F. Vancouver North).

Mr. MacNeil declared relief camps had not been closed as promised, that those who had been on railway construction work in the summer had been unfairly treated and left at the start of winter unable to sustain themselves.

Because of delay in extending the farm and forest placement scheme to single unemployed without domicile in British Columbia a great many men had got in trouble in Vancouver and been sent to jail, Mr. MacNeil said. He described the plight of young women who had migrated to the Pacific Coast and for whom no provision was made by the Federal government.

These young women were exploited and were "being recruited for

REPEAL ADVANCES ON SIX STATUTES

Second Readings Followed By Adjournment Move Rouses Wrath Of T. L. Church

OTTAWA, March 3 (CP).—Repeal of six statutes enacted by the last government and found ultra vires by the Privy Council advanced slightly in the House of Commons last night when six bills introduced for that purpose were moved for second reading by their sponsor, Jean Francois Pouliot (Lib., Temiscouata).

Prime Minister Mackenzie King, as Mr. Pouliot completed his brief remarks on each measure, moved adjournment of the debate and, in doing so, aroused the wrath of T. L. Church (Cons., Toronto-Broadview).

On the third bill, before the motion adjourn the debate could be made, Mr. Church got the floor and declared the Prime Minister, evidently after consultation with the sponsor of the bills, was preventing debate. "If this is not going to be a free parliament we might as well go home," Mr. Church protested.

The Prime Minister replied that both Conservative Leader Bennett and former State Secretary Cahan, who were much interested in this legislation were temporarily absent from the House, and that he was acting as much in the interest of the Opposition as that of the government when he moved adjournment.

Thereafter, as Mr. Mackenzie King moved adjournment on the remaining bills, he qualified the motion by saying "unless the honorable member for Broadview wants to speak." But Mr. Church did not take the opportunity.

MEN ARE FOUND USELESS

Vancouver's Humane Society Wants No Male Members.

VANCOUVER, March 3.—(CP)—Vancouver's Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals were under exclusive administration of women today after President Henrietta Pennock said "14 years experience have shown men useless on the committees."

Despite protests of P. R. H. Stratton John male attending the annual meeting, feminine members pushed through a constitutional amendment yesterday deleting the obligatory clause calling for three men on the society's executive.

TWO ALDERMEN THREATEN STRIKE

Windsorites Propose to 'Stand-Up' Until Allowed Unlimited Number Of Speeches

WINDSOR, Ont., March 3 (C.P.).—City Council was confronted with a threatened "stand-up" strike at a meeting which wound up early today when Alderman Norman Eanor said he would remain on his feet until he reached his objective. A short while later Alderman Frank Bagley volunteered to do likewise if there was any discrimination between the number of times he and Alderman Eanor were permitted to speak.

Alderman Eanor challenged Mayor E. S. Wigle as a matter of "principle" and became incensed over what he claimed was wrongful procedure during a debate, amendment, amendments to the amendment, and a motion relevant to car allowances for the Windsor Fire Department.

The alderman calmed down after Mayor Wigle insisted he was in charge of the meeting.

NEWS!

Your newspaper brings to you every day the world's news. Without it you would be ignorant of the events that affect your life and your welfare.

Civilization advanced, industry developed, trade and commerce expanded as facilities for circulating news improved.

When John Bushell published the first Canadian newspaper at Halifax in 1752 the inns and coffee houses of the scattered Canadian settlements were the principal sources of news. There the pioneers foregathered to gossip about personal and community affairs and to discuss the problems of their trades. Anyone unable to attend knew little or nothing of events beyond his immediate environment.

Bushell proposed to print the news and make it available to all. The first issue of his Halifax Gazette was a single sheet of paper printed on both sides. It contained a publisher's foreword, a few items of local interest, some foreign and colonial news, (most of it six months old), and three advertisements.

Modest as the venture was, it expressed an ideal of public service which endured.

Soon newspapers were established in other communities. Constantly this service has been extended until now the daily newspapers of Canada bring to every citizen the latest news of people, events and achievements in all parts of the world.

The first Canadian newspaper had seventy-two subscribers; today in more than two million homes throughout the country at least one daily newspaper is read.

Without this day-to-day record of social, economic and political affairs at home and abroad, progress would be retarded and the welfare of the individual and the nation seriously impaired.

PLANES PREVENT ISLE ISOLATION SAYS CLERGYMAN

Rev. W. J. Belford Tells Of Life On The Magdalene Islands

EARNINGS ARE LOW

CHARLOTTETOWN, Mar. 3 (C.P.). — Rev. W. J. Belford, one of two Anglican clergymen in the Magdalen Islands, believes the airplane has been an important link between its people and the outside world and has overcome to a great extent isolation of the Islands. Associated with Rev. R. Rowcliffe, Rev. Mr. Belford ministers to 112 families scattered over Grosse Isle, Old Harry and Grand Entry on the Gulf Islands a part of Quebec Province.

"Although with respect to communication and other advantages we are not as highly favored as other parts of Canada," Rev. Mr. Belford said, "I am deeply interested in my work, find plenty to do and do not worry over so-called isolation.

"On the three Islands and on Entry Island, the people are practically all Anglican, mostly English-speaking, whilst on Amherst, the largest of the group, with a population of nearly 3,000, they belong to the Roman Catholic faith, with but one exception. On Grindstone there are 12 Roman Catholic families. The religious work among the Anglicans of the Magdalenes is carried on under the direction of the Church Society of the Diocese of Quebec. There are churches at Grosse Isle, Old Harry, Entry and Grindstone.

Six Schools.

There are five schools on the four Islands, conducted by the Department of Education of Quebec. Rev. Mr. Belford also conducts a private school.

"We have no hospital of our own on the Magdalenes," said Rev. Mr. Belford, "but there is talk this year of building one at Grindstone. There are four doctors, three in Grindstone and one at Amherst. The nearest doctor is 28 miles from Grosse Isle.

"The nearest nurse is at Grand Entry, about six miles distant by water. During bad weather the trip is about 13 miles over bad roads. In winter, of course, the six miles can easily be negotiated on the ice."

Lobster fishing, the main occupation, was "only fair," and it was necessary for the Government to provide a considerable amount of relief, he said. No direct cash payments were made except in cases of sickness and old-age, Rev. Mr. Belford believed the Old-Age Pension Act, recently made effective in Quebec, and which would apply to the Magdalen Islands, would be "quite a boon to the people."

Earnings Low.

Earnings of the fishermen range from $300 to $900 a year, he said, the merchant giving credit advances on groceries and fishing supplies, against the fishing catch.

The people believe in the "early to bed, early to rise" motto. Get-togethers are held frequently, with "round dance quadrilles, and "other good old-fashioned dances," he continued. "No very many" expressed a desire for the larger life outside of the Islands. "Many of the residents have never seen a railway train, a moving picture, and have never ridden in an automobile, although there are now a number on the Islands. Men were working on roads, and construction was expected to be completed next year.

The air-mail service to the Magdalen Islands from Charlottetown was greatly improved, he said, with planes making about two flights a week. The Islands do not receive their first mail by steamer until the end of April, and were sometimes two or three weeks without it as planes were unable to land after the ice breaks up and the steamer cannot reach them. Sometimes ice-patrol boats reach the Islands and mail was delivered.

Winter supplies were laid in before navigation closes, he stated, and nothing was carried on the planes except what can be shipped by mail.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Harmful poisons go into the body, and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't always get at the cause. You need something that works on the liver as well. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless and gentle, they make the bile flow freely. Victim Finds Fish Add Insult To Injury

Maunie, Ill., March 2.

FLOOD waters washed Noble Weare's hens away, drowned his cow and wrecked his home, but the fish added insult to injury.

They foregathered—this is verbatim testimony—in water three feet deep on his front porch every night and raised such a ruckus he couldn't sleep. He kept clubbing them away but they always returned.

They were whoppers, he said, meaning the fish.

SPEAKERS TELL OF PIONEER DAYS

Historical Research Committee Takes Charge Of Springbrook W.I. Program

(Examiner Correspondence.)

BONARLAW, March 3.—The regular meeting of the Springbrook Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Thos. Hannah on Wednesday afternoon of last week with a fairly good attendance.

The meeting was opened in the usual manner with Mrs. F. Bateman at the organ. In the absence of the president, Mrs. Geo. A. Bailey, the chair was taken by Mrs. J. F. Baker. The minutes were read by the secretary, Mrs. W. J. Barlow.

A resolution was adopted authorizing the relief committee to purchase necessary articles of clothing for a needy family in the community. It was decided to postpone the sleighing date of the Hale to the North West until after the next meeting.

Mrs. Fred McKeown, convenor of the Historical Research Committee, took charge of the program which was as follows:

Mrs. J. F. Baker took the motto, "Don't be discouraged, it may be the last key in the bunch which opens the lock." Mrs. Elias Spry gave a splendid paper on "Early History of Hastings County." Mrs. Arthur Burnham gave an interesting paper on "Early days in Bonarlaw." The first Post Office was named Big Springs, then Bellview and later Bonarlaw.

Miss Phyllis Barlow rendered a pleasing piano solo. Mrs. David Wellman led in a discussion on "The Modern Girl", and also conducted a contest.

After the meeting was closed a dainty lunch was served and a social half-hour enjoyed.

TRAIN TO CARRY TUGS IN PIECES

River Craft Being Built In Quebec For Service In Mackenzie

SOREL, Que., March 3 (CP) — Two large craft of the push-tug type are under construction here for use on the Mackenzie, Athabasca and Slave Rivers, 2,000 miles away in Canada's far north where many of the river bends are so short it is impossible to pull a tow around corners.

Construction of the two "tugs" writes an interesting page for shipbuilding in Canada. Similar craft are in use on the Nile in Egypt, Hilberta river navigation in the Canadian north has been in old type wooden stern wheelers. The new boats will be of the steel, twin-screw tunnel type, permitting very shallow draft. The one designed for use on the Athabasca and Slave rivers draws only 21 inches when loaded.

After an extraordinary portage across half a continent, the boats will go into service this summer carrying supplies to the mining camps of the Northwest Territories and bringing back radium concentrates and other ores. This will mark another step in the northern march of civilization. The boats will be equipped with refrigeration chambers, making it possible for the first time to transport fresh meats and dairy products in quantity for regular distribution.

Assembled In Quebec

Of welded construction, the boats will be assembled here just as they will be launched 2,000 miles away. Workmen will then saw them into 20-foot sections—like you would cut a cake. Thus they will be shipped on railway cars to railhead at Waterways and carried by sleigh and tractor to Fort McMurray.

The crew of 10 will find accommodation on the first "tug" when it goes into service on the Athabasca and Slave Rivers between Fort McMurray and Fitzgerald in May. The vessel will be 86 feet long and 20 feet broad. It will afford cabin accommodation for eight passengers and deck facilities for the others. The second boat will ply between Fort Smith and Fort Norman on the Mackenzie River and Great Slave Lake.

Of significance to the north country and to the mining industry of the Dominion is the fact these boats will make it possible to bring out three times the quantity of radium concentrates that can now be transported to railhead. They are being constructed for the Northern Transportation Company, wholly owned subsidiary of Eldorado Gold Mines limited, whose radium mine is at Labine Point on Great Bear Lake.

No Happiness In the Home When the Mother Is Sick

MILBURN'S HEALTH NERVE PILLS

The tired, worn out mother cannot make a happy home if she is sick and worried by the never ending household duties. She gets run down and becomes nervous and irritable, downhearted and discouraged, can't rest at night, and gets up in the morning as tired as when she went to bed.

Women suffering in this way will find in Milburn's H. & N. Pills a remedy with which to recuperate their health, build up the run down system, and bring back their bodily vigor.

CANADIAN STAR MARKS LIFE IN THREE CAREERS

Quebec-Born Lucile Watson Is a Veteran Of The New York Stage

ALWAYS GIVEN PRAISE

NEW YORK, March 3 (CP)—Lucile Watson, the Canadian star of 57 summers who says her hobby is acting, divides her life in the theatre into three parts — each a career in itself.

Miss Watson, native of Quebec City who made her stage debut in 1900 in the old Ottawa Opera House, long since destroyed by fire, reminisces on her long and successful stage life here. Daughter of Major T. C. and Leila Watson, she was educated in Miss Harmon's school, Ottawa; Church School, Windsor, N.S., and the Ursuline Convent, Quebec. She married Louis Evan Shipman, playwright who died in 1933.

Miss Watson's first career includes the years after she left the American Academy of Dramatic Art as a promising graduate until she was 30, during which she played adventuresses and character women. The second, to 1924, was devoted almost exclusively to the portrayal of older but gay women of society. Then, after an intermission of some 10 years during which she lived in France, she returned here to start a third career as an engaging mother with a sly wit and a mind slightly unconventional.

A Perfect Example

Miss Watson considers her present featured role in "Yes, My Darling Daughter," in which Alfred de Liagre jr. is presenting at the Playhouse, the perfect example of this type. She ranks the part with the lovable woman she played in "No More Ladies," the fearless motherly soul of "Post Road," and the witty, sophisticated countess of "Prelude to Exile." For in "Yes, My Darling Daughter" Mark Reed, the author, has written a part for her which epitomizes the modern American mother who learns with amusement that children no longer are taught but rather teach their parents about life.

So well has Miss Watson performed in each of her three careers that managers long ago began to talk of a certain type of character as a "Lucile Watson" part. Never in all the years she has been acting has she received other than praise.

Miss Watson's first New York role was in "Hearts Aflame," acquired immediately after she was graduated from Gremie de school in 1900. It was supposed to be an expose of New York society. Arnold Daly, who was in the company, recognized her talent and spoke to his friend, Clyde Fitch, about her. On the day her first engagement closed she received a wire from Fitch offering her a role in "The Girl with the Green Eyes," a play he had written for Clara Bloodgood and which Charles Frohman was to produce. Thus was Miss Watson launched by one of the leading managers, one of the leading actors, and one of the leading playwrights of the early century.

Her Second Career Plays

The plays that belong to what she likes to call her second career began with "The Foint of View" by Jules Eckert Goodman in which the late Emily Stevens played a stellar role. In that career also must be listed "Under Cover," which she remembers regretfully because the outbreak of the Great War forced it to close in 1918. But that engagement brought her a new friendship which today is being renewed on stage (it is firmly cemented off-stage) in "Yes, My Darling Daughter" for Miss Fleming has often growing into adult parts was cast as the ingenue in that melodrama. Miss Watson took the young girl under her wing.

The step into her third career began for Miss Watson with George Bernard Shaw's "Heartbreak House," her first association with the Theatre Guild. It included parts in "The White Villa," "The Nest," and "Fools Errant" to mention only a few. She then went to live abroad with the playwright who had become her husband and only came back to America after his death. She returned to the theatre.

"UNTHINKABLE" ORDER.

SCOTIA TO MAKE ITS MINING SAFER

Would Prevent Repetition Of Last Spring's Moose River Tragedy

HALIFAX, March 3 (C.P.)—Safer gold mining in Nova Scotia is aimed at in a Bill placed before the Legislature by the Government "mindful of Moose River and the underground tragedy that stirred the continent last spring.

Author of the Bill that went before the House yesterday is Mines Minister Michael Dwyer, the former coal miner who risked his life with the others in the Moose River burrow to bring out Dr. D. E. Robertson and Alfred Scadding and the body of their dead companion, Herman McGill.

The Minister's Bill would bring operation of gold mines under the same legislation as coal mining. Under existing statutes, they are now considered "quarries." The new legislation would encure greater safety and appointment of qualified managers and officials, besides regularizing the manner of extracting gold.

OBITUARY

MARY JANE TRENNUM.

LAKEFIELD, March 3.—The funeral of the late Mary Jane Harrigan, of Lakefield, widow of the former A. J. Trennum of Smith, was held on Sunday, February 28, from the Baptist church, Lakefield.

Mrs. Trennum, who had been in failing health for several months, succumbed to an attack of influenza. She died at 4 a.m. on Friday in her seventy-third year.

Born in Douro in 1864, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Harrigan, deceased spent the greater part of her life in Smith until she moved to Lakefield in 1921 and took up residence on Nassau street here, where she lived until her death.

In 1894 she married A. J. Trennum of Smith, who predeceased her in 1915. Their only son, Roger, died in 1921.

Mrs. Trennum was a member of the Lakefield Baptist church and took an active part in the work of the church up until a short time before her death.

She is survived by four brothers, George of Lakefield, Richard of Otonabee, John and Rees of Smith, and nephews and nieces.

The funeral service which was conducted by Rev. W. B. Walker, pastor of Lakefield Baptist church, was well attended. Messrs. Bert Nicholls, Alex Macdonald, Clarence Foster, Roy Bullock, Roy Hookaday and Wm. Gray acted as pallbearers.

Interment was made in Lakefield cemetery.

THOMAS EDGAR DAWSON.

BAILIEBORO, March 3. — In the passing of Thomas Edgar Dawson on Wednesday, February 24, South Monaghan Township and Bailieboro lost a highly respected citizen, but cherish the memory of his deeds well done, a race well run, and a crown well won." He was the eldest son of the late William Dawson and Mary Jane Box, and was born on Lot 9, Second Concession of South Monaghan Township, where in the home on the farm and in the Public School he laid the foundations of a happy, useful, and influential life. In early life he became a member of the Methodist Church, and so efficiently served in its ministrations that on the death of his father in November, 1919, he was appointed the treasurer of the Bailieboro Church, and later after union, in the United Church of Canada was elected and re-elected each in both of which offices he proved his worth to both the members and adherents of the church.

On September 16, 1897, he was united in marriage with Eva C., daughter of the late John William Lucas and Margaret Fair, and by his devotion and affection as husband and father made possible the Biblical word of praise: "His children rise up and call him blessed."

He never sought municipal honours but concentrated his efforts in the development of his home and farm so that Walnut Farm, at the southern end of the village bears testimony to his careful and thoughtful planning, to his abundant labors, and his love of beauty and order.

At the funeral service at the home in Bailieboro on Friday afternoon the pastor, Rev. E. M. Cook of Fraserville, paid tribute to his kindly, patient and uncomplaining disposition. Rev. W. M. Leigh, B.A., a former pastor, now of Kingston, emphasized that the secret of his achievements and service was due to the beauty of the Lord that was upon him, and the many friends and neighbors present not only expressed their sympathy with the family, but also bore testimony by words and floral offerings to the integrity and upright life of the one who was gone.

The pall-bearers were his brother Ira, his brother-in-law John Greer, his cousins Edmund and Charles Dawson, and his fellow-elders, Wilbur Barnard and John Porter, while those acting as flower-bearers were two nephews and four village boys of the church. Interment was made in the Bailieboro Cemetery.

Surviving to cherish the memory of the gracious influence of his life are his wife and two daughters Jean and Ruth at home, his son Gerald with his wife and two children David and Margaret on the farm, and one brother Ira and family.

Here is the latest style stench board, which boasts a watch timing device to regulate time of beginning its odoriferous work. The board was discovered in a New York novelty house. After a series of bombings in which 27 persons were injured, all theatres where trouble is suspected are now under police guard.

PRESERVING WATER ON PRAIRIE FARMS TO BENEFIT CROPS

Rehabilitation Committee Completes 1,450 Small Projects

SASKATOON, March 3—(CP)—Five billion gallons of water which previously drained from western farms will be retained for crop growing as a result of drought-attack measures, according to John A. Vallance, chairman of the committee operating under the Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Act.

Last year, he said, 1,450 small projects, dug-outs, small stock-watering dams and irrigation schemes were completed. He estimated these would impound 22,000 acre-feet of water of approximately 5,000,000 gallons, which formerly trickled away into the Gulf of Mexico or Hudson Bay.

The committee have received no far 6,000 applications for assistance —sufficient to keep the committee busy for two years. The need for irrigating from eight to 15 acres on most farms in drought areas was so evident that Mr. Vallance invited farmers to organize themselves into agricultural improvement associations so that they might receive the assistance the committee is prepared to give.

Gave Work to 1,815 Men

In 1936 the federal government granted $1,250,000 for prairie rehabilitation work. Of this amount $500,000 was from the department of labor, and it gave work to 1,815 men with wages totalling $120,000.

There is not a district in the drought area that is not in a drainage basin, Mr. Vallance said. That means that virtually every farmer can be benefitted by the water development work. He believes schemes of this kind will assure him a garden and shelter belt as well as several acres of irrigated feed crops.

Mr. Vallance foresees a time when all drainage areas in the west will be taken up and licensed. Those who have not taken advantage of the scheme early, he contended, may find themselves on the outside.

The chairman stressed provincial responsibility for water development work and said no action could be taken by his committee without the provincial governments agreeing to the undertaking. He suggested a provincial organization should be built up under the department of natural resources which would be prepared to carry on the work.

Act Passed in 1935

The Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Act was passed by the federal government in 1935. Farmers whose schemes have been approved receive from the committee 4½ cents a cubic yard for excavating earth-work in a maximum of $75 allowed for any small project such as a dug-out and up to $150 for small dugout-water dams. Further aid in the form of expert engineering advice is provided.

Last year the Val Marie dam project in Saskatchewan, one of the largest, was completed at a cost of $150,000. It will irrigate 6,000 acres. The East End project cost $85,000 and will irrigate 2,600 acres. Others were completed at Wild Horse at the southwest corner of Saskatchewan. In southern Alberta the Canada Land and Irrigation company project was reconstructed at a cost of $85,000. Altogether $750,000 will have been spent on such work by the end of the fiscal year.

MUCH IT COSTS THEY WHO WEAR THEIR CORONET

English Nobility Finds Attending Coronation Very Costly

AS HIGH AS $2,000

LONDON, March 3.—(C.P.)—If you were a duke invited to attend the coronation of George VI in Westminster Abbey you'd have to write out a check for approximately $612 for clothes alone. And your wife's bills would be more than double that.

Thousands of pounds will be represented in the crimson and purple robes and glittering coronets which the titled folk of Britain will wear when they see the monarch crowned.

While prices for robes and uniforms vary widely according to the quality of the materials used, there are but slight differences in the cost of the trimmings which help distinguish various ranks of the peerage.

A duke or a marquess, for example, pays only slightly more than $1 above the price charged for an earl or a viscount; the earl or viscount nearly $3 more than a baron.

Cost of Headgear.

Coronets differ more widely in price according to the amount of decoration they bear. Here dukes and barons come out best. Their headgear is simpler—and therefore cheaper—than that worn by an earl, a marquess or a viscount. In fact a duke can secure a cheap line in coronets for $95 while an earl must pay at least $10 more.

The lowest rank of peerage, the baroness, must set aside at least $500 for clothes she will need for the Abbey ceremonial. The viscountess, countess, marchioness and duchess each will pay more as the degree of rank goes higher—the duchess's bills probably totalling more than $2,000. And the gowns and robes bought with this money can be worn only once or twice in a lifetime.

Peeresses' robes must be crimson velvet, or purple velvet if they are of royal blood—and the court gowns they wear underneath them must be white, cream, silver or gold. Money can be saved by wearing mock ermine instead of first quality fur, and machine-made material instead of the correct hand-woven velvet.

Mayfair dressmakers, who have been busy on coronation orders for some months, use 17 yards of velvet as needed for a duchess's robe compared with 15 yards for a baroness. The ermine trimming on a duchess's robe is three inches wider than in the peeress of lower degree.

Golden Girdle $25.

One of the most expensive items of the robes for peeresses are the golden girdle and tassels which cost about $25.

Meanwhile the coronation theme is becoming noticeable in men's clothing. Coronation colors will be incorporated in most of the spring suitings, Saville Row predicts, and red and white pin-stripes on a blue background are expected to be popular.

Ties with tiny embroidered crowns and the symbol "GR VI" already are in the stores, and there are shirts adorned with the letters of the word "Coronation" in various patterns for the very brave.

Pajamas with reproductions of the Empire flags across the chest are expected to make their first appearance soon in shops. Girls will find tiny maps of the dominions printed on satin pajamas, each country having its own design. The map of Africa has elephants and ostriches, Australia a leaping kangaroo, and England is represented by a beefeater guarding a Tudor rose.

TEACHER STRIKE ANOTHER HOLDUP IN MEXICO PLAN

Adding To Parents' Refusal To Send Children To School

DEMAND PROTECTION

MEXICO CITY, March 3.—(CP)—Mexico's "revolution by education", entering its third year, faces two major obstacles:

1. The old, persistent refusal of Catholics, backed by the church, to send their children to schools where socialism, communism or anything smacking thereof is taught.

2. A recent development, a series of strikes by school teachers disgruntled at the asserted under-payment or non-payment of wages and failure of the government to guarantee their lives against outlaws and the like.

A pastoral letter signed by all Mexican bishops and archbishops only recently adjured parents not to let their children attend institutions of learning "which teach or accept socialism" since "priests may not absolve them."

Largest in History

The government paid no attention to the pastoral letter although official quarters later pointed out that registrations for 436 public schools in the federal district for the 1937 school year passed 200,000, the largest in history.

Obstruction of the revolutionary educational program by teachers, even though Education Secretary Gonzalo Vazquez Vela charges it constitutes "treason to the revolution" is an incidental result of their strikes.

The denial of teachers' right to strike Vela explains, "is due not only to its (the education department's) desire to safeguard the interests of the collectivity, but also to the fact that its intervention is sufficient to settle any conflict that arises. . . ."

Meanwhile the Cardenas administration continues its quiet war upon illiteracy (roughly 60 per cent. of all Mexican men and women could not read or write six years ago, while decreasing, so gradually as to be almost imperceptible, the emphasis on the socialistic phase.

Last year the government built 1,949 rural schools, plus some 500 other miscellaneous institutions of learning, and spent $18,500,000 on-sixth of all expenditures, on education.

It Is Confusing

The charge of seduction launched by Vivian MacMillan against John Brownlee, former premier of Alberta, has been before the courts for three years. When the case was first tried at Edmonton the jurors were prepared to return a verdict for the plaintiff and her father who had joined the action. Mr. Justice Ives did not agree with the finding of the jury and the result was the case was dismissed.

The next step was to take it to the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court of Alberta, and the decision there was that the trial judge was right, and the appeal was dismissed.

The case was then taken to the Supreme Court of Canada, and the decision of that body was that Miss MacMillan was entitled to $10,000 damages and costs throughout. A despatch from Edmonton indicates Mr. Brownlee will appeal that decision.

This paper has no intention of discussing the merits of this case, of which at best there were few. But it is confusing to the lay mind that there should be such a confusion of awards in a case where the facts remain the same as they were when first presented to a jury at Edmonton. That is, the material on which courts have to work is just the same in each case. As it stands now, the jurors in the Edmonton trial and the Supreme Court of Canada are in agreement that the plaintiff should receive damages, while Mr. Justice Ives and the Appellate Division of the Alberta Supreme Court are in agreement that the plaintiff should receive no damages. There are two negative and positive answers to the same problem. If the plaintiff in such a case had not been financially able to carry the case through to the Supreme Court then the adverse finding of the first court would have remained unchallenged, and the end is not yet as the finding of the Supreme Court is to be appealed. It is not to be wondered at that the lay mind becomes confused in watching such events because the evidence and facts are exactly the same as when first presented to court in Edmonton.

Will Not Help Much

A man who has been painter and paper hanger for the last 30 years in Westmeath is now Count Richard du Manior de Juaye, and his wife, a Westmeath girl, is now a countess. These changes have taken place because the painter's father has died in Normandy, and he has inherited the ancestral home as well as the title.

Just how much the son will inherit is not known, but apparently he has no great expectations. Looking at a picture of the modest home where he has been living one can appreciate what he means when he says he is going to have the house wired for electric lighting because he believes he can now afford to do so.

Handing down these hereditary titles may be a fine old custom, but unless there goes with the title the means of maintaining all that it means is rather an empty gesture. We do not believe it will do the man in Westmeath much good to be referred to as a count.

Reason In All Things

The Examiner is satisfied there is sufficient justice in the operation of the inheritance tax as we have it in this province. If an individual has been successful in gathering together a large estate it seems right enough that a share of that should go to the public purse. It marks a point of interruption in the flow of hereditary wealth which is rather desirable.

But when it comes to the government of the province going back as is now the custom to the year 1892 to start investigations of estates of men who have long been dead it seems like driving too hard in that direction.

It is quite possible there is much which could be explained in many of these estates if there were some one present to do the explaining, but there is no one in many cases who could give an accurate statement of the entire affair.

A good law which may well produce good results can often be made to look like a form of prosecution by the over-zealous attitude of those who enforce it. The harder a government drives for revenue the more determined will people become in the matter of resisting. A certain degree of reason is always a good factor in law enforcement.

Does Not Happen Often

Robert Wadlow of Alton, Ill., is 10 years of age and his height is eight feet, seven inches. It is said he is the tallest person in the world, past or present. He increased his height two inches in the last year and it is possible he may add even more to his unusual height.

His parents are not people of unusual size, and he is an example of giantism not often found. The medical world says it is from over-stimulation of the pituitary gland, a bit of delicate mechanism located in the head. There are secretive glands in many parts of the human body and in this case there has been a lack of balance in the development of these. In some there has been overgrowth and in others too little of it. There are not many such cases on record.

Stealing From a Farmer

A farmer from Thorndale visited the office of the Agricultural Representative in London, Ont., bringing with him a sample of stock feed for which he had paid a travelling salesman at the rate of $15 for 100 pounds, and when he was charged that amount he was assured he was getting a bargain.

The man who sold it to him said the feed was made for the exclusive use of a few of the best cattle breeders in the Old Country. It was emphasized that the directions given must be carefully followed, and if that were done the results he would get would be amazing. The farmer knew how to feed stock and he followed all the rules, but found he was not getting results. Then it was he went to London and took some of the meal with him. It was immediately forwarded to a chemist for analysis, and the answer was the feed was merely a common bone-meal substance which can be bought any place for $2 per 100 pounds.

Of course we have laws which would deal with this smart-alec salesman, but the trouble will be to find him. He made his sale at a profit of some six or seven hundred per cent. because when he was telling lies the farmer believed he was telling the truth. Most men we believe take it for granted that when a man comes to do business with them he is honest. It would be a miserable world if we had to proceed on any other basis. When he made that $15 sale to the farmer at Thorndale the salesman actually put his hand in the farmer's pocket and took out $13 which was a rather miserable way of stealing.

It would have been safe enough for that farmer to have refused to part with $15. He could have depended on it had he been a reading man that such a food, had it been in existence, would have been advertised or mentioned in the farm journals. On the face of it the thing would look too much like a repetition of the days when smart men used to go about the country selling Miracle wheat, and the only miracle about it was that the salesmen escaped without getting a blast of buckshot.

The Strike Idea Grows

Since the strike of General Motors was settled there has not been much recording of strike movements in United States. The blunt fact is the strikes are becoming so common that they fail to excite interest. Just in one day there were reports of these:

Two thousand hosiery workers quit in Berks County, Pa., and closed six mills.

At Chelsea and Lowell, Mass., 1,700 workers walked out of shoe factories, and five other plants are idle at Salem.

At Toledo, Ohio, 65 messenger boys decided to form a union and demand wage and hour adjustments. Undelivered messages piled up while they sat down and waited for results.

Moving vans and storage warehouses in Cleveland were paralyzed after negotiations failed between drivers and the 160 firms for which they work.

At Norwalk, O., seven nurses left their posts in a hospital as a protest against the dismissal of the superintendent.

At Pittsburg 100 slightly employees in the Association for the Blind factory quit work because they wanted more earnings.

Sit-down strikers in a five-and-ten store in Detroit barred the management when an effort was made to enter the premises.

That of course is not an entire list; it has nothing to do with some of the major struggles which have been under way for weeks. Merely a few additions which all happened on one day.

Brisk Walk For a Pig

The department of Scientific and Industrial Research in Britain is always finding out something or other. The latest bulletin says it has been demonstrated that if a pig is taken for a brisk walk of half mile or so before being killed the bacon is better flavored. The walk is said to make the pig's tissues more alkaline and this has been found beneficial in the curing process.

The trouble would be in taking a young pig for a walk. One could do that with a horse or a cow, but a pig is different. It does not seem to appreciate human company unless at meal times or on some occasion when one might be inclined to scratch the pig's back.

On the day's when they used to ship pigs from the village there was opportunity to come into contact with a little cash recompense for exercising the degree of physical effort necessary in driving the pigs from the village weigh scales to the cattle yard at the station. There was a difference between the amount paid to the experienced pig driver and the one who was just learning the business. The boy with experience came with his own gad and he knew something of how to yell at the pigs and engineer their turning at the right corner. He could earn 15 cents per shipping and it was paid in cash. The driver who was yet an amateur in the estimation of the shippers had to be content with 10 cents.

Recollection is that the pigs never did go at a brisk walk; it was always something like a dog trot. Apparently they did not know where they were going; it was the first time they had ever seen the main street of a village; first time they had ever passed the band stand at the [illegible] of Hunter and Water streets where [illegible] loaded street scuttle on a Saturday evening, that time they had ever come up the street that led to the white-washed yard where they entrained. The first and the last time for all these experiences.

The belief was firmly established then that it is not possible to take a hog for a brisk walk, that belief we hold today. The hog does not understand what is meant by a brisk walk and we do not know how the thing could be explained to him. That is unless hogs know a great deal more today than when they were driven from the village weigh scales to the shipping yards of the Grand Trunk railway, there to be picked up and attached to the "mixed" train which departed at 7.15 in the quiet hours of the evening.

COWARD

(By A. E. K.)

¶ Almost each day strange tales I scan, I read about the bravest man, the bravest I have seen; when thugs came up he'd never flinch, and, would not jump a half an inch, a gun against his bean.

¶ He took the gun man by the throat, and rammed him like a billy goat, till he began to shout; and then he acted mighty quick, he gave the thug an awful kick, and then he tossed him out.

¶ The courage in him's not decayed, the bravest man who's yet been made, his like I never met; nor did he faint when it was done, nor shiver from the pointed gun, nor break into a sweat.

¶ If some one took a gun to me, I'd shiver like a stricken flea, I'd be no chunk of rock; I'd look for some place I could climb, I'd feel cold waves upon my spine, my knees would also knock.

¶ I'd try to argue with the crook, and cast on him a pleasant look, see if he was a gent; I'd tell him how my strength had fled, my home was in a humble shed, and I was old and bent.

¶ I would not struggle with the guy, nor try to punch him in the eye, nor bounce on him my boot; I'd hand to him my weekly pay, and then perhaps he'd go away—and not begin to shoot.

Our Statesmen At Their Labors

(Parliamentary Debates)

WIDE RANGE

Mr. MacINNIS: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker: I have not the slightest objection to the hon. member discussing this resolution, because I do not think it is anything to my discredit, but what has it to do with the motion now before the house? It has absolutely nothing to do with it.

Mr. DEPUTY SPEAKER: As to the point of order, there has been very wide latitude allowed during this debate, and I do not think I should rule the hon. gentleman out of order at this time.

ONE IS ENOUGH

Mr. LACOMBE: Mr. Speaker, speaking on the point of order, I wish to state that the hon. member did not mention any member of the house in particular, and that he has a perfect right to comment upon previous speeches. The hon. member who opened this debate made no personal reference to the hon. member for Bellechasse (Mr. Boulanger).—

Mr. BOULANGER: Mr. Speaker—

Mr. GAUTHIER: One speech on a point of order ought to be enough.

ANOTHER COMMISSION QUESTIONS

Investigation of Illegal Lobster Fishing

Mr. BROOKS:

1. Is a fishery commission investigating the alleged illegal fishing of lobsters in the provinces of New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island?

2. If so, what is the name or names of the members of the commission, [illegible] and what remuneration does each receive: (a) salary; (b) living allowance?

3. How many days has the commission sat to date?

Mr. MICHAUD:

1. Yes.

2. Commissioner—Hon. Justice A. T. LeBlanc, (a) Nil; (b) $25 a day. Counsel—Hon. H. F. G. Bridges (a) $30 a day; (b) $10 a day. Stenographer—Miss Jeanne Saidon, (a) $5 a day; (b) Actual expenses.

3. 39 days.

LOOK!

Mr. FINN: It is doing that.

Mr. MacINNIS: I should like to see it.

Mr. FINN: Well, look about you.

Mr. MacINNIS: It is because I have looked about me that I say I cannot see it.

Mr. FINN: Your vision is not very broad.

Mr. MacINNIS: It is as broad as the dominion.

Mr. FINN: I hope so. I cannot see that far myself.

Mr. MacINNIS: There is no reason why you should not; it is easy to travel.

Mr. O'NEILL: Will the hon. member permit a question?

Mr. MacINNIS: No; the hon. member will have forty minutes after I have finished.

HELPING A BROTHER

Mr. HEAPS: Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order. The hon. gentleman has done nothing but interrupt the hon. member for Vancouver East (Mr. MacInnis) since he began to speak, and the hon. member for Halifax has not once risen to his feet in order to express his interruptions properly. If the debates of this house are to continue along this line we will never get any business done at all. For the past half hour the hon. member has been in his seat and has done nothing but mumble and interrupt the hon. member who has the floor, and I say he ought to be reproved.

Mr. FINN: What are you doing?

Mr. HEAPS: I will ask you to see, Mr. Speaker, that the hon. member who has the floor gets an opportunity to speak, as is the right of every hon. member.

Mr. SPEAKER: When the hon. member for Halifax said a few words he did not speak very loudly. I thought the hon. member who is now speaking did not mind it very much, because he did not ask that the member who was interrupting be called to order.

IF WAR CAME

Mr. LAPOINTE (Quebec East): If war had been declared or had spread as a result of the application of oil sanctions, would the hon. member have been in favour of Canada participating in that war?

Mr. MacINNIS: Mr. Speaker—

Mr. MERCIER: Answer.

Mr. MacINNIS: Yes, give me time.

Mr. MERCIER: Don't make a detour.

Mr. MacINNIS: This government applied sanctions. If war had resulted from the application of sanctions, what position would this government be in? The purpose of sanctions was to stop aggression in Abyssinia. The more absolute the sanctions applied, the greater possibility of stopping aggression. Any action taken under the league is likely to lead to war.

Mr. LAPOINTE (Quebec East): But suppose the hon. member is wrong, and there had been a war, would he have been in favour of participating in that war?

Mr. MacINNIS: Most certainly, in any action which Canada as a member of the league would take to protect another member of the league.

Mr. LAPOINTE (Quebec East): You must have some armament for that, though.

Mr. MacINNIS: Yes, but we are not using it for that purpose.

OUR CONSTITUTION.

(London Times)

NOW that is definitely established how narrow are the limits restricting the authority of the Dominion Parliament, it is for the statesmen and people of Canada to determine what extensions are necessary. All parties are agreed that there must be some redistribution of powers between the Dominion and the Provinces, but difficulties arise as soon as any attempt is made to work out a new division or even to settle the method of amendment.

Looking For Hot Summer

(From the Barrie Observer.)

THE AMATEUR prognosts suggest that because of the unusually high temperatures that have been characteristic of this winter, we are likely to have a cool summer.

The records do not tend to support such a prediction. In the past, when there was an exceptionally mild winter, the succeeding summer usually was not. That was actually the case in seven summers following the nine mildest winters in the last 98 years, according to the statistics of the Canadian meteorological department. Though the majority of people have forgotten it, the mildest winter in Ontario on record, was 1931-32, when the mean temperature for December, January and February was 32.7, as compared with the normal for those months for the past 56 years, 23.8.

The general explanation ordered by weather experts as to why warm summers follow warm winters is that trends in weather persist. It is also the case, as in the present winter, that tremendous areas of the country are clear of snow and ice, so more heat from the sun's rays can be absorbed and given off by radiation. If a winter is unusually cold, with deep snow, the spring is usually late and it requires more heat from the sun to warm the earth.

Of course, it is possible to have exceptions. The law of averages has to be kept in mind, but it appears from past performances that we are likely to have a warm summer following this mild winter.

It is recalled that during the winter of 1879-80, men went about in shirt-sleeves in Ontario, sat about on benches in the parks, dug their gardens and mowed grass. Interesting incidents of the mild winter of five years ago are also related. It is said that butterflies were numerous throughout the season. Even as far north as the Soo, bees were out in the open and some even go so far as to say that mosquitoes were active. The average citizen, however, has forgotten the details, for unusual weather does not make a lasting impression on the memory except in the case of those who make a hobby of keeping tab on the weather from year to year.

No Socialists Need Apply.

(From the Ottawa Journal.)

MR NORMAN ROGERS, Minister of Labor, says he is "completely mystified" by a decision of the Quebec Department of Colonization. Mr. Rogers would be.

The Quebec Department of Colonization is engaging to place jobless people on the land. The cost—$1,000 per person—is being met by three governments, Dominion, Provincial, municipal. The plan is the result of an agreement between Ottawa and Quebec.

On Monday the Quebec Department of Colonization circulated a document containing "Rules in Virtue of the Rogers-Auger Plan" (the colonization plan. It said:

"The would-be colonist of 'advanced ideas' who has previously taken part in a Communist or Socialist organization cannot be accepted."

What Quebec does with its own money is Quebec's own business. What happens to federal money is the Dominion Government's business. That being so, The Journal suggests that the Dominion Government inform Quebec that if it wants to make political beliefs a test of whether or not jobless men are settled on the land it must carry out the scheme with its own money.

The Journal holds no brief for Socialism, much less for Communism. But The Journal would not consider itself a British country any longer, nor living in a free, democratic system, if the Government of Canada gave financial aid to this Quebec proposition.

The C.C.F. party is a Socialist party. It is nothing else. Are we to admit that a jobless man in Quebec, a member of the C.C.F. party, is less entitled to the benefits of a scheme financed by all the taxpayers of Canada than a jobless man belonging to the Liberal party, or the Conservative party? The thing is intolerable.

To many people, such things may seem unimportant. They are not unimportant. At the root of most of the world's sorrows today is this very spirit. The spirit of intolerance, of creeds warring upon creeds of attack upon free consciences and free minds. The Nazis who put Jews in concentration camps; the Russian Communists who "liquidate" Kulaks and shoot Trotskyites; the Italian Fascists who have stamped out liberty—all are the products of this spirit. It is the thing which, today, turns the world into an armed camp.

Such things, we tell ourselves, couldn't happen here. They could happen. More than that, they will happen if now, or at any time, we permit any thin edge of the wedge against liberty, against free speech, free conscience, free political ideas.

We boast here in Canada of our British traditions. Well, let us try to imagine the storm that would break in the British House of Commons if any Government or any bureaucrat tried to make political beliefs a qualification for benefits from public moneys. Over there, they know what freedom means.

Mark Twain, Sitdown Striker.

(From the New York Times.)

MARK TWAIN was one of the earliest sit-down strikers. The circumstance is recalled by a London commuter revolt described in a special despatch. The passengers on a train labeled for a certain terminus were ordered to change cars at a way-station. Exasperated by a long course of mistreatment, they refused to leave their coaches. The and the car officials was in his best manner; indeed, the whole episode may have contained more poetry than truth. The distinguished author was at pains to assure his hearers that he had all the leisure in the world. He had always been interested in the routine of car barns. He had often wondered what happens to a surface car when it goes off duty, etc.

That is why Mark Twain went on to sketch out something like H. G. Wells' idea of an Order of Samurai, who should go about town combating petty oppressions not contemplated in the Bill of Rights.

Seeking a Remedy.

(Says Present Act Promotes Dishonesty.)

EVERY public service body in Canada realizes that while conditions show considerable betterment there is still room for improvement in business generally and especially as regards the farming industry.

The situation agriculturally, continues very much below normal, although prices are better than was the case a year ago. Once the farmer is blessed with a greater measure of prosperity city interests will reflect the improvement.

The problem, it is agreed, is how to bring the farmer into the position where his products have a fair buying value, compared with the selling prices of the things he is compelled to purchase. With the farmer making ends meet and with a balance in his favor, small or great, other business immediately reflects the condition of prosperity, because the farmer spends always the greater part of his receipts in improvements to his property as well as for his personal comfort.

It is conceded everywhere that prices for farm produce have not kept pace with the rising prices in other lines, and the farmer has been prevented from keeping up his end of the buying market. Railways suffer loss of goods to transport; less railway men are required. Fewer mechanics to keep rolling stock in condition. The ramifications of the situation affect directly every conceivable employment, showing that upon the welfare of agriculture depends the welfare of all other industry. There is need then for co-operation to discover the remedy for farm depression, and when discovered it must be applied with courage and confidence if good is to result.

The remedy will be found. Business will be all that business men desire, and the farmer will occupy the position he once occupied when the purchasing value of his products compared favorably with that of other lines of industry. There is no need for discouragement, rather is there cause for confidence because Canada even at its worst was situated perhaps better than any other country in the world as affording scope for development because of the vastness of her natural resources. The united determination to co-operate in helping is one of the bright, encouraging signs of the times that will be rewarded with success.

To The Editor

AS OTHERS SEE US

Editor Examiner:

Sir: One who has lived here long enough to know the people of Peterborough can assure you they are appreciative of your editorial on "The City Trust Surplus," of the lucid reports of the late Council and Commission meetings and particularly, your incidental reference to the intensity of the city and its government.

One odd thing is that your lens and your taste met a need of exact knowledge by taxpayers about their own direct sense of responsibility as citizens. When it was proposed to grab $80,000 from the Trust Fund the aldermen were not, seemingly, posted and they are still discussing the fundamental safety valve of the City Trust Commission, with one of the aldermen in the oracular chair.

Should the city make a single failure to meet a maturing debenture issue, that debt cannot be met by putting bailiffs on the job as the city does in collecting back-taxes from home owners who are temporarily destitute. If the City Trust Commission is not ready to meet the bill, taxes must be levied to do it. There is no other recourse.

When public spirit is posted and positive the Council is not likely to ignore it. Not long ago the aldermen voted themselves salaries without ascertaining the people's opinion. That opinion was adverse, but not insistent or positive enough. So the old order of voluntary public service became obsolete. Nothing has been said of expenditures by commissions and boards, though that might not be out of place in viewing the outlook.

You called attention to one minor expense authorized by the City Council which illustrated an easy-going liberality in spending tax money. Are habitual precedents now being corrected? Many grants and gratuities that have been annually voted should be modified or eliminated. In this and the next fourteen years the people must pay off more than $4,000,000 debenture debt. Foresight, farsight and civic statesmanship are now necessary, as never before in the city's history.

Most respectfully yours

BYERSON RITCHIE

LIVESTOCK BY ROAD.

(St. Thomas Times-Journal)

ACCORDING TO an American farming journal more than 55 per cent. of the horses, cattle, sheep and pigs were transported by trucks from farms to seventeen of the leading markets in the United States last year, this being an increase of four per cent. over the previous year. The number steadily increases. Almost 20,000,000 head of stock were thus moved. Some of the markets received as many as 2,000 truckloads in one day.

This is good for the farmers but bad for the railways. Without the truck, a very great number of farmers would be unable to reach the markets at all. Probably most of these journeys were short hauls. But there is an increasing number of long hauls, and trailers are becoming more and more a danger on the highways. Perhaps the railway companies would be able to regain, or develop this traffic if they could run short livestock trains along farm routes on market days, stopping to pick up stock wherever convenient.

DENTAL SERVICE IS UNDER REVIEW

One Dentist In Schools Enough

A question by Dr. C. M. Scott as to whether or not one dentist is sufficient to look after the dental needs of Peterborough's public school children raised a brief discussion as a meeting of the Board of Education on Tuesday evening.

It was revealed that the cost of dental services to the Board at the present time is averaging around $2,000 per year. The whole of the cost is being borne by the Board, the government having discontinued the grant formerly allowed in this connection.

An explanation was given to Dr. Scott that under the existing system complete examinations at three of the public schools are completed each year by the school dentist.

Dental examination at all the public schools in any one year is not possible because there is too much work for one dentist. Extension of the service is bound up with the question of finances.

While cognizant of the fact that children in need of dental service and whose parents are in the position to pay, are referred to the family dentist, while other children whose families are less fortunately situated are cared for by the Board, W. A. Richardson expressed the opinion Father and mothers should assume some of the responsibility for this work and not leave it all to the school dentist."

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, March 3. — Strong recuperative power in the late trading on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange sent wheat prices ¾ to ⅞ cent higher following a dull session in which fluctuations ranged between a cent and a cent and a half.

Trading opened firm at ¼c lower in all futures, with operations mixed, and remained close to the low points until the final hour, when renewed buying of Southern Hemisphere wheats by European countries took effect. Export sales totalled 300,000 bushels.

United States markets displayed a similar trend to Winnipeg in the early stages, but led in the late upswing with gains of more than 1 cent.

Liverpool opened slightly higher due to upswing at Buenos Aires and Winnipeg on Monday, as well as confirmation of sales of Southern Hemisphere wheat to Germany and Italy. Later, prices reacted to close ½d to ⅝d lower. Later, prices reacted to close ½d to ⅝d lower. Buenos Aires was unchanged at the opening, but eased ⅛d lower at noon.

The cash grain trade was negligible, with spreads remaining generally unchanged. Good trade was reported in coarse grains, featured by support in Rye.

"Five and Ten" Girls Stage Sit-Down Strike

The sit-down strike epidemic sweeping United States spread to the Woolworth five-and-ten-cent stores in Detroit, and here are some of the girl employees "in action". These girls give a thought to their stomachs as they await the outcome of the strike. They are demanding better wages and working hours. The girl seated at the LEFT shares her own lunch with her sister workers while the girl at the RIGHT helps herself to some of the store's goodies. The management gave the girls permission to eat all the food in the place if necessary.

PRAIRIE CURLERS ARE ALL AT TOP END OF 5TH GAME

Northern Ontario Rink However Keeps Pace With The Leaders

P.E.I. BEATS QUEBEC

TORONTO, March 3. (C.P.) — Prairie curlers scored another sweeping victory to-day in the fifth round of the Macdonald's Brier round-robin bonspiel for the Canadian champion, as Northern Ontario kept pace with the ranking rinks from Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta.

Beaten for the first time last night, Jimmy Welsh's favored Manitobans surged back to head the way through another round by defeating British Columbia 13-6. Saskatchewan kept even by winning 10-8 from Ontario. Alberta handed New Brunswick its fifth consecutive beating 12-9.

But these Prairie contenders found Emmett Smith's Haileybury rink not by any means a pre-bonspiel favorite, looked with them at the top of the standing with four victories and one defeat. The Northern Ontario four turned back Nova Scotia in the fifth round 10-5.

In Fifth Place.

Alone in fifth place was British Columbia with three wins and two losses. Ontario and Nova Scotia had two wins against three defeats. Prince Edward Island scored its first victory of the bonspiel this morning—a 10-8 conquest of Quebec—to share second-last place with Quebec. New Brunswick was the only quartette without a victory.

Haileybury's challengers kept the house clear of rocks on virtually every end, never permitting Skip Hugh Ferguson of Truro to place a guard. After scoring singles on the first, second and fourth ends, the Nova Scotians lost some of the fine weight they showed earlier in drawing shots.

The Saskatchewan - Ontario struggle held the gallery until Frank Smith's final rock assured a Western win. Skip A. E. Dunker of Kitchener had laid his last stone in an otherwise empty house. The Moose Jaw skipper nudged this out and tallied one.

BOARD OPPOSES PROPOSED CHANGE IN ELECTION LAW

Committee Is Named To Oppose Clause In Gordon Bill

NO CONTINUITY

Dr. G. R. Scott, chairman, Mrs. W. R. Morris and John R. Marshall were named as a special committee by the Board of Education on Tuesday night, to confer with the city council respecting the application that is to be made at the present sittings of the Legislative Assembly by the Honorable G. N. Gordon, K.C.

Appointment of the special committee followed on the proposal that the Board should be represented by reason of the fact that under clause 4 of his application Alderman Gordon is asking, "For the annual election by the general vote of the qualified electors of the City of Peterborough, the Council, Board of Education, Commissioners of the Peterborough Utilities Commission and Commissioners of the City Trust."

Harold G. Walker expressed the fear that the measure which Alderman Gordon proposes relative to a general vote, might result in a wholly new Board of Education each year. Such a condition he felt would give no assurance of any continuity to the work of the Board.

In making the motion by which the committee was appointed, D. O. H. Melton proposed that the city clerk be notified the committee will be prepared to support the delegation from the city council which he understood was to oppose the various measures before the private bills committee of the Legislature.

BRITISH PEOPLE HOODWINKED

into war? We are only asking for the same right as South Africa demanded, and received, to ask people of our own country whether or not we shall go to war.

"And the second thing we want is a voice in our own foreign policy. When Mr. Woodsworth asked Mr. Mackenzie King whether we, as Canadians, are committed he quibbled. You and I and others have a vague feeling that we are committed in some fashion, that they are jockeying and playing the game of politics down there. And Mr. King did not say a word until some of the Quebec Liberals began to fall in line behind the C.C.F. Far down in Quebec they do not believe in taking part in European wars. In the last one they fought against conscription. They had a lot more sense than we had. And then Mr. King got up and said: 'We are not committed.' And none of the Conservatives opened their mouths. For it is just as I have often told you, there is not a bit of difference between either of the old parties.

Speaking of the manner in which new millionaires had been made in the last war, while the workers of Canada sent their sons, Dr. Cotton said: "There is food for thought. The working classes, you know, are the poor devils in the poem: 'Theirs not to reason, theirs but to do or die.' But that poem is no longer true, because the workers are beginning to reason, why, and they are not going to die in a next war if they can have something to say about it."

Party Plums

Declaring that, although she believes J. A. Dufton to be a fine and upstanding man, she feels that he can do nothing in the House because he cannot go contrary to the will of his party and the party whips, Dr. Cotton asked:

"And who holds the party machine in control? The people who pay the party funds. I prophesied that Mr. O'Connor would be made a Senator and that's what happened. It cost him $500,000 to do it, but it was worth it.

Reverting again to the Defence Estimates, and the manner in which the members of the interim before the vote, whiled the time away in appropriate fashion by singing the marching song of the last war, "It's a Long Way to Tipperary," Dr. Cotton asked: "When they could vote $17,000,000 for Defence Estimates, why is it that they couldn't vote that much to put our men back to work? They said that it was necessary to increase the defence estimates of Canada in order to suppress the subversive elements in the community—which really means you and me and the people on relief and those with red blood in their veins.

"And secondly, they said the vote was necessary to supply an adequate means of defence for Canada. And yet, if we put every single one of Canada's ten million people into uniform, we would only have about one million men. And I ask you, what good would seventeen millions do?"

Dr. Cotton spoke with derision of a recent editorial in the Toronto Star which attacked this "idealistic" attitude on the part of the C.C.F. She referred also to the threat of world conflict which hung over the Empire in the Ruhr incident, and to the manner in which the Duke of Windsor, then King of England, had averted it by going before the English cabinet and threatening to speak on the radio and ask the British people to stand behind him for peace.

Woman As Excuse.

"That is why the King of mess the Duke of Windsor for we have Mr. Baldwin's King says is going to be allowed to starve to death unless he promises not to write his memoirs. It is unfortunate that he allowed himself to be maneuvered into a position where they could tie a woman around his neck. I do not agree with that. But Mrs. Simpson was not the only reason why they got him off the throne.

"But the opinion of Baldwin and Chamberlain does not express the opinion of the great mass of the British people. It is being said now that the Baldwin government would not mind if the Franco government wins in Spain, because in the Houts of Lords and in the Commons there are many with large stakes in the mines of Spain, and they don't want their mines to be under public property and operated for the Spanish people. When a wealthy man has to choose between democracy and his wealth, he will always love his wealth best."

"You know, Mussolini and Hitler are telling their people to-day that we are aiming to attack them, just as our governments are scaring us with the same tales about them. And, on the strength of selling us two machine guns, the munition makers will sell Germany three, and they will sell Italy four because they sold Germany three. Each nation, building up what it terms an adequate defence, finds later that it is not adequate, because the munition makers have told the other nations they should do better. And so we are in this mad race. This year it is seventeen millions. I wager that it will be twenty millions next year and thirty-seven millions the year after.

"Denton Massey, that lovely blatant demagogue worried over the fact that the Vimy Memorial, to which the government voted $8,000, would be spoiled by tourists' refuse and banana peels. Agnes Macphail told him that it would probably be spattered by the remnants of our sons in the next war.

"And the reason that this sort of servilities opened their mouths. For it is just as I have often told you, there is not a bit of difference between either of the old parties.

"You know, Mussolini and Hitler are telling their people to-day that we are aiming to attack them, just as our governments are scaring us with the same tales about them. Teach the World.

"We could, if we wished, show the world the example of a rich nation, of ten million people, in which each person was a brick in a wall of peace. If you call yourself Christian, you must be Christian in your outlook and remember that the Man of Galilee was a man of peace. You cannot be hypocritical. It is not an accident that the church is in disrepute in Spain and Russia. It was not a revolt against religion, but a revolt against an institutionalized religion that has wandered far from the ethics and principles of real religion. The world to-day is at the crossroads. And there is not a single philosophy in the whole world that is worth killing a man for. People say to me: 'Would you kill in the cause of Socialism?' That is absurd. The first thing I would do if I started to kill in that cause would be to kill Socialism. The first casualty in the Spanish civil war was democracy. In our new world, our greatest loyalty is not to a single nation, but to humanity. Not even if that nation be England. Sir Anthony Eden has been flirting with trouble ever since he became Foreign Minister. England betrayed Manchuria and Ethiopia and has jugged the odd card up her sleeve in the game of international politics."

At the close of Dr. Cotton's address a discussion period took place.

Prior to that, A. Birkhoff gave his report on the Coal-Buying project which has, according to his figures, saved its patrons nearly $4,000 in the past season.

Approximately 312 tons of coal were purchased and used by the C.C.F. members who benefited by the scheme. At a price of $13.20 a ton, the total receipts were $4,-118.24. The delivery costs were $156, bagging and weighing cost $116; drafts for coal amounted to $3,-315.31; freight charges were $1,-473.51; special expenses totalled $41.26, and stamps and stationery, $10.34, making a total of $4,117.32. And the balance on hand is 92 cents.

Mr. Birkhoff figured that at the regular price of $15.50 a ton, the members saved the sum of $711.76 by buying at $13.20 a ton. In addition to this, the coal was delivered by members at a cost of 50 cents a ton, or a total of $156, while the bagging and weighing, also done by members at the rate of 40 cents an hour, amounted to $116. So that they benefited to the extent of $980.76, or nearly $1,000.00, by the coal-buying project.

Mr. Birkhoff mentioned that many of the members, while desirous of taking advantage of this project, were unable to do so through lack of money. To offset this, a saving club has been started.

He also advanced the idea of a Co-operative Bakery to be established among the members. This will not be a buying project, as in the case of coal, but a purely co-operative enterprise, with a price of $5 a share.

R. S. Johnson, in the chair, rose to thank Mr. Birkhoff. He remarked that the brevity of the latter's report could give no adequate idea of the amount of work involved in the labors of the chairman and his assistants, and moved a very hearty vote of appreciation of Mr. Birkhoff's endeavors and those of his committee members.

HAMILTON TORIES NAME ALDERMAN

John Marsh, Amateur Astronomer, Musician, Will Carry Banner March 22

HAMILTON, Ont., March 3 — (CP)—A brief but spirited campaign to fill the vacant Hamilton West seats in the House of Commons was in prospect to-day. Voting is March 22.

Kennedy Conner, Liberal candidate will be opposed by Alderman John Marsh, son of late Rev. Dr. Marsh, former minister of Springville. Conservative standard bearer was selected at a convention here last night.

Both prominent in local politics, Mr. Conner is a well-known Hamilton business man nominated at a recent Liberal convention while Mr. Marsh is chiefly noted for his work as an amateur astronomer and musician.

The by-election was necessitated by the death of Herbert F. Wilton, Conservative member of the Commons. In addressing the convention, Hon. Earl Lawson of Toronto, paid tribute to the late parliamentarian.

REALLY QUEEN ANNE'S.

LONDON—(CP)— Rare royal treasures, including Queen Anne's great four-poster bed, in carved wood, with original hangings and quilt, will be on view at a West-minster Hospital bazaar in April.

DE LAVAL PAYROLL $35,804.96 HIGHER THAN AGREEMENT

Certified Statement Submitted To City Council—Employment Up 141 Per Cent.

WEEKLY PAYROLL $4,240

The De Laval Comnpany's payroll for 1936 totalled $130,196.92 as compared with $106,304.24 required by the agreement upon which the company received its present fixed assessment. And the increase in the number of employees during the same period has been 141 per cent.

This information was presented to the city council through the manufacturers committee in a certified statement signed by G. H. Cutmore, and was obtained by the committee as a result of criticism by Alderman G. N. Gordon that the company had not fulfilled its agreement with the ratepayers.

Weekly Payroll $4240

Mr. Cutmore affirmed that the company's payroll for the week of February 11 last was $4,340.32 as compared with the amount of $2,-033.95 required of the company under its new assessment terms.

The payroll on November 3, 1932 was $1,309.30, and the company agreed to increase that amount by 50 per cent, which would make the prescribed weekly requirement $2,-038.

The total amount distributed by the company in its payroll in 1935 was $100,724.39, and the amount required under the agreement was $102,363.39.

Number of Employees

As further information regarding the increase of employment, the number of employees on November 5, 1932 was 75. A fifty per cent increase would raise that number to 112.

On January 7 this year the number of employees was 172 and on February 11 it had increased to 181. This means that there has been an increase of 141 per cent in the number of De Laval employees beyond the 75 which would have been regarded as the requirement of the agreement.

WITNESSES DENY CURTIS AT WHEEL

Judgment Is Reserved In Charge Against Havelock Man

After hearing the evidence in a drunk-driving charge against Bruce Curtis of Havelock arising out of a collision between a motor car and horse-drawn sleigh on George street on the night of February 10 last, Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., on Tuesday reserved judgment until Monday morning next.

The accused who entered a plea of not guilty was represented by the Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C. He did not testify in his own defence. Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., conducted the prosecution.

Oscar Cromie, North Monaghan, related in evidence he was driving south on the west side of George street and when in the neighborhood of the C.P.C. plant his sleigh was struck from the rear by a motor car. "The first thing I knew I was piled all in a heap," he said. The sleigh was smashed and the horse was knocked down and witness sustained a leg injury.

Witness testified, "I saw Curtis sitting at the wheel of the car. He backed up and I told him he'd better help get the horse up because my leg was hurt.

Although he gave evidence that he had seen Curtis at the wheel of the car, Cromie declared under cross-examination he could not recall how Curtis was dressed, nor could he give a description of the two other people in the car.

Road Was Icy

Charles Harris, George street an eye-witness of the accident, believed the car had run into the rear of the cutter because of the icy condition of the road. He estimated the speed of the car as 10 miles-an-hour. He declared that Curtis was driving the car.

"I saw the cops arrest Curtis and as they put him in the cop car Curtis said to a little guy, 'You were driving my car don't forget.' It is insured so what the h—— do I care."

"Was the sheet man driving the car?" Mr. McElderry asked.

"No, sir. Curtis was driving," witness replied.

Constables John Stevenson, John Deanband and John Naples who saw the accused at the scene of the accident or after he was brought in to the station were all of the opinion that Curtis was under the influence of liquor. Curtis told Stevenson he was driving the car, that officer swore.

Dr. C. M. Scott who attended Cromie at the hospital and later drove him to the police station related in evidence that he saw Curtis in the cells. "His appearance suggested he was intoxicated. He was shouting loudly and was waving his hands." The medical man did not make an examination of the accused but merely saw him from the passageway leading to the small cell.

Mrs. Mary Davidson and Walter Davis both of Havelock who were occupants of the Curtis car, both swore that Curtis was not driving at the time of the accident. Davis testified, "I was driving the car at the time of the accident because Curtis was not in a fit condition to drive."

Fish As Food How to Cook Various Kinds

Mary Moore Gives Method Of Serving Each One Of Various Kinds

FILLETS OF SOLE

NEVER having had the officious title of "Reporter" (and never wanting it much—I had to delve deep in remembering my training for "interviewing" when talking to a man who buys fish for and sells fish to the retail trade.

For we women who are at the consuming end of the industry (thank goodness—for while I love catching a trout or a bass I dearly love to eat them or any other fish) the news in the spring is "White Fleshed Fish are at their peak now."

My "interview-ee" says: The list includes sole, halibut, haddock (fresh fillets or smoked), cod, lake trout (which has a pinkish cast), white fish, and scallops.

The best idea I have is to give you an ultra fine method of serving each one of these—which may encourage you to forsake your age old method of steaming cod—and frying haddock fillets and letting that be the full extent of your fish cookery.

As I talked to this chap I could see he was glancing at a pile of soft fillets that he was working on—it was easily 18 inches high, and so fresh and good looking I was hungry for one—it was just after breakfast too.

Fillets of Sole (A la Ives)

This method will serve for bass or haddock or flounder fillets too.

About 3 fillets (if rather large these will serve 6 people). 2 onions or 6 mushrooms chopped finely, parsley, butter, 2 egg yolks, salt, pepper. Lay the fillets in a well-buttered glass or enamel baking pan, and sprinkle with salt and pepper; sprinkle over the finely chopped onion or mushrooms, and sprinkle with sifted cracker crumbs and minced parsley and put a small piece of butter on each fillet.

Bake in oven of 425 deg. Fahr. (very hot) for about 15 minutes. When done carefully lift fish to hot platter. To the remaining crumbs and butter in the baking dish add ¼ cup water and the beaten yolks of eggs and stir until thickened. Pour over fish and serve sprinkled with paprika.

Do not overcook the baked fillets.

Halibut, a la Martin

If you serve a good fish sauce it is not necessary to serve a whole cross section slice of halibut to each diner. Cut each slice into 2 pieces. Season each with salt (after having removed skin and bone) and brush with lemon juice and lay on plate covered with cheese-cloth and steam until opaque and tender—about 25 minutes. Remove to hot serving dish, garnish with small shrimps or parsley and pour around

Normandy Sauce

Good for almost any fish served in any way—I am thinking particularly of steamed scallops and white fish and lake trout.

Cook skin and bones of fish with 2 slices of carrot, 1 slice lemon, sprig of parsley, bit of bay leaf, ½ teaspoon peppercorns, 2 cups cold water, for 30 minutes gently—then strain. There should be 1 cup of liquid. Melt 2 tablespoons butter, add 2 tablespoons flour, fish stock, 1-3 cup heavy cream. Bring to boiling point and add yolks 2 eggs. Season with salt, pepper, cayenne, and 1 tablespoon lemon juice. Serve very hot.

Boiled Cod With Egg Sauce a la Windsor

Even if I have told you in years gone by that a little sidy on relief said to me: "Fish is just too expensive so you needn't say any more about it as far as we are concerned. So even if we could not live without it we would have to starve, for just plain eats too much." You know she really was wrong about cod: on phoning one dealer today I find it is 15 cents per pound.

Wrap a 5-lb. piece of cod (from the centre cut if you are in good repute with your dealer) in a clean cloth—so that at least two thicknesses cover the fish. Drop in a large amount of boiling water and boil until tender—allowing about 40 minutes for a 2-lb. piece. When done remove from water and drain but keep hot and wrapped in cloth. Make sauce as follows:

Egg Sauce a la Windsor

One-third cup butter, 3 tablespoons flour, 1½ cups hot fish stock (water in which fish was boiled), ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 1 teaspoon lemon juice. Melt one-half the butter, add the flour and seasonings, and pour on gradually the hot fish stock. Boil for 2 minutes, stirring, and add remaining butter in small pieces. Add the yolks of two hard cooked eggs which have been forced through sieve. Heat well over fire. Serve hot. Garnish fish platter with left-over hard-cooked egg white which have been chopped finely or sliced in strips.

Finnan Haddie a la Emem

Another inexpensive fish supper for the lady who thought fish was too dear.

Cut fillets of smoked haddie into pieces for serving—removing as many of the bones as possible without breaking the fish. Arrange on buttered baking dish and cover with sauce made as follows:

Emem's Finnan Haddie Sauce

Melt 3 tablespoons butter, stir in 1½ tablespoons flour and when blended add 1½ cups hot water and stir until thick. Then add the juice and finely grated rind of 1 lemon, ½ teaspoon salt and shake of pepper and pour over fish in dish. Bake at 425 deg. Fahr. for about 15 minutes. Serve garnished over top with finely chopped parsley.

Broiled Lake Trout

Wipe the lake trout clean with a clean damp cloth and arrange on rack on broiling tray. Brush top of fish with melted butter and sprinkle lightly with salt and paprika. Have broiler very hot and slide fish under it and broil at as high a temperature without burning as possible. The skin side should be down. If broiler is hot enough fish will not need to be turned. Serve on very hot platter with wedges of lemon. This is superb with broccoli and Hollandaise and Riced Potatoes.

Baked Stuffed Whole White Fish

Prepare a 2½-lb. whole fish by cutting off head, tail and fins, then splitting it down the back and removing back bone intact. Fill with stuffing made of 2 cups of stale bread crumbs, 1 teaspoon mixed thyme, marjoram summer savory, ½ cup cooked or tinned onions, ¼ cup butter in which they were fried, salt and pepper. When dressing is laid on one side of opened fish fold over other side, dot top with butter, sprinkle with salt and paprika and bake at 425 deg. Fahr. uncovered for about 1½ minutes. Serve with lemon.

Skewered Scallops

To eliminate cooking aromas in general, and the aroma of cooking fish in particular, we have taken to baking or broiling it almost entirely. While the doctor likes scallops fried in deep fat better than any other fish, we have taken to broiling them up on a wooden skewer, after they have been dipped in egg, crumbs and egg, and baking them until golden at high temperature. Serve about 3 scallops to a skewer dip in the crumbs and eggs after they are skewered, and bake on buttered baking dish. With these I think Tartar Sauce or lemon juice are best.

If there are other fish that are your favorites and you would like new ways of serving them, you have only to ask us by letter.

Coronation Coiffures

Special designs of hairdressing suitable for use at the coronation ceremonies of King George VI and Queen Elizabeth, were submitted to the trade by a London hairdressing school. It is expected that these designs will be used by the general public. This photo shows the "coronation coiffure" dressed in such a manner that it does not hamper the wearer of the coronet. Tiny curls surround the base of the headwear.

Tested Favorite Recipes

By MARY MOORE.

WHILE the following cake calls for sour cream it will not be as popular as many others, for if your household is like ours (especially in the cold weather) there is no such thing as leftover cream to become sour.

But this cake is so good that it is worth while filching a cup of cream from the quart when it comes and allowing it to stand outside the ice box for a day to sour.

SOUR CREAM CAKE

(With Fudge Frosting)

Two eggs, ½ cup sugar, 1 cup thick sour cream, ½ teaspoon each vanilla and lemon flavoring, ¼ teaspoon salt, 2 cups flour sifted with 1¼ teaspoon baking powder and 1/2 teaspoon soda. Beat the eggs well in the bowl in which the cake is to be mixed, add the sugar, cream and flavoring to them and beat very well. Add the four sifted dry ingredients and sift into egg mixture, mixing only long enough to make the batter smooth. Pour into buttered shallow pan and bake at 375 deg. Fahr.

Fudge Frosting

For Sour Cream Cake. — Slowly heat together 1 cup sugar, 1 oz. square of cooking chocolate and ½ cup sweet cream, until when tested in cold water they will form a very soft ball. Beat until lukewarm and beginning to show ridges when beaten, and spread on cake immediately. Mark in squares for cutting while still hot.

WILL HONEYMOON ON QUEEN MARY

Diamond Ring Maker Presents Thousand Honeymoon To Couple.

"What is so rare as a day in June?"—June in England! Who wouldn't be thrilled at the thought—especially when the means of getting there is on the sumptuous Cunard White-Star liner, the Queen Mary. And some lucky Canadian couple will honeymoon on this luxurious sea-palace as guests of Bluebird Diamond Rings, according to word just received from Wagner's, local jeweller.

This marvellous trip, covering a three-week period, is the grand prize in the Bluebird Diamond Contest being conducted locally and in honour of Coronation year. The lucky winners may take the trip any time after June 10th of this year, for a period of three weeks; five days on the Queen Mary, a week or more in England and Scotland, and the rest of the time on another big Cunard White-Star liner coming home.

There are other splendid prizes, too. A Bluebird Diamond Platinum Watch, for instance; a 122-piece set of "Coronation" in Community Plate, a superb 4-piece Wm. A. Rogers Tea-set, and several cash prizes.

It is believed that there will be more marriages this year than for the past six years, so that this contest will appeal to a great many couples.

Enquiry Column

Conducted by
Mrs. MARY MOORE

(Conducted by Mrs. MARY MOORE)

Question: I am sending you a recipe for fruit cake that tastes quite nice. You will notice that the recipe calls for a heaping cup of sugar. Just what quantity of sugar is a heaping cup?

Also let me know what quantity of milk you put in your cherry cake. The recipe was given about December 22 if I remember rightly. Thanking you, Mrs. A. B. B.

FRUIT CAKE

(Contributed by Mrs. A. B. B.)

Clip one pound Valencia raisins into small pieces with the scissors and add 1 cup chopped walnuts. Mix 1 cup boiling water with 1 level teaspoon of soda and 1 dessert spoon of molasses and pour over the fruit. Let stand while blending the following ingredients: 1 cup butter, 1 heaping cup sugar, ½ teaspoon each of salt, nutmeg and mace, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 3 well-beaten eggs, 2 cups flour sifted with 2 teaspoond baking powder and 2 teaspoons cocoa. Add the fruit mixture and beat well. Bake in loaf pans slowly nearly 2 hours. Ice with white icing.

Answer: Reading it over it promises to be a well-flavored and moist fruit cake. I think 1 measuring cup levelled off would be plenty of sugar, considering that there is also molasses, and nothing included that would make the cake sour or tart.

The amount of milk to be used in the cherry cake is less than half cup—just enough to make batter possible to stir—the stiffer the batter the less apt the cherries are to sink to the bottom.

Hulled Corn Information

Question—I saw your request for Hulled Corn in a recent issue and this is how my grandmother used to prepare it. But I must tell you that the old fashioned Indian corn—yellow corn—is the kind that gives the best results. The Golden Bantam does not hull very satisfactorily.

Hulled Corn.

This is a rather long process. For about 1 quart of corn you need two heaping tablespoons soda, cover with cold water. Bring to a boil and boil until the hulls will slip off when rubbed through the hands. Drain.

Cover with cold water. Rub hulls off between hands. They will float and should be poured off and more water added. Keep rinsing until all hulls are removed.

To prepare for eating, boil in salted water until tender. We eat it with cream and sugar.

I hope this is clear to you. Many years ago my grandmother used to hull corn with ashes but soda is so much easier. Hoping the lady in question will have good results with her hulling. Mrs. G.E.S.

Question—Corn shelling method used by my mother in the States:

One pail of wood ashes, 1¼ pails warm water. Cover the wood ashes with hot (with the water), stand overnight in warm place—a day or two days will test, hurt. Strain through a fine sieve or cloth. Immerse corn (in water) and heat to boiling point. Let cool in lye water, then drain and set under swiftly running water until the lye and hulls are gone. That may take a couple of days. Then finish cooking corn in salted water, until tender. Drain and put in bread pans or tins and store for further use. We used to make a 20 gallon crock to do all winter at home and fry it in good) home made sausage dripping, and it was delicious. Mrs. A. B. C.

Question—I am sending you recipes for hulled corn. We never get it here but in Massachusetts the farmers used it always.

Some time ago you had some gelatine recipes in and in a small paragraph mention was made of the fact that gelatine could be obtained in bulk at 50 cents a pound.

I used to get a cheap package gelatine at 7 cents making 2 quarts but it was dark colored and tasted something like glue. Now I pay 15 cents for another brand but we use so much I would be delighted to get it in bulk. I keep your page always and always find something new.—E.A.M.

Hulled Corn.—(Submitted by E.A.M.)

Fill a large pot half full of wood ashes. Then nearly fill with water and boil 10 minutes. After draining off the lye, throw out the ashes and put the lye back into the kettle. Pour in 4 quarts of shelled corn and boil till the hull will rub off. Then put it in a tub and pour on a pail of cold water. Take an old broom and scrub the corn. As the water thickens pour off and add clean cold water. Put through 6 waters, and then take it out in a pan and rub between the hands. Pick out all hulls and put on to cook in cold water. When half boiled pour off and renew with cold water. Do not salt until it is tender and do not let it burn. Put in jars and eat with milk. (From Dubuque, Iowa).

To Hull Corn.

One large mixing spoon of soda to 1 quart of corn. Add water enough to cover it. Let it soak overnight and boil in the same water until the hulls will run off.

P.S.—(The above were) taken from a very old cook book with no covers and paper brittle with age. Soda is used for bicarbonate in all the bread and cake recipes in the book.

I think a new broom would be more wholesome to use. That book may have been edited before the discovery of germs.—E.A.M.

Answer—Thank you ladies for coming to my rescue with hulled corn facts. I know our lady who wanted these will want me to thank you for her too. I hope she calls a satisfactory efficient method for herself from these methods which give her two or three alternatives.

E.A.M.—I have sent you gelatine information under private letter.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE AND HOW IT BEGAN

Boy Laughed When Her Hoop Skirt Slipped Says Carrie Chapman Catt

MONTEREY, Calif., March 3.—(A.P.)—A hoop skirt that wouldn't stay on started Carrie Chapman Catt on her famous crusade for woman suffrage in the United States.

The incident of 70 years ago was recalled today by Mrs. Catt, now campaigning for world peace.

"My earliest recollection of any influence that stirred the idea in my mind—that women did not have quite a fair chance in the world—occurred when I was six years old," Mrs. Catt said. "I was going to school—it was just at the close of the Civil War—and all the little girls were hoopskirts."

One day there was a sudden clatter in the schoolroom. The hoop skirt of one girl had fallen to the floor.

Then a red haired lad a bit larger than the others, chuckled audibly behind his book," Mrs. Catt related. "Every little girl blushed and we felt very much ashamed. We all had a feeling that our sex had been insulted."

Mrs. Catt said that during the noon recess the little girl and the red haired boy were thrust together and he laughed again.

"Well, I forgot all about differences in sex—I just reached up and slapped his face," the noted campaigner said, "and that little episode, I believe today, aroused in me a sense of sex defence, a resentment against injustice of sex discrimination."

Just Between Us Women

A Daily Chat With Examiner Neighbors Conducted by Roberta

UNDER the wide and starry sky,
Dig the grave and let me lie.
Glad I live and glad I die,
And I lay me down with a will.

This be the verse you grave for me:
Here he lies where he longed to be;
Home is the sailor, home from the sea,
And the hunter home from the hill.
—Stevenson (Requiem)

Dear Friends:

When you go home from here, what will you have left behind you, as far as memory is concerned? Will they say of you that all you thought of was making money, but that you never got any real pleasure out of it.

Will they say that you were a very careful house-keeper, never wasting anything, and let it go at that? Will you be remembered and missed or will they shed a few cheerful tears for form's sake, and think they are well rid of you.

Will the home be more peaceful after you are gone and a feeling of relief prevail, that no more will you be able to stir up trouble, or will there be an ache in the heart, a quiet welling up of tears to the eye, when they look at your empty chair, and realize that no more on earth will they see you, and yet be glad that you were born, that even although you are no longer there, they are glad they knew you even for a little while.

Well, it all rests on yourself and on how you act. You cannot come back from the grave and do the kindnesses you should have done while you were still here. You cannot come back and undo the hurtful things, nor the neglected ones. As far as this life is concerned, you are finished, washed out.

But the things you did while you were here will live after you either for good or ill. Many's the one who thinks himself or herself a failure, because they were so busy doing the things that had to be done, that they had no time to do the things they wanted to do, will find that they were most successful.

Many's the one who thought how well he or she had done by themselves, will find they were the ranked failures so far as living is concerned. And there are a great many who will find a rich reward because of the things they gave up, so that others might be happy.

Some will go from here, and unless for the necessary things that must be done to lay them away, will never cause a ripple on the stream of life, because they never bestirred themselves to do anything worthwhile. They dawdled through the days empty to themselves and to all who came in contact with them.

It? Why not, do that kindness you have been putting off so long, or write a letter, or straighten out the wrong you have done someone? Why not live each day as if it were your last, determined to make as many people happy as you can?

Because you never know whether it will be your last or not, and you wouldn't want anyone to be glad you are gone, now would you? You would like to think that no one but many would be sad to think they had lost you as a friend, that the world was some better for you being in it.

And now one of the best of you do nothing about it, if you think only of your own comfort, your own pleasure, and never a thought for any one else. If your face can say "oh, his place will easily be filled. Or if you wife can say, "now I know where he is, and can rest easy." Or if your friends shake their heads and say, "he was his own worst enemy." Not very nice is it?

So, live while you live. There must be something you can do to help those around you. Even if it is only carrying in some wood, or doing the dishes, or helping someone in the office, you will be glad you did, and no one will be sorry when you go. More later.

Your Friend,
ROBERTA.

RAIMENT COSTLY FOR CORONATION

Be They Crimson Or Purple, Robes For Wear In Abbey High-Priced

LONDON, March 3.—(CP)—Dresses, gowns and robes for the coronation service in Westminster Abbey are as expensive as they are magnificent. A duchess may spend $2,000 for the one outfit and if rain should be worn for coronation ceremonies.

A peeress of the baronial degree will have to pay more than $800 over the cost months as the owner mates the social ladder. Nor do these figures include such extras as jewels and as these include tiaras, necklaces, collet brooches and pins they represent a tidy sum.

Robes for the peeress must be of crimson velvet or of purple velvet if the wearers are of the Blood Royal. The Court gowns worn under must be white, cream, gold or silver. However, for those less favored and limited there are such makeshifts as something woven in velvet which is considerably cheaper, and rabbit not infrequently passes for ermine.

The robe consists of three separate parts, the velvet circle or gown, opening in front to show a Court dress beneath, the train also of velvet falling from the shoulders, and over that a short ermine cap. A duchess does not pay more thereby because for a duchess the peeress' robe has a longer train and a wider ermine trimming.

BENNETT CHARGES NOTHING BEEN DONE ON UNEMPLOYMENT

unscrupulous employers and were used to furnish "cheap labor."

Raps Commission

Mr. Bennett was critical of many phases of the budget. Unemployment, he declared, was greater than when the Government took office, and what had been done was to build up a statistical bureau in the National Employment Commission to supplement the existing Dominion bureau of statistics which served the same purpose. He questioned if the commission had performed any useful purpose.

Mr. Bennett declared the new Canada - United Kingdom trade agreement was identical in principle with that of 1932 of which the present government had been so critical. The same arguments used against the 1932 agreement could be aimed with equal justice at the new pact, he held.

Lowered duties on woollen goods threatened existence of Canadian industries, Mr. Bennett declared. The Canadian industry now had slightly less than 60 per cent. of the market and could not continue operations if this volume dropped to 50 per cent.

Canada's wool industry had been twice ruined by action of parliament and he urged the government to guard against a recurrence.

Of the taxation and financial side of the budget the Opposition critic declared the deficit would be within $5,000,000 of the $100,000,000 estimated a year ago but for the $8,000,000 returned by operations of the Wheat Board. On this point he bitterly scored the government for failing to provide that the wheat growers share fully in profits arising from the increased price of wheat.

Sales Tax Too High

The sales tax, now eight per cent. and unchanged from a year ago, was too great a burden, Mr. Bennett said, and he believed Canada should never be called upon to provide by taxation more than $400,000,000 a year. Expenditures would have to be brought within the normal revenues.

Recalling that in the face of a certain deficit in 1930 and just prior to an election, the Liberal government had lowered the sales tax, Mr. Bennett said he wondered if failure to lower taxation now was preparation for a "grand gesture" later.

The former prime minister declared he believed Canada should build up home markets in preparation for a reduction in exports which he was sure would come soon. That, he said, was the reason he was so interested in immigration.

Mr. Rogers charged that Mr. Bennett, in the remarks about unemployment, had been guilty of "flagrant distortion and misunderstanding of the facts" and that he had introduced the subject "purely for political purposes."

When Mr. Bennett came into office in 1930 he promised to end unemployment, Mr. Rogers continued. Then there were only 100,000 unemployed. When Mr. Bennett went out of office in 1935 there were 430,000 unemployed. In October, 1936, after a year of Liberal administration the number had dropped to 393,000.

Mr. Rogers told what the Liberal regime had done for unemployment. First it had arranged to close relief camps which were "a blind alley for the unemployed and an expensive luxury for the government."

The camp inmates had been given work on the railways during the summer and later through the winter-placement plan. In working out this plan the national employment commission, assailed by Mr. Bennett, had been a great help.

46,000 Given Farm Jobs

Some 46,000 men had been placed on farms under this plan and 50,000 had been placed altogether in forestry, farming and other primary industries. In Saskatchewan there was not a single unemployed man available for farm placement who was not placed, the minister declared.

Hon. Hugh Stewart (Cons. Leeds) asked when the farm placement scheme was started and how many men had been placed each year.

Mr. Rogers said he could not give this information but the scheme was based on a former scheme. As in the case of other schemes started by the Conservatives, it had been improved by the present government.

"You haven't changed very much," said Mr. Stewart.

Relations of the Dominion with the provinces and municipalities were strained when the Liberals entered office, said the minister. There had been constant friction. A change had since been effected by co-operation and consultation. It had been found necessary, in a time of stress, for the Dominion to assume a larger proportion of relief costs. Later this had been reduced and now the time had come for a further reduction. All such steps, however, were taken after careful inquiry and on a rational basis that would assure the continued co-operation of the provinces and municipalities.

"I would not suggest," said Mr. Rogers, "that the problem of unemployment in either its human or its financial aspects can be liquidated in a few months. I am fully aware of what may be called the residual problems likely to be with us for many years."

Mr. Rogers defended the national employment commission. He said it had done good work at a minimum of cost and that Mr. Bennett had sought to exaggerate the size of the commission's staff and its expense. Many of the staff had been transferred from other government departments.

Denies Duplication.

It was not duplicating the work of the Bureau of Statistics as Mr. Bennett charged. The bureau, busy with a census of the Prairie Provinces, could not have undertaken the re-registration of unemployed without hiring additional staff.

This registration was not mere compilation of statistics but a re-registration of all unemployed in Canada. In eliminating from relief rolls those not entitled to relief the Government had been saved more than the whole cost of the Commission.

Mr. Bennett had intimated the National Employment Commission had done nothing, he said.

"Was there ever a more unfair statement made in this House?" Mr. Rogers demanded. He referred to the home improvement loan legislation which, he said, was advanced by the Commission.

"I am not going to say the plan sprang full-born from the mind of minds of any on the Commission," he said, "but its success will be and has been due in a large measure to the organization set up across Canada on a non-political basis."

The Government and he, as Minister of Labor, had had the benefit of the Commission's advice and would continue to receive the kind of assistance necessary in grappling with the problem.

"I am not satisfied with the results of our efforts," Mr. Rogers said, "but I am encouraged and confident." No Government could be satisfied, he added, but there was reason to hope efforts now in motion would be successful if supported by the people of all classes as a national responsibility.

EXTRACTION OF GOLD SOLVED

pressive evidence of a ready market for anarsidest gold concentrates. It disposes of the selling problem, and solves the old difficulty of separating the gold from the arsenic, the obstacle which halted mining enterprise in Hastings county from time to time as far back as the seventies and sixties.

Next comes the question of producing primary ore in paying quantities.

Old Bloomfield Mine

Col. Ackerman's interest and investment is centered in the old Bloomfield mine south of Deloro. The surveys and assays and general exploration which he carried on last year until winter set in all tend to confirm the earlier reports used to sustain Hastings faith in the mineralized rock in spite of persistent adversity. Projected operations during the approaching spring will ordinarily prove whether the assertions of the proprietor mine which various experts have pronounced.

Associated with Col. Ackerman in the explorations which were carried on during the past year are such men as Frazer Lincoley of various mining companies including Noranda, Robert Dewsey, James Richardson of Winnipeg, Norman Urquhart of Toronto and several others.

Development Recommended

Col. Ackerman's purpose in the work that has been done so far has been to determine the value of ore properties which gained the attention of mining engineers as long ago as the first year of Canadian Confederation. Opinions have recommended development, but the economical treatment of arsenical ores has always been a major problem until the recently discovered methods of a British company which is in the market for ores of this kind and showing a most interested concern.

The latest advice obtained by Col. Ackerman recommends extensive work on the Bloomfield property, and it is understood that plans for the coming season are being directed to that end.

Tests By Expert

Examination of the property in progress the season of last compared, for the most part, a series of assays which tended to confirm old records of surveys made in years gone by, and also tests made by S. Roger Warren of Mining Research Corporation Limited, Toronto formerly Professor of Metallurgy of the Colorado School of Mines, Denver, who is regarded as one of the outstanding authorities on mining in both Canada and the United States.

On his graduation from the Denver School of Mines in 1914 Mr. Warren inspected the property of the Cordova Gold Mines when he first became impressed with the possibilities of the gold bearing rock of the Marmora district. In 1924 he obtained his Master of Science degree at Queen's University, Kingston. His reputation in the mining world and the value of his opinions recommended him to Col. Ackerman in his engagement for the tests that were made in 1936. Several reports were prepared by Mr. Warren for the purpose of furnishing advice and recommendations regarding arsenical gold ore as found on the Bloomfield property.

Several questions from his report dated November 17, 1936, are of interest. Referring to the object of the test, Mr. Warren wrote:

"The function of this test was to determine if it would be possible to produce a concentrate high in arsenic containing most of the gold. This was desirable because of a contract offered for a gold ore containing arsenic above 25%.

For years concentrates containing arsenic have been penalized because of the arsenic content. Also, tests to recover the gold from this type of concentrates by cyanidation have not always been successful.

An Important Change

"These conditions have suddenly changed," Mr. Warren comments in regard to a Boston company's offer of a contract for arsenic concentrate.

And it is precisely this sudden change in conditions which may greatly affect the future of the Marmora properties task is the main reason for the hopes which Col. Ackerman has conceived from present and past assays and reports respecting the mineralized rock along the Hastings-Peterborough boundary.

"In his conclusions, Mr. Warren says: "These tests show that ore from the Bloomfield vein as represented by the sample furnished by you will allow a recovery of from 90% to 95% of the gold in the concentrate that contains over 30% arsenic. In as much as this is a better grade of concentrate it may be possible to obtain a better schedule of prices for the purchase of these concentrates; however, if this is not possible, the production of a 30% arsenic concentrate indicates that it will be a simple matter to produce the type of concentrate desired."

Rothwell Report In 1881

Fifty-six years ago R. P. Rothwell, M.E., of New York read an address before the American Institute of Mining Engineers on the subject of "The Gold-Bearing Magnetic Veins of Marmora, Ontario, Canada," as a meeting in Philadelphia in February 1881.

A few quotations from that report are still of interest as reflecting the confidence in the mineral values of the rock country around Marmora born of the earliest surveys.

"Gold was first discovered in this district in 1865 as free gold in quartz and mispickel," Mr. Rothwell said in his address, "and sporadic attempts have since been made at ten or three points to treat these ores, chiefly by raw amalgamation. As might have been anticipated from the nature of the ore only a very small proportion of the gold was saved in this way, while the expense of treatment in the small and primitive mills adopted was great and the loss of quicksilver heavy. There was neither experience nor technical knowledge available at the time and no sufficient capital to put up suitable works or to develop the mines; hence they have lain idle all these years without a single serious effort to work them on an economical basis. Nevertheless, many tests of the ores were made, some on quite an extensive scale, in reduction works in the United States and England and the results were invariably highly satisfactory."

Gold Worth Only $20

Mr. Rothwell discusses the Marmora veins and the results of many assays which had preceded his examination of the property. This description of the report is too detailed and extensive for quotation, but a few paragraphs may be reproduced. Prof. E. J. Chapman, University College, Toronto: "I have made assays of its ores from time to time, and I have never failed to obtain from any sample, as a minimum value, at least $30 a ton."

And gold was worth only $20 an ounce at that time. Captain Benjamin Plummer surveyed the mines for Messrs. John Taylor & Sons, London. Four samples assayed respectively $38.65, $34.87, $36.80, $24.-74 a ton of 2,000 pounds, the average being $31.21.

E. W. Harmon, in 1876, tested the ores in the interest of Boston parties, and values shown in average samples ranged from $37.04 to $123.84 a ton.

Six samples aggregating 18.7 tons of ore from the Gatling mine averaged $35.46 a ton. And it was found that the reduction process by heat carried off a considerable quantity of gold through the flues.

Employed 90 Men

After several pages of these summaries of tests made by other engineers, Mr. Rothwell said that the work under his own direction was by far the most exhaustive. He employed nearly ninety men four months on mining and milling operations. Seven shafts were sunk to depths varying from 40 feet to 110 feet, with drifting on several levels.

Mr. Rothwell had always made of 108 samples of ore, mostly five tons each, representing a total of 515 tons of 2,000 pounds. The highest value recorded was $42.18 a ton ranging down to $4.92.

In only three instances, even of second class ore after the richer ore had been roughly picked out, was less than five dollars a ton in gold found, and the highest assay of a five-ton lot was $33.43 a ton. Samples of a few hundred pounds have been found to run as high as $150 a ton, and hand samples very much higher; but these were not considered safe guides in valuing a mine, and were therefore rejected as exceptional."

Obstacle of Arsenic

Mr. Rothwell said that when he began his tests he encountered a vast "array of dicta," assertions, about the difficulties in roasting the ore, amalgamating or otherwise getting the gold out of arsenical sulphurets of iron.

"It is fair to add, however, that these difficulties were always reposed by persons who had not themselves worked such ores, but had "always taken stock" they existed."

Mr. Rothwell, as a reputable engineer, proceeded to determine the facts for himself.

"The concentrates from some two or three hundred tons of ore were roasted in a muffle furnace, he relates; from 800 tons in a reverberatory; and from several hundred tons in a reverbering cysodet. Further on he says "the only practical difficulty found in the treatment of these ores is that of preventing a loss of extremely fine gold, which is mechanically carried over with fine dust and arsenic fumes."

He estimated, however, that the defect of the furnace treatment in the loss of gold carried up in the chimney left from 93 to 95 per cent of the gold in concentrates obtainable from the roasting process.

His concluding sentence was: "The ore carries an average between $18 and $19 a ton in gold, and assuming a net yield in button of 80 per cent, the net profit on the treatment of these ores is estimated at from $10 to $12 a ton."

And those were the days when gold was less than half its present price.

Vernor's Report in 1871

Reference to the Marmora property is also found in the report on explorations and surveys with notes on the gold of Marmora made by Henry G. Vernor, F.G.S., and addressed to Alfred R. C. Selwyn, F. G.S., director of the Geological survey of Canada.

Mr. Vernor's field work was done in 1871, but he mentions that he was working in the Marmora district as early as 1867. He wrote about the Williams mine and the Gillen mine, whose veins are found on the Bloomfield property, and refers to assays made by Professor Chapman of Toronto. Two samples were taken of forty pounds each from the Gillen mine. A single trial assay made from a selected piece of the pyrites yielded 8 oz. 2 dwts. equivalent to $168 a ton.

Prof. Chapman's comment was: "This, however, can scarcely be regarded as a fair criterion of the yield of the vein, and it is only mentioned here to show the actual amount carried by some portions of the ore."

The two assays he mentioned produced an average yield in gold of $133.26.

Again quoting Prof. Chapman: "These results obtained by the most scrupulously fair treatment of the ore, are decisive as to the general richness of the vein. If at other parts at present unopened the yield sinks to even a third or fourth of the above, the ore would still be more than average quality."

HEENAN-HENRY DEBATE ALMOST COMES TO BLOWS

ture for the Kenwatin - Kenora highway stretch, Mr. Heenan started fuming comment.

The Irish-born cabinet member, formerly a federal minister of labor, was removed several times by Speaker Bigel. When he did rise he began a speech "to correct Mr. Henry."

The speaker ruled he was out of order and asked him to take his seat.

"If I was in order I'd go across there and see him (Mr. Henry)," declared the tall, angular minister, rising and taking a step to the floor of the House. Mr. Lenz put out his arm to restrain him.

"Talk about your own dirty work, Mr. Heenan," said Mr. Henry.

"I'm not a minister without portfolio," said Mr. Henry.

"You'd be without portfolio a long time if I can help it," shot back Mr. Heenan.

The House opposition leader took no part in the debate.

The Premier marched from his seat. Mr. Heenan sat at his desk a few moments and then went out by another door.

The 62-year-old Lands and Forests Minister was in the news a few weeks ago when reports drifted about that he had thrown a Cabinet colleague from his office. Mr. Heenan refused to confirm the story but a few sly remarks cropped up from the Opposition benches.

Mr. Heenan, who was called Peboyan Peacemaker by political friends when he served as Federal Labor Minister in the Liberal Government from 1926 to 1930, became a member of the Ontario Cabinet in 1934. In the interval he retained his railroad seniority rights by returning for a while to his run out of Kenora. During his life he has worked also as a coal miner and a deep-sea diver. He was also a professional football player before coming to Canada as a young man.

Got the Votes.

Mr. Henry's remarks were lost in Mr. Heenan's cross-fire.

"We've got the votes (though)," barked Mr. Heenan. "You've hated Kenora from the first. Why did he (Henry) let seven contracts just before the election and now charge me with expenditures?"

"Answer me that one," Mr. Heenan shouted, shaking his fist at Mr. Henry.

Speaker Bigel rose.

"This has gone far enough," he declared. "I'll ask the member for Kenora to rise and put his questions in a proper manner."

"May I ask him—" began Mr. Heenan, rising to his feet.

"No, I don't want to answer your questions now," said Mr. Henry.

"The Dumb Dora doesn't want to," mocked Mr. Heenan, throwing up his hands in a gesture of disgust.

Mr. Henry began again, but Mr. Heenan kept up his interruptions. Cabinet colleagues sought unsuccessfully to quiet him.

Mr. Henry had uttered only a few words when Premier Hepburn, visibly shaken, rose and said he was willing to adjourn the debate.

NORHAM, March 3 — The death occurred early on Friday morning of Mrs. Clara Elsie Merriam, beloved wife of James Hope, in her 42nd year. Her sudden passing was a shock to many friends, as she had only been ill six days. Mrs. Hope was a lifelong resident of the village and was born in Centreton. She was a member of St. John's Anglican Church, of which she was organist, and was a member of the Women's Association.

A kind and loving wife and mother and a good neighbor, Mrs. Hope will be sadly missed by all who knew her.

Left to mourn her death are her sorrowing husband and her aged parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Merriam, of the village, three sons, Lawrie of Penella, Arnold at home, and Eric of Centreton, and five daughters, Mrs. Cecil Joyce of Edgestone, Vera, Ella, Eva, and Elnora at home; one sister, Mrs. A. Beatty of Midland, and one brother, Roy Merriam, Carmel, and two granddaughters, Clarabell Joyce, Eddystone, and Mary Ellen Hope, Centreton.

The funeral service was held at the family residence on Monday afternoon, Rev. Mr. Howden of Toronto officiating. The remains were interred in the family plot in Centreton Cemetery.

Many beautiful floral tributes were given and the service was largely attended by relatives and friends.

The pall-bearers were Messrs. H. Prettie, A. Coffey, C. McGregor, Johnson McKenzie, Roland McKenzie, and James McKenzie.

WIDE-OPEN DEBATE LOOMS IN HOUSE SCHOOL TAX ISSUE

ge as unskilled labor in the larger cities found steady and well-paid employment in the mines.

An embargo on the export of nickel, as he had heard suggested, would be an unnecessary hardship. People were prone to forget nickel had many uses besides in armaments.

W. G. Nixon (Lib. Temiskaming) declared it was folly to talk of new settlements in the north when so many settlers are on relief. He opposed direct relief and said it had broken down the morale of many settlers.

No more money should be spent on the trans-Canada highway, he urged, until northern settlements were linked by good roads. Settlers now on relief could be put to work building three inter - community roads.

Hints Hepburn Bargain Rued.

William Baird (Con., Toronto-High Park) said tenseness had been caused in Ontario by the injection of a religious issue into the by-election campaign in Hastings East. The Premier's statement that he had made a bargain with the Liberal party was "rich uncle" had become tired of "shoving out his money."

Mr. Baird said the school tax question and liquor control administration would be the paramount issues in the next election campaign. Hydro would be a poor third.

Voluntary State Medicine.

"I don't believe we need state medicine," Dr. Welsh said. "I don't believe in a compulsory system but a voluntary system such as that started in Windsor is a step in the right direction."

Dr. Welsh, elected only December 9 last in the Hastings by-election, disregarded a long established precedent which has hitherto prevented new members saying anything condemnatory in their first speeches. Dr. Welsh was rebuked by Premier Mitchel Hepburn, who told him he was getting off to a bad start, the Premier having been refused the right by Dr. Welsh to make an explanation arising from one of the new member's statements.

George Henry, Conservative House leader, interrupted cross-fire between Dr. Welsh and Premier Hepburn concerning conditions in mental hospitals.

"What do you know about it anyway," demanded the Premier of Mr. Henry.

Mr. Henry protested and asked an apology for the Premier's "rudeness," but the incident passed.

Mercy was a real issue in the by-election said Mr. Welsh. Repudiation of contracts meant the breaking of one's word and the people voted against a government that broke its word. Even Hydro rate reducing could not sway them from condemnation.

Small Towns Need Benefits.

People living in hamlets should have received the benefits of Hydro service charge reductions as well as farmers, he said.

The Hepburn government had attempted to buy Hastings East with its public works that suddenly were found of urgent importance. It had even advertised the fact in the weekly organs of the constituency.

Dr. Welsh alleged a road foreman on Highway 37 had been discharged after the by-election because he refused to declare how he voted and because his wife did not vote.

A health insurance plan is needed by Ontario, he said. In parts of Hastings County there were places to which a doctor charged $25 a trip. The result was many postponed treatment until expensive hospitalization is required.

"I am not sure it would not be a good idea to have licensed doctors in communities like these," he said. "The government could pay part of the salary. I don't believe we need state medicine. I don't believe in compulsory system but a voluntary system such as that started in Windsor is a step in the right direction."

Dr. Welsh said a serious crisis had developed in Ontario in respect to overcrowding of mental hospitals.

Premier Hepburn advised him not to pay too much attention to Grand Jurors' reports. They were sometimes wrong. A recent finding in respect to overcrowding at the Ontario Hospital, New Toronto, was wrong.

Hepburn Is Blocked

Premier Hepburn attempted to read a report by a departmental official regarding an interview with the foreman of one grand jury, Dr. Welsh objected. Mr. Hepburn said he was customary to give the prime minister a chance.

"You're getting off to a very bad start, I'll tell you that," Mr. Hepburn told Dr. Welsh.

If the religious issue was interjected into the Hastings East by-election it was the government's fault.

"The only way to keep religion out of politics is to keep it out of the legislative halls," Dr. Welsh said.

The taxation policy of the Hepburn government has been directed to putting the burden on those best able to pay it, Wilfrid Newman (Lib. Victoria) told the House. He particularly commended the drive on succession duties.

Mr. Newman said farmers in certain Eastern Ontario districts were having difficulty in purchasing seed grain. Prices have been because of a shortage caused by drought. He said there was an agitation to have the government distribute and purchase seed but he was opposed to it.

Mr. Newman said there was federal legislation enabling municipalities to purchase seed grain or to extend credits to farmers for such purposes. He suggested the province might guarantee municipalities up to 70 per cent of their loans if they embarked on such a plan.

BLAME LACK OF FLARES.

CHATHAM, Ont., March 3 (CP) — Failure to have flares on Highway No. 40 near a disabled truck which was in his charge and which caused at least one of two accidents today resulted in Joseph Richie, Wallaceburg, being convicted by Magistrate Arnold on a charge of criminal negligence. The Magistrate reserved sentence for one week, the defendant being allowed his liberty on bail of $500.

Problem Of Distribution What Is Causing Trouble

Learned How To Produce Enough To Feed And Clothe The People

CO-OPERATIVE PLAN

"We have learned how to produce enough to feed and clothe the people of the world, but we have not learned how to solve the problem of distribution," stated Miss Eve Zeigler, B.A., on Tuesday evening, in the concluding lecture of a series of five which she has given during the winter under the auspices of the Educational Committee of the Y.W.C.A., the final topic being "The Co-operative Movement—Answer to World Problems."

"I believe the Co-operative movement is one answer to the question of distribution," the lecturer continued, and proceeded to trace the growth of the movement at Rochdale in England, in 1844, when twenty-eight weavers, "and one woman, Ann Tweedie, whose name will go down in history," out of work and in need, established themselves as "The Equitable Society of Rochdale Pioneers," beginning in a very small way, and having grown until today the Co-operative Bank is second to the Bank of England, and the organization's Wholesale Society in the north of England is the country's second biggest business."

Traced Growth

In as full detail as time would permit Miss Zeigler traced the growth of the movement in Canada, which at present has over one million members—one out of every twenty people in the world have some connection with the Co-operative Movement—which has every kind of industry carried on under its control; the fact that profits are distributed back to the people enabling them to buy the goods produced, and not only the necessities, but also to a certain extent some of the luxuries of life, are stressed as one of its most commendable features. "It is undoubtedly one answer to the world's problems in that it promotes world friendship, and makes for world peace."

In support of this contention the speaker mentioned the industry in Denmark, and the exchange of butter and bacon between that country and Canada, which is carried on and operated by the Co-operative Movement, bringing buyers from many countries, and tending to establish better economic interest and understanding. "In September of this year the 15th Triennial Congress of the World's Co-operative Movement will meet in Paris, and all this has grown out of the vision, determination, and action of that Rochdale group of twenty-eight weavers and one woman ninety-three years ago. There are two kinds of Co-operatives, the producers' and the Consumers', and the underlying principles are mainly: A profit to the purchaser; voluntary and unlimited membership; limited interest on capital; to sell for cash at the prevailing market price; and a portion of the profits to be set aside for education in the co-operative principles and methods."

Solve Canada's Problem

Discussing the question of the success of the movement in Canada, Miss Zeigler stated she felt it would help solve our economic problems when include one million still on relief, to some extent, the interest and assistance of the government in doing necessary to peak accomplishment, and national planning being another commendable feature. What is being done in Canada, particularly in British Columbia on the west and Nova Scotia in the east, was dealt with in some detail, and in closing Miss Zeigler said, "It will help, but in the long run, it is only as the citizens put forward the ideals of the Kingdom of God, justice, friendship, and fellowship, that we will have a national experience of understanding and helpfulness, and find the real solution for the serious problems confronting our dominion."

Mrs. F. M. Somerville, convenor of the Educational Committee, fittingly voiced the thanks of the audience to Miss Zeigler for her informative series of lectures, and also to Mr. L. J. Petith who had "paved the way" each month with discussion leadership previous to the public gathering. Lunch was served in the library at the close, Mrs. R. H. Kenner pouring coffee, and a number assisting with the service.

Peterborough Is Well Ahead In Sponsoring Home Improvement Scheme

PROMOTER NAMED

Appointed as promoter of the Home Improvement Loan in the counties of Peterborough and Northumberland, John E. Jones of Toronto held his first interview with the members of the local advisory committee Tuesday afternoon. He intends to visit Lakefield, Hastings, Campbellford, Norwood, Havelock, Cobourg, Port Hope and other communities in these two counties in an effort to stimulate interest in the present plan for relieving unemployment.

Alderman Dutton who is chairman of the speakers committee here offered Mr. Jones every possible assistance and he was also invited to make the Chamber of Commerce his headquarters.

The main point which Mr. Jones was requested to report to the provincial committee was the necessity of a definite pronouncement in regard to assessments. It was considered that there should be no discrimination as between the home owner who makes repairs or improvements paying for them without a loan and the other owner who borrows at the bank. Permissive legislation by an order in council would give broader discretionary power to assessors.

Ald. Dutton amended a recent statement in regard to the cost of rural Hydro connections. A farmer south of Hastings had telegraphed for confirmation of a report he read in the Examiner that the Hydro-Electric Commission would assume the cost of constructing connecting lines from Hydro power lines to dwellings. The arrangement provides that the commission will spread the cost of connections over a term of years on a loan plan.

Peterborough In Advance

It was also stated that Peterborough is substantially in advance of most of the other cities in Ontario and also elsewhere in Canada in its acceptance of the Home Improvement Plan and the response of local home owners. Mr. Jones was asked to impress upon the provincial committee that headquarters be urged to speed up its program of co-operation by advertising and other means.

Up to January 31 there were 1,883 loans filed with the federal Department of Finance. Some of the cities recorded as follows—Peterborough 32 loans amounting to $10,251.95; Brantford, 10, $1,943; Guelph 16, $9,200; Kingston 20, $5,942; Kitchener 46, $11,231; London 32, $17,327.27; Ottawa, 75, $30,086; Oshawa 29, $8,271; Windsor 79, $20,421; Sault Ste. Marie 5, $1,365; Hamilton 74, $21,507; Halifax 61, $28,446; Calgary 60, $20,611; Vancouver 103, $69,745.

Mr. And Mrs. Joseph Crowe Are "At Home" To Their Many Friends

MARRIED IN PETERBOROUGH

Fifty years married, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Crowe of 376 Brock street were "at home" to their many friends at a quiet celebration of their golden wedding anniversary today.

They were married by the late Rev. J. W. H. Beck at St. John's church on March 3, 1887.

As sole survivor in Peterborough of the North West Rebellion and an ex-alderman of the city council, Mr. Crowe now in his seventy-sixth year can look back on a life of extreme activity and usefulness.

For his wife, the former Mary Gave Cottingham, the occasion was one of two-fold significance, being both a wedding and a birthday anniversary celebration. A daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Cottingham who came to this country from Ireland, she was born at Omemee on March 4, 1860.

Of a family of seven children born of the union, five are living. They are: Mrs. Dr. P. S. Ripperson, Milwaukee; Mrs. W. R. McCondach, Swansea, Wales; Mrs. A. W. Clyse, Port Arthur; Mrs. Art Metherall of Peterborough; and Mr. Howard Crowe, of Toronto. They have also seven grandchildren.

Born at Clonees, County Monaghan, Joseph Crowe came to this country from Ireland with his parents when he was an infant. The family settled here in 1862 and was one of thirteen families who formed the original Parish of St. Luke's in Ashburnham.

Mr. Crowe received his education at Ashburnham Common School under the late John Wood and later served his apprenticeship to the iron moulding trade with The Peter Hamilton Company. On the completion of his indentures he obtained employment with the old William Hamilton Company and was in the service of that firm for a period of forty-seven years.

In the year 1905 when the municipalities of Peterborough and Ashburnham united and became the City of Peterborough, Mr. Crowe was elected to the city council along with Frank Adams, E. F. Mason, Robert Hicks and Bob Begley of Lindsay, to name the members of the first council of the city who are still living.

He served as an alderman under Mayor Best for a term of one year and then withdrew of his own accord. Subsequently he was appointed to the city council in 1919 and again retired at the completion of nine consecutive years on the aldermanic bench. He served the council for a total period of ten years.

In addition to having served with the Midland Battalion (Peterborough Detachment) under the late Colonel Williams in the North West rebellion of 1885, Mr. Crowe boasts thirty years of service in the old 57th Regiment Band, and a term of nine years as president of that musical organization.

For fifty-six years he has been a member of the Iron Moulders Union, and for forty years has belonged to Peterborough Lodge Independent Order of Oddfellows.

WM. HENRY BELL DIES AT HIS HOME

Grain Merchant Operating In Both Peterborough And Keene

Prominent in the business life of this district as a grain merchant operating both in Peterborough and Keene, William Henry Bell died with unexpected suddenness at his home, 506 Charlotte street, early last evening. He was 59 years of age.

His passing came as an unusual shock to his friends and business aquaintances since he had recently recovered from a very grave illness and was considered to be in good health again. On Monday he was seized with a heart ailment. It is believed, and he declined swiftly.

Born At Brecklin

He was born at Brecklin, Ontario, and was brought to Keene while still an infant by his parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bell. Receiving his education in the Keene public school and the Norwood High School, he joined his father in the grain business thirty-five years ago. In 1920, he came with his family to reside in this city, establishing himself as a grain merchant here and continuing his business at Keene. His warehouse in Peterborough has been located north of King Edward Park.

Mr. Bell was a member of St. Peter's Cathedral and was active in the Knights of Columbus. Before his departure from Keene, he was a member of the Keene Curling Club.

Surviving him are his wife, formerly Mayme Helen Bernhardt of North Bay; three daughters, Dorothy, Grace and Jean, and one son, Raymond, all at home. Two sisters remain, Mrs. M. J. Sullivan in Toronto and Mrs. Clara Walsh of San Francisco.

The funeral will be held Friday at 8.45 a.m. from the residence on Charlotte street to St. Peter's Cathedral for service at 9 a.m. Interment will be made in St. Peter's Cemetery.

Coronation Souvenirs To Be Given Pupils

Members of Peterborough Board of Education were reminded of the near approach of the Coronation of Their Majesties King George VI and Queen Elizabeth, on Tuesday night when they had placed before them for consideration something in the form of Coronation souvenirs.

While they were agreed that the school children of the city will have to be provided with some token to mark the celebrations, the Board accepted the suggestion of D. O. H. Meiton and deferred action.

It was suggested by Mr. Meiton that in the near future a meeting of various representative groups will be called to consider plans for the city's observance of the occasion, and he thought the question of Coronation tokens for children of the public schools and Collegiate might well be left over for consideration at that time.

Fire Sweeps Douglas, Alaska, Leaving Town In Ruins

Here are the flame-swept ruins of the city hall of Douglas, one of Alaska's most famous gold towns, which was almost totally destroyed by fire recently. The blaze, fanned by a gale, swept unchecked through the town, razing, or damaging every building in the business section. More than 500 persons were rendered homeless and evacuated by the U.S. coastguard. Many found refuge in nearby Juneau. The fire is believed to have started in a beer parlor. Coastguard patrol boats brought first word of the disaster.

INSPECTOR MOWAT WANTS TO RESIGN AT END OF TERM

Board Of Education Requests Mr. Mowat To Reconsider His Resignation

30 YEARS OF SERVICE

By a unanimous vote Peterborough Board of Education is asking Inspector Alexander Mowat to reconsider his resignation which he placed before the Board on Tuesday night to take effect at the end of June.

It was the general opinion of the members of the Board that in his period of thirty years of service as public school inspector, Mr. Mowat has rendered valuable service, and the Board is not anxious to see him retire.

Addressed to the chairman and members of the Board of Education, Mr. Mowat's resignation was worded as follows:

"I wish to retire at the end of June and would respectfully request you to relieve me of my duties at that date.

"I desire to take this opportunity to thank both the present members of the Board and former ones for the sympathetic support given me, and for the confidence reposed in my judgment during the thirty years that I have served in Peterborough.

"During these thirty years many changes have taken place in the educational life of Peterborough and it is gratifying to know that these changes have, in the main, been in the line of progress.

"I have always enjoyed my work in this regard, the hearty co-operation of the teaching staff deserves special recognition by me.

"With sincere wishes for the continued progress of the schools" . . . etc.

In making the motion by which the Board unanimously decided to invite Mr. Mowat to remain in service, Harold O. Walker remarked, "If Mr. Mowat feels the Board is extending a unanimous invitation, I feel he would stay."

ROVER SCOUT MEET IS BEING PLANNED

Ontario Scouts Will Rally In Northern Part Of County During The Summer

The Ontario Rover Scout Moot is to be held in a section of the Kawartha Lakes district at the northern end of Peterborough County this summer. It is announced by Gordon R. Langley, one of the most enthusiastic local supporters of the Scout movement.

Mr. Langley states he was successful in "the not too difficult task" of persuading provincial Scout headquarters that the lake district immediately north of Peterborough is the most desirable location for the next annual Rover Scout convention or "Moot" as it is officially termed among Scouts.

James Irwin who operates a large ranch in Harvey Township has generously offered the use of his property on the south shore of Bald Lake and the site has been inspected and approved by officials of the provincial Scout Association who recently drove up from Toronto.

The Moot will be a 3-day affair from July 31 to August 2 (both dates inclusive). It is expected that about 200 Rover Scouts will be in attendance drawn from all parts of Ontario, as well as Quebec and the United States.

The local committee will consist of Rover Scouts from 2nd Armour Crew and 1st Peterborough (St. John's) Crew, with Mr. Langley as chairman and Michael Crough as secretary.

Mendelssohn Choir Is Heard In Musical Treat In Toronto

Belshazzar's Feast Is Rendered By This Splendid Musical Organization

TERRIFIC CLIMAX

(By Lawrence Mason).

TORONTO, March 3.—Massey Hall echoed and re-echoed with applause last night as two of the city's, and Dominion's, foremost musical organizations united in a truly gorgeous concert, an outstanding event even in a season of notable achievements. Never before have the Toronto Symphony Orchestra under Sir Ernest MacMillan and the Toronto Mendelssohn Choir under Dr. H. A. Fricker, which is coming to Peterborough on March 16, joined forces in a full-length evening program in our chief temple of music. Each of these great and famous units seemed resolved not to be outdone by the other, with the natural result that each fairly surpassed itself in a magnificent performance of a superb program.

First came a number not mentioned on the printed program, but one of the most stirring things of the evening, namely, the National Anthem, in which Dr. Fricker led both choir and orchestra. This used to be one of the choir's specialties, but not for several years past has it been sung with the fire and energy which thrilled us last night.

Then came Bach's unaccompanied motet, "Jesu, meine Freude," in which the choir confirmed the impression just made in the anthem, that it is singing better than for some years. This motet was not, perhaps, the wisest choice for this particular concert, but it was splendidly sung, difficulties being effortlessly surmounted, contrapuntal passages masterfully handled, pitch unflaggingly maintained throughout, and the religious content movingly expressed.

Sir Ernest then took the baton and led the orchestra in an eloquent performance of Tschaikowsky's "Pathetic" symphony, all the familiar grief and passion being most melodiously brought out. Our players gave these heart-broken themes very polished treatment, but we were spared the too overwhelming weight of this imperial woe at its gloomiest.

After the intermission Frederick Newnham, noted baritone of London, Ont., sang arias by Coleridge-Taylor and Mozart, with vigor and fine understanding to the orchestral accompaniments conducted by Sir Ernest. This solo interlude varied the program agreeably, and Mr. Newnham's artistic work was warmly applauded.

Dr. Fricker returned to the dais for the final and most striking number of the evening, William Walton's tremendous setting of "Belshazzar's Feast" for choir, orchestra and baritone solo. How could the barbarous discords, the power, brutality, noise, restless rhythms, and chaotic brilliance of the music of modern "civilization" be more fittingly used than in the description of its ancient prototype, Babylon the Great—Babylon and its fall through the worship of idols of gold? Walton has carried out this searching conception most successfully, and he could have wished for no more effective performance of his marvelous music than it received last night.

Strange intervals, strange harmonies, strange color, strange instruments convey very vividly the Biblical story of the triumph of the true believers over the besotted king and his heathen cohorts. So masterly is the orchestration and the use of all musical resources that at times we seem not only to hear, but to feel the stinging lash of the slave-drivers, relentlessly scourging forward the falterers and forever speeding up the pace. For irresistible excitement, this music is unsurpassed.

The choir did itself proud here. The "Praise ye" chorus was almost overpowering in its blatant splendor. The "King of Kings" chorus was another terrific climax, and then the concluding hymn of triumph with its repeated "Alleluia" provided a glorious culmination. Praise is due to all concerned for this memorably thrilling performance, to the conducter, soloist, orchestra, and all sections of the choir; but a special word of admiration must go to the "shock troops," the top-sopranos, who stood up most gallantly under even more inhuman demands than in Beethoven's "Hymn to Joy," and yet finished with their beautiful tone as fresh and true as at the start.

For Thursday, March 4

THE PLANETARY configurations for this day stress intellectual, cultural, artistic and social matters rather than business affairs. However, it would be well to be careful with all papers, writings and documents, which are under an adverse sign, with a menace of loss or theft. Good news will figure prominently in the affairs and relations will be pleasant and probably lucrative. Affectional matters should flourish.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a very active year, with literary, social, artistic, domestic and affectional matters under excellent auguries for progress and pleasure. Associations with the young and their interests may prove happy and profitable.

A child born on this day may be mentally alive, keen and witty, with fine cultural and social instincts. It may attain literary or artistic success.

DON BRADMAN IS ACCLAIMED AS ACE CAPTAIN

Aussies Vanquish Rivals In Fifth Test By Innings And 200 Runs

BATTED 810 RUNS

MELBOURNE, Australia, March 3—(CP Cable)—Australia to-day acclaimed Don Bradman and the cricket team that carried the Commonwealth to victory over England in a test series on home soil for the first time since 1908.

Vanquishing their rivals by an innings and 200 runs in the final and decisive match of the season's five-game series, the Aussies regained their hold on cricket supremacy, won in England in 1934. They also avenged smashing triumphs achieved by the Mother Country "down under" in 1928 and 1933.

In 61 years of competition between the two countries, Australia has won 36 matches, two more than England, while 29 have been drawn. The victory was to a great extent a personal triumph for the 28-year-old Bradman captaining his country's representatives for the first time. Wielding a lusty bat, the eight South Australian led his colleagues to three successive wins after they had been routed in the first two tests.

His 270 runs in the final, Melbourne encounter early in January turned the tide. A few weeks later he hit up 212 at Adelaide and in the tussle has concluded hammered out 169, leading a batting barrage that gave Australia a record score of 604.

Faced with this huge total, England made a fair start, scoring 194 runs for four wickets, Monday. A sticky pitch, following an overnight rain gave the Australian bowlers an opportunity yesterday, which they were quick to seize. The fourteen were skittled out for an additional 124 runs and following suit, were eight men for 165. The remaining players were dropped on Tuesday before they had added to the score.

Bradman's remarkable batting ability which has made him a famous figure in the sport world for nearly a decade, gave him a total of 810 runs for the five tests, nearly doubling the totals reached by other leading batsmen.

EDMONTON RINK TROUNCES WELSH OF DEER LODGE

Feat Leaves Manitoba, Alberta, Saskatchewan, B. C. And Ontario Tied For First

ONE LOSS EACH

TORONTO, March 3.—(CP)—Clint Manahan's Edmonton rink may not be winner of the Macdonald's tankard when the Dominion Curling championship competition ends tomorrow night, but the Albertans at least will have recorded one of the sport's outstanding feats. Last night, they stopped what was beginning to look like a runaway for Manitoba — today the contest was wide-open again as it entered its fifth round.

The Edmonton four set back Jimmy Welsh's previously unbeaten Winnipeg Deer Lodge rink 13-10 and the representatives of Manitoba, Alberta, Saskatchewan, British Columbia and Northern Ontario were left tied for first places with three wins and one loss each. Even the lagging rinks from Ontario, Nova Scotia, Quebec, Prince Edward Island and New Brunswick took on fresh hope.

Experts who watched Manitoba's upsetting declared it was done by the calmest sort of placement shots. Manahan's men went out to win by precision and the manner in which they worked the wonder made them almost even-money favorites with the Manitobans to take the tankard.

Figgers Below Form.

It was generally admitted the Winnipeg players were below the form they showed in previous matches. They missed important elves in the early stages and Welsh spent his evening on the end of a long when he skipped his guard. But that detracted little from the work of the curlers from the Foothills province. When opponents' stones seemed to block the way they managed to slip in near-impossible shots and their knockout drew loud applause from the gallery.

Another low-scoring game was that in which W. O. Roy's Quebec rink defeated Ian Ontario four skipped by A. E. Dunker 9-8. A single point on the last end gave Roy his first victory of the tankard and set Ontario's score at two games won and two lost.

Prince Edward Island and New Brunswick couldn't get into the win class. The island province was beaten by Northern Ontario 18-10 and New Brunswick went down before R. V. David's British Columbia squad 10-7. It was the fourth defeat for each.

In the night's fifth game R. F. Smith's Saskatchewan rink defeated Nova Scotia, skipped by H. M. Ferguson, 19-10.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chunk or Two

(C.J.P.)

JUNIOR CITY Hockey League playoffs resume tonight at eight in the Brock St. slambang emporium. All Saints copped the duke in the first tilt, and a win for 'em tonight will mean the championship. But Canucks are very apt to even it up this p.m. by yanking out the second. Series is two out of three games and the teams are quite well-matched. They play a fast open style that is exciting to watch and the game should draw a good crowd. Some of these boys will be playing Junior O.H.A. next year. So better you should give 'em a looksee now and get a load of their lively background.

* * * * * *

MAYFAIRS AND Lakefield went to a 4-4 tie last night in the first game of the home-and-home Senior City Puck Loop semi-finals. They will start on even terms in the return tilt Thursday eve at the Brock, and that one will go overtime indefinitely, if necessary, as goals count on the round. Winner meets Westclox in the finals. A fair crowd saw the coniest last night and, while it was fast and even, we couldn't run a rave over it. It was much too tame after that swell-regant scrap of the previous night between Lakefield and Marines. The Lakefield lads didn't seem too tired after their marathon struggle. It's quite a job now trying to pick the finalist.

* * * * * *

BEFORE THE Senior League squabble last eve at the Brock, two C.G.E. Shop Loop outfits tangled and Machine Shop and Wire Dept. finished up with one goal apiece. This leaves—so we understand—Wire Dept. and Fractional Motors tied on top of the circuit with Machine Shop next in line. It's hard to figure how they'll clean in playoffs but possibly the goal average of the first two teams will be considered, the poorer one then meeting Machine Shop in semi-finals and the survivor of that series going into the finals with the other crew. Get it? Well, we were only trying to be helpful about something we are vague over, too. More about it again.

* * * * * *

LOCAL SENIOR ball club could use a good first-sacker just like we could get along with an enlargement of the pay envelope. Well, there's a guy wants to come here and play first for the Peterbo this year who sounds pretty good—if he has clippings to back it up. Played senior ball in this Province last season and held down first base. Batted .400 and fielded .985. He is six feet in height and bumps the beam at 200 pounds. Is just 20 years old. "Also play rugby and hockey," he adds. That sounds like something, doesn't it? Anyone got a job to put this guy to work on? We could maybe use him.

NOTHING BUT deadly silence yet from the O.H.A. as to the local Colts' next opponent in playdowns. What is this, anyway? Is we going to have a game by Friday, anyway? Northern Vocational of Toronto rubbed out Paris, 13-6, last p.m, and now we suppose the O.H.A. will toss our gang in with that "A" team masquerading under a "B" banner. Jim Lehane and Eddie Starr went up from here to scout the Lindsay-Aurora junior playdown game in Lindsay last night—which ended in a 3-3 tie—and they figure our Colts could take either squad, on their showing last evening. Anyway, for the luvva Michael, let's have some action pronto. Natural ice won't last forever.

* * * * * *

FELT CUP tournament starts in Lindsay tonight with two games, Fenelon Falls vs. the Scugog intermediates first and then Toronto Rhinohardts vs. Peterborough Kadunks. Other teams in are Toronto Copelands, Omemee, Campbellford and Oshawa General Motors. Finals will be played on Friday and, unless there is O.H.A. action here, that night should see a lot of local fans bouncing along up the highway toward the classy Scugog arena. Such squads as the Copelands, Rhinehardts and GM-men would like to get the feel of the Felt Cup, now held by our Kadunks—and the former two squads no doubt would know what sort of brew to fill it with in celebration. The Lehane lads will line up like this: Goal, Clarke; defence, Weir, Magee and Ellis; first line, Callading, Burton and Vitarelli; second line, Gardner, Coughlin and Creighton.

* * * * * *

DUE TO a Weekend Loop game tonight conflicting with the hour set, the Church Puck Loop senior final between All Saints and Murray St. will be run Thursday night instead. It'll be their fourth meeting, each having won a game and been in a draw. The rivalry between 'em is keener than that between the corn syrup companies that supplied the quints up Callander way. Tonight's second juvenile final between Murray St. and St. Paul's will be at seven, the Murray Streeters having pulled out a 2-0 nod in the first fixture. St. John's juvenile and bantam hockey and cage teams had a supper tossed they way last p.m. in St. John's Parish Hall.

* * * * * *

IN WHITBY last gloaming, Belleville Redmen and the Red Wings battled to a 3-all tie in the first of their O.H.A. intermediate "B" playdown series. They call it the Ontario semi-finals. Each team used some juniors—some of the Whitby juniors having been seen here a year ago in Port Perry sweaters. How those lads get around! Buster Whitton of Belleville, Campbellford and Lakefield, played a good game for the Redmen. He was the chap who played a game in our Senior City League this winter, claiming he was released from the Belleville O.H.A. team. The game was protested and Whitton was dropped. Now he pops up again with the Quinte crew. Bret Harte said once: "In designs that are dark and ways that are queer, the heathen Chinee is peculiar." He should have included pucksters, too.

* * * * * *

UP AND down Sports' Rialto: Oshawa's juvenile O.H.A. team took an easy win over Richmond Hill the other eve. . . . Cec. Richardson is out of local volleyball for a spell after getting a cracked rib recently . . . Trenton Fliers should win the intermediate "A" crown tonight handily . . . Though the Colts' next home game or next opponent is unknown yet, about half the reserved seats at the Brock have been sold already . . . Belleville and Trenton may combine to field a team in the C.O.B.L. this summer—if the Airport says okay . . . Funeral of Frank Buckland's father in Toronto is this afternoon . . . What is the local basketball setup for this weekend? . . . About one more week will see the finish of most of the hockey here for this winter . . . But meantime it's payoff time in puckdom.

Machine Shop Ties Wire Department

Machine Shop and Wire Department of the C.G.E. Shop Hockey League fought to a 1-1 tie last evening in the Brock Street rink. Both teams will go into league playoffs now. It was an even, close-checking scrap all through with some good hockey shown, but the goalies having the better of it. Magee got the lone marker for the Machinists, while Neal counted for the Wiremen. The work of Neal, Pammett and Crowe for Wire Department was outstanding, while Magee, Langton and Rowlinson looked best for the other gang. Both net-guardians turned in a real performance. The teams:

Machine Shop: Goal, Heath; defence, Magee, Seabrooke; centre, Rowbotham; wings, Jamieson, Langton; alternates: Nel Murkett, Jones.

Wire Department: Goal, Harding; defence, Crowe, Akers; centre, Neal; wings, Pammett, Barry; alternate, Millard.

LAKEFIELD RINKS LOSE AT 'CAYGEON

Visitors Are Most Hospitably Entertained By Bobcaygeon Club Members

LAKEFIELD, March 3. — Two mixed rinks representing the Lakefield Ladies' and Men's Curling Clubs motored to Bobcaygeon on Tuesday afternoon, March 2, to participate in a friendly contest with two rinks from the Bobcaygeon Ladies' and Men's Curling Clubs.

The Bobcaygeon rinks came out on the large end of the score, winning both games. Owing to the mild weather, the ice was rather soft. But in spite of this difficulty the curlers had a most enjoyable afternoon and speak in glowing terms of the hospitality of the Bobcaygeon clubs.

The curlers were entertained to dinner at the Rockland Hotel after the match. At the conclusion of the meal, Mrs. Devitt, president of the Bobcaygeon Ladies' Club welcomed the Lakefield clubs and expressed the pleasure occasioned by their visit, on behalf of the Bobcaygeon clubs. Mr. C. S. Tanner, president of the Lakefield Men's Club replied thanking their hosts for the hospitality extended, and expressing the hope that the Bobcaygeon clubs would be the guests of Lakefield on a similar occasion.

Mesdames D. H. Charlton, Geo. Graham, W. E. Gilliman, E. Pearson and Douglas Davis and Messrs. P. H. Spence, D. H. Charlton, B. Kidd and C. S. Tanner represented Lakefield.

CLEARWATER, Fla., Mar. 3 (A.P.)—Dallying around with the Dodgers, Burleigh Grimes says there'll be no more of the screwy stuff on his ball club . . . Still, the Dodgers let holdout Joe Stripp come over from Orlando, sell the club 11 graduates of his baseball school, and get out of town without signing his own contract . . . This wire from Casey Stengel reached camp yesterday: "I'll be in Brooklyn opening day to see the Giants play" . . . Oh . . . Casey is taking it easy in Glendale, Calif., and getting fat . . . He has picked up 21 pounds since getting fired . . . He will step into a job with one of the two biggest organizations in baseball the minute he settles with the Dodgers for his 1937 salary.

You can laugh at the Dodgers but Grimes means business . . . His managerial record reads like a success story . . . In two seasons he stepped from Bloomington, Ill., to the majors via Louisville, a Class AA town . . . Eddie Loreldo, new Dodger trainer, has received a well-earned promotion . . . He went from the last place Chicago Cardinals in the National Football League to the last-place Chicago Black Hawks in the National Hockey League . . . Now he's moved up to the seventh place Dodgers, and thinks he may still live to see the First Division.

CHAMPION YANKS AND CARDS CALLED UPON TO REPEAT

Joe Louis Will Whip Jim Braddock In Opinion Of Sport Writers

WHAT'S IN STORE

By ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, March 3—(A.P.)—If you care to barley expert opinion on the outcome of this year's major offerings in United States professional sports competition, for or against, here's the forecast:

Joe Louis to whip Jim Braddock for the world heavyweight title in Chicago; Pompoon to capture the Kentucky Derby; Harry Cooper to wear the United States open golf crown, and New York Yankees to slay St. Louis Cardinals in the next World Series.

These are the consensus selections of the United States' leading sports editors who gazed into the crystal ball at the request of The Associated Press, crossed their fingers, and out themselves on record for the sports campaign of 1937.

For their information and yours, Ix Threadway Jarbo Davies's opinion this five-star barley is a 600-to-1 proposition.

A year ago, the ringside experts wouldn't have given Braddock one chance in 100 to keep his title crown safe from the assault of the Brown Bomber. So rabidly have subsequent events altered opinion that our soft shoes a tab of only 2 to 20 in favor of Louis. This matches pretty well the present view of betting men that the Bomber will be no better than a 2 to 1 shot when he tangles with the champion in Comiskey Park, June 22.

Derby selections give Pompoon, the winter book favorite, only a 13 to 10 edge over Brushing Reward. The rest of the ballots cast on Kentucky's three-year-old classic were scattered.

Harry Cooper seems likely to be the hottest choice for the U.S. open crown since Gene Sarazen won in 1932 in the favorite's role. Cooper is the pick of 36 with no other player close. The defending champion, Sapper Tony Manero, had only one backer in the pack.

The world champion Yankees, despite their holdouts, are too-heavy choices to repeat in the American League. They polled 38 votes out of a possible 41.

Scarcely less overwhelming is the support for the Cardinals in the National League. They received 36 votes, with New York Giants picked by only five sports editors to repeat their surprising triumph of last year.

ST. JOHN'S TEAMS GIVEN A SUPPER

Juvenile And Bantam Puck And Cage Squads Treated To Spread In Parish Hall

Members of the St. John's juvenile and bantam hockey and basketball teams were given a supper last night in the St. John's Parish Hall, it being arranged by Gordon Clegg who heads the boys' athletic interests at St. John's. Following the supper, moving pictures were shown by Roy Pitchford. Though not as successful as last winter when St. John's won bantam hockey and bantam basketball shields, the St. John's teams had a good season. They made semi-finals in juvenile hockey and eliminated by a single point in bantam basketball finals. The bantam hockey and juvenile basketball teams also made good showings.

Other guests at the supper last night were: Rev. W. P. Robertson, rector, and Rev. R. T. Brain, curate of St. John's Church; Art Bacon, Sunday School superintendent; Secretary Don Charlton of the Church Hockey and Basketball Leagues; Jack Marshall, who led a sing-song; Gord Clegg and the others who have been active in coaching St. John's teams, Vic Coleman, Alex Chiorna, Jack Chamberlain, Ed. Copperthwaite with players. There was a good attendance.

HOCKEY CROWDS LOST ALL SENSE OF SPORTSMANSHIP

Continental Newspapers Giving The British Public The "Royal Raz"

BLAME OFFICIALS

LONDON, March 3 (CP Cable)—English sports writers, aroused by accusations in continental newspapers that British hockey crowds have lost all sense of sportsmanship today sought to explain away the rowdy scenes during the Harringay ice series by attributing the fans' ponkey to inefficient officiating.

Scenes reminiscent of the wildest Canadian playoff battles studded the series — which brought the world's championship to the Dominion. In their angriest outbursts the crowds frequently stopped play by littering the ice with debris, steered the champion Kimberley Dynamiters and menaced the referees.

Sought Protection

Commenting on the incidents, French sports writers vented bitter criticism and the outburst brought the following from one: "Let us not talk further of the sangfroid and sporting spirit of the British. I've seen many boxing matches in which rows occurred, but I've never seen such row and chaos as occurred at Harringay. To avoid being lynched, one referee was forced to seek police protection."

"This taunt cannot be accepted without argument," replied the hockey writer of The Daily Express. "Those actually responsible for the near riots were those in control of the championship series, a majority of whom were foreigners. The international mistakes were those of amateur refereeing in a sport that for the last three years has been almost entirely professional."

Canadian Sailors

This writer added that it "must not be forgotten that a large number of foreigners were present and it was evident that these spectators were as equally jubilant as the Canadian sailors, who perhaps comprised the noisiest section."

KING OF WINTER SPORTS

Ski-ing

By Charles Schaer

Sponsored By Peterborough Ski Club

NO. 5:—M CHRISTIANIA
with a'le Aid of the Sticks

This swing is used only at low or medium speeds on steep slopes having a hard surface or breakable crust. Under these conditions a very sharp change of direction is more easily accomplished by the use of this than of other swings.

The swing is commenced in the crouch position. The intended outside ski is brought unweighted to the stem position. As the same time the intended inside stick is placed firmly close to the tip of the intended inside ski. The body is straightened up, a vigorous thrust given on the inside ski, and practically the whole weight transferred to the outside ski by a screwing motion of the body aided by the thrust on the inner ski, figure 1, figure 2. Thus the swing is made with the weight entirely on the outside ski and the inner stick. There is practically no steering of the outside ski, the transition from the crouch to the erect christiania position being carried out as a continuous motion. The swing is completed around the inner stick which is not removed until the weight is taken on both skis in the christiania position, figure 3.

The swing is not steered in any sense of the word, but is an abrupt spin and is productive of the sharpest possible change of direction.

LAKEFIELD HELD TO PLAYOFF TIE IN SEMI-FINALS

Mayfairs And Northerners Battle To 4-All Draw In First Series Of Senior City Loop

RATHER DULL AFFAIR

Lakefield and Mayfairs battled to a 4-4 draw before about 200 fans last night at the Bronc St. rink in the first of their home-and-home semi-final Senior City Hockey League series. With goals counting on the round, these teams play again here Thursday night on even terms, the winner to advance into the finals against Westelair for the league title.

Last night's fixture was a tame affair after the battle marathon Blood and Thunder Loop tussle staged the previous evening. It was a fast, even game with some good hockey seen and some exciting spots, but it lacked many of the outstanding feature of that thrilling overtime scrap between Lakefield and the Marines. While both sides last night drew large crowds in penalties, the players were quite tame and the game failed to show any real aggressive spirit for more than a minute or so at a time.

Even On Play

Lakefield had a better combination game but Mayfairs held them even with a good checking display and some opportune rushing. There was little difference over a distance on the play. The score was even in every frame, being 1-1 in the first and 3-all going into the third. Each side scored goals with the other short a man. Both goalies had quite a few to kick out and made some nice saves. The defences checked in ordinary manner and the forwards all worked hard. For Mayfairs, Gardner, Wilson and Courneyea looked best; while for Lakefield, the first forward line of Chittick, Jewell and Blewett, along with Babalino in a defensive way stood out.

Play was speedy and even in the first, with Jewell scoring the first for Lakefield on assists from Blewett and Chittick. Mowry was hurt but returned later. Vitarelli tied it later in the inning when he intercepted in close. Early in the second, Blewett took Babalinos pass to make it 2-1 but Gardner again tied it in a scramble with Lakefield short a man. A bit later Gardner took Courneyea's pass to give Mayfairs a lead but Chittick soon sewed it up when he backhanded home Blewett's pass. In the third, Mayfairs ganged up to hold an edge on play but Deeth broke away to put Lakefield in front. Mayfairs continued to press hotly with Lakefield shooting the puck down the ice, and finally Driscoll scored on a pass from Gardner. Both teams played cautiously and only the final few minutes, neither taking any chances.

The teams:

Lakefield: Goal, Loyst; defence, Babalino and Morin; centre, Chittick; wings, Jewell and Blewett; alternates, Deeth, Chappell, Lennox, Bleaney and I. Charlton.

Mayfairs: Goal, Curtis; defence, Vitarelli and Gardner; centre, Driscoll; wings, Mowry and Meyette; alternates, Hill, Courneyea and O'Leary.

Referee—Herb Payne.

WHITBY RED WINGS TIE BELLEVILLE

Play 3-All On Soft Ice In First Game Of Intermediate "B" Semi-Finals

WHITBY, March 3.—In the first game of the O.H.A. Intermediate "B" semi-final series, Whitby Red Wings last night played to a 3-all tie with Belleville. While the ice was soft, play at times was fast and spectacular. Three penalties were meted out to each team.

C. Jackson shot Belleville into an early lead but Mayne squared matters shortly before the first period was completed.

After a goalless second frame, Belleville drew to the front again when Barriage and then Whitton scored. The Red Wings struck back however, in the dying minutes when Otis reduced the deficit and Louis Vipond tied the score.

The second game will be played in Belleville on Friday night.

N.H.L. All-Stars

(By the Canadian Press)

MARCY BARRY, Detroit, who led Red Wings heavy assault with three goals in a 7-4 victory over Montreal Maroons.

Norm Smith, Detroit, whose outstanding third-period goal-tending held Detroit's lead against a vicious Maroon offensive.

Pete Palangio, Chicago, who provided the vital goal for Black Hawks to defeat Boston 4-2 and retain their slim playoff hopes.

TWEED DEFEATED BY STIRLING 6-4

Winners Meet Belleville Sailors While Losers Wind Up In Fourth Place

(Examiner Correspondence)

TWEED, Mar. 3.—Playing their last game of the current schedule the Tweed Intermediates were downed 6 to 4 by the Stirling on the latter's ice on Monday evening. As a result of the game the Tweed team ended up in fourth place in the league, and now meet the aggressive and colourful sailor crowd in the playoffs on Friday evening, while the Stirlingites meet the Belleville Sailors, the group leaders of the league.

Maguire of Tweed opened the scoring in the first period after the first faceoff, and Don Rodgers tied the score when he took a pass from Jones. Reid got the second Stirling goal and incidently his first of the season when he took a pass from Harry Ingram and the first period ended with Stirling one up.

Robinson started it in the middle of the second period, when he beat Thompson on a pass from Ingram. Weir put the Stirling team three up when he took Morteva's pass for the next counter, and Rodgers put the Stirling team up five to one when he gauzed in Robinson's pass to Duguess Thompson. Marsh tallied the second Tweed goal of the game when he climaxed a brilliant rush to beat Fox to make the tally 5 to 2 for the Stirling forces.

Early in the last frame Robinson tallied his second counter of the evening to put Stirling up 6 to 2 over the Tweed forces. In a last minute rally the Tweed boys cut down the score by two goals, when Tummon and Courneyea each beat Fox for a counter to end the game with the Stirlingites in the lead 6 to 4.

The Tummon brothers, Courneyea and Maguire were the pick of the Tweed team, with Robinson, Rodgers, Fraser and Ingram looking the best for the Stirling forces.

Start Out As "Pick-Up Squad

The Stirling team was at first just a pick-up crew, and were not organized to give that town a good team, but as a result of their determination, have ended up in the playoffs and will meet the Belleville boys, who lead the group.

The games in this group have been exciting, and some of the best hockey in years have been played this season. The position for third and fourth place has been in doubt for several games, as for a time Marmora threatened to oust either Tweed or Stirling. The Tweed boys made sure of a playoff berth last week when they took the Marmora forces into camp and gathered up four points and the right to meet a rival in the playoff.

As a result of the game on Monday evening, Tweed meet their hockey enemy Madoc who clash on Friday night in the local arena.

Lineups:

Tweed—Goal, Thompson; defence, Tummon and Tummon; centre, Courneyea; wings, McGuire, Marsh; subs, Leal, Elsbury and Long.

WINGS RUN WILD ON SCORING SPREE BEAT MAROONS 7-4

Detroiters Increase Lead Over Boston Bruins To Nine Points

FOUR GOALS IN FIRST

MONTREAL, March 3.— Detroit Red Wings went on a scoring rampage last night to paste a 7-4 defeat on Montreal Maroons and increase their National Hockey League sectional lead to nine points over Boston Bruins. It was the highest scoring game of the season here.

Working on a four-goal margin made through the first period, when Maroons' defense was exceptionally weak, Wings matched the Montrealers goal for goal, after Stew Evans counted the first Montreal tally early in the second period. Wings stayed in front all the way, though Maroons three times came within two goals.

Big Marty Barry, pivot of Red Wings' ace first line, led the scoring parade with three goals, after Gord Pettinger, Sid Howe, Eddie Goodfellow and Rucko McDonald had each shot a single in the opening period. Besides Evans, Russ Blinco, Earl Robinson and Bob Gracie scored for Maroons.

Maroons brought the 5,000 fans to their feet with a terrific last-period assault that forced Wings to start icing the puck after five minutes. Time and again the Montrealers crashed through only to have pudgy Norm Smith come up with a brilliant stop.

Defeat in the penalty-less game cost Maroons a great chance to open their hold on the Canadian section's second place by three points over the idle Toronto Leafs who stayed one point behind, with each team having three games to play.

KID McCOY SELBY EXPLAINS A STORY

Goes Back To Fight In 1899 To Get Birth Of "The Real McCoy"

NEW YORK, March 3 (C.P.). — Sixty-four-year-old Norman Kid McCoy Selby, famed middleweight of another day, ambled along Manhattan's cauliflower row, brushed elbows with fisticuffers past and present, and left with newspapermen to-day his story of how the saying "the real McCoy" came into being.

There are those who claim "the real McCoy" is redundant; that McCoy is McCoy. And there are Scotsmen who say the argument is as old as the Highland heath; that it should be "the real McKay." But not so Kid McCoy.

It seems two weeks before Selby tackled Choynski a middle-weight named Pete McCoy had been to the West Coast fight Mecca and was rayoed by Joe McAuliffe.

"So," said Selby, "when I stopped Choynski it came out this way in the papers, 'the real McCoy' as well as 'Kid McCoy.'"

Choynski was a husky hitter, Selby recalled, and as the record books show Kid McCoy hit the canvas 18 times in his fourth meeting with Joe. Selby must have been something of a battler himself to win. He boasts of 200 bouts.

Better Than Louis.

"A lot of them could hit harder than Joe Louis in those days," Selby grinned. He figured, too, that Bob Fitzsimmons had more thunder in his knuckles than Nova Scotia's famed negro fighter Sammy Langford.

To-night Selby attends an oldtimers' boxing dinner in Philadelphia, and for story-telling the Detroiter has a little tale of ring subterfuge used in his bout with a giant negro, the "King of the Kaffirs," in South Africa, also in 1899.

As Selby tells it, the negro's feet were too large for shoes and his boxing power appeared too much for Selby. So when Kid McCoy hoofed his head his trainer inserted a few tacks into the ring. As the Kaffir attempted to pull a tack from his foot Selby put him away for good.

That story, as Selby says, is also "the real McCoy."

CHICAGO HAWKS SLAP BRUINS DOWN BY 4 TO 2 VICTORY

Winners On Boston Ice Are Short Art Wiebe And Glenn Brydson

PALANGIO, SCHMIDT FIGHT

BOSTON, March 3 (C.P.).—Chicago Black Hawks checked Boston Bruins' drive for National Hockey League sectional leadership last night by thumping out a 4-2 victory over the second-place Bostonians.

Bruins were at full strength, but Hawks had left home Art Wiebe and Glenn Brydson.

It was the third time this season that the Hawks scored defeat on Boston ice. The Bruins defeated and tied by the Hawks in the previous Boston clashes, hurried into an early lead when Cooney Weiland scored, but the visitors rammed in the next four counters, and Bill Cowley ended the scoring late in the final session.

Mush March, aided by Lolis Trudel, tied the score at 1-1 before the first session ended and Paul Thomnson put the Black Hawks into the lead in the second period. Pete Palangio provided the vital Chicago tally and Johnny Gottselig rammed in the next one.

After Palangio and Milt Schmidt crashed heavily against the Chicago sideboards, they came to blows and when the officials separated them, Dit Clapper mixed into the brawl and landed on Pete's jaw. The three battlers drew major sentences.

First Period

1—Boston, Weiland (Goldsworthy) 11.19
2—Chicago, March Trudel) 14.10
Penalties—None.

Second Period

3—Chicago, Thomnson (Burke, Romnes) 14.00
4—Chicago, Palangio 17.56
Penalties—Burke, Blair.

Third Period

5—Chicago, Gootselig 3.42
6—Boston, Cowley 15.12
Penalties—Clapper (major), Palangio (major), Schmidt (major), Blair, Hollett, Levinsky.

TRAINED TOO FINE FLU GRABBED HIM SAYS SCHRINER

Amarks' Star Going Into Mountains This Summer And Put On "Solid" Weight

SOUTHPAWS IN "SPOT"

By George Maguire
(Canadian Press Sports Writer.)

NEW YORK, March 3 (CP).—Although there is a great struggle going on presently for the title of best southpaw in the National Hockey League, no such doubt will exist next March. This was the advance notice served today on embryo and veteran left wingmen by Dave "Sweeney" Schriner, New York Americans' star of stars.

The big Dutchman from Calgary is a hard puckman to pry any self-glorification from. Sweeney did reveal though he thought being trained too fine at the start of the season was responsible for his falling a victim to the epidemic of flu which laid so many New Yorkers low.

Schriner, Art Chapman, the club's top pivot and other Amerks were handicapped in mid-season by the malady. When the Amerks started sniffling they kept it up for weeks and simultaneously slid from the top of the Canadian group to the bottom.

Into The Mountains.

"That won't happen next winter," said Schriner in a tone indicating he was nettled at being knocked off his game by the disease. "I am going up into the Alberta mountains long before the summer is over and rough it; eat to my heart's content and put on plenty of solid weight.

"I play best around 195 pounds," he continued, "but this season was only a few weeks old before I was down to nearly 180. Then came the flu and I went down to 172. I can't play my best at that weight, and besides a few extra pounds gives one something with which to fight off colds.

"Just watch me next season," he added. "I'll burn up this league. This experience has made me realize more than ever the absolute necessity of being at the peak in condition and mental fitness long before the season opens. And I won't wear off the extra weight in workouts and exhibitions before the schedule opens."

The Day That I Forget
By MARIE BLIZARD

CHAPTER 26

JANET PAYNTER flew back to the west coast.

It was her first flying experience and, what with wondering what kept the plane up in the clouds and why Joel demanded her presence so unexpectedly, it wasn't the most pleasant trip she had ever taken.

She left her new friends reluctantly, perhaps because there was a nameless anxiety beclouding her anticipation of seeing her husband again. She resolved that she would never leave Joel again.

The words on the page of the current novel she tried to read were meaningless to her. Over and over again she read every word of Joel's letters which she had put into her overnight case. She tried to read between the lines to find some clue in them which would make his telegram clear.

Silly rumors.

She was tired, gray and nerve-worn when she stepped from the plane. She had had no sleep and looked it.

Joel kissed her briefly and half carried her, in his haste, to their waiting car. It was impossible for them to exchange a word. Joel's public crowded about him as usual.

"Now then—" she said when they were in the car.

"I missed you," he said. "Did you have fun?"

"Great fun, Joel, but I missed you, too. Everything I saw, every place I went, every person I met, every experience I had was only half an experience because you weren't there sharing it with me."

"Next time I will," he promised. Then he looked at her searchingly. "Sure everything was all right?"

"But certainly, darling! Why shouldn't it be?"

"Didn't hear anything to worry you?"

Janet looked puzzled. "Not a thing."

"Good! Tell me about the trip."

"I'll tell you about it later. I want you to know all about the theater and the Carletons. They're darlings, Joel. You'd like them. And all the people in the cast who work so hard and take it so seriously. They were simply intrigued to hear about you."

Joel avoided her eyes. "They read about me, don't they?"

"Why—yes," she said. It seemed to her that Joel was waiting for her to say something else. At first she didn't understand what it could be. Then she had an idea! Whatever he expected her to say had something to do with the "silly rumors," something they might have read in the newspapers.

She went right to the point. "Joel, what's up?"

"Nothing," he answered. "Why?"

"You can't fool me. What's been in the newspapers? What are you worrying about? Why did you tell me to pay no attention to rumors? What are they?"

"Rumors?" he asked with elaborate surprise. "I don't remember now. Can't a man ask his wife to come home without having her think he has underhanded reasons for wanting her?"

"Of course, he can," she said, dropping the subject because she knew that Joel was not going to tell her. She'd have to find out in her own way.

Joel sat on her slipper chair that night and watched her unpack. He made her try on the new frocks she had bought in the east. He helped her put away her little things. He told her all his little troubles—the disagreements at the studio, the mixup in the household bills which had gotten out of control during her absence.

It was all perfectly normal and rather sweet and when Joel had fallen off to sleep long before her, she lay there in the darkness and reproached herself for being a little fool to imagine that anything serious could have happened during her absence. Now that she was back, the last few weeks faded into unreality.

They represented the sort of life she had wanted but time had done something to her. It was not necessary for her to readjust herself to her normal life. This was where she belonged.

She found herself anxious to talk to her friends, to hear the gossip which had made up her life these two years past.

At nine she was awake. Joel had already left and it was a good two hours before she could telephone the late-sleeping Liss. There were things demanding her attention.

There were bills, ridiculous bills. She sent for the cook and the chauffeur. They were sullen and silent. Her interviews with them were unsatisfactory. They didn't know why the bills should have been so large, they said. Janet realized that she was so far removed from the management of her own house that there was nothing she could do. As far as the servants were concerned, she merely lived at the house that employed them. Janet felt resentful and envied Mary Carleton whose house belonged to her.

There was another bill over which she knit her brows. It was a florist's bill. She hadn't expected there to be any during her absence. The garden supplied the flowers for the house except when the Paynters were having a party and then she ordered a profusion of cut flowers or greens.

The florist's account was exclusively Janet's except when Joel bought her corsages to wear to parties. Then he always sent her white or green orchids. She frequently sent flowers to friends who were ill or for some such similar reason.

Certainly she had ordered none to be sent during her absence. Yet the bill distinctly noted items totaling $70 and listed the dates of purchase.

She picked up the telephone to demand the explanation.

The explanation didn't make anything very clear. It might have if Janet had wanted to accept it. She preferred to forget that "Mr. Paynter ordered the corsages, Madame, at the different dates marked on the bill."

"Thank you," Janet answered and put the bill in Joel's file for his secretary to take care of. She never spoke of it to him. She never asked him why he sent corsages of orchids to someone else while she was away.

Leslie Carleton had bought her a book she had mentioned she wanted to read. A book wasn't any different than a corsage, was it? Why wouldn't it be perfectly innocent for her husband to buy flowers for someone while she was away? But $70 worth!

It wasn't the price that bothered her.

Later that morning she telephoned Lisa Carey.

"Janet! Is it really you?"

Janet said it really was and why not?

"Why—er—I didn't think you were coming so soon. Is everything all right?"

Janet said, "Of course." It was in her cheeriest voice and she had a feeling that even Lisa, too, was keeping something from her. Lisa seemed surprised that Janet was back home and everything was perfectly all right. But Lisa didn't say anything else except to ask Janet about her trip. Her shopping and to ask her if she and Joel would join her and her husband for dinner that evening.

"I'd love to, Lisa," Janet answered. "But, if you don't mind I'd rather spend the evening alone with Joel. My plane was late in getting in yesterday and I've hardly had a chance to talk to Joel. I've loads of things to talk over with him and I think we'll dine at home alone tonight."

Joel had different ideas but he was graceful enough to be embarrassed when he said, "I'm afraid we have to put that talk off, Janet. You see I didn't know you were coming so soon and I've accepted an invitation to the costume party Countess Di Cramond is giving. I'm afraid we'll have to go."

"Oh, Joel! You've accepted! Then, perhaps you'd better go. I'm really tired and I'll go to bed early."

She was startled to find that she had made Joel angry. "I guess you can stand it for one night. I want you to come with me!"

Bedtime Story
By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY BOUNCED HIM OUT

Uncle Wiggily was surprised, as I told you in the story last night, because when he looked at the thumb rider he had taken into his automobile he saw it was none other than the big, bad Woosie Wolf.

"Oh, ho!" said Uncle Wiggily to himself as soon as he knew the Wolf had played a trick on him by pretending to be a thumb riding tramp dog. "Oh, ho! I'll soon play a trick on this Bad Chap!"

Uncle Wiggily had new rubber tire tires on his car. And, of course, since rubber tires bounce up and down they made the bunny gentleman's auto do the same thing. So Uncle Wiggily was having a bouncie ouncie ride over the rough, frozen road in the woods to get accustomed to the new tires when he picked up the Wolf.

"How far did you say you wanted to ride, my poor Tramp Dog?" asked Uncle Wiggily of the Wolf. The rabbit still pretended he didn't know him.

"Umpity, Umpity,"

"Umpity umpity umpity!" answered the Wolf. He really meant to answer just "Um Um," for he had his face wrapped in a scarf and his hat pulled low and pretended he couldn't speak well. But the bouncie ouncie effect of the car made the "Um" turn into "Umpity umpity!"

"Well, be there in a little while," said Uncle Wiggily, pretending he knew what the Wolf said.

Then the rabbit gentleman made his car go faster and faster. Of course, being on a rough road with

"I'll bounce you out!"

bouncing ball tires, the faster Uncle Wiggily drove the higher the car bounced.

"Sayayayayayay! Wha-a-a-a-a-a-a-a-ut-tut-tut-tut kind of a car-r-r-r-r-r is this, anyhowtocatsup?" gasped the Wolf, for the words were jumbled out of him.

"Oh, this is just my bouncie ouncie car," said the rabbit. "You had better hold fast for it's going to bounce bigger and better very soon."

The Wolf said nothing. He didn't dare talk much for fear of getting his tongue between his teeth when he might bite it. So he kept still but, oh, how he bounced!

The trouble was he had nothing to hold fast to. He was sitting beside the rabbit gentleman, but Uncle Wiggily had hold of the steering wheel and that steadied him over the rough road. But the Wolf had nothing like that and he was sliding all over and going up in the air and coming down again.

Wants to Go.

Finally the Wolf, who was pretending he was a jolly old Tramp Dog, could stand it no longer.

"Let me out! Let me out!" he howled after he had bounced up and felt his teeth clattering. "Let me out before I am shaken to pieces!"

He managed to speak plainly for the moment, as the car was going over a smooth bit of road. But a rough worse part was just ahead.

Uncle Wiggily stepped harder on the gas. Faster went the car. Now the road was very rough. Higher and higher bounced the auto.

"Let me out! Let me out! I thought I could catch you, but I can't!" howled the Wolf. "Please let me ouooooouooout, Uncle Wig-gig-gig-gig-gig!"

"I'll bounce you out!" cried Mr. Longears. With that he drove the rubber ball tired car over the roughest part of the road. Out bounced the Wolf on his nose. But the bunny gentleman held fast to the steering wheel and away he rode safe, laughing: "Ha! Ha! Ha!"

And if the lead pencil eraser will turn into a pair of rubbers for the fountain pen, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's wind ride.

TREMORS IN PEACE DURING 125 YEARS ROUSED DIPLOMACY

New Book Recalls Several Disputes Between Britain And U. S.

BOUNDARY WAS TRANQUIL

NEW YORK, March 3—(CP)—In a book described in the New York Times as "a contribution of the first order to American diplomatic history," James Morton Callahan tells the story of Canadian-American relations since the Revolutionary War.

Under the title "American Foreign Policy in Canadian Relations," Professor Callahan, a native of Indiana in research work at John Hopkins University emphasizes that though peace has reigned along the frontier for a century and a quarter, it has not been all "one grand, sweet song."

The first disturbance noted was the fear in Canada, in the years immediately following the peace of 1783, that the fur trade would suffer as settlement of the new American West advanced. Prof. Callahan sketches interestingly the course of the 'conflict between the steel trap and the plough.

In 1794, Randolph, U.S. Secretary of State, was seeking "a discreet and penetrating secret agent" who would forward information by special messenger from Montreal. Later in 1804, when a reciprocity treaty was being opposed in New Brunswick and Nova Scotia, a United States' secret agent with a credit of $5,000 spent more than $26,000 "to moderate the opposition and keep the public mind in a quiet state," of which amount only about $14,000 was reimbursed by a grateful government.

Annexation.

Professor Callahan traces the recurrent outbreak of agitation in the United States for the annexation of Canada. These revived strongly in the war of 1812 but were dampened after several military setbacks had taught the American government it had been "too sanguine" about American destiny. They reached a climax after the Civil War during the Alabama controversy with Britain. The United States then "contemplated a policy of annexation of all British North America as compensation for American claims for British violations of neutrality." Thereafter, the annexation trouble cropped up at intervals—at the time of the Alaska purchase, in connection with the absorption by Canada of the Northwest Territories and from time to time as transcontinental railways or Indian troubles created tension along the western border.

With the growth of Tariff protection in Canada and the construction of the Canadian Pacific Railway, anti-American sentiment in Canada increased, Professor Callahan declares. The Taft reciprocity measure, in his view, was defeated in Canada by "a surprisingly conservative partisan reaction" which, besides rebuking the Liberals and Sir Wilfrid Laurier, resulted in a patriotic sacrifice of Canadian interests in an effort to prove Canadian independence in the consideration of trade policy. The reciprocal trade agreement of 1935 is chronicled without comment.

General Accord.

"What emerges from the record," said William MacDonald, reviewer for The Times, "is the persistent opposition of the British Government to the claims of the United States, and the general accord between the Canadian and British points of view. For this attitude, natural enough under the circumstances, accusation was often to be found in the largeness of the American sailing and the stout insistence with which they were urged.

"The attainment by Canada of full autonomy in foreign policy has made it possible to settle controversies by direct negotiations, and Prof. Callahan even goes so far as to suggest that the United States which promptly accepted a Dominion Minister at Washington in 1927 would 'probably' have approved an earlier suggestion of Canadian membership in the Pan-American Union if Canada had shown any disposition to join."

Aberhart Offers Resignation As Social Credit Chief

Frankly admitting that, in the 18 months of its existence his Social Credit government had not been able to put into effect its promised policy of a new economic order, Premier William Aberhart of Alberta, from the pulpit of the Calgary Prophetic Bible Institute where he preaches, told Social Credit supporters in the province that they should decide whether he is to remain in office or to resign. Resignations of cabinet members were mentioned as a hindrance. Hon. C. C. Ross (TOP CENTRE) and Hon. Charles Cocroft (TOP RIGHT) have both resigned in the last few months. In a typical speaking pose, the Bible class teacher who became Canada's first Social Credit premier, is shown at LEFT addressing a dinner audience. The premier is again pictured (LOWER RIGHT) when, with Attorney-General J. W. Hugill shown beside him, he travelled to Ottawa in a vain effort to secure financial assistance from the federal government.

HAS HARD NAMES FOR PROFITEERS

London Paper Finds Glaring Instances In High Cost Of Seats

LONDON, March 3 (C.P.). — Annoyed by the sudden growth of what it terms "vultures" profiteering on the Coronation, the News-Chronicle has been tracking down some of the more glaring instances. The paper wonders if these receipts will swell the income tax returns for this year.

A householder on the procession route whose view of the route was considerably marred by trees had been approached by a syndicate which offered her $2,000 if she would let 120 people stand in the windows. The syndicate is selling seats elsewhere for $100 a person.

A Bloomsbury boarding-house keeper was offered $25 a week for each of his 20 rooms by "an affluent gentleman from the North of England." The keeper turned down the offer, the News-Chronicle says, not because he sympathized with his regular tenants paying $5.00 a week, but because he was negotiating elsewhere for $50.00. The keeper was reported as not caring what was to happen to his regular tenants at the lower figure.

Route-site-roofs are offered for $15.000. In one place on the route is a narrow iron balcony. It will hold 12 chairs, to cost $240, and give standing-room for 14 behind at $25 a space. And behind them comes a window behind which there's another row of seats and behind them has been placed a raised platform for another row of standing observers.

An "obscure hotel 20 minutes from Piccadilly Circus" had a few rooms left at $11.00 a night.

A suburban householder suggests as a "bargain" a four-bedroom house on the suburban line for May at $500.

ONLY FOUR IN TEN BABIES LIVE YEAR

Heavy Mortality Among African Infants Is Described By Rev. A. Ridout

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CROOKSTOWN, March 3.—Before a large audience in Bethesda United Church, Rev. D. Ridout of Toronto, recently delivered a very interesting illustrated lecture of his adventures while touring through Angola, Africa.

He was accompanied by the Rev. Dr. Williams, also of Toronto, who, previous to the lecture, told to the children, an exciting story of an encounter with the heathen head-hunters of Formosa. These savages, according to Dr. Williams, insisted upon associating the word "brandy" with the civilized "white man" or "red-heads". So the task that had automatically been set was to bring these head-hunters to the realization that only the lower ranks of white men carry whiskey.

Took Many Snapshorts

In his tour through the heart of Africa, Rev. Mr. Ridout stated that he took thousands of snapshots, a number of which were shown on the screen, illustrating his description. He explained that only 40 per cent. of the babies born lived to their first birthday, only 10 per cent. live to the age of maturity, and 100 per cent. of the natives have malaria fever. The death rate was chiefly due to the ignorance and superstitions of the parenz who relied entirely upon the tribal witch-doctor for the health and safety of her babe. When six months old the child was fed mashed corn which almost wholly constituted their diet. Thus the stomach must develop before the rest of the body and only the very strong infant could bear up under such a strain.

Mr. Ridout gave many other instances of African life but he was especially pleased to be able to state that the torturing witch-doctors were gradually giving way to the Christian Missionary healers and the original customs of worship were being replaced by the "New Doctrine."

DAWSON BEEBE HEADS NEW CLUB

Yorkshire Breeders Of Durham County Have Formed Strong Organization

As a cattle improvement program forty-eight weanling pure bred Yorkshire pigs were brought to Durham County early in May, 1936. These pigs were selected in Waterloo and Middlesex Counties by Mr. W. F. Watson, Ontario Live Stock Branch, from litters of advanced registery sows or sows bred from advanced registry stock. The pigs were distributed amongst twenty-two interested farmers, and gilts will farrow their first litters this spring.

At a meeting of these breeders held at Bowmanville recently, it was decided to enter four pigs of each litter under a feeding project whereby the efficiency of the various sows will be learned. The Provincial and Dominion Departments of Agriculture are each co-operating to make this scheme possible. It is expected that some excellent breeding stock will be available this fall for those wishing to improve the quality of their swine.

It was also decided to form a Durham Yorkshire Breeders' Club and the following Executive and Directors were appointed:

New York Woman Seeks To Encourage Heroism In Peace Times

NEW YORK, March 3—(CP)—Six peace prizes for "deeds of heroism without violence," as contrasted with "heroism on the battlefield," will be awarded in connection with New York City's Peace Week, the second week in May.

The prizes—suitably-engraved silver cups—will go to two civil service employes, two laymen and two children. They are being donated by Mrs. J. Sergeant Cram, a leader in the peace movement, who said she hoped they would encourage interest in everyday acts of bravery and help to turn popular imagination from heroic feats enacted at the expense of humanity.

A jury will select the recipients.

NEW YORK WANTS BRAWNY FIREMEN

Education Good Too Committee Says, But Strength Essential

NEW YORK, March 3—(CP)—The Municipal Civil Service Commission of New York has decided that it wants its firemen brawny as well as brainy. The argument began over a proposal to make the physical examination for would-be firemen merely a qualifying one while at the same time requiring that recruits be high school graduates.

Protest arose from those who liked avoirdupois in their firemen. They said they would sooner see a big he-man with strong arms coming up the ladder on a business call than a slim youth with glasses and an adequate knowledge of the binomial theorem. They felt it didn't matter even if he didn't know that he was operating on the hypotenuse of a right-angled triangle.

Battalion Chief David J. Oliver, chief instructor of the fire department, held definite views in the matter: "You can't take the square root of a fire in a building. The physical standards used by the commission are too low now. Why, I've seen men pass a civil service examination for firemen at 100 per cent., and they weren't able to carry a 25-foot ladder weighing 85 pounds across the training yard, 35 feet, in an upright position.

"Education is always to be desired," Oliver admitted, "but fire-fighting is hard, dirty work and you need a good back, a good pair of legs and two good eyes."

The hearing to sound out public opinion on the issue seemed to put an end to the proposal.

Many new industries are being established at Calcutta, India.

Suffered With Sciatica For 25 Years

Those who are subject to sciatica should read this letter from one who suffered for years before she found out how to obtain relief.—

"For 25 years I suffered from sciatica in my right side, and I had backaches which forced me to remain in bed for two or three weeks at a time. When I got up in the mornings my arms and legs used to pain me almost unbearably. One day I heard of Kruschen Salts. I took a bottle of them without feeling much improvement. I tried a second bottle, and that time I felt better. I have kept on taking Kruschen ever since." —(Mrs.) H. L.

The pains of sciatica are frequently caused by an excess of uric acid in the body. Two of the ingredients of Kruschen Salts are notable for their work in dissolving uric acid. Other ingredients of these salts assist the internal organs to expel the dissolved acid from the system.

BRITISH ARMY OUTLAY SOARS TO 410 MILLION

Government Increases Demand By $131,000,000 To Add Men And Equipment

GREATEST SINCE WAR

Modification In Physical Standards Due To Mechanization Aids Recruiting

By George Hambleton
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

LONDON, March 4.—(CP Cable).—Britain's bill for armaments still climbs skyward. Army estimates for 1937 passed to-day, providing for an increase of £26,393,000 over 1936. With yesterday's estimates they contemplate an army and navy expenditure in 1937 of £187,339,000 ($936,195,000). And the air estimates have still to come.

Of the total naval expenditure of 1937, £37,000,000 will be money borrowed under authority of the £400,000,000 Defence Loans Bill. The remainder will be raised from revenue. Of £52,174,000 army expenditure for the year, £19,064,000 will be borrowed money. The remainder will be from revenue.

They comprise the biggest armaments bill Britain has ever known in times of peace. In 1922, Britain's army estimates totalled £52,500,000. They steadily dropped to £36,482,000 in 1932. By 1935 they had climbed to £43,560,000. Last year, including a supplementary estimate of £8,600,000, they were £50,681,000.

Principal changes proposed are in the organization of the various arms.

Mechanizing All Cavalry

In cavalry of the line, five regiments at home are in the process of mechanization and two regiments in Egypt will be on an experimental basis.

In the Royal Artillery, it is hoped to complete the mechanization of field artillery. A second Survey Company is to be formed.

In the Royal Engineers, the second half of an Anti-Aircraft Battalion is required for a second Anti-Aircraft Group to be formed.

In the Royal Corps of Signals, a mobile division will be formed, into which the Cavalry Signals and the Tank Brigade Signals will be absorbed. A second corps of signals also will be formed. Mechanization of five divisional signal groups will be completed.

In the Foot Guards and Infantry of the line, all battalions of Foot Guards and infantry serving at home, with the exception of units of the Fourth Division, will be reorganized or will be in the process of re-organization as rifle or machine gun battalions with mechanized first-line transport by April 1. Battalions in Colonial garrisons will commence re-organization October 1. Two battalions of infantry to be raised will be added to the Royal Inniskilling Fusiliers and the Royal Irish Fusiliers which have only one battalion each.

Another Tank Battalion

In the Royal Tank Corps, a seventh tank battalion is to be formed.

The strength of the Regular Army, inclusive of British troops in India and Burma, at the beginning of the financial year will be approximately 560 officers and 20,200 other ranks below the recruiting establishment. During the year the number of men leaving the Army will be approximately 27,000. Recruits required therefore will be about 47,200.

His car was found early to-day by a county constable near Bismark. Todd, who apparently had walked from Bismark, was in a highly nervous condition when he reached his mother's home. Provincial police brought the car back to Niagara Falls.

Funeral of Mrs. Todd will take place to-day. Mrs. Todd was stricken with pneumonia Sunday and died Tuesday, leaving two small children.

King Starts For Conference With Roosevelt

Expected To Discuss Extended Trade Pact Arms, Peace, Seaway

Premier Hopes Also To Consider Questions Likely To Follow Imperial Conference

HOLIDAY WEEK, TEN DAYS

Be Back In Time To Attend Last Of Parliament Set To Close By April 15

TORONTO, March 4 — (C.P.). — Prime Minister Mackenzie King rested here to-day en route to Washington where he will visit President Roosevelt before going to an unannounced Atlantic seaboard resort for a holiday.

The Premier left Ottawa last night after announcing his intention of visiting Washington. He will arrive in the American Capital tomorrow, lunching with Sir Herbert Marler, Canadian Minister to the United States, and going to the White House in the afternoon for conversations with the President.

He will spend the night at the White House, return to the Canadian Legation thereafter and leave Monday for a holiday of a week or 10 days. Last year he went to Sea Island, off the coast of Georgia, but it was not known if he would return there.

Before he left Ottawa the Prime Minister said an opportunity would be provided by his visit to the White House to talk with the President on "matters of mutual interest to the United States and Canada."

Some Possible Topics

It was believed these matters might include means of extending the measure of trade reciprocity already achieved in the Canadian-United States commercial agreement and, perhaps, the general world situation arising from Europe's arms race and threats to peace in which both countries are vitally concerned. The St. Lawrence seaway was seen as another possible topic of conversation.

Mr. Mackenzie King declared his holiday was intended not only as a rest after the grind of ceremonies for the Parliamentary session and the session itself, but as an opportunity for him to consider, among other things, "some of the questions likely to arise at the Imperial Conference" which follows the Coronation, May 12. Among these, almost certainly, will be questions connected with the arms race and Empire defence.

The Premier indicated he would return to Ottawa in plenty of time to take part in the last part of the Parliamentary session which is expected to end by April 15 at the latest.

Invitation From President.

OTTAWA, March 4 (C.P.). — Prime Minister Mackenzie King will spend the week-end in Washington, part of the time at the White House as the guest of President Roosevelt, it was announced here last night. The President invited him in a letter of February 19, stating he had several matters he wished to talk over.

Following the Washington visit, Mr. King will spend a week or ten days at some point on the Atlantic Coast. This will give him an opportunity to study questions which will

Score Injured

Seven men were rushed to hospital, three suffering serious injury, while a score were less badly hurt when four hundred men, armed with clubs and crowbars rushed the strike bound Holmes Foundry Co. plant at Sarnia, and engaged in a terrific hand to hand encounter with strikers inside the factory. In full view of hundreds of citizens, the battle raged on the roof of the plant as non strikers sought to oust the striking workers who took possession of the plant and flouted police orders to evacuate. Here is one of the casualties being carried from the scene of action as the battle raged.

IL DUCE DEMANDS BIGGER FAMILIES TO BOLSTER ARMY

Slaps Heavy Burdens On Bachelors And Childless Husbands

WANTS 60 MILLION BY 1950

ROME, March 4—(A.P.).—Italy launched a seven-point drive to-day to increase the birth rate for "military power" and "a secure future for the Fatherland."

The Fascist Grand Council, with Premier Mussolini presiding, outlined the provisions designed to halt Italy's declining birth rate and assure more children for Fascist armies of the future.

The plan, placing heavy economic burdens on bachelors and childless husbands, was the second such step to be taken by the council in its current series of meetings.

Monday night the council acted to strengthen the Italian army of the present, drafting all able-bodied men into 23 years of periodic service between the ages of 18 and 55.

Last night's meeting, lasting into the early morning, was concerned with making sure that man-power would be available in the future.

Under the program adopted by the Grand Council, bitchest governing body of Fascism heads of large families will receive not only preference in employment, but wage increases in proportion to the number of children born to them.

"On large families," a communique explained, "in exceptional times for the Fatherland will fall the heavier sacrifices and greater contributions of men."

Salaries will be fixed for families rather than for individuals, and taxes will be revised to assure stability of living conditions for large families.

Wedding Loans and Dowries

Loans will be made to enable couples to marry, the state will assist in providing dowries for brides and will sponsor insurance for young workmen.

The other points in the program were: formation of a big families' association; revision of provincial and municipal boundaries to permit the absorption of provinces and districts whose lack of population growth no longer justifies the maintenance of separate public institutions; creation of an organization to promote and control the drive. The problem of population became urgent when statistics disclosed this year previous inducements toward large families had failed.

Mussolini, who boasts 8,000,000 Italians can take the field of battle, set a population of 60,000,000 by 1950 as essential if Italy is to remain a great power. Last year's census set the current figure at just under 45,000,000.

Hanging over the heads of the childless was the additional threat of directly punitive measures such as increased bachelor taxes and confiscatory levies on estates of small families, both of which measures were rejected last night only after nearly five hours of argument.

Children Hold Tax Parade To Keep Their Schools Open

Officials Resort To Strategy When New Jersey Town Finds $500,000 Owing

SCHEME BRINGS IN $3,000

LAKEWOOD, N.J., March 4 (C.P.).—Officials of Lakewood, a community owing nearly $500,000 in back taxes, turned to-day to new tax propaganda plans and gleefully noted increased returns from their latest effort—a children's parade to impress on adults the need for prompt payment.

Under the direction of town officials the school children marched down Lakewood's main street yesterday carrying banners reading: "All good Americans pay their taxes." "Keep our schools open," and "Be wise and taxilize."

At the main street intersection the paraders halted and, to a crowd of 2,000 adults that watched them, they sang this song:

"Oh, we have to pay our taxes or the town will soon go flat,
And we have to pay our taxes to keep Lakewood on the map.
The kids will read the streets all day unless the schools go on,
So get in line and do your bit and help us sing our song.
Pay up, Lakewood! We simply have to win.
For we must pay our taxes now or take it on the chin."

As a result, municipal officials said, yesterday's tax returns increased $3,000.

Sight, Hearing Return Man Credits Prayer

Ingersoll, Ont., March 4

JAMES Gibbs, who lost his speech and hearing nearly three years ago when he was shocked by lightning as he sat in his home in this Oxford county town, could speak and hear to-day and he attributed his recovery to prayer.

Partially paralyzed by the shock Gibbs has recovered his faculties, by the treatment which began three weeks ago after he visited Dr. John G. Hunt of London. He said Dr. Hunt urged him to go to Church and to have faith and pray.

"That was three weeks ago," he said, "I prayed. I went to church. I permitted him to direct my every move and felt that he was doing so. Now my speech and hearing have returned as suddenly as they left. I am happy."

Two Of Seven In Hospital In Critical Conditions—No Strikers To Be Rehired

The outcome of the fight in and around the foundry was the eviction of the "sit-downers" by the men who desired to continue work.

Condition of Mike Pipiki and Peter Tomko, two participants in the struggle, was causing concern. Tomko has a fractured spine, Pelvis, ankle and wrist. "As good as can be expected" was the word of attending physicians. Pipiki, with a skull fracture is in "fair condition."

Drunk Gives $3 Away So He Gets Fined $10

London, Ont., March 4.

IT wasn't that he drank, but his generous heart which got Everett Colwell, 35, into trouble.

He stood in the business section of London last night, giving away quarters and Constable Taylor thought the procedure so extraordinary, he arrested him on a charge of being drunk.

"He gave away $3 worth of quarters—he was drunk," said Taylor in court today.

"He met a man coming out of a hotel. He said to him, 'Here's a quarter. Go and have some lunch.' The man said he had his lunch He said: 'Take the quarter anyway. Have some lunch tomorrow.'"

"Now that I hear it this morning, I guess I must have been drunk," said Colwell.

Colwell gave away so much he couldn't pay his $10 fine.

TOO MANY DRUGS HARD ON THE MIND

Toronto Physician Explains Effects During Trial Of Convict Crosley

KINGSTON, Ont., March 4—(CP).—Cross-examination of Dr. Julian Loudon, Chief Physician of St. Michael's Hospital, Toronto, by W. P. Nickle, K.C., continued to-day at the trial of Convict Chester Crosley, charged with the murder of Guard John McCormick at the Kingston Penitentiary. Crosley had to be assisted into the courtroom by a guard and was unsteady as he took his place in the prisoner's dock.

By means of an X-ray picture, Dr. Loudon outlined how a drug injected into the blood gets to the brain. There was a discussion between the witness and defence counsel regarding anaesthetics and the effect of each on individuals. The history of the black race was also discussed.

"What would the probable outcome of a child of his father and his own sister be?" asked Mr. Nickle. "Would it not bridge out the irresponsible side of the parents?"

"It might," replied Dr. Loudon, "though it might not in the first generation."

Dr. Loudon said that the mind might become poisoned by constant use of drugs and judgment might be impaired. He said that when he had said he never heard of anyone being addicted to ephidrine, he would not say that it was not possible to be so; merely, in his experience he had never encountered such a person.

Dr. Loudon, in discussing addicts, said that they would do almost anything to get drugs, especially those addicted to cocaine or morphine. He said he did not know the effect of three and a half grains of ephidrine intravenously because he has never seen it done. What effect a drug would have on an individual could only be seen by observation of the person to whom given.

Dr. Loudon admitted that ephidrine might have an effect on Chester of giving him a sense of well-being and it might develop that the man would develop a craving for the drug.

FURNITURE STRIKE SOLUTION HOPES BRIGHT SAYS FINE

No Agreement Likely However Before Ten O'Clock Tonight He Admits

DETAILS KEPT SECRET

TORONTO, March 4 (C.P.). — Possibility of settlement in Ontario's strike of furniture workers was described as "getting brighter" to-day after a preliminary conference between manufacturers and union representatives of the 1,000 or more strikers.

Under the chairmanship of Louis Fine, industrial standards officer appointed mediator by the Provincial Department of Labor, representatives of 10 manufacturers and delegates from several branches of the International Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners met at the Legislative Buildings.

At noon adjournment, Mr. Fine said he could only "report progress." Andrew Cooper, union organiser, said the outlook was more hopeful. He predicted, however, that the conference was unlikely to reach agreement before 10 o'clock to-night.

While details of discussions were not made public, it was believed representatives of the workers pressed for uniform wage and working hours agreements in Western Ontario.

Too Many Bachelors Caused Small Village To Disappear

Lifford Village Disappeared Years Ago To Become Known As Lifford Line

103 PUPILS IN SCHOOL

LINDSAY, Ont., March 4.—(CP)—The village of Lifford, a few miles west of Bethany in Manvers Township, ceased to function as a village many years ago and disinterested into what is known as "the Lifford Line", to all appearances just an ordinary rural community.

Richard Wilson, born on the outskirts of Lifford, 82 years ago today, says there is a reason why small villages have faded out by one until they disappear altogether. "There are too many bachelors," Mr. Wilson says. "It is a mistake for any young man to remain single. Every one should marry but not too young, between 25 and 45. I would say and make it his ambition to establish a home and raise a family." Mr. Wilson contends.

Mr. Wilson, born on the farm on which he still resides, is hale and hearty. His father cleared the land on his farm more than 100 years ago when neighbors visited after nights only if they carried a lighted flare to frighten wolves.

Mr. Wilson recalls that school attendance was much greater in the district in the early days. 103 pupils, many of them never seen with moustaches and young ladies of 19 and up attended the frame cottage school house. Only 12 pupils attend the school now.

Two Critically Hurt As Auto Is Wrecked By C.N. Way-Freight

Driver, Found Dead Behind Wheel, Believed Blinded By Snowstorm

ON WAY TO BELLEVILLE

Had Stopped Back of Crossing, Just Started Up For Peterboro', Lindsay Says Engineer

BELLEVILLE, Ont., March 4.—(CP)—Two men were killed and two others are expected to die of injuries received when their motor car was struck today by a Lindsay-bound freight train at Corbyville level crossing four miles north of here, about 9 o'clock this morning.

The dead:

Bernard Herity, 32, of Moira, in Hastings county, driver of the car.

Henry Emmerson, 30, of Moira.

The injured:

Morley Vanderwater, Moira.

Albert Clare, Moira.

The injured were removed to the Belleville General hospital with Dr. E. O. Kennedy in attendance. It was reported neither was likely to recover.

The dead were removed to an undertaking parlor, where an inquest has been ordered by Dr. F. G. Wallbridge. There were no eye-witnesses of the crash excepting the engine crew of the freight train.

Blinded By the Snow

The four men were riding towards Belleville, while the train was proceeding westerly and due to poor visibility, as it was snowing, it was believed by Provincial Police the driver of the car, Bernard Herity, did not see the train. The wreckage was strewn along the tracks for a short distance and the driver was behind the wheel when taken from the vehicle. Emmerson was found in the front seat.

The way-freight train, comprising only a dozen cars, was on a branch line between Belleville and Peterborough. The engineer said he had stopped "only two or three telegraph poles" back from the crossing and was just getting under way again when the crash occurred.

"I thought something had broken in the front part of the engine when we heard the crash," the fireman said.

Provincial Sergeant Thompson and Provincial Constable Sam Irvine of Belleville investigated the crash.

WOODPILE DEATH DRESDEN WOMAN LABELLED MURDER

Charge Laid Against Husband, Walter Turner—Remand Given Pending Inquest

CROWN RAPS PUBLICITY

CHATHAM, March 4 — (CP). — Walter Turner was formally charged before Magistrate Arnold in police court this morning here with the murder of his wife evelyn, whose body was found a week ago under a pile of firewood in their home at Dresden.

Turner was remanded pending completion of arrangements for an inquest into the circumstances of the woman's death and the preliminary hearing which will immediately follow. The dates for these proceedings have not yet been made.

Before departure to-day for Florida for a brief vacation, Crown Attorney H. D. Smith, K.C., issued a statement in which he appealed for a restraint of comment on the part of the public in connection with the case.

Crown Issues Warning

The Crown Attorney's statement follows:

"After investigation by police officers, and consultation with a pathologist at Toronto, the Crown is laying a charge of murder against Walter Turner.

"The Crown wishes to call attention to the fact that ther have appeared in the newspapers some pretty strong statements prejudicial to the accused which may or may not be justified.

"Considering that the whole matter is sub judice, such statements are mere or less contempt of court, they do not tend to give the accused a fair trial which, to British law and precedent, is the aim of the Crown in all cases.

"It is suggested that inasmuch as there will be an inquest and a preliminary trial, the evidence at which, no doubt, will be reported, other comment about this case should be restrained in order that when the case does come to trial the accused will not be prejudiced by any feeling created by reason of such comments, and that the Crown may not be prejudiced by reason of such.

"In other words, it is the desire of the authorities that the matter be proceeded with in the regular way, having due regard to the manner in which trials in this country are conducted."

Turner has been in custody at the county jail on a nominal charge of vagrancy since he was arrested by Provincial Police within 12 hours of the discovery of his wife's body in the woodshed.

MONKS' FORTRESS TO BE STORMED

Desert Monastery Been Defying All Authorities For Months In Dispute Over Abbot

CAIRO, Egypt, March 4 (CP) — The Egyptian government today ordered police to attack a desert monastery where embattled monks have been on a "stay-in" strike for months, refusing to admit either church or civil authorities.

The monks, of the Coptic faith, refuse to leave the monastery of Dier-El-Moharrak, near Assiut, unless the present abbot is dismissed.

The local governor was directed to send a large force of police to the monastery which is built like a fortress, surrounded by a 15-foot wall and bulwarked by massive steel doors. The police were ordered to avoid bloodshed if possible but to retaliate if attacked and to take the monastery at all costs. The monks are armed and have a large supply of food.

FAITH IN CANADA IS URGED BY DREW

Spirit of Optimism In Country's Outlook Must Be Developed

TRENTON, March 4. — "This country will have no worth-while future unless every young Canadian has faith in what the country has to offer," Col. George A. Drew told the men's club of St. George's church.

"Canada was built to its present state by the faith of our forefathers," he said. "A spirit of optimism in the country's outlook must again be developed."

Stating that democracy has disappeared from most countries, Col. Drew believed that Canada "is not any more immune to the disease of dictatorship" than any other country.

MANAGEMENT HELD TO BLAME N.S. MINE CASE

Failed To Adopt Precautionary Measures At Moose River Workings Says Commission

PILLARS REMOVED

Officials Also Criticized For Not Reporting Renewal Of Operations To The Government

HALIFAX, March. 4. — (CP) — Finding of a commission which investigated the collapse of the Moose River Gold Mine last April were before the Nova Scotia legislature today.

Responsibility for the cave-in which imprisoned Dr. D. E. Robertson and Alfred Soadding underground for 10 days and caused the death of Herman Magill of Toronto, owner of the mine, was placed by the commission on the management of the mine "in that they did not adopt adequate precautionary measures in their operation for safeguarding the property and the lives of the men who were employed there."

"The immediate and direct cause of the collapse of the Magill shaft was the removal of the pillars remaining in the 14-foot level," the report stated. Evidence showed ore had been removed from natural pillars supporting the mine, weakening the roof support of certain sections.

"While the placing of additional timber in the working places and in the Magill shaft might have afforded temporary relief," it was reported, "it could only have delayed the collapse for a short time, because we consider that the structure of the strata left in this portion of the mine was of such a tender nature that it was not in condition to withstand further strain without giving way."

Safeguards Ignored.

"Therefore the management must accept responsibility for the collapse in that they did not adopt adequate precautionary measures in their operation for safe-guarding the property and the lives of the men who were employed there."

"The ordinary safety precautions as practised by practical miners from day to day were not sufficient to meet the demands of a situation of this kind. It required in addition, special engineering practise and the benefit of expert advice before any move was made to remove ore from pillars which might tend to weaken the mine structure."

Management of the mine was criticised for not having reported renewal of operations to the government; for not making regular inspections of the mine, and for "negligence in caring for the condition" of supports in the only shaft into the mine.

Mayor Long Of Campbellford Has Conference With Gair Officials

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Mar. 4. — An interview with Mayor F. P. Long, who has just returned from Toronto where he went as a member of a delegation to wait on the officers of the Gair Co., which has recently purchased the Canada Paper Board's plant here revealed that although the company was favorably impressed with Campbellford's offer of cheap power and a low fixed assessment they were at the present time working on some product which would be particularly adapted for manufacture in this plant.

"It is possible", said the mayor, "that the plant may open within the next six months and although nothing definite has actually been decided I have returned with the assurance that the outcome of this trip will be a pleasing one to the citizens of Campbellford." Other members of the delegation included Reeve E. H. McKeel, chairman of the water and light committee; J. O. Benor and Mr. P. C. Denyes.

100 MILLION RAISE FOR STEEL MEN

Organized Labor Chiefs Of U.S. Hail Fourth Major Pay Boost Of Year

WASHINGTON, March 4 (A.P.). —Organized labor members of the United States hailed to-day the fourth major pay boost of 1937, which they hope will put $100,000,000 a year more in the pay envelopes of steel workers.

They acked the steel advance to these earlier increases:

A gain, for Pacific Coast Maritime workers, excepting Longshoremen, won after a 98-day strike.

A $20,000,000 wage gain for General Motors workers, announced the day that strike was settled. This followed by a few days a $14,000,000 raise for Chrysler workers.

A 12 per cent. pay boost for 135,000 members of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers, amounting to $30,000,000 a year, which becomes effective in the men's clothing industry May 13. This increase required from collective bargaining without a strike.

Two other huge increases have been asked. The United Mine Workers have demanded a 15 per cent. boost with a guaranteed annual income of $1,300 starting April 1 in the soft coal fields.

The railroad unions have asked a 20 per cent. boost that would raise the Carriers' wage bill an estimated $360,000,000 a year. Negotiations probably will start this month.

Noticing a peculiar smell coming from the radiator of his car, D. M. Hart of East London, Africa, found that an owl had roosted itself on the carburetor.

Arctic Trader's Wife Prefers It Lonely

Edmonton, March 4 (CP)

THERE'S entirely too much fuss made from the Far North — especially about women—according to Mrs. Kay Ross, furthest north white woman, who lives on Read Island in the Arctic Ocean with her husband, Hudson's Bay Company trader.

Interviewed here today while being manicured in a beauty parlor, Mrs. Ross said there was one reason she would be "tickled" to get back to Read Island, about 1,500 air miles north of Edmonton, and that was because "there aren't any reporters up that way."

Mrs. Ross arrived here last night by airplane from Read Island. Married last June 8, she left a week later on a 2,500-mile boat trip and arrived at the lonely outpost October 3 after her boat had been delayed by ice floes.

SUPPLEMENTARY ESTIMATES TOTAL OVER 96 MILLION

Monthly Relief Grants To Provinces Set At 19 Million With $7 Mors For Work Projects

YEAR'S TOTAL $506,528,704

OTTAWA, March 4.—(CP)— The House today had before it estimates of government expenditures for the fiscal year starting next April 1 totalling $506,528,704, indicating the administration may not bring down further estimates this session.

Yesterday's supplementary estimates, tabled by Finance Minister Dunning, called for votes of $96,063,307 compared with supplementaries for the 1936-37 fiscal year of $134,748,743. Added to them were main estimates tabled last January of $410,465,397 which compared with $391,973,407 provided in last year's main estimates. The 1937-38 total so far is $19,193,646 less than that of 1936-37.

Whether any further supplementaries would be brought down this session was not known, but it was indicated none would be, or that, if any were, they would be small as Finance Minister Dunning forecast in his budget speech last week total expenditures for the next fiscal year of about $530,000,000.

Yesterday's supplementaries indicated the government expects costs of unemployment relief next fiscal year will be less than the bill of more than $36,000,000 that will have been run up by the end of this month. The estimate for monthly grants-in-aid to the provinces for relief was $19,000,000.

Rogers to Explain Division.

There was nothing to indicate how the vote will be apportioned between the provinces but it was expected Labor Minister Rogers would explain this to the House when the item is reached during discussion in committee of supply.

The dominion pays lump sums to each of the provinces and the rates to recipients are fixed by the provinces and municipalities.

Notwithstanding the reduction, the item for relief was second largest in the supplementaries, first place going to an "amount not exceeding $35,000,000" to cover the net income deficits of the Canadian National Railways for the calendar year 1937.

Grants-in-aid, however, were not the only monies earmarked to help the unemployed. Various employment measures, including a $7,331,000 dominion contribution to provincial and municipal relief projects, totalled $16,288,400 in the estimates.

WELSH ATTACKS HEALTH BRANCH

Provincial Department In Worst Condition Since Founded Says Hastings Member

TORONTO, March 4. — A charge that the Provincial Department of Health was in "the worst condition since it was founded," was made yesterday by Dr. Harold E. Welsh, Conservative member of the Legislature for East Hastings, at a luncheon meeting of the Conservative Business Men's Club.

Referring to his recent claims that "terrible and disgraceful" conditions existed in Ontario mental hospitals, the East Hastings physician declared that even had his charges been unprofessional they were still justified if they helped unfortunate people in the mental institutions. "If I have succeeded in helping these people, surely the means justifies the end," he said.

The Conservative reviewed the recent by-election battle and made a veiled charge that the Hepburn Government had employed civil servants to help the Liberal cause. "Certain members of the Civil Service, acting like a shadow horde, went up and down the highways and into the lumber camps," said he. These men were in addition to the twenty-four Liberal members of the Legislature and the eight Cabinet Ministers who had sponsored the Liberal fight, he declared.

The balance of the meeting was given over to routine business after which the pay sheet was passed and the meeting adjourned.

Battle Ice To Bring First Cargo Of Season

The Great Lakes' shipping season opens at the earliest date in years, due to a mild winter. Here we see the whaleback steamer, South Park, arriving at Cleveland breakwater from Detroit with the first cargo of automobiles for the season. A third steamer, Coralia, was trapped in the ice as it approached Cleveland, but was freed by a tug and made port with more autos.

Sentence Suspended On Charge Of Criminal Negligence Following Accident

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LINDSAY, Mrach 4.—John Coles, of Galt, and at present a resident of Peterborough, was yesterday given suspended sentence in the police court by Magistrate Gee on the charge of criminal negligence. The accused must pay the costs, and his driver's license will be cancelled for one month. C. N. Gordon, K.C., of Peterborough, appeared for the accused and informed the court that the young man had no previous court record and that he had settled the civil claims in connection with the accident. The charge arose out of an accident on the Lindsay-Peterborough highway on February 12, when a car driven by Coles crashed into a car containing a number of Lindsay curlers who were returning from Peterborough.

Twenty-eight years ago she was united in marriage to Charles Smith, a well-known theatrical producer. She was a member of the Actors' Equity of America, Kawartha Chapter I.O.D.E., and also a member of St. Paul's Anglican Church. Besides her mother and husband, deceased is survived by one brother and two sisters.

ROWE BELIEVES ELECTION IS NEAR

Says School Tax Question Getting Worse And Tide Of Opinion Rising

TORONTO, March 4 (CP)—Hon. Earl Rowe, Ontario Conservative leader, in a statement issued from party headquarters at the legislative buildings last night said he believed an early election is impending in Ontario.

"The school tax question is getting worse and the tide of opinion on this subject is rising," the statement said. "The premier is going to the country before it gathers greater momentum."

The statement said Premier Hepburn had bungled the Hydro Electric Power contracts situation:

"Voltage had been reduced on the Niagara system to avoid a crisis, with a resultant loss of revenue on 100,000 horsepower," the statement said. "Customers have been abandoned or given the cold shoulder, incurring a loss of splendid industries to the province."

JOHNSON OFFERED 2-YEAR CONTRACT

Metropolitan Indicates Confidence In Guelph Manager's Past Record

NEW YORK, March 4 (CP) — Tribute to the work of Edward Johnson as manager of the Metropolitan Opera Association was seen today in a two-year contract tendered the Guelph, Ont., tenor by the Metropolitan directors.

For the first time in six years, directors said, the Metropolitan was considering plans for more than one season at a time. It was understood Johnson would accept the contract.

The contract was viewed as an indication the directors considered the Metropolitan, under Johnson's management, was on the road back to better days.

Johnson assumed management of the Metropolitan in the spring of 1935 after the death of Herbert Witherspoon who had only just been selected for the post. Previously Johnson was Witherspoon's assistant in charge of the spring season.

It was emphasized by the directors, however, that the Metropolitan is not yet out of the red though this season's deficit will be smaller than at any time since the depression.

Will Extend Season

To bring the Metropolitan's finances back to the credit side of the leader, where they were kept by Giulio Gatti-Casazza, John's predecessor for two decades up to 1929, the management announced plans to extend the season, probably to 16 weeks.

For the last four years the season has been 14 weeks. There was one term, 1932-33, when it was 16 weeks and before that it was 24. The tour in the spring of 1938 will also be lengthened, the management said.

Offer of a two-year contract to Johnson means he will be free to undertake negotiations for a similar period with the artists. No change in ticket prices is planned and the top price will remain at $7 for orchestra seats.

LIBERAL POLICY REGARDING WORK RAKED OVER COALS

Denton Massey Charges National Employment Commission Has Cost $87,416 To Date

SAYS BENEFITS DOUBTFUL

OTTAWA, March 4 (CP)—Hopes for speedy adoption of the budget by the House have not been borne out and it is expected it will occupy members for the rest of this week, and possibly part of next. Yesterday five members of the Conservative, C.C.F., and Social Credit parties united in bitterly denouncing the government for failure to take measures against the unemployment evil.

Debate was continued on Conservative leader Bennett's want-of-confidence amendment deploring the government's alleged failure to take effective measures to solve the unemployment problem. The same debate will continue tomorrow and even if the amendment is disposed of several members have announced their intention of speaking on the main motion.

C.C.F. leader James S. Woodsworth, declaring the unemployment problem had been in existence so long its sermonnese was not appreciated, led yesterday's attack on the government. The government had not even touched the problem of the great masses, Mr. Woodsworth declared.

Had Mr. Bennett not moved the amendment he would have done so himself, said Mr. Woodsworth. A few years ago he had supported the Liberals when they attacked the Bennett government in the same way. Now he was supporting the Conservatives. It appeared the attitude of the older parties to the unemployment problem was the same.

CHAPLEAU INDIAN WOMAN ACQUITTED IN FATAL SHOOTING

Jury Out Only 20 Minutes To Find Killing Of Brother-In-Law Justifiable

BREAKING INTO HOUSE

SUDBURY, Ont., March 4.—(CP)—Mrs. Agnes Saylors, 33-year-old Chapleau Indian, was free to-day from a charge of murdering her brother-in-law, Willie Saylors, 30, whom she shot through the head when he attempted to break into her home January 24. Retiring but 20 minutes after receiving the charge from Mr. Justice E. T. E. Chevrier last night, the jury at her one-day trial brought in an acquittal.

The young mother showed no emotion throughout the trial and seemingly did not understand what was meant as W. Henderson, Copper Cliff, delivered his jury's verdict. As she was led from the prisoner's box Rev. Canon Prevet spoke to her in the Ojibway language, but she showed no animation as she joined her husband, Henry, 46, and left the court room a free woman.

Practically all the evidence for both Crown and defence was based on statements made by Mrs. Saylors on the night of the shooting. It was testified Willie Saylors, under the influence of wine, came to the house where his sister-in-law was alone, except for her four-year-old daughter.

Refused admittance, Willie found an axe and threw it through one of the windows, striking her on the leg. Mrs. Saylors said. Taking up the rifle she ordered him away and fired three shots. Willie started to kick in the door and got his head, shoulders and one leg inside when Mrs. Saylors shot him. Wrapping her child in a blanket she fled to a neighbor's house to await her husband and police to whom she related the story.

"This was neither manslaughter nor murder, but justifiable homicide in defence of her home," O. E. Buchanan, defence counsel, told the jury. E. D. Wilkins, Crown Attorney, intimated the woman did not tell the full story of what occurred that night.

Evidence showed Willie met the woman in the afternoon and struck her for no apparent reason. He had been drinking and drank some more during the evening, the court was told.

"Even if there were illicate relations a woman has the right to defend herself if she says 'No'," Mr. Justice Chevrier told the jury in his address.

LOYALISTS REPORT TOLEDO ENTERED

Government Troops Now Converging Again On Alcazar, Scene Of Earlier Siege

MADRID, March 4.—(AP)—The newspaper Claridad reported today Government troops had entered the city of Toledo, held by the insurgents since September 27, when they relieved their comrades in the Alcazar fortress. There was no official confirmation of the report.

The newspaper said the Government soldiers advanced to positions near the Alcazar itself after a heavy bombardment by Government guns emplaced on the estate of Count Romanones, south of Toledo.

Claridad declared the Government commanders' objective in entering Toledo, 41 miles south of Madrid, was not so much to occupy the city as to prevent the insurgents from sending reinforcements to Talavera De La Reina.

That insurgent-held town, to the west, was practically surrounded by Government forces, the newspaper said.

SISTERS WEAKEN IN HUNGER STRIKE

Stay In Bed Foodless Ten Days When Brother Says He Can Support Them No Longer

SMITHVILLE, Ont., March 4.—(CP)—Without food for more than a week, two Clinton Township sisters today partially broke their 10-day, lie-down, hunger strike when they ate a small breakfast. Both remained in their bed in their unheated, second-floor bedroom while Lincoln county authorities sought peaceful means of removing them.

The sisters, Lodie and Mary Shackleton, went on their hunger-strike when asked by their brother, George, a Beamsville farmer, to vacate the house. "I can't afford to support Mary and Louie any longer," Mr. Shackleton said today. "They have caused a lot of trouble for me and wife and when I asked them to leave, they went upstairs to bed and would not eat. I don't know what to do."

This is not the first hunger strike of the two sisters. "Once or twice when we lived at home we had to do the same thing to get what we wanted," said Mary. "We are pretty well used to it and it doesn't seem to bother us much."

Louise, aged 44, said she always ate several lemons at the close of her periodic strikes. "They are good for you after you have been without food," she said.

Asking The Council

When a deputation of unemployed men in Peterborough waited on the City Council a spokesman said they did not want relief at all, but the desire was for work at decent wages, "so we will be able to banish the lie that the unemployed are lazy and good for nothing." There is no reason to believe the spokesman was not sincere, and we can recall of somewhat similar utterances having been made in other cities within recent years.

This demand which has been made on City Councils to provide work is a development of depression years. In normal times a City Council is not a large employer of labor. There are firemen and policemen, and men who operate the sewage disposal plant and the garbage system, and there are those who are employed by the Board of Works, Parks department, and so on. When these positions had been filled, then the city could be considered to be carrying its full staff, and the numbers would at no time be considered impressively large.

The change came when factories, offices and industry in general began to lay off men. The usual places of employment all became slack at the same time, so it was not much use for a man laid off at one plant to go and apply at another. Then it was that the movement began toward the City Councils. Men who had never worked for the municipality in normal times began to gather together and ask the Councils to give them work. It was as though the Council was expected to take up the slack of industry in the community and become a large employer of labor.

It is a recorded fact too that this demand for City Councils to increase their number of employees came at a time when there was a falling off in the payment of taxes, and for that reason the ratepayers, who are actually the employers of labor which works for the City Council, were in a poorer position to comply with the demand for greater employment.

No one can object to unemployed men approaching a City Council asking for work at fair wages, but it is well to understand that the application is being made to a body which is not necessarily a large employer of labor, and it is also a fact that work so done is largely of the non-productive type. It is different to that of a manufacturer who makes something which he can dispose of to commercial advantage. So it comes to this—continued application to the City Council of any community for a greater degree of employment is not the final solution of the unemployment problem.

A Better Atmosphere?

That was a surprising development in the Ontario Legislature the other night when Premier Hepburn publicly rebuked his colleague the Hon. Peter Heenan and afterwards expressed disgust at the conduct of the member for Kenora in his verbal battle with George S. Henry. The truth is that dignity and decorum have been so often missing from recent sessions of the Legislature and so many rude things have been said from time to time, with the Premier himself often the chief offender, that Old Man Ontario must have rubbed his eyes in amazement when he read that the Premier had adjourned the House merely because one of his ministers was firing broadsides across the floor.

In view of what has happened in other sittings that seems like trivial cause for halting proceedings but at the same time there will be a hope aroused in the province that the Premier's action presages the restoration of a more dignified transaction of public affairs. There has been too much of a free and easy atmosphere in recent years with even the spectators in the galleries feeling privileged to share in the debates by cheers and applause and we believe the people of Ontario would welcome a return to conditions more worthy of the Legislature of Canada's banner province. Mr. Hepburn must take a share of the blame for the laxity that has been in evidence; it will be a good thing for the amenities of public life if he has realized, as his rebuke of his offending colleague would seem to imply, that the time has come to give the debates in the Legislature a better atmosphere.

Poll Tax Defaulters

It is interesting to learn that there is a comparatively large number of citizens eligible to pay municipal poll tax in Peterborough who are in arrears at the present time and quite willing apparently to leave their account with the city in that unsatisfactory condition. Some young men of course have been without incomes and their failure to pay will be readily pardoned, but there does not seem to be any excuse that will justify the man who is steadily employed from failing to discharge his obligations to the community. One of the city officials points out that these men are only being asked to pay at the rate of about a cent and a half a day for all the privileges they enjoy as citizens. "When they find their bicycle stolen," he said "they don't hesitate to call in the services of the police department; if a fire broke out in the boarding house where they are living they would expect the fire brigade to hustle to the scene and give them protection. They use the sidewalks, drive over the roads the city provides, take advantage of the facilities for recreation offered by the public parks, avail themselves of the accommodation of the public library, in fact make heavy use of all the public services and yet some of them are quite willing to chisel the city treasury out of the $5 a year, that is all they are asked to pay for the many privileges of citizenship."

It is probable that some of the offenders have never looked at the thing in that way, just as it is even more probable that they do not know that if the machinery provided by the Ontario Assessment Act is made use of and a charge laid a fine of $10 for failure to pay poll tax is mandatory.

Better Out of Politics

As a general principle we are inclined to agree with Provincial Secretary Harry C. Nixon that there are already too many commissions in existence. At the same time, however, we must say that we have much sympathy for the game conservationists who argue that until the administration of Ontario's fish and game resources is taken out of politics by being relegated to the control of an independent body it is idle to look for the desired results in the direction of a progressive conservation policy.

There are so many controversial features about certain angles of the game and fishery laws for example that political control always runs into difficulties, inasmuch as the effect upon the army of voters of any particular regulation is usually taken into consideration by the politicians. The result is that the side that can make the biggest clamor often influences the trend of fish and game legislation and things are done, sometimes we are sure against the better judgment of those responsible, that are harmful rather than beneficial. A few hunters who are concerned only with their own selfish motives and who don't care whether they shoot bucks or does or what happens to the supply of game generally so long as they get their quota without too much trouble can set up a ballyhoo loud enough to stampede the passing of legislation that serves no useful purpose, in fact that sometimes has a destructive effect. A properly selected commission, not dependent upon votes, would not be so easily deceived or swayed by clamor of that kind.

Ample Warning

For many years there have been complaints over the damage done by the marketing of cattle with horns, a practice that has caused heavy losses through the bruising of beef and the tearing and scoring of hides. Government officials, livestock exchanges and many other organizations and individuals have repeatedly called attention to this matter. Agricultural scientists have provided a simple, inexpensive and safe method of treating calves to prevent the growth of horns. Other ways of removing horns are a matter of common knowledge and yet the condition today is that horns on cattle sent to market are as prevalent as in any period of the past.

However, a new factor is entering into the situation. The Industrial and Development Council of Canadian Meat Packers has decided that after May 1st of this year cattle buyers will pay $1.00 per head less for all cattle with horns, purchased for slaughter, weighing 400 lbs. alive and over that weight, than for cattle without horns.

It would be well for producers or feeders of cattle in this district to realize this new development. There is no necessity for them to lose a dollar because of the policy that is being adopted, for the notice gives them ample time to have horns on cattle removed and to make preparations to prevent the growth of horns on all calves in the future. The trade is determined to wipe out the horned cattle evil and it is therefore up to the farmer to protect himself against loss.

Age Cannot Be Ignored

Italy has increased the number of years within the scope of what is termed liability for military service, and the age is now between 18 and 55. That is virtually the full stretch of what may be called mature manhood.

We have heard that question discussed a good many times: How old is a man before he is not fitted for the army, and especially for active service. There can be no answer which would be definite enough for general application because it happens now and then that one man at 50 is in better physical condition than another at 40.

It is doubtful if much is to be gained by keeping men until they are 55. A medical man who has had military experience informed us that on active service a man at 45 was nearing the limit of his capacity. Trench warfare, exposure, mud, rain and all such things were too much for the average man of middle age. If they broke down under the strain they did not come back, and their powers of recuperation had definitely lost speed.

Italy may consider that a gesture of adding years to her present army, but it actually amounts to very little.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Premier Aberhart seems to be getting plenty of advice and it can all be summed up in one word—"resign."

According to a Victoria story there will be little chance for the radicals in the next election. In other words the Leftists are likely to be left.

Toronto boasts that it is practically free of slot machines but then it is going to have another race track at which to gamble.

Uncle Sam is spending five hundred millions on its navy. The re-armament craze is apparently not confined to Europe.

A book entitled "Where is Hitler Going", has been banned in Germany. Probably the authorities fear the Chancellor might learn the answer himself.

A Glasgow man who had just died had learned to know the entire Bible by heart. That was an interesting feat but the thing that really matters is how well he carried out its teachings.

America is to be saved again. This time the rescue agency is the Committee of One Million and all the members have to do is to pay in 50 cents a month which seems like cheap salvation.

The United States Bureau of Home Economics reports that strong-arm tactics result in tough biscuits. They don't help to soften husbands either, some one is sure to point out.

J. S. Taylor, expelled British Columbia C.C.F. member, has become his own party of one. He should join up with the Reconstruction party and the combined forces would then have membership enough for a leader and a whip.

Saskatoon Horticultural Society is sponsoring the planting of trees around homes and in unoccupied sections of the city as a coronation feature. That is one way to make the coronation celebration enduring.

Kangaroo tail soup has been served at a banquet in London and we hope that does not mean that Australia in the next trade treaty with Canada will expect this country to provide a market for kangaroo meat.

According to the director of the Quebec Zoological Garden most of the animals housed there prefer being looked after in captivity to foraging for themselves. The situation there has some resemblance to the relief problem, apparently.

Premier Macdonald of Nova Scotia who before the last election promised to balance the budget and reduce taxation opens the fourth session of his term today with the budget still in the red and the taxes higher than when he came in. That might be embarrassing at the next election if it were not for the notoriously short memory of the electors.

Man from Ottawa who appeared in court at London admitted he had been in such a place before. Looking up his record it was found the London appearance was number 23. So there was that much in his favor. He was telling the truth when he said he had been in court before.

It is said railway employees in Canada are practically unanimous in favoring a strike if their demands for wage restorations are not fully met and in that regard the Dominion government has supplied them with a formidable argument by restoring all civil servants to their old schedules.

LIKE THIS

(By A. R. K.)

¶ John Henry took a little drink, how much he never stopped to think, and then he drove his car; one drink could never bother him, he'd tuck it safely 'neath his skin, and he was not going far.

¶ He met a friend, a goodly sport, and then they had a little snort, 'twas just a touch of glee; John Henry was not down or sunk, nor was he even mildly drunk, as sober as could be.

¶ He drove the very best he could, and figured he did pretty good, he got along quite slick; he wondered as he scratched his brain, from whence these passing cars all came, the traffic seemed so thick.

¶ The cars kept growing here and there, that seemed to him not right or fair, as sober as could be; where there was one car in the way, it somehow seemed to him that day, that there were two or three.

¶ The trees along the way increased, the pavement seemed just freshly greased, he almost struck a kid; he saw green lights and red ones too, he scarcely knew what he should do, and he began to skid.

¶ John Henry could not recollect, just how his car got smashed and wrecked, things were not going so well; when he got back his brains once more, he noticed bars across the door—they had him in a cell.

Basic Dividends Not The Answer

(From the Montreal Star)

LET us be dispassionate about Alberta. Striffing the very human inclination to sitter over Aberhart's admission of his failure to introduce Social Credit, as yet, let us try to get to the economic and financial core of the matter. Admittedly, it is difficult to disentangle the material realities, since the Social Credit plan in Alberta has always been wrapped in a veil of religious mysticism and fictional fustian about the machination of "international finance."

Aberhart's Social Credit plan was the child of severe and prolonged Depression on the Prairie. Its "economic" basis was the belief, shared by many sane people, that severe fluctuations in public purchasing power accounted for the boom-depression cycle. But it went on to oversimplify the case, and to advance a remedy which was direct but utterly unsound. All you had to do, said Aberhart's followers, was to provide purchasing power by issuing "social dividends" etc. Then everybody would have ready cash and everybody would be happy. In reality, this would amount to the crudest type of inflation.

This doctrine with the dangled "illustration" of $25 a month for every adult, swept the rural population of Alberta, appealing particularly to the farmer's wives. Aberhart came in with a thumping majority in August, 1935. He immediately came up against realities and had to apply for Dominion assistance in financing. Two things at once became evident. Firstly, it would take a tremendous civil service, involving the creation of a whole chain of "credit offices," like bank branches if Social Credit were to be introduced. In the second place, and this has become more and more important as time has gone on, the introduction of "Alberta credit" generally would involve a high degree of economic nationalism in the Province. Alberta would have to develop self-sufficiency, and to work out a way of dealing with the rest of Canada, rather as if she were a foreign country.

Very soon we are to have an enquiry into Dominion-provincial relationships, which will certainly pay due attention to the West. One wonders whether Aberhart will tend to stall, somewhat, until its findings are out. Whatever happens, two final considerations will remain unaltered. The sheer inflation of basic dividends will not and cannot rescue Alberta financially; the economic difficulty of her dependence upon Canada is still inseperable.

ACCIDENT CAUSES.

(Niagara Falls Review)

THE other day the Review suggested that a late breakfast or one badly cooked, or a domestic quarrel may be the real cause of an accident which may occur on highway or in the factory, because the mind of the victim still is on the quarrel and not exclusively on his job. Bad habits also may be blamed for many accidents. Mr. R. B. Morley, general manager of the Industrial Accident Prevention Association says:

"Do you get up late most mornings and have to rush your dressing, bolt your breakfast and dash to work? If so, that is a bad habit, and one that will tend to make you suffer through accidental injury . . . Good habits of work will produce a good product, and at the same time produce very few accidents, for after all, an accident is simply a mistake . . . When you hear someone else trying to explain how unavoidable some accident was, say to him: 'Forget the alibi, accidents are preventable.'"

And there is nothing unreasonable in Mr. Morley's theory.

HOUSE CLEANING.

(Barrie Observer)

THE average man cannot quite comprehend the fierce assault with which his wife attacks the labors of house-cleaning. Does she enjoy this encounter with the dust clouds? Some may even claim that all this activity simply stirs up the germs, where previously they had been sleeping quietly.

But anyway this solemn and semi-annual ceremony is not the earthquake it was in former days, before modern devices had been invented, when father, driven from the desolate house, was supposed to eat dinner disconsolately in the woodshed.

When you see those clouds of dust being beaten out of the rugs, be thankful you are not breathing in all that dirt. If our clothes have to be washed every few days, the house-wife is not too fussy in insisting that the home be scrubbed and combed twice a year.

COMPETITION.

(Windsor Star)

DR. HAROLD BROWN, of Chatham, criticizes our educational system because it is "competitive." He says that tends to stir up hatred.

Well, perhaps he's right. The competitive principle does run through our educational system. Each child has the ambition of being first in his class. But is that really such a bad thing? It may stir up a little hatred but it also prompts the child to exert himself, which isn't a bad idea.

Our educational system is supposed to prepare a child to take his place in the everyday world. Competition hasn't yet been quite eliminated from that adult world as why shouldn't children in school get a little training along competitive lines? They might as well get used to the idea of competition early in life instead of being coddled until the moment when they have to make the plunge into a cold sea full of adult sharks.

That Relief Demonstration.

(Correspondent Says Three Organizations Were Represented.)

EDITOR Examiner:

Sir: Your paper of the second instance reports very fairly the details in connection with the local unemployed's visit to council chamber on Monday last." Seeking an increase in relief allowances as an alternative to the failure of finding work, with a living wage." But I am sorry to say the press report was a little off the mark in suggesting that the numerous delegations who attended the meeting were all members of the organization represented by Mr. Chas. Lambert, an ardent worker of the C. C. F. party, which by the way is responsible for my writing this letter with a view to furnishing accurate details for the benefit of the press and its readers as to reasons why such a large gathering of men and women attended the council chambers on the above stated date.

Now in the first place the large body of men and women who were in attendance at the meeting were not all members of the Reorganized United Workers Front, which was organized on March 15th, 1933, by Mr. Holland and led by Mr. Lambert on Monday night last. But they were representative of three separate organizations; No. 1, The United Workers Club; No. 2, The Women's Welfare League; 3rd and last, the reorganized remnants of the old U. W. F., which has no connection whatever with the two former organizations, which may appear rather interesting to your readers, but it will be of greater interest to Mr. Lambert and his followers when he realizes through the medium of your columns that their appeal for work, or increased relief was many hours too late. Their action was similar to the fireman who poured water when there was no fire.

By this remark I wish to convey to Mr. Lambert the enlightening information that a delegation of the United Workers Club in cooperation with the Women's Welfare League, had prior to the opening of the council meeting met members of the Relief Board to discuss the very issues raised by Mr. Lambert, and I can, as representative of the United Workers Club and Women's Welfare League, assure Mr. Lambert that we were more than surprised when we were informed that Mr. James Dutton and his committee without the fanfare of trumpets, were already considering the question of increased relief for the unfortunate unemployed, and providing work for as many as possible at the earliest possible moment. We also learned that Mr. James Dutton, along with his committee was also considering the question of helping the unemployed to maintain a reasonable standard of sanitation and cleanliness within their homes as a measure towards maintaining their health. A most logical reasoning, too, which means that the unemployed will have one more article placed upon their voucher, which hither to has been denied them, with the ultimate result that I refrained from addressing the council in behalf of my organization, which was my point and original intention. But as stated above, there was no necessity for me or any other member to speak on the question of increased relief allowances. Now sir, you may question my authority for the above statements, if so, then proof lies in the fact, that I personally led the delegation as referred to above. As a last remark, permit me to advise Mr. Lambert that Mr. Dutton and his committee have a most sympathetic understanding of the unemployed's present needs and let me say also that Mr. Lambert in the future should make certain that there is ground for complaint before submitting any more petitions. I am sir,

Yours truly

D. P. FERGUSON

P. S.: Accept my sincere thanks for the space allotted me in the press.

Boarding Houses Coming Back.

(From the Christian Science Monitor.)

MISS IRMA BERGER, executive secretary of the Association to Promote Proper Housing for Girls in New York, told the association members at their annual meeting the other day that the old-style boarding houses are regaining their popularity. An increased demand for such accommodation has sprung up recently, she said, and the number of boarding houses, has been decreasing for years and such accomodations have often been hard to find.

Clubs, apartments and studios grew more popular about the time the "bachelor girl" came in. While many "old folks" clung to Victorian boarding houses, young people of both sexes revolted in favor of more modern accommodations. Can it be, now, however, that the old-fashioned boarding house (though more likely it will be new-fashioned) will renew its appeal for comfortable, homey, protected living.

Perhaps not all the rooms will be back rooms. And could washbowls and pitchers enough be recovered from the limbo into which they vanished, to refurnish a modern city-size boarding house? It is doubtful, too, whether enough prints of the "Sing at Eve" or the "Gardens of Versailles" could be found to furnish many rooms. And bric-a-brac of the William McKinley decade is scarcer.

Boarding houses gone? Of course not. Miss Berger is right: "You can't keep a good boarding house down." The world has not outgrown home cooking, and maybe there is still a lonesome country boy or girl in the city who wouldn't mind being "mothered" at times. And parlors may sometimes be as pleasant to entertain callers in as a movie palace.

The First Cheese Factory

(From the Woodstock Sentinel-Review.)

A MONTREAL friend has directed our attention to a copy of the Sentinel-Review and Dominion Dairyman, a special dairy edition published in January, 1896. Its ten pages contain many interesting historical articles, as well as illustrations of C. E. Chadwick, H. S. Lowe, E. Caswell, James W. Robertson, Hon. Thomas Ballantyne, Harvey Farrington, and Andrew Pattullo, who was president of the Western Dairymen's Association.

The several articles in which the name of the late Harvey Farrington is mentioned serve as a reminder that the site of the first cheese factory in Canada has not yet been marked. The last report on the subject indicated that the Historical Sites and Monuments board had not completed its investigations. It could find excellent evidence in this "dairy edition" concerning the Norwich factory started by Mr. Farrington. The statements set down in 1896 were by writers contemporary with the pioneer events in the factory cheese industry, and there is nowhere any suggestion of doubt as to the Norwich factory being the earliest. One article about Mr. Farrington reviews his activities in New York state and continues:

"Canada was bare of cheese factories, with a soil and climate adapted to the production of milk, but was importing cheese for home consumption. Such facts augured well for profit to a manufacturer of cheese in Canada. In the fall of 1863, with such thoughts in his head he looked over the territory for a good location, and finally settled in Norwich. This move was a Godsend to Canada. It was the beginning of an industry of great national importance."

Recollections of Mr. Farrington's son, Irving L., include a statement that his father came to Canada in September, 1865, and in that year let the contract for his factory to the late Hiram van Valkenburg, of Norwich, and it was built during the winter. It stood on lot 19, concession 4, North Norwich, one mile north and one mile west of the village. Manufacturing operations were commenced in the spring of 1864.

An article by the late A. F. MacLaren contains in two places a statement that the Farrington factory was first. One passage is to the effect that Mr. Farrington in May, 1864, "began the making of cheese on the factory system," and elsewhere the writer states:

"The first factory was built and operated in the township of Norwich, Oxford county, by the late Harvey Farrington, the well known practical and experienced cheese maker from the noted Herkimer county, New York state, to whom much credit is due for the establishment of the great cheese industry in Canada."

THE COURT'S DUTY.

(Toronto Telegram)

WHEN the Ontario courts had declared invalid the Hepburn Government's first attempt to repudiate the Queen's contracts and the Government had set to work to formulate a new repudiation measure, there were learned dissertations from the Hepburn evening journal to the effect that the function of the courts was to apply the law, not to legislate. It was even said that no court could convert a Legislature. And now Mr. Justice Ewan, apparently not aware of the limitation of court functions thus laid down, has given judgment declaring that that Alberta Debt Reduction Act is not worth the paper it is written on.

These decisions in the courts of Ontario and Alberta are in harmony with the fact that it is a function of the courts to control the Legislature when the Legislature steps outside its jurisdiction. It would be contrary to the principles of justice that the courts should attempt to apply law which they are convinced is invalid because of lack of authority in the Legislature to enact it.

HURDLES TO JUMP.

(Montreal Star)

WE STILL have hurdles to jump.

The railways are still getting away from us, no matter how many expert book-keepers we may hire. As we have just said, the inert burden of unemployment is still with us. A very real threat of war still hangs over the Eastern sea. We cannot afford to drift with an estimated deficit during even this coming prosperous year of $33,000,000. But if we will take off our coats and turn up our sleeves and throw our whole weight into pushing these three brutal boulders out of the path, we can yet fight our way into the open and save this gravely threatened country from impending insolvency. There is no excuse now for either the partial repudiation of "inflation" or the complete repudiation of bankruptcy.

SPRING IN AIR.

(Vancouver Province)

LET it be said, and let it be said boldly, that there was a touch of something rare and desirable in the air of Vancouver yesterday, and it must have been a touch of Spring.

If you did not feel it—but of course you did—this is not for your money, and you had better turn to the state of Europe and the Ottawa debates. But who could worry about the forlorn hope of peace in Spain when the green grass was showing once more in the snow patches of Victory Square? Who could vex his soul with what Mr. Ian Mackenzie said, or did not say, when the sparrows were holding their own noisy debate in every downtown evergreen?

Ah, but we have all been waiting for such a day and such a promise such a weary while.

TIGHT-FISTED.

(The Argonaut, San Francisco)

THOUGH Washington is full of wealthy widows, they seem to be a pretty tight-fisted lot. At least so a survey made by a committee of alumnae of seven women's colleges would go to show. According to this report Washington men gave over $2,000,000 to education in the past five years as against less than $500,000 for women. Men gave more than $12,000,000 to organized charities during the same period and women donated a little over $600,000 to the same cause. Women's biggest contribution was to religion —1,350,000, or about four times what men put in the collection basket. "Miscellaneous Reform" got over $500,000 from women and less than one-tenth as much from men.

STAR ATTRACTION.

(Gals Reporter)

JUST how good the Dionne quintuplets are as a drawing card for tourist trade, may be estimated from the claim of Philip Adams for compensation for loss of business due to the forced removal of his refreshment and souvenir booth from its original locality near the quints' hospital home. Mr. Adams asks $210,000 from the Ontario government to cover a period of fifteen years during which he calculates the concession would be worth that to him. Court action has been taken at North Bay. The Ontario department of lands expropriated Mr. Adams' location and he had to move his booth to the opposite side of the road and in an easterly direction from the hospital.

The crowds of tourists that are attracted to Callander, Ont., during the summer season is evidence that the quintuplets are the outstanding magnet in Canada for curious visitors. They have outdistanced Niagara Falls in that respect and the country is reaping an unexpected monetary reward. That business is likely to continue for many years for the interest in this unusual family is increasing all over the world.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, March 4. — Despite good export sales of Canadian wheat, prices failed to hold early gains of a cent and a half on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange. Closing quotations were ¼c to ¾c lower for the day.

Export business was estimated at 500,000 bushels. Trading was generally active, with firm overseas markets and continued buying of Southern Hemisphere wheat by European countries. However, rains and cloudy weather in the United States winter wheat belt together with liberal profit-taking caused reactions.

Liverpool, improved by the United Kingdom demand for Argentine and Australian wheat, closed 2d to 2¼d higher. Buenos Aires established new seasonal highs, with prices at noon 1¾c higher.

Cash wheat and coarse grain markets experienced light demands and spreads were unchanged.

Boy Pulls Lie-Down Strike After Fight With His Brother In Restaurant

Walk-out and sit-down strikes have been making the front page during the past week, but a strike of a different and more novel nature was staged by a youthful restaurant worker here last night.

Showing a penchant for originality, if nothing else, the lad is reported on good authority to have staged a lie-down strike after a quarrel with his elder brother.

For a couple of hours, it is said, he reclined on the floor of the restaurant kitchen in an immobile position. But if the strange attitude the lad assumed was for the purpose of scaring his brother into believing he had been hurt in the exchange of blows that accompanied the dispute, the purpose of the lie-down strike apparently failed.

This morning after the tribulations of anew, the youngster of the pair sought protection at the police station. Unduly alarmed and chilled he suggested that he might be locked up for protection. When that suggestion failed to meet with approval of the kindly desk sergeant, the lad demanded to lay a charge of assault against his brother.

After much argument and coaxing the aggrieved lad was finally persuaded to go home to await the return to the city of his parents, who can probably be depended upon to settle matters without the aid of police intervention.

RAIL BALLOTS INDICATE MEN BACKING UNION

Feel Conditions On Line Should Improve During Year Says Chase

DEMAND CUT BACK

Prefer One Big Fight With Final Result Definitely Decided

MONTREAL, March 4 (C.P.). — Ballots "from every city and town in the country" point to overwhelming support of the railways unions committee seeking immediate restoration of 10 per cent. wage cuts, Howard B. Chase, chairman of the vice-presidents' conference of Canadian railway unions, said yesterday.

"The ballots are about 100 per cent. the same way," the union chief said. "About 117,000 railway union members in Canada are being asked in the ballots to give a full mandate to their officers to call a strike, if necessary, in their negotiations with railway companies.

"The men feel the condition of the railways should improve over the preceding year," Chase said. "They already know the January and February statements showed progress over the corresponding months of 1936, and they feel it is time to give back the cut."

"The men realize that if they vote against a strik they will have to renew negotiations at the end of the year for restoration of the remaining seven per cent. of the deduction,' Chase continued. "They prefer to have one big fight with a final result one way or another."

recruiting staff, the great help received from the press and the film industry, and the fruitful co-operation of many employers and public bodies, recruiting, though it has improved over the last few weeks, is below both our hopes and our needs, but certain measures which are in contemplation will, I trust, lead to a substantial and progressive amelioration of the position.

"The recent increase in recruits is due almost entirely to some modifications in physical standards for certain corps. Introduction of mechanization has permitted relaxation of standards of physical fitness, particularly those concerned with defects of the feet.

Fewer Rejections.

"These modified standards came into force on December 1 last, too late to affect the selection rate for the recruiting year ended September 30. Nevertheless the rejection rate for that year reached the low level of 296.79 per 1,000 compared with 306.7 per 1,000 for the previous year. The quality of enlisted men has been excellent. Some 64 per cent. of the applicants were in some form of employment when they offered themselves."

Strength of the supplementary reserve, apart from the new infantry section, on April 1 will be about 21,130 of all ranks out of a recruitable establishment of 32,533 which includes an increase of 3,600.

"Therefore there is much leeway to be made up," Duff-Cooper writes. "I regret that the improvement in recruiting recorded in 1936 was not maintained in 1936. Only some 400 officers and 1,630 recruits were obtained in the last 10 months.

Territorial strength on January 1, 1937, was 7,370 officers and 163,393 other ranks, an increase of 606 officers and 12,236 other ranks in the 12 months. The number of recruits in the year ended September 30 was 32,271 against 24,134 in the previous year.

The Army's Aim.

The aim of the Army, Duff-Cooper's memorandum set forth, "is to produce a military force which will be adequate to supply garrisons in peace at home and overseas, to maintain order in the Empire and provide for a force to support the policy of His Majesty's Government in defence of the Empire and in the discharge of their international obligations."

The Army personnel, under the programme envisaged in the estimates, the War Secretary said, would be 68,900 exclusive of units in India, as compared with 168,400 in 1936 and 166,400 in 1914.

Fourteen new munitions factories are to be built in various parts of the United Kingdom at a total cost of £7,948,000. The sum of £848,000 will be spent on existing factories at Woolwich, Enfield, Waltham and Hereford.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, March 4. — Despite good export sales of Canadian wheat, prices failed to hold early gains of a cent and a half on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange. Closing quotations were ¼c to ⅝c lower for the day.

Export business was estimated at 500,000 bushels. Trading was generally active, with term overseas markets and continued buying of Southern Hemisphere wheat by European countries. However, rains and cloudy weather in the United States winter wheat belt together with liberal profit-taking caused reactions.

Liverpool, improved by the United Kingdom demand for Argentine and Australian wheat, closed 2d to 2¼d higher. Buenos Aires established new seasonal highs, with prices at noon 1¼c higher.

Cash wheat and coarse grain markets experienced light demands and spreads were unchanged.

Boy Pulls Lie-Down Strike After Fight With His Brother In Restaurant

Walk-out and sit-down strikes have been making the front page during the past week, but a strike of a different and more novel nature was staged by a youthful restaurant worker here last night.

Showing a penchant for originality, if nothing else, the lad is reported on good authority to have staged a lie-down strike after a quarrel with his elder brother.

For a couple of hours, it is said, he reclined on the floor of the restaurant kitchen in an immobile position. But if the strange attitude the lad assumed was for the purpose of scaring his brother into believing he had been hurt in the exchange of blows that accompanied the dispute, the purpose of the lie-down strike apparently failed.

This morning after the trouble flared up anew, the younger of the pair sought protection at the police station. Unduly alarmed and excited he suggested that he might be locked up for protection. When that suggestion failed to meet with approval of the kindly desk sergeant, the lad demanded to lay a charge of assault against his brother.

After much argument and coaxing the aggrieved lad was finally persuaded to go home to await the return to the city of his parents. Who can probably be depended upon to settle matters without the aid of police intervention.

RAIL BALLOTS INDICATE MEN BACKING UNION

Feel Conditions On Line Should Improve During Year Says Chase

DEMAND CUT BACK

Prefer One Big Fight With Final Result Definitely Decided

MONTREAL, March 4 (C.P.). — Ballots "from every city and town in the country" point to overwhelming support of the railways unions committee seeking immediate restoration of 10 per cent. wage cuts, Howard B. Chase, chairman of the vice-presidents' conference of Canadian railway unions, said yesterday.

"The ballots are about 100 per cent. the same way," the union chief said. "About 117,000 railway union members in Canada are being asked in the ballots to give a full mandate to their officers to call a strike, if necessary, in their negotiations with railway companies.

"The men feel the condition of the railways should improve over the preceding year," Chase said. "They already know the January and February statements showed progress over the corresponding months of 1936, and they feel it is time to give back the cut."

"The men realize that if they vote against a strike they will have to renew negotiations at the end of the year for restoration of the remaining seven per cent. of the deduction," Chase continued. "They prefer to have one big fight with a final result one way or another."

BRITISH ARMY OUTLAY SOARS TO 410 MILLION

recruiting staff, the great help received from the press and the film industry, and the fruitful co-operation of many employers and public bodies, recruiting, though it has improved over the last few weeks, is below both our hopes and our needs. On certain measures which are in contemplation will, I trust, lead to a substantial and progressive amelioration of the position.

"The recent increase in recruits is due almost entirely to some modifications in physical standards for certain corps. Introduction of mechanization has permitted relaxation of standards of physical fitness, particularly those concerned with defects of the feet.

Fewer Rejections.

"These modified standards came into force on December 1 last, too late to affect the rejection rate for the recruiting year ended September 30. Nevertheless the rejection rate for that year reached the low level of 296.79 per 1,000 compared with 305.7 per 1,000 for the previous year. The quality of enlisted men has been excellent. Some 94 per cent. of the applicants were in some form of employment when they offered themselves."

Strength of the supplementary reserve, apart from the new infantry section, on April 1 will be about 21,130 of all ranks out of a recruitable establishment of 33,553 which includes an increase of 5,000.

"Therefore there is much leeway to be made up," Duff-Cooper writes. "I regret that the improvement in recruiting recorded in 1935 was not maintained in 1936. Only some 400 officers and 1,620 recruits were obtained in the last 10 months.

Territorial strength on January 1, 1937, was 7,870 officers and 183,239 other ranks, an increase of 606 officers and 12,226 other ranks in the 12 months. The number of recruits in the year ended September 30 was 32,271 against 24,134 in the previous year.

The Army's Aim.

The aim of the Army, Duff-Cooper's memorandum set forth, "is to produce a military force which will be adequate to supply garrisons in peace at home and overseas, to maintain order in the Empire and provide for a force to support the policy of His Majesty's Government in defence of the Empire and in the discharge of their international obligations."

The Army personnel, under the program envisaged in the estimates, the War Secretary said, would be 66,300 exclusive of units in India, as compared with 158,400 in 1926 and 186,400 in 1914.

Fourteen new munitions factories are to be built in various parts of the United Kingdom at a total cost of £7,946,000. The sum of £846,000 will be spent on existing factories at Woolwich, Enfield, Waltham and Hereford.

50th Anniversary Celebration At Home.

The celebration of the Golden Jubilee of the wedding of Ex-Alderman and Mrs. Joseph Crowe of Brock street was a very pleasant event of Wednesday afternoon and evening, when approximately one hundred and fifty of their friends and neighbors came to offer felicitations to the popular couple.

The affair was arranged by the two daughters of the house, Mrs. A. G. Metheral and Mrs. A. W. Clysdale, and a son, Howard Crowe of Toronto, came down for the day with his little daughter Diana, who assisted her cousin, Audrey Metheral, in opening the door for the guests.

The house was filled with beautiful flowers received by Mr. and Mrs. Crowe, and the table from which refreshments were served was done very beautifully with a centerpiece of calla lilies, mauve stocks and freesia, on a cutwork cloth, and gold candles. A blazing grate fire added to the cosy charm of the interior.

Tea was poured by Mrs. P. E. Hawken and Mrs. F. Dobson cut the ices. Assistants were Mrs. Evan Fraser and Mrs. Bert Tovey of Unity, Saskatchewan, a close friend of the family who is in the East at the present time.

In addition to flowers and expressions of goodwill, many pretty gifts were received by Mr. and Mrs. Crowe.

Cyril Rice Is Presented With Gifts.

Cyril Rice, who is leaving this month for Orillia, on an exchange arrangement with the Department of Education, to take over the duties of supervisor of music in the schools of Simcoe county and the position of organist and choirmaster of St. Paul's United Church there, was presented with a walnut end table by the choir of St. Andrew's United Church here, where he has held the position of organist and choirmaster.

Mr. Rice, who was bitten by a dog last summer, had the misfortune to sustain a small accident lately which caused the re-opening of the wound and the setting up of a minor infection. This, allied with an attack of influenza, has kept him confined to the house for some time past, and he is now up and around on crutches. The gift from the choir, therefore, was presented at Mr. Rice's home by the president, E. Hunpage.

From the members of the 20th Century Liberal Club, of which Mr. Rice has been the energetic president, he received a handsome set of English pipes. (Mr. Rice's fondness for a pipe is well known to his friends.)

Mr. Rice hopes to be able to leave soon for Orillia. His successor here, formerly stationed at Orillia, is Robert B. Harle, who has arrived in the city with his wife and four children and has taken the house at 332 Rubidge street occupied formerly by Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Park. Mr. Harle's children are all studying at present at the Peterborough Collegiate Institute. One expects to enter the Normal School here next term, while another plans to study in the Vocational School classes. It was principally on account of wider educational advantages offered in Peterborough that Mr. Harle was anxious to make the move here from Orillia, while Mr. Rice was anxious at the same time to secure a territory which would not entail so much travelling about as is the case in the school work of Peterborough county.

What Is Correct?

Who goes first down the aisle of a theatre?

The woman goes first, if an usher is conducting the couple to their seats. If an usher is not present, and the couple must find their own seats, the man precedes the woman. Where seats are not reserved, the woman may go first, turning to ask if her choice is acceptable to her companion.

Should a man offer to carry a woman's packages? Yes, unless he is in uniform. The woman may accept if the package is heavy, but it would be tactless to make him carry feminine-looking packages, or a bulky bundle that would make him appear awkward.

Is it necessary to leave some food on the plate?

No. This is frequently done, in the mistaken idea that it is polite. Of course you will not make a point of eating every scrap of food on your plate. But you may eat as much or as little as you choose and no attention will be paid to it except to offer you more.

Your guests have a right to expect only FRESH coffee

ONE RULE for successful entertaining is—never serve stale coffee. It is almost completely lacking in true coffee flavor and can cause indigestion, headaches, "nerves."

Fresh coffee is both satisfying and stimulating. Its more delicious flavor is a real compliment to guests. And it may be said to pay its own way by putting everyone in a better humor.

Chase & Sanborn Dated Coffee is guaranteed fresh by our Dating Plan. We rush it to your grocer and mark every bag with the date he gets it. None stays on his shelves more than 10 days.

This assures you of freshness and richness, and gives you a saving, too, since high-priced containers are not necessary.

It is actually economical for you to serve this fresher, Dated Coffee! Order an inexpensive bag of Chase & Sanborn Dated Coffee from your grocer tomorrow.

Spring Styles Shown at the Robert Fair Company's Store

Pretty Garments Modelled In Graceful Fashion At a Smart Review

LOVELY HATS

The Spring Review of feminine fashions at the Robert Fair Store on George Street was a very successful event of Wednesday night, attended by over two hundred women who lined the walls at either side of the spacious second floor, to watch the mannequins parading in smart wearables down the central aisle.

Coats were the big item in the showing last evening, with some exceptionally fine models on view.

There was a gorgeous silver fox collar on a handsome coat developed in dark navy nub wool, belted in doll black leather, while white fox fur that had been dyed the greyish-blue of a lovely "blue Persian" pussy collared another coat of woollen homespun in the same soft grey-blue shade, made on loosely-hanging lines.

Cumberland homespuns, pure wool, made especially for the Coronation in Coronation colors, were outstanding in the coat display. One model of swagger type was plaided softly in brown, blue and gold, and a second was of solid Coronation green.

Tweed coats were much in evidence, made mainly on plain, fitted lines with narrow belts of self material or leather, and usually with wide revers. Double revers distinguished one example in grey tweed, the back panels outlined by inverted pleats.

With a brown tweed coat handed in gold was worn a gay flowered frock of trim style, with field flowers in orange, green and white scattered over its brown ground. A dark brown round straw hat finished by a perky front bow of brown and green completed this fetching ensemble.

Accessories to a grey coat plaided in black and red were a little black hat, a black leather belt and a red purse.

There were coats developed in large checks and trim lines, of Burlingham make, and there were youthful coats in the "high" colors of Coronation year, in soft greens, gay St. James rose (this was made with swagger effect and four rose buttons under a soft collar), tawny orange (developed in gabardine in tweed, straight lines, with a little shiny straw "off the face" hat), in sand cloth (with upstanding little collar and wide brown leather belt), in Persian tile (with wide revers), in soft robin's egg blue with "tulip" collar.

Low, wide revers and straight, unbelted lines featured the showing also of "large" sizes, with a predominance in solid dark colors; black, navy blue, and Oxford grey.

Knitted Things.

In this large section also were shown some very trig knitted wear, in black and navy blue suits with dark blouses under the jackets. One navy blue model with navy sheer blouse was worn with a smart hat of black straw ornamented by black wings. The frocks for larger models included several pretty things. A good-looking example was in black sheer, with gleaming crystal making the front button trimming, the belt buckle, and the plastrons of bugle beads on the full sleeves. Another black, in crepe, had black jet trimming the bodice, and accents of green in the collar piping, the purse and the green wings on a black hat.

Suits were much admired in the showing. A short jacket on one example in fine black tricotine had white pique piping on the revers, and was worn with a pale pink blouse of the waistcoat type, adorned with black buttons and little black bow under the Peter Pan collar. The small black hat worn with it had a jaunty quill of black felt with a catchy edge.

Grey tweed made one girlish-looking little suit with a plain skirt and a short jacket scalloped over the hips. It was worn with a fetching small hat of dark brown faille and cellophane straw, and a bright scarf. Plain navy tricotine was the material in a model with box jacket and sky-blue tailored blouse. And soft Coronation blue appeared in a suit showing a three-quarter length coat, belted, with six front buttons as fasteners and fairly full sleeves.

A wool knit suit in olive green was very pretty, accompanied by a lacy wool blouse.

Interesting in their treatment and shading were the "Billie Burke" suits, in knitted material. One, in bright Coronation gold, had a hip-length jacket with inverted pleats at the back and a Tuxedo front opening over a gold-colored blouse of the same material embroidered in bright wools. And a grey suit of the same type was accented by a green felt hat, and gloves and purse in green suede.

Orchid and Mauve.

In this section too was an especially lovely outfit developed in the soft wool knit in a two-tone effect. The skirt was in dark mauve while evidence of the same color in fleur-de-lis effect ornamented the top, in orchid shade. It was worn with a sidewise ram of deep mauve adorned by a perky quill, and a grey straight-line coat fashioned with squared shoulders and wide revers.

The frocks were much liked also. A striking model was in black with a shiny surface and a little high collar. The girdle was deeply fringed at the side fastening, in the Spanish mode, and the back had a diagonal line of large buttons extending from the neckline to the short slit at the left hem in the fairly short skirt.

A black redingote model showed gay red printed stuff in the narrow front panel, the same bright stuff ornamenting the belt, while three novelty buttons trimmed the bodice in front.

Robin's egg blue crepe made a quaint little old-fashioned-looking peplum gown with squared shoulders and white piping on the collar. The patch pockets were trimmed with crosstitch designs in white.

A gown of Coronation green sheer had gleaming beads on its full sleeves; a Madonna blue crepe was a lovely thing with self buttons down the back and the bodice top gathered under a two-tab collar that was embroidered, like the belt front, in pale blue and rose pink silk.

Several printed dresses were displayed to great advantage, among them a bouquet scatter print in green and orange colorings, with the same shades binding the collar and short sleeves and coloring the fringed sash ends. Brilliant flowers on a navy ground had a complementing color in a red sash, a red bag, and the jaunty red cellophane bouquet on the front of a black straw hat. And large pink, blue and green daisies wandered over the surface of a navy blue silk crepe worn with a corsage closing of bright flowers and a pretty, large-brimmed hat.

Mannequins for the Review were Mrs. A. Sowden, Miss Jean Dorrin, Miss Wave Janeway, and Miss Dorothy Finnie. The show was supervised by Mrs. H. Burley, assisted by Miss Maude Derry, with Miss Janeway and Miss Finnie looking after the sales.

Praise Given Local Singers

"L.M." Reviews Recent Visit Of Madrigal Singers To Queen City

Lawrence Mason, musical critic for The Toronto Globe and Mail, writes in praise of the Madrigal Singers, in a review of their recent concert program in Toronto. Under the head: "A Virtuoso Choir," he says:

"The Peterborough Madrigal Singers, under Dorothy Allan Park, gave an absolutely first-class concert in Eaton Auditorium last Saturday night. Many of our musical leaders attended, and the audience repeatedly gave evidence, by unusually ardent applause, that it heartily appreciated this exceptional display of choral art.

"To dispose of the few unfavorable comments first, a disturbing remain appeared in the National Anthem and did not completely vanish until the choir had thoroughly "warmed up," several numbers later. The first selection was marred by faulty intonation, and this fault died out only gradually in the first group; why not use more than a single chord to establish the pitch? The tonal quality fell off disappointingly in the Durante and Scarlatti numbers owing to the augmented pace.

"Otherwise everything was well-night perfect. The top sonrano were exceedingly good, the ensemble with the orchestra was remarkably unerring, the jolly rhythms in certain staccato passages were delightful, and the technical finish was very noticeable throughout. When Fond Desires' was sung with the utmost charm and tonal sweetness, while the Caccini "Amaryllis" was a truly beautiful example of full, pure legato.

"Elgar's 'Snow,' sung by request as an encore after only one rehearsal, was one of the 'high spots' in its restrained and masterly delivery. Brilliantly planned and directed, and superbly sung, this hackneyed work became so "new" and exciting that it aroused storms of applause. There was something still finer in reserve, however, for the choir revealed the full measure of its greatness only in the chorus from the Brahms 'Requiem' and in Schubert's 'Omnipotence.' Astonishing breadth and power were here shown as well as saving moderation, building up to unforeed climaxes of imposing magnificence. This was great singing—mature, skilful, intelligent, artistic work. Well deserving the tremendous applause which followed.

"The folksongs in the final group were delightfully rendered, and the whole program was as judiciously chosen as it was happily arranged and beautifully executed. The New World Chamber Orchestra, under Samuel Hersenhoren, co-operated most felicitously, its own contributions being of a high order of artistic excellence. The Gemiliani Concerto Grosso was played with the true Eighteenth Century grace and charm, while the closing group from the delicious humoresque of Tchaikovsky to the pensive 'Valse Triste,' exposed many admirable facets of this ensemble's delicate art.

"It is difficult to believe that there is a better women's choir or small chamber orchestra anywhere in the Dominion."

The same thing applied to tractor model Number 1350, he said, with the farmer getting a reduced price.

Hull Police Say Patrol Wagon Too Small For Raids—Need Bus.

HULL, Que., March 4 (CP)—Hull police are thinking of substituting a bus for the patrol wagon, not for the comfort of the patrons but because the wagon isn't big enough to handle business.

Police raided an alleged gambling house, arresting 43 men, including the proprietor. The patrol was called. Problem: It was too small. A bus was chartered.

And there's enough in the court for the first instalment if police decide to pay one. The men, who paid $10 each for bail, failed to show up and the money went to the court.

Just Between Us Women

A Daily Chat With Examiner Neighbors, Conducted by Roberta

WILL fortune never come with both hands full,
But write her fair words still in foulest letters?
She either gives a stomach, and no food:
Such are the poor in health; or else a feast,
And takes away the stomach; such are the rich,
That have abundance and enjoy it not."
—Shakespeare.

Dear Friends:

Do you look for fortune to block the ultimo of life off the tree for you, or do you use the Divine Power God gave you? What is fortune by the way? Here is what the dictionary says of it:

Fortune.—"The good or ill that happens to mankind; chance; fate; estate; wealth; possessions; future destiny; as to tell one's fortune."

Now there is no doubt that some are gifted with what is called second-sight. I have it myself, and I have done nothing to bring it about, nor anything to stop it. You have it or you do not have it. But, where does it come from, if not from God? No one seems able to acquire it, that as they like.

I call it the gift of prophesy, just as I used to call the gift of healing the sick in the Bible, and all down the ages, we have had astrologers, necromancists, and those who could prophesy and their were honored people. (Unless amongst their own people).

But, there have been so many who preyed upon the credulity of the people, pretending that they had powers to bring things to pass which no one can do, that the whole thing has fallen into disrepute. Nothing annoys me like being called a "fortune-teller." I am a true psychologist, and have been enabled to help many thousands of people with the gift God gave me.

I used to be ashamed of it, but now I am proud that God so singled me out to help those who could not help themselves. I never give a reading that I do not pray first, and I have even asked God that if the power I possess is not good, that He will take it away from me.

But instead, it gets stronger than before. If you have the gift of oratory, or music, or painting, or any other thing, you are not ashamed of it; so why should I be ashamed because I can see things that are hid from others? I did not ask for the gift, it was bestowed on me at birth.

I have kept it in the background, but could not hide it. And never in my whole life has it been used in any other way, but to help. If those who got this help have paid for it in later years, it was because I was urged to take payments, so they would not be under an obligation. After all, nothing is valued that is not payed for in some way.

But to expect that ANYONE can bring things to pass, that is out of the question entirely; yet that is what so many seem to expect. They do not come willing to help themselves by using all their powers after they have been shown how to do it. What they want is some impossible fairly tale, someone else to do their work for them, in short.

But, to the thinking person, to the true seeker, God is shown as He is, and you can no more use psychology without contacting Him, than you can get light from your floor lamp, if you are not connected with the Hydro.

Yet, once you learn how to use the Power He gave you, life has an entirely different aspect. All your troubles do not mysteriously disappear, but you learn how to surmount them. It is the most fascinating subject under the sun, for there is always something new, something to learn. I want to thank God as I write for with sure results. And counle psychology with astrology, and an ability to read character, and you have a grand combination, which cannot fail to help anyone.

But fortune-telling is of the devil, done for nothing but scam to the teller, and when they bring God's name into it, they are blaspheming against Him, and will pay a big price one of these days.

I am proud to be a psychologist, proud to use the Power He gave me, glad to be able to help suffering humanity, and if you knew how many have said "God bless you, Roberta," if you had them phone or call at your home in thankfulness as often as I have had them, you would see that this gift is from God as I have done, and be humbly proud to use it as I do. More later.

Your Friend,
ROBERTA.

LIBERAL POLICY REGARDING WORK RAKED OVER COALS

16 Months — And No Improvement

Although the C.C.F. believed unemployment would never be solved without changes in the economic system, Liberals believed they could do away with it under the present system, Mr. Woodsworth said. It was their responsibility to do so after 16 months in office unemployment was causing just as much suffering as ever.

As long as governments tried to solve unemployment by making jobs for people they would never succeed, Mr. Kuhl told the House. Industry could never provide employment for all the people. A way had to be found to bring to all the people the benefits of labor-saving machinery and provide for greater leisure instead of more work.

Denton Massey (Cons. Toronto-Greenwood) quoted figures to show unemployment had not appreciably diminished although employment had increased with improving trade. Some artificial stimulus was needed to pick up the slack between unemployment and business recovery.

T. A. Thompson (Cons. Lanark) said changes in the United Kingdom trade agreement would injure Canadian manufacturers. He also regretted no provision had been made in the budget to protect Canadian farmers against importation of vegetable oils.

Reductions in tariff did not necessarily mean lower prices to the consumer but they did mean lower wages for the worker and in some cases higher prices for the consumer.

Woollens Crippled.

The woollen industry was practically crippled by proposed reduction, he said. While the Turgeon inquiry had brought to light certain unethical practices in the silk and cotton textile industries, there had been nothing of the sort revealed in connection with the woollen industry. It was strange, therefore, that the tariff reductions on silk and cotton goods had been only slightly reduced while the woollen duties had been slashed to an extent that would cripple the industry.

"Can it be that the reason for this is that behind the silk and cotton industries are the money barons of this country," he asked, "while the woollen industry is privately-owned by small groups and is scattered throughout the small towns?"

In February, 1935, Mr. Massey said, there were 552,000 unemployed. In October, 1935, when the Liberals came into office, there were 435,000; in January, 1936, 356,000; in December, 1936, 302,000, and in January this year 300,000.

There had been a decrease of 10 per cent. in January this year as compared with last year, but the figures spoke for themselves and demonstrated that "no effective measures" had been taken to deal with unemployment.

The National Employment Commission had cost $87,418 so far, said Mr. Massey, and its alleged accomplishments were doubtful. The Minister of Labor, Hon. Norman Rogers, had listed the placing of 42,000 men on farms and had said the National Employment Commission had done this by improving the farm placement plan under which men had been placed in other years.

"Surely it has not taken $87,418 worth of commission to improve that plan if it needed improvement. The Minister could have done it himself."

Mr. Rogers had also credited the commission with placing 9,000 men at work in the forestry industry in British Columbia, Mr. Massey said. If that was so, the commission must have been responsible for the United Kingdom trade agreement and the United States trade agreement which had helped the British Columbia lumbering industry.

SUPPLEMENTARY

Direct relief for persons in the drought-stricken areas of the prairies will take $2,000,000 and development and training projects for unemployed youth another $1,000,000.

A $12,550,000 appropriation for the public works department will be used to provide new public buildings in all the provinces, while considerable sums will go into harbor and river improvements such as dredging, building breakwaters, extending and repairing wharfs.

Harbor Improvement.

In addition reconstruction, extension and improvement of harbors under administration of the National Harbors Board will be undertaken at an estimated cost of $1,892,236.

The railway grade crossing fund will get $2,500,000 to be spent under direction of the board of railway commissioners in removing level crossings. The money will be spent as the governor-in-council sees fit.

The government's contribution to loan funds established by seacoast provinces to help needy fishermen will be $400,000 this year, $100,000 more than last, but the appropriation for the advertising program through which the government seeks to promote sale of fish at home and abroad will be cut from $300,000 to $100,000 so that assistance to fishermen will cost the same, $500,000 as last year.

WALTER HAMLIN DIES SUDDENLY

Been In Employ Of Trent Canal For Number Of Years As Lockmaster

The death occurred with startling suddenness on Wednesday afternoon of Walter Hamlin, lockmaster at Lock 25 on the Trent Canal near Lakefield. He was in his 50th year.

A son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John E. Hamlin he was born in Otonabee township and had resided in this district all his life with the exception of his services overseas during the Great War with the 33rd Battery, for three years and three months.

At one time employed with the Peterborough agency of the Prudential Life Insurance Company, Mr. Hamlin had been in the employ of the Trent Canal for many years, having been lockmaster at Lovesick Lake for four years before receiving his last appointment. He had gone about his daily duties right up to the time of his death and was in Lakefield on business a few hours before he suffered the seizure that was to terminate fatally.

Predeceased by his wife nine years ago, he leaves two sons, Robert and John Hamlin, also three brothers, Herbert of Smith township and Ernest and Percy of Toronto, and four sisters, Mrs. William Bolton and Mrs. Everett Harrison both of Peterborough, and Mrs. Scott Huston and Mrs. Victor Craft, both of Otonabee township.

The funeral is to be held on Friday at 2.30 p.m. from D. Bellechem and Sons' Funeral Home. Services will be conducted by the Rev. W. J. Creighton, rector of the Anglican church at Lakefield. Interment at Little Lake cemetery.

LOSES MEMORY AFTER FALL

NESTLETON, March 4.—Andrew Malcolm, 93-year-old resident of this hamlet, 30 miles west of Peterborough, is suffering from loss of memory today after a fall downstairs in his home. His niece, Miss Mary Malcolm, had left her aged relative for a short while on Saturday, and he decided to get wood for the fire from the cellar.

HEENAN APOLOGY GIVEN TO SPEAKER IN QUIET SESSION

Defends Policy Of Exporting Pulpwood — Henry Charges School Tax Created "Morass"

NO MORTGAGE CLOSING

TORONTO, March 4 (CP)—Ontario legislature today is expected to reach a division on the address in reply to the speech from the throne. Roll-call division will likely be on the Conservative amendment regretting the government has not announced intention to repeal its 1926 act concerning the allocation of school taxes.

With the throne speech debate out of the way, there will be 40 or more bills for the House to deal with and closely ahead is the budget address next Tuesday and the opening of the budget debate one week hence.

The dove of peace fluttered into the House yesterday with some unhappy incidents of the night before almost forgotten when the House adjourned a few minutes before midnight.

George Henry, Conservative House leader, yesterday finished his speech, cut short the night before by interjections from Hon. Peter Heenan, Minister of Lands and Forests, that caused Premier Hepburn to call for adjournment.

The day's developments in the Heenan-Henry clash included an apology from Mr. Heenan to Speaker Norman Bipel and a promise from Mr. Henry to visit the minister in his office.

Wilfred Heighington (Con., Toronto-St. David's) complimented Mr. Heenan for the ampleness of his apology and said he did indeed have something to be proud of in his record as minister.

Some Quiet Thought

"Before leaving Canada to attend the coronation ceremonies and the Imperial Conference, there are a number of matters which must be carefully considered," Mr. King continued. "Not the least important of these are some of the questions likely to arise at the Imperial Conference itself. It is impossible to give to these matters the attention they demand without some opportunity for uninterrupted thought and study. Obviously no chance for anything of the kind is likely to present itself between now and the close of the session except by arranging to secure a few free days for the purpose.

"To gain this opportunity and at the same time to secure a rest which is much needed before attempting to meet the exacting demands of the concluding weeks of the session and those of the following weeks in London, I propose to avail myself of the time likely to be occupied in the consideration of the budget resolutions to go on from Washington to some point on the Atlantic coast for a week or 10 days before returning to Ottawa."

The nature of the questions the president and Mr. King would discuss were not revealed by the prime minister.

The grave world situation will doubtless be one of the questions offered to talk over matters of mutual interest to the United States and Canada. I have accepted the President's invitation and expect to arrive in Washington on Friday morning.

"I have arranged to lunch with our Minister, Sir Herbert Marler, at the Canadian Legation at noon on Friday, and shall go to the White House during the course of the afternoon, spending the night there. I shall spend the week-end at the Legation with Sir Herbert Marler."

Defends Pulp Export.

Speaking last night, Mr. Heenan defended the Governments recently-adopted policy of permitting the export of pulpwood from Ontario. The province could export 600,000 cords annually without cutting into new growth. Recently-negotiated agreements for timber limits would provide employment for hundreds of men.

Mr. Henry denounced the policy of permitting the export of unmanufactured pulpwood and declared the Conservatives had always stood for the processing of raw materials in Canada.

A "morass" has resulted from the Assessment Act amendment concerning the allocation of school taxes, said Mr. Henry. No one knew what the Act meant and it had had results unexpected by even the Government. He said Premier Hepburn had tried to reduce it to a dollar and cent issue, but it was a moral principle at stake and the people were being roused to a defence of the Public School system.

The moratorium on mortgages, in effect in Ontario since June, 1933, will be continued at the discretion of the Government. The House gave second reading to a Bill authorizing its extension to June 30, 1938, subject to Order-in-Council.

The Government's measure to amend the Succession Duty Act went through committee stage with all Opposition-offered amendments rejected. Chief purpose of the Bill is the imposition of heavier taxes on those incorporating personal corporations outside Canada.

Proposes Appeal.

Mr. Heighington wanted an appeal from the Provincial Treasurer's assessments provided for where estates exceeded $15,000 or the duties $250. Hon. Paul Leduc, piloting the measure, said such a provision would clutter up the courts.

Provincial Secretary Harry Nixon said: "The lawyers would get more out of the estates than the Crown."

The Bill was reported out of committee and may be up for third reading to-day.

To Vienna, Elgin County village, intimately associated with the early life of Thomas A. Edison, electricity will come by virtue of a special Bill introduced by Attorney-General Arthur Roebuck.

Mr. Roebuck explained Vienna is an incorporated village, though much of the population at the time of incorporation has been lost, and as such could not receive the benefits of rural power services.

Mr. Roebuck's Bill would provide that for Hydro purposes the village will revert to the status of a township.

A Bill to validate the recently-signed agreement between the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission and the Ottawa Valley Power Company was also introduced yesterday by Mr. Roebuck.

MISS LOS ANGELES KILLED

PASADENA, — Marcella Arnold, "Miss Los Angeles" of 1936, was killed instantly in a movie automobile accident here last night. Gordon Carveth, ace stunt driver, and Loretta Rush, third occupant of the car, were injured slightly.

EXPECTED TO TALK ON TRADE TREATY

come up at the Imperial Conference. It will also give him some relaxation from the many months of strain he has been under.

"I have been invited by President Roosevelt to pay him a personal visit at the White House," Mr. King told a press conference to-night. "that opportunity may thereby be discussed at the conversations between Mr. King and Mr. Roosevelt.

The Canadian-United Kingdom trade agreement announced last week made it possible for Canada and United States to extend the provisions of the United States—Canada pact if the countries desire and trade matters will doubtless be talked over. The St. Lawrence seaway project is another which the president may wish to discuss.

The Seaway Question

WASHINGTON, March 4 (AP)—Authoritative sources said last night that discussions concerning the St. Lawrence waterway project were listed for the White House visit this week-end of Prime Minister Mackenzie King of Canada.

While Ottawa quarters believed the Premier would discuss trade matters during his visit to Washington, informed circles here said that the St. Lawrence waterway problem was a major question existing at present between the two governments.

Another suggestion made was that the prime minister's visit to the White House would be a return call, in diplomatic acknowledgement of President Roosevelt's call on Governor-General Lord Tweedsmuir at Quebec last July.

The major issue in the St. Lawrence question now is whether President Roosevelt will ask the Senate at this session of Congress to reconsider its action three years ago in rejecting the pact, which would provide a waterway link connecting the Great Lakes with the sea, via the St. Lawrence River.

The proposed treaty was rejected by the Senate in 1934 after both governments had signed it contingent upon its ratification by their respective parliaments. Because of the American Senate's action it never was presented for ratification to the Canadian parliament.

NO MORE PILES

Get Quick, Pleasant Relief.

Probably not one person in ten knows the cause of piles is inefficient circulation of blood in the lower bowel.

That is the scientific truth about piles and is the real reason why salves and suppositories do not give more than temporary relief—they do not remove the cause.

Your piles can not be relieved until you have corrected the condition which causes them. That is why an internal medicine like HEM-ROID should be used.

HEM-ROID is the prescription of Dr. J. S. Leonhardt, who early in his professional life made many tests to relieve piles by correcting the cause. His medicine succeeds because it stimulates the circulation, eases the pressure of blood in the veins of the lower bowel and helps to heal and restore the sore, tender parts.

So if you have failed to get the relief you want from your sore, painful piles, and would like to give HEM-ROID a trial, you have our promise to return your money if just one bottle of this prescription does not give pleasing results. Brighter Prospects For Work Prompts The Relief Committee To Take No Action On Petition

Regards Present Scale Much More Generous Than In Many Cities

BRITISH DOLE SYSTEM

In the hope and expectation of continued increase in industrial activity and employment, the relief committee of the council Wednesday night decided to take no action on the request presented to the council Monday night by Charles Lambert in behalf of the Workers and Unemployed Association.

Brighter prospects of more men moving from relief rolls to payrolls as winter passed prompted the committee in their decision "that it would be unwise to make a change now." If the petition had been received at the beginning of winter with the conditions as mentioned by Mr. Lambert the responsibility of the committee would be materially altered, it was said, but with all the present efforts to stimulate work in the city it was believed that revision of the relief schedules would not be required.

British Dole System

The petition was discussed at considerable length, and reference was made to the recent conference of relief officers called by the Hon. David Croll, Minister of Public Welfare, at which the British dole system was mentioned. According to that system, it was stated, local relief shall not exceed 50% of the scale of wages paid in a municipality.

Peterborough's wage rate is 40 cents an hour for a forty-hour week, amounting to $17.60, and 35% of that sum is $14.96 which would be the amount of relief given to any family as a maximum according to the dole allowance. Including food, shelter, fuel, light, water and other incidentals the relief allowance in Peterborough was regarded as being close to the dole rate, and increases would probably soon exceed it. Peterborough's present relief scale is the Campbell report schedules plus ten per cent, and it was said that a further increase might lead to a condition in which some people on relief would receive more assistance than the equivalent of full time wage. It was also said that only about four cities had a higher relief schedule than Peterborough.

Special Needs

Apart from such necessities as food and fuel, for example, the committee through its relief office was trying to exercise common sense in providing for special additional needs which some families faced from time to time. Regarding the present scale of relief as more generous than in most cities of the province, and also because of the brighter promise of increasing employment, the committee decided not to amplify the city's relief schedule.

As far as the council itself could provide work, it was pointed out that $80,000 had been provided for the Board of Works this year, and that a meeting was being held next week to consider how this money was to be spent. Confidence of helpful results from the Home Improvement Plan was also expressed, and with spreads of a general broadening of employment the committee agreed not to alter the present relief program.

Two Months' Relief

Peterborough's relief expenditure for January and February amounted to $20,244.01 plus $1,223.46, the total being $26,471.97. The rebate from the government for this two month period, including an approximation of the grant for February, is $17,304.21, leaving $9,113.76 to be paid out of the city treasury.

The relief appropriation for this year is $56,000 and the present balance is $46,886.24 for ten months' relief.

Demand Declines

The committee received the following comparative statement for February from A. O. Metheral, relief officer:—

With the Boy Scouts

On the alert, fellows. The Scout Craft Show is drawing near. According to present arrangements it is to be held on March 12 and 13 in the south half of the old Examiner building on George street. To date, 178 Scouts and Cubs have expressed a desire to enter. There are still some troops to be heard from. Entry lists can be secured this (Wednesday) night at the Central Rover Den.

Those having entries are requested to hand them to the receiving committee at the Rover Den or they may be handed in at the exhibition rooms. The earlier, the better.

List of prizes to be awarded at the Scout Craft Show are as follows: A shield to be held one year, to the troop with the highest total points; also a cup, bronze medal, money pouch and book on Scouting for Sons, to individual Scouts in first four places; and a bronze medal, Cub ruche sack and book, for the individual Cubs placing in first three places.

Sacred Heart Cubs recently had a good rousing sing-song with 17 lusty voices contributing to the chorus. Games and instruction were given; the question being, "What would you do if your school caught fire?"

Thursday night the Cubs are taking an imaginary trip through Africa. Any Akela or others wishing to travel are urged to be on board at 6.45 sharp.

Scouts Jack Welch and Roy Hallihan have been presented with their second-class badges.

At St. Paul's another forward step was taken when Miss Lily Bull, Akela of the Pack, presented the boys with a totem pole made by her father. Next week a skating party is to be held after the pack meeting.

St. John's Troop and Rover Crew entertained the Lindsay Troop to team was fortunate in beating the visitors, 18-17.

On Sunday evening in the quiet of the Central Rover headquarters, George Groombridge and Jack Collis took their solemn promise as Rover leaders before the Altar of Rovering, in the presence of God and with the kind and helpful assistance of Commissioner Lionel Bishop of Toronto. The sponsors, by request, were Peter Dominic and Gerald Grady.

WINNIPEG RINK BEATS HAILEYBURY FOR SECOND LOSS

Alberta And Manitoba Are Tied For Canadian Curling Supremacy

SIX WINS EACH

TORONTO, March 4 (CP)—Canadian curling supremacy rested today between Alberta and Manitoba with two rounds to go in the classic Macdonald's Brier Tankard Bonspiel for the interprovincial championship. Saskatchewan and Northern Ontario retained a slender hope of victory.

Young Jimmy Welsh of Winnipeg, driving along the rougher side of the stretch, scored a 7-5 win this morning in his 7th round match against Emmett Smith's Northern Ontario veterans from Haileybury. It was the second defeat of the bonspiel for Smith.

Keeping pace with the Manitobans, Cliff Manahan and his Edmonton Aces outscored A. E. Dunker's rink 13-10, leaving Alberta and Manitoba tied for the leadership with six wins against one loss.

Frank Smith's Moose Jaw quartet moved into a tie with Northern Ontario, one game back of the leaders, by defeating British Columbia 14-11. In other seventh-round encounters Quebec downed New Brunswick 12-9 for its second win of the bonspiel and Nova Scotia marked up its fourth victory at the expense of Prince Edward Island. The score was 10-9 in an extra-end game. Manitoba's hopes of finishing on top alone or tied with Alberta—rested on the ability of the Welsh rink to defeat Ontario this afternoon and Saskatchewan tonight. Alberta was expected to win its two remaining games against Prince Edward Island and Nova Scotia.

Brilliant Battle.

The youthful Welsh rink was at its best against Northern Ontario in a brilliant Western-style knockout battle that developed scoreless results on the first two ends. Nothing was allowed to remain in the big circle on these ends—and seldom thereafter.

They built up the third end, on which Welsh scored a single with his last rock, and from that point to the end the Manitoba skip was content to score on every second-end when he had the last shot. He depended on his own ability to score better than a single occasionally.

The system worked perfectly. On the fifth Welsh counted two, drawing in for a second shot after Smith failed to take out the only rock in the house. On the ninth Smith missed again—again Welsh tallied two. The two extra points constituted the margin of victory.

Manahan, 19, on the other hand, ran up a 10-0 lead over Ontario in four ends and proceeded to become careless. The fighting Dunkor four finally made the count 11-9 after the ninth when Alberta tightened up and scored singles on two of the last three ends.

Toronto Police Complete Clean-Up

Toronto police brought down the "hammer" on $35,000 worth of slot machine and electric pin games which had been seized in a series of raids designed to rid the city of the illegal games. The "hammer," however, was not wielded by an auctioneer, for the officers used sledge hammers on the confiscated machines. Two plainclothesmen are pictured as they smashed the machines into small pieces, completing their clean-up.

FOOD BEEN PLENTIFUL.

Peterborough sportsmen who are fond of hunting small game and birds are looking forward to a good season in 1937. The open winter has been very favorable for the propagation of birds and animals. Winter weather has lacked the severity which killed so much wild life in 1933, but has afforded necessary protection for muskrats. Food has been plentiful.

JUDGMENT RESERVED.

Decision of Judge McGibbon was reserved after trial of George Selmes on a serious charge was concluded in County Criminal Court here yesterday afternoon. A disposition of the case will be made on March 11 at 10 a.m. Taking of evidence and hearing of arguments occupied both morning and afternoon sessions yesterday. Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., conducted the prosecution, and W. J. Arthur Fair defended.

PLAN SPECIAL SERVICE.

Members of St. David's Welsh Society who recently honored the anniversary of their patron saint plan to attend a special service at St. George's Anglican Church on Sunday evening next. The annual service at this south-end church has been a regular annual feature in connection with St. David's Day celebrations, the former rector of the church, the Rev. J. L. Hughes, having been a president of the Society during his incumbency here.

WIRE BOUGHT EARLY.

Through the good fortune of having purchased an advance supply of copper wire before the sensational rise in the price of copper during recent weeks, the Peterborough Utilities Commission will not feel the burden of the rising wire quotations until later this year, it was learned to-day. Sufficient wire to carry the Electrical Department well into its summer program of maintenance and reconstruction was bought last Fall when the price for the prepared product was at 18 cents a pound. Current quotations are around 25 cents a pound.

The Agricultural Committee under chairmanship of Dr. J. J. Craig is sponsoring the weekly luncheon meeting of the Kiwanis Club to be held at the Empress Hotel on Friday. The guest speaker will be Kiwanian Stuart L. Page, Barrie representative of the Ontario Department of Agriculture. A. D. Along with other police offices throughout the province, Toronto City Police Department has circularized Peterborough City Police Department, respecting the theft of medals and other articles from a dwelling house in "The Queen City" on February 21 last. Chief Constable D. C. Draper states in the circular that he is authorized to offer a reward of $100 for the recovery of the articles, particularly the two medals. The medals are described as being "The Most Distinguished Order of St. Michael and St. George", and the "Colonial Officer Auxiliary Forces Decoration".

RUNS INTO CAR.

When she ran into the side of an east-bound automobile in the vicinity of Bonner-Worth Mills while at play on Wednesday afternoon the five-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred H. Graham, 467 McDonnel Street, escaped injury, but was badly scared. According to police report the driver of the car involved was Thomas Record, 656 Reid Street, who picked up the child and took her home.

MORE LICENSES ISSUED

The open winter has resulted in ready money for the Department of Highways around Peterborough. It was learned today. Many car owners who usually put their vehicles away during the cold and snowy months have been operating them regularly this winter. This a greater portion of the 1937 license markers for this district have been taken out. Out of a local allotment of 6,500, 4,600 markers have now been purchased.

REGRET HOSTEL CLOSING

Regret that the Red Cross Hostel in Peterborough was closed in this city was expressed by the Peterborough Ministerial Association at its meeting Tuesday. Members expressed the opinion the Hostel afforded the simplest means of taking care of the transient problem here. The Association gladly made a substantial contribution toward maintenance of the hostel and, in view of that contribution, might have been consulted in the matter of the closing, it was suggested.

JACK RABBITS PLENTIFUL.

Five years ago the jack rabbit made its appearance in this district, moving in from the West. The breed has been increasing in numbers steadily, local huntsmen report, and it seems likely the familiar little cotton-tail is to be definitely overshadowed by its big cousin as the principal small game item in local woods. With the increase in the number of jacks, the number of local sportsmen who like to shoulder a .22 or a small-bore shotgun and go out to woods in nearby townships for an afternoon of hunting has trimmed. The big jack seems a move worthy target than the little cotton-tail has afforded. A jack weighing 13 pounds was bagged by one enthusiastic hunter in North Monaghan the other day.

Discussions by Dr. George A. Morgan of Toronto featured afternoon and evening sessions of the Peterborough and District Dental Society here Wednesday. TRUCK CATCHES FIRE

A back-fire through the carburetor is believed to have caused a blaze which threatened to destroy a truck belonging to J. L. P. Smith, plumber, on Gilmour street early this morning. The Fire Department was summoned and the fire extinguished before serious damage had been done.

CONDITION IMPROVED.

Although Francis McDonald, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clare McDonald, 2 Crescent Street, is still in a serious condition with a compound fracture of the skull suffered in a recent street accident, officials at St. Joseph's Hospital report the lad is showing continued improvement. Before being operated on last Monday night by Dr. J. M. O'Brien the injured boy was given a blood transfusion by Constable Joseph Wheeler of the City Police Department. He withstood the operation so well that further blood transfusions have not been necessary, it was learned.

CAR SIDESWIPED BY PASSING TRUCK

Driver Of Truck Later Reports Accident To Police—Car Just Been Parked

Edward Trotter, 593 George street parked his car on the east side of Water street facing north with the lights on, and was approaching the front door of a house on the opposite side of the street to make a call on Wednesday evening, when he heard a crash and turned in time to see a large red truck proceeding south.

Examination of his car revealed that the left front wheel had been wrenched off, a fender on the same side had been crumpled; the front axle twisted and the rear top of the hood torn.

Constable John Stevenson was investigating the accident, when according to police report Roland Johnston, 718 Water street, driver of a motor truck owned by P. DeCarlonis returned to the scene of the smash, and admitted it was his truck that had collided with the car.

THE STARS SAY . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Friday, March 5

RATHER doubtful and adverse astral operations dominate this day, putting employment, labor and relations with those in high places in jeopardy. Beware of fraud, duplicity and secret enmities, as well as open breaks or contention in private affairs. Unwelcome changes or travel may be precipitated. Despite anxiety, worry and perplexity, there are certain indications of financial gain.

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves in a year of perplexity, anxieties and worries, with employment and labor causing concern. Abrupt change or journeys may contribute to this, as might schemes of a subtle and surprising or mysterious nature. Be alert to these, move with prudence and vigilance and there may be some profitable denouements. Private affairs are likewise menaced.

A child born on this day may have a rather contradictory nature, difficult to understand because of certain erratic or curious tendencies. It should, however, be good natured and popular.

EMPIRE PACTS OPEN MARKETS TO B. C. LUMBER

United Kingdom Takes Eighty Per Cent. Of The Canadian Product

STRIKE HURT TRADE

VANCOUVER, March 4.—Canada called and the Empire answered, British Columbia lumberman will tell you. Production last year, for the third time in history, jumped well over the 3,000,000,000-foot mark an increase of 14 per cent over 1936 and only 10 per cent. short of equalling the boom-time high set in 1929, according to the provincial forest branch. Exports rose from 702,000,000 feet in 1935 to 1,043,000,000 feet last year as the largest fleet of chartered ships in the world filled a steady course to Canadian west coast ports.

British Best Customers

When a few years ago, high tariff walls shut British Columbia lumber out of the United States market, the $250,000,000 industry soon lost its quick tempo. The U.S.A. at that time still enjoyed 50 per cent. of the British timber trade. Now, however, a combination of circumstances is making B.C. woods hum with activity while in the nearby American states of Oregon, Washington and California more than 12,000 lumber workers are idle with upwards of 30 mills closed tight.

As a result of Empire trade agreements, British Columbia now exports 80 per cent. of her lumber production to British soil. The United Kingdom took 606,272,000 feet last year, more than half of the total export and a startling jump over the figure of two years ago of 39,466,521 feet. Close behind as good customers come Australia and South Africa. The sudden meteoric rise in the South African market has made necessary the organization of a new shipping service from British Columbia to that dominion. In tune with the expanding business, the new vessels will be devoted exclusively to lumber carrying.

Strike Hurt Trade

China and Japan, too, are good customers, although the bulk of their orders were turned to American mills early in 1936. Deliveries were slow, however, due to the United States Pacific maritime strike which cost American lumbermen over $4,000,000. Had the strike continued indefinitely, it is held, the Orient would have turned to British Columbia to fill her orders. Canadian millmen, however, with orders booked months in advance, were not sure they could handle additional business. Extensive advertising and sales promotion in the United Kingdom and the dominions, coupled with the preference give en B.C. lumber under Empire trade pacts, has boosted employed figures in the industry from 11,000 to 20,000 in the camps alone.

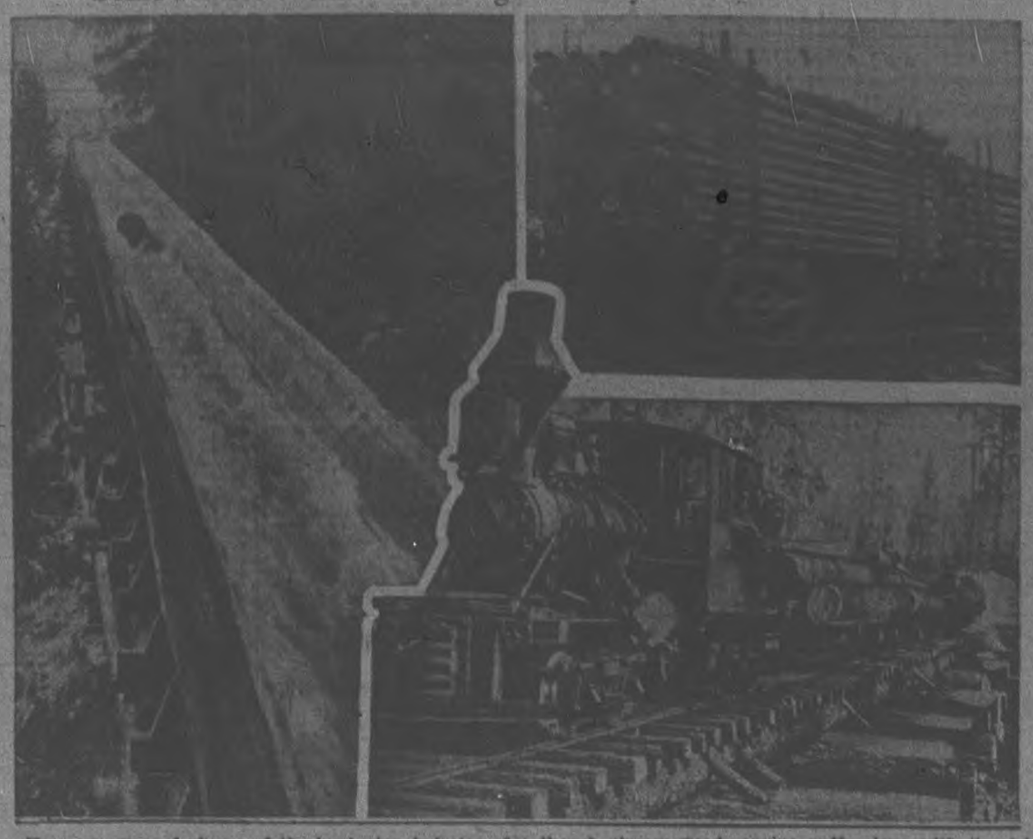
Expect New Records

In the typical month of November last, British Columbia lumber exports totalled some 110,000,000 feet, according to estimates of the Pacific lumber inspection bureau. Not a stick was moved from any strike-bound American port during that month. American lumbermen, however are quick to point out that even before the strikes crippled their export facilities for some time, British Columbia led the overseas parade. Besides Empire agreements, they claim, the higher wage scale enforced by the old NRA lumber code has made competition distinctly in Canada's favor.

This year it is expected that new production and export figures will be set. One of British Columbia's largest operators has just acquired a new stand of Douglas fir estimated at 4,000,000 feet. This will increase the company's yearly output, already 200,000,000 feet, by another 100,000,000 feet.

At Alberni, on the west coast of Vancouver Island, the vast holdings of British Columbia's biggest timber company are driving the great bandsaws of the company's mill day and night. Last fall, to meet the ever-growing demand for B.C. lumber abroad and guarantee cargoes for their fleet of chartered ships, this company closed the biggest timber deal in a decade by buying a $4,000,000 mill, one of the largest export plants in Western Canada, from British owners. To feed the mill they paid John D. Rockefeller, Jr., $2,367,000 for a timber stand adjoining the plant of 1,000,000 feet. This will step up their yearly output by some 125,000,000 feet, putting them in top-ranking position among the Pacific coast's timber barons.

Some Phases of the Lumbering Industry in British Columbia



Here are some of phases of the lumbering industry of British Columbia, now enjoying a record boom, told in pictures. Logs are shown at the LEFT tearing down the chutes which lead from the forest to the saw mill or to the stream down which they will be 'driven". At the RIGHT, a powerful though clumsy woods engine puffs along with its string of log-loaded flat cars, its destination also the howling saws. One section of the finished product is pictured, top RIGHT. This is part of a train load of telephone poles being loaded at Hazleton, B.C.

LINDSAY LAYING CORONATION PLANS

Propose Monster Parade With Program Of Athletic Events And Musical Festival

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LINDSAY, March 4.—According to plans outlined by the Town Council, Coronation Day, May 12, will be celebrated in an elaborate manner in Lindsay. A big parade and a program of athletic events will be features of the program. The social clubs and fraternal organizations will co-operate with a committee from the Town Council in arranging the program. The finals in the big Musical Festival will be held in the Armories on the same day.

The big hockey tournament for the Felt Cup has attracted some nine teams from different points in the district. Reinhardt's and Copeland's, of Toronto, two classy teams, are entered, as is also Coco Colas, of Oshawa, and Jimmy Lehane's Kodunks, from Peterborough. The Peterborough team clashes with Reinhardt's Wednesday night at nine o'clock.

Ernest Hewitt, of Minden, is in the Ross Hospital, suffering from a broken leg, which he sustained while drawing logs. One of the logs rolled off the truck, crushing his leg.

The village of Minden is to have a new industry in the shape of a woodenware factory. A. J. Fleizer, of Toronto, is head of the concern, and a supply of material, consisting of birch and maple bolts, have been hauled to the site of the plant.

They certainly take their hockey seriously in Lindsay. A few nights ago a member of a local team named Perrin, who was to figure in a Hughes Cup fixture the following night, dreamed that he was engaged in a struggle with an outside team, with the result that he fell out of bed and lost three teeth when he struck the floor.

Adoption of the 44-hour week by major industries of France is reported not to have affected the unemployment situation in the country.

ROSS STRIKE, K.C. IS REMANDED

Bowmanville Mayor Faces Manslaughter Charge After Accident

WHITBY, March 4.—Mayor Ross Strike, K.C., of Bowmanville, was arraigned before Magistrate F. S. Ebbs on charges of manslaughter and reckless driving Tuesday in district police court. No plea was taken and Mayor Strike was remanded until Friday.

The charges arose out of an accident on highway No. 2 on February 20, when the car, allegedly driven by accused, collided with Foster Blewett of Orono, who was walking with a companion, Miss Thelma Miles, some five miles west of Whitby, after borrowing a jack to repair a punctured tire. Foster Blewett died.

On Friday last a coroner's jury found Mayor Strike "negligent as to poor vision of his windshield and headlights, the same being covered by a film of dust, and should have used better precaution in passing another car."

MOTHER OF SIX IS GIVEN YEAR FOR FORGERY

Already Married She Lived With Youth In His Parents' Home

CALLED SELF "HELEN"

WHITBY, March 4.—"We have been reviewing very distressing circumstances, which have been going on for a period of years," Magistrate F. S. Ebbs told Mrs. Martha Sparling, Oshawa, mother of six children who was convicted on a charge of forging a marriage certificate.

The charge came after William Harris, Jr., of Whitby, was charged with threatening his parents and at the trial it was stated that Mrs. Sparling had been living with young Harris for some six weeks at the home of his parents, purporting to be his lawful wife, until Mrs. William Harris, Sr., discovered a marriage certificate issued to William T. Harris and Helen Brunt which was turned over to the crown-attorney for investigation.

Mrs. Harris, Sr., stated that on Dec. 23 her son brought Mrs. Sparling home, saying her name was Helen and four weeks later Mrs. Sparling informed her she was not married to her son, that her name was Mrs. Martha Sparling and that she was separated from her husband who had five of the six children with him, while she had the youngest, 3, with her.

Saw Her Name in Paper

"My son didn't introduce her when she came, he said her name was Helen," stated Mrs. Harris. "I didn't know her real name until I saw it in the paper. She said she did it for devilment. Mr. Harris put her out. He had tried to put her out three times before. Her being in my place started a lot of fights."

Mrs. Sparling, in examining Mrs. Harris, stated she first went to the Harris home in October and that Mrs. Harris knew she was married. Police Chief Quantrill testified that Mrs. Harris, Sr., gave the certificate to him Jan. 30 at the time Mrs. Sparling and William Harris, Jr., were before the court. At that time Mrs. Sparling said she had made out the certificate and signed it "just for tomfoolery," he swore.

Miss Found, of Oshawa city clerk's office, testified that on April 18, William T. Harris purchased the certificate which was not fully paid for yet, it was made out for the purchaser and another woman.

Asked who this woman was, Mrs. Sparling said she did not know but she was probably Bill's girl friend at the time.

Miss Margaret Cassidy, of the crown-attorney's office testified that a letter to Rev. D. A. Halliday, 116 Waverley Rd., Toronto, had been sent to him, as his name appeared on the certificate, but it was returned.

"Made Pencil Markings"

Mrs. Sparling said she made some pencil markings on the certificate and that young Harris traced in the writing. "It was done the last week in January. I didn't write it in ink. I wrote and I didn't, I rubbed the pencil out after. I went to the Harris home just to stay for the holiday. I'm just a friend of Bill. We lived as man and wife, but didn't tell them were were married," said Mrs. Sparling.

"When you gave evidence first you said you made out the certificate," stated Magistrate Ebbs. "I was afraid of Bill, he beat me up three or four times," replied Mrs. Sparling.

"Take a good look, can you see any marks of tracing?" asked the magistrate. "No, your honor."

"This woman's case is distressing," stated Crown-Attorney Conant. "She has six children and is separated from her husband who has five of them, the other is being trapsed about the country. This is a shocking position that has been shown today, she should not be allowed to go about."

The accused was sentenced to one year indeterminate at Mercer reformatory, while the child, at present in the care of the Children's shelter, will be sent to the parents of the convicted woman.

LAKEFIELD Y.P.U. WILL HOLD DEBATE

Union Also Plans To Sponsor Skating Party Next Week

(Examiner Correspondence)

LAKEFIELD, March 3—The regular weekly meeting of the Lakefield United Church Young People's Union was held on Monday evening, March 1, in the Sunday School.

After the usual opening games, a sing-song led by Miss George Kelly, was indulged in by the members. "Rads," "Tripping Maiden," "Golden Slumbers" and "All Praise to Thee" were among the most popular numbers sung.

Clifford Hurl, president, presided over the business session. A debate with Fairview Society is being held in Lakefield on March 8th and a skating party is planned for Wednesday, March 10. An invitation to visit the Havelock Y.P.S. was received but after some discussion it was decided not to accept the invitation until a later date.

Irene Darling, missionary convener, had charge of the meeting. The topic was taken by Rev. George Kelly who discussed the four gospels, Matthew, Mark, Luke and John. Rev. Mr. Kelly went on to discuss the translations of the Bible. The first well-known translation is the "Vulgate" which appeared about 350 A.D. It translated the books from the Greek into Latin. The first complete translation was made by John Wycliffe in 1382. William Tyndale's translation direct from the Greek, came out in 1500. Then the authorized version of James 1st, appearing in 1611, became widely known and was used almost universally. It is being replaced now in many churches by the newer revised version. Apart from the Bible's spiritual value, it is our noblest literary heritage, Rev. Kelly concluded.

Mrs. William Millage sang a solo and a reading by Miss Zelma Darling brought the meeting to a close.

ALL SAINTS' WINS JUNIOR CITY LOOP '37 CHAMPIONSHIP

Cop Second Straight Playoff Decision Over Canucks To Gain Title And Trophy

LEAD FROM START

All saints won the championship of the Junior City Hockey League for 1937 last night at the Brock St. rink when they copped an 6-5 verdict over Canucks before a fair crowd of fans. It was their second win in a row in the two-out-of-three series for the Tully Trophy. All Saints earned the decision all the way last night, piling up an early lead and holding off a desperate Canuck attack in the last half which whittled that lead down considerably. Poor goal-tending probably cost Canucks this contest, several of the All Saints' counters being soft ones. The goalie was finally removed toward the end of the third and Canucks played with six players up.

Play was fast all the way with some nice combination and tricky stickhandling shown. The passing plays and hard shooting of All Saints made them dangerous from the start. Canucks were slow getting untracked but held their own in the second frame and looked better than their rivals in the third. They gamest up dangerously in the last half of the game. The first line trio of McDougall, Mortimer and Williams—especially the latter—shone for the winners, with the others almost as effective. Jay made some neat saves in goal. Coursey stood out for Canucks with Gilbers and Connelly good at times. The defence was fairly strong and the alternates all worked hard.

Get Early Lead

All Saints had a 5-1 lead in the first inning, their goals being scored by Clarke, Williams, Rowbotham, Logen and McDougall; while Coursey counted for Canucks. It was 2-1 for Canucks in the second, Bell and Fleming tallying for the Greenshirts on assists from Coursey; and Mortimer taking Williams' pass. Canucks had a 3-2 edge in the third, Coursey get two for them and Gilbert one. Williams scored both for All Saints, one on a breakaway, Canucks were pressing at the finish. The teams:

All Saints: Goal, Jay; defence, Cordin and Logen; centre, McDougall; wings, Mortimer and Williams; alternates, Watson, Rowbotham and Clarke.

Canucks: Goal, McKinnon; defence, Caumtis and Giardino; centre, Gilbert; wings, Connelly and Coursey; alternates, Ratley, Riel Collins and Fleming.

Referee, Lou LeHarr.

ST. PAUL'S CAGERS TROUNCE COBOURG

Take 44-18 Exhibition Basketball Win Over Invictus Team In "Y" Gym

An exhibition basketball game was staged in the "Y" here last evening with St. Paul's squad of Peterborough copping a 44-18 win over the Invictus crew of Cobourg. This latter outfit went to the intermediate semi-finals last year but could not hold the powerful local gang last evening. A return game in Cobourg will probably be arranged.

St. Paul's turned in a grand performance to hold an 18-7 lead at halftime and finish much stronger than their rivals. Thesturn and Sedgewick were outstanding for the winners, the former scoring 12 points and the latter 12. Cooper led the losers with six points and Campbell had five. Play was fast and open most of the way with few personal fouls called. The teams:

Invictus: Campbell, Cooper, Jamieson, Lucas, R. Dufton, Schrum and Markey.

St. Paul's — Pulkinghorn, Thorburn, Marsh, Sedgewick, McIntyre, and Arcott.

Scorer—L. Grose.

1937 BE BAD YEAR FOR U.S. CHAMPIONS

Don Budge And Washington's Varsity Crew Picked As Winners

By ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, March 4 (AP)—The only thing red-headed Don Budge and the University of Washington's Varsity crew have in common is that they are expected to mop up the competition from west to east of the United States in this year's sporting carnival.

They are the nearest to unanimous choices in a poll of United States sports editors, taken by The Associated Press for a consensus forecast of 1937 events.

Exactly 42 out of 46 experts, representative of all shades of athletic thought, selected Budge to consolidate his No. 1 ranking this year by capturing the United States tennis championship. Taking to the water, but keeping afloat, 40 out of 44 named Washington to repeat in the four-mile Varsity classic at Poughkeepsie.

Pick Ranger To Win

Otherwise, on amateur fronts, the United States editors pick their own country to win the Davis Cup, international tennis trophy; Harold S. Vanderbilt's Rangers to turn back the American's Cup Challenge of Endeavor II in yachting; Johnny Clottman to displace Johnny Fischer as United States amateur golf king, and Helen Jacobs to oust blond Alice Marble from the women's tennis throne.

Taken as a whole, the experts believe 1937 will be a bad year for champions. Two exceptions involve the events to be conducted on tidal waters where Vanderbilt and Washington are the choice to repeat.

Only three out of 47 sports editors named England as likely to retain the Davis Cup without Fred Perry. Owing possibly to patriotic enthusiasm, but the U.S.A. is a slim choice over Germany, 17 to 16. Australia beat the United States last year, but received only 10 votes. One long-shot player selected France.

Collected 42 Out 45 Votes

Budge, this country's main Davis Cup hope, ran off with the balloting on the men singles champion, collecting 42 out of 45 votes. Baron Gottfried Von Cramm, German ace, received two votes; Atlanta's Bryan (Bitsy) Grant, one. Fred Perry won the U.S. title last year, but since has turned professional.

Thirty-three out of 46 who expressed views on women's tennis believe Helen Jacobs will regain the crown she lost to Alice Marble last year.

Wants Fighters

"...ers you'd like half a dozen good heavyweights with an arm on each side," says General A. C. Critchley to New York fight promoters shortly after his arrival in New York city from London, England. The general is seeking a few good heavyweights to take part in the fight program to be staged during the coronation ceremonies. He is a former resident of Calgary, Alta. Apart from the fight business, he also operates the Greyhound racing tracks in England.

SPORTS DAY BY DAY

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

(C.J.F.)

TONIGHT AT 8.30 in the Brock St. arena, the Blood and Thunder Loop goes into its second semi-final game. A regular game under O.H.A. rules with time out for all stops, Lakefield and Mayfairs are tied a 4-4 new and, as goals count in this two-game aerial, tonight's tie will go on for hours of overtime, if necessary. A winner must be declared to tackle Westclox in Senior City Hockey League finals. Now the Lakefield and Mayfair men played a kind of cream-puff game last time but both were being cautious and not gambling on any lead for the other team. This eve, they'll go all the way out and it should be a slamming, teeth-rattling melee. Fans ought to see a lot of rugged action before the winner is declared.

* * * * * * *

ONE OF the veteran players who took part in that marathon Lakefield-Marines' battle last Monday p.m. here remarked yesterday: "I'm just now beginning to get over it. Not so young any more and a long tussle like that takes it out of you. I didn't do any practising this winter, just what I got in the games, and there's no substitute for sweating your way into condition." He added that if he were asked to work as long or hard on overtime in his regular job, he would have declared a sit-down strike. But hockey was a horse of another hue.

* * * * * * *

ALL SAINTS won the Junior City Hockey League title last eve from Canucks, 6-5, it being their second straight playoff win. They deserved the nod with a nice performance, Canucks' goalie was fanning gaudy regularly in this tilt and the rest of the squad battled gamely and made it plenty close toward the end but couldn't overcome that handicap. The 5-1 lead in the first frame was like money in the bank for All Saints and they had to cash in on that margin before the finish. Congrats to the winners, and also to the other players of this lively loop this winter. With a bouquet to the officers responsible.

GIRLS' CAGE contests at the Y.W. this Friday e'en: "Y" Quakers vs. St. John's Juniors at 7.45, Westclox Seniors vs. Marconi Radio at 8.15, and C.G.E. Juniors vs. Westclox at 9.00. This ends the senior schedule. The same night sees Lindsay senior boy basketeers playing P.C.I. here. The P.C.I. junior boys have playoffs with Bowmanville here Monday and away Friday. Two senior city games on Saturday eve in the Y.M.C.A.

* * * * * * *

NO. THE Colts' next opponent in O.H.A. Junior "B" playdowns has not yet been named. A full week has been wasted with the locals lying around idle and the sun's rays warmer each day on our natural ice. Local players, officials and fans are beginning to burn up at this delay. After crossing the O.H.A. secretary, Bill Hewitt, for some team of other, what does the Peterborough club get last night but a wire from said secretary informing our gang that Oshawa would not be playing in junior playdowns! Something we've known here for several days. So it looks like nothing doing at all this week, and the Colts meeting the winner next week of the Aurora-Lindsay series—which'll be settled tonight. These teams are tied at present. It's too bad to have such a delay at this time of year.

* * * * * * *

SPEAKING OF the Aurora-Lindsay serial, the writer on the Lindsay Warder pours forth this opinion: "The winners of this playdown will give Peterborough quite a run in the future. The Petes are reported to lack some of the power of last year but seem to be doing all right by themselves. However, keep the glimmers on this Northern Vocational outfit when the finals are reached in the junior race. From all appearances, the Voca will be in there." Hank Goldup, who starred for Kingston 'gainst our juniors last year, is the big star for Vocationals. A boy named Hood—brother of Hugh Hood of this city—plays defence for 'em. Learned his hockey out west.

* * * * * * *

MANAGER JIM Lehane's local Kadunks—that handle has quite a tale behind it—won the first game of the Felt Trophy tournament in Lindsay last e'en. They took a 5-4 nod over Toronto Rheinhardts in overtime, Gardner getting the winning goal on Coughlin's assist. A good game, we're told. Cord Clarke was in goal for Kadunks with Weir, Magee and Ellis on defence. One line had Calladine, Burton and Vitarelli; while the other had Coughlin, Creighton and Gardner. Harvey (Bushey) Jackson of the Leafs was referee in this tilt; while Buffer Reeves, veteran Lindsay arbiter, refereed the first tilt of the evening which saw Lindsay beat Fenelon Falls, 8-2. Ye Kadunks go into action again Friday when the finals will be played there.

* * * * * * *

CHURCH PUCK Loop juvenile playoff series is all even as St. Paul's took a 7-3 win over Murray St. in the second contest last evening to force a third game. First one was 2-0 for the Baptists. Last night saw one goalie muff four and the other fan on one so the "earned goal" score should have been 2-2 for St. Paul's in a neat number. Play was fast and clean all the way and it is anyone's series yet. Next game will be Monday p.m. at All Saints' rink. The Church League playoffs are well on the wane and all will be over within another week. Ditto with the other local minor puck loops.

* * * * * * *

HITHER AND yawn: Senior Cage Loop contests Saturday eve at the Y.M.C.A.: Neil's vs. Dominion Life at 8.15 and St. Pat's vs. C.G.E. at 9.15 . . . . Followed by Jack Marshall and his Syncopaters on the powdered gym floor . . . . Looks like outside teams will be conspicuous by their absence at the Eastern Ontario volleyball playdown tournament here this weekend . . . . Trenton Fliers last night won the O.H.A. intermediate "A" championship with a 2-1 win over Point Edward in Belleville . . . . Lakefield Prep pucksters took a 3-2 nod over Lakefield High yesterday after lunch . . . . We doubt if the winner of our Senior City Hockey League will go into "B" playdowns now . . . . Well, the longer the Colts wait the fewer teams will be left in the playdowns.

CURLING

By HERB MARTIN

Seven more rinks passed out of the Vice-skips competition Wednesday night and it was hoped that we would be able to reach the finals by Friday night. This mild spell may cause a temporary upset.

Two games went extra ends and both required Bullshot on 11-10 decisions. The Comstock-Clark affair was the first to go overtime with Wall getting the odd count.

The other was when W. Wildess made the champions of Group B go beyond the time limit before he would concede the game.

Another good game was the Comstock-Clark affair . . . Tied coming home, Dr. Clark won out also by 11-10.

So far the skips have adhered to the new rule fairly well, although it could be seen from No. 8 that some of them were suffering untold mental agony.

Ready For Action

The vice-president and manager of Detroit Tigers, Mickey Cochrane, claims he is well again and ready for action behind the plate. Cochrane was out of action for a spell last season due to illness but he is confident that he is now ready to take up his old position this season. "There are some young fellows coming up, but I think "Mickey's still got the stuff," said Cochrane as he reviewed the prospective lineup.

TORONTO PLAYERS IN QUARTER-FINALS

Canadian Badminton Championships Are Being Held In Vancouver

VANCOUVER, March 4 (CP) — Three Toronto badminton stars entered the quarter-final round of the men's singles in the Canadian badminton championships here today after preliminary play had brought the downfall of three highly-ranked players.

Jimmy Forsythe, Joe Zaharko and Jack Storey, all of Toronto, reached the eights yesterday along with two Vancouver players, Dick Birch and Jack Underhill, Eric Leney of Duncan, B.C., Bob Pentland, Calgary, and Emsley Long, Winnipeg.

The 17-year-old Pentland scored a major upset with a 15-12, 15-8, victory over Jack Sibbald of Toronto, ranked fifth in Canada, but Long's 15-3, 15-8 win over young Johnny Samis of Vancouver, seeded third, was almost as great a surprise.

Bev. Mitchell of Ottawa, well-rated for several years, was eliminated by Leney, 9-15, 15-8, 18-10, but the Duncan star is classed with the best and his win was not unexpected.

True to Form

The women's singles ran true to form with the defending champion, Mrs. W. R. Walton, Jr., of Toronto leading three other easterners into the eights. The Robertson sisters of Ottawa, Margaret and Ruth, came through safely as did Isobel Bryson, also from the capital.

Mrs. Anna Eler Patrick, Vancouver, Daphne Fernie, Kamloops, B.C., Margaret Taylor, Kelowna, B.C., and Mrs. Gordon Pirt, Winnipeg, completed the bracket.

First round of the men's open doubles saw the defeat of Jack Storey, Toronto, and R. Cramer, Guelph, Ont., by the Moose Jaw pair, F. L. Longridge and A. B. Ingall, 15-8, 15-10. Winnipeg's strong pair of Long and J. Blanchfield eliminated Bev. Mitchell, Ottawa, and Jimmy Forsythe, Toronto, 5-15, 15-10, 15-6.

Sibbald and Zaharko of Toronto reached the third round of the doubles by defeating O. Lane and H. Francis, Victoria, 15-6, 15-8.

Feature of the mixed doubles was the defeat of Mrs. Walton and Zaharko by the Duncan pair, Leney and Ulrica Norie, 15-9, 13-15, 15-12. Margaret Robertson and Sibbald carried eastern colors through two rounds with straight-set victories over Audrey Garnett and O. W. Bowles, Winnipeg, and Mrs. H. Hughes and Long, Winnipeg.

HOCKEY TROUBLE OVER ALLAN CUP IN QUEBEC AREA

Montreal Senior Group Threatens To Withdraw From Cup Playdowns

MAY PLAY U.S. SERIES

MONTREAL, March 4 (CP)—Internal strife faced the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association today, less than two months after the hockey association culminated its clash with the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada by severing ties with the Dominion's governing amateur sport body.

Montreal senior group, supporter of the C.A.H.A. in the earlier fight, called for a change in Allan Cup playdowns and through group convenor George Slater charged exploitation of teams in Allan and Memorial Cup finals to suit business interests of certain C.A.H.A. officials.

Shortly after the union of the senior group with the United States Eastern Amateur League to take effect next winter was announced up New York yesterday, Slater declared the group probably would withdraw from Allan Cup playdowns and play a post-season series with the I. S. League winners unless the present cup playdown setup is changed.

Will Not Go To Calgary

Neither Quebec Aces nor Montreal Royals, group finalists, would consider travelling to Calgary for the Allan Cup final should either emerge as eastern Canada's representatives, Slater said, charging a resolution passed at the last annual C.A.H.A. meeting was ignored when Calgary was named site of Allan Cup playdowns.

Slater said the group was about "fed up" at what he termed habitual playing of the Memorial and Allan Cup finals in Toronto and Winnipeg, and declared this year's senior final was to have been played on the rink of the eastern Canada champion, not in Calgary.

ST. PAUL'S TEAM EVEN UP PLAYOFFS

Take 7-3 Decision From Murray St. Juveniles To Force Third Game

St. Paul's evened up the Church Hockey League juvenile playoff series last night at All Saints' Rink with a 7-3 win over Murray Street. The latter's goalie had an off-night to muff four easy ones, but St. Paul's were flying, anyway, in this struggle. They showed nice combination and strong checking to earn their verdict against their speedier rivals, who lost their first fixture of the season. Ascott got their first and last St. Paul's goals while Easton and Mackness got two each and Morrow one. Pammett scored twice for the losers and Foster once. Bad ice forced the game to be torn in four periods, with St. Paul's leading this way: 1-0, 2-1, 6-2, and 7-3.

Pammett and Foster again led the losers, showing more speed than any of the winners. C. Gillespie and Whatley were also dangerous. All the winners went well. McBride, in goal, stopped a barrage after one misstep. King played a bangup game on defence, while Easton went well up front with his boring-in style. The game was quite clean, with Murray Street getting four penalties and St. Paul's one. They play again Monday. The teams:

St. Paul's: Goal, McBride; defence, McMillan, King; centre, Easton; wings, Morrow, Ascott; alternates: Lockington, Mackness.

Murray Street: Goal, K. Gillespie; defence, Foster, C. Gillespie; centre, Pammett; wings, Whatley, Crary; alternates: Cox, Smith, Lasenby.

Referee, Don Crawford.

WHEN AWFUL'S AWFUL

CAPE TOWN—(CP)—Alf. Padgham, British golfer is a quiet lad—under. Speaking of his South African tour he told an interviewer: "I'm not going to say as a golfer proud to me on a similar occasion—"Oh, we've played an awful lot of golf on an awful lot of courses."

Wins Again

Sixto Escobar smiles through puffed lips as his waist is adorned with the new championship belt after he had successfully defended his bantamweight title against Lou Salica of New York. The boys battled 15 rounds under a threatening sky in San Juan, Porto Rico. Former Champion Jack Dempsey refereed.

Grove School Team Beats Lakefield High

(Examiner Correspondence)

LAKEFIELD, March 4.—The Lakefield Preparatory School hockey team defeated the Lakefield High School hockey team 3 to 0 on Wednesday afternoon. The ice was soft, and the game was fairly ragged as a result; combination plays were almost impossible. But despite these handicaps, the boys had a good game. Several High School lads who have not had much chance to play this season put in an appearance in the game, and made a creditable showing.

The winning goals were made by Roberts (2) and Gemmel (1). Roberts scored once in the first and once in the second period, while Gemmel made his counter in the third session. The line-up:

Preparatory School: Goal, G. Morley; defence, Goldsmith and Stewart; centre, L. Morley; right wing, Bayly; left wing, Gemmel; alternates: Crickmore, Winslow, Ledger, Roberts and Warren.

KING OF WINTER SPORTS Ski-ing by Charles Schaer

Sponsored By Peterborough Ski Club

NO. 58—SCISSORS-CHRISTIANIA

This swing is adapted to use in light snow of not too great a depth and on slopes of moderate gradient. The scissors-christiania is also used to stop a fast descent with parallel skis. If attempted in heavy snow, extreme caution must be used. Steering effect of the skis is more pronounced in this than in any other swing and is the principal element used to produce rotary action. The rotary action can, and sometimes is aided, however, by body muscular effort (body screwing.)

In the erect running position lean the body backward and weight the inclined outside ski. The knees must be thrust well forward, in spite of the backward lean, and the inclined outside ski kept perfectly at the start of the swing. When the weight has been transferred to the inclined outside ski, slightly advance the inclined inside ski and point it away from the other toward the inside of the curve, that is, divergent angle. This is the "scissors position" (see figure), weight the heel of the inside ski and keep the ankles normal. The steering effect will commence the swing and when under way the weight is carried equally on both skis. The scissor position with heels weighted must be held throughout the swing and care must be exercised not to weight the inside ski more than the outside one, that is at the beginning of the swing the weight is placed on the outer ski and during the swing the weight is brought equally on both skis.

Do not try to make this swing at all sharp, by introducing body muscular effort, until it is thoroughly mastered on a long curve. Let your skis steer around without attempting to force the swing.

THREE RINKS TIE FOR FIRST PLACE MACDONALD BRIER

Welsh Of Winnipeg, Smith Of Haileybury, Manahan Of Edmonton Still In

WON FIVE, LOST ONE EACH

TORONTO, March 4.—(CP)—Youth and age held the spotlight today as the field for the Macdonald's Brier Tankard race rounded into the home stretch. Three rinks were tied for first-place position in the final drive toward the 1937 Dominion curling championship.

Youthful Jimmy Welsh of Winnipeg hooked up with veteran Emmet Smith of Haileybury, Ont., in the feature battle of the seventh round, with Cliff Manahan of Edmonton expected to win out in his morning match. All three skips have won five games and lost only one.

But two other entries in the 10-rink field were far from being counted out. R. V. David of Vancouver and Frank Smith of Moose Jaw, Sask., were tied for second spot. Both western skips won four and lost two of their games in the past week's spiel.

Three rounds will be played today, morning, afternoon and night, with the tankard winner expected to be known tonight. Possible ties for first place will be played tomorrow, but the gallery that centred its interest on the Welsh-Smith match believed its result would decide this year's title holder.

Smith No Easy Tip-Over

Favored throughout the bonspiel to win the trophy Manitoba has held seven times in the past 10 years, the 27-year-old Welsh anticipated no easy task in eliminating Northern Ontario's champion. Smith has thrice skipped rinks in Dominion finals, first in 1927 when the tankard was put up for competition.

Manahan, Alberta representative, was matched against A. E. Dunker of Kitchener, champion of Ontario. Winner over the Manitoba rink in an earlier round, Manahan was expected to have little difficulty in the 9th round match. The Ontario curlers have lost four games and won only two so far.

The morning round was also expected to break the deadlock for second place. Saskatchewan and British Columbia were drawn against each other, with the winner of that game retaining more than a good chance to wind up tonight tied for leadership. The Smith-David game, however, was second in interest to the Smith-Welsh affair.

Without a victory in the six games played, Judge C. R. Barry of Fredericton hoped to break into the win column in his match with Quebec's champion curlers. The other game of the morning round pits Prince Edward Island against Nova Scotia.

HEARTS BEATEN IN SCOTTISH CUP

Morton Eliminates Partick Thistle 2 To 1—Fourth Round Draw Announced

GLASGOW, Mar. 4 (CP Cable)—Hamilton Academicals sprang a surprise on Heart of Midlothian, powerful Scottish League team, in a third round Scottish Football Cup match today, winning a close tussle on their own ground, 2-1. The contest, originally scheduled for last Saturday, was postponed on account of snow.

Morton also upset Partick Thistle in a replay on the latter's enclosure, victory going to the Second Division squad by a similar score. At Greenock, Saturday, the teams drew 1-1.

After battling to a scoreless draw in Glasgow at the week-end, Clyde defeated Dundee 1-0.

In the fourth round, to be played March 13, Hamilton will play the second-place Aberdeen club at Hamilton. Morton is drawn against Queen of the South at Greenock, and Clyde tackles St. Mirren at Paisley. Celtic, favored to win the Cup since Rangers were eliminated, will probably clash with Motherwell.

Motherwell has yet to meet Dundee minor league outfit left in the hunt, their engagement last Saturday having been postponed because of wintry conditions in the Berwickshire village.

The fourth round draw, made today, revised by the foregoing results, follows:

Celtic vs. Motherwell or Dunc.
Morton vs. Queen of the South.
St. Mirren vs. Clyde.
Hamilton Academicals vs Aberdeen.

20 YEARS OF TRAINING

LONDON—(CP) — Nearly 4,000 brethren have been trained at the five women's physical training colleges in England since 1895 when the first of the institutions was established.

Rosemont In Paddock After Race

In one of the most thrilling horse races in the history of the turf, Rosemont, the big five-year-old bay from the Foxcatcher farms, won the third running Santa Anita handicap classic in the last stride. The finish between Rosemont and Sea Biscuit was so close it required a photo to decide the winner. Before a crowd of 50,000 horse enthusiasts, Rosemont came from behind, with Jockey H. Richards up, to win for his owner a sum of $91,800. His time for the race was 2.02 4-5, three-fifths of a second under the track record set by Anucar in the first running of the Santa Anita. Rosemont, shown here after the race, was the pre-race favorite.

No Canadian Horses Entered Grand National—U.S. Has 12

Many Fail To Finish Test Of World's Toughest Race

THOUSANDS FALL

NEW YORK, March 4. — From this side of the Atlantic twelve horses will compete this month in the hardest and most thrilling thoroughbred test man has been able to devise—the Grand National steeplechase at Aintree, England. Canada fails to have a horse entered this year.

Of the 12 entered in the race, in which odds of 5 to 1 are quoted against any horse finishing, the chances of P. M. Gould's What Have You, J. H. Snow's sterling jumper, Delaneige, and Jock Whitney's Double Crossed are well liked by the gentlemen who determine the prices. But that means very little in this weirdest of sporting events for of the 40 to 70 horses starting the struggle, possibly only a half dozen will still be on their feet and moving at the payoff.

Thousands Fall, One Killed.

Oddly, only one jockey has been killed on the course which has been fatal to a number of horses. The spills since inauguration of the chase in 1839 must run into the thousands. In 1870 one of the riders, Lord Minto, suffered a broken neck at Valentine's jump, but later recovered and later became governor-general of Canada and served as viceroy of India.

Only one American-bred horse has won the mad scramble across 30 dangerous jumps. That was Ambo in 1908. The legend that anything can happen in a Grand National as well substantiated by the story of this four-legged Jesse Owens. Ambo was not born to the purple. He was purchased for $65 by a British hotel man, and got in shape for the classic by pulling a bus between a hotel and railway station. Billy Barton, an American horse, ran second to Tipperary Tim, which won in 1926 at odds of 100 to 1.

In the annals of the event, honors have been won mostly by the blue bloods of the turf, but though the rules have been modified and the course refined in recent years, it's still anybody's hope here because the fields are so large and the element of luck so overbearing. Some of the winners have been picked up without design in Ireland, where good jumpers are as common as grass. A certain Mr. Studd went to Ireland to buy some hunters, picked up a stray setter that he saw in a pasture. That was Salamander, winner of the race in 1906.

Work Horse Cops.

A horseman picked out a likely looking quadruped at a sale of work horses. That was Roquefort, winner in 1885. Roquefort ended his days hitched to a circus chariot. Old Joe, winner in 1896, was a common cart horse. Shaun Goilin won it in 1930. And when his ancestry was looked up it was discovered no one knew the identity of his sire. Shaun Goilin cost his owner just $116, and the value of the race when the Irish horse won it was $50,000. A winner back in the '90s, named Emigrant, changed hands in a poker game a few days before the race.

There have not been many repeaters. The victory of Reynoldstown, in 1935 and 1936, marks that animal as a creature of destiny. That unfolds the character of the classic, until when everybody becomes thoroughly convinced no horse can repeat, along comes a horse and does that.

Ditches Behind Walls.

The character of the jumps is what sends the horses sprawling. On the more difficult hazards there is a wide ditch yawning behind a high barricade, which is covered with stiff brush. On the Canal Turn a horse fairly has to change direction in mid-air in order to land safely out of the water. A stream flowing across the course helps to form the hazard at Becher's creek and, on the other side of the course, Valentine's brook.

Remember When—

Port Arthur shot two goals into an empty net to win the final of the Thunder Bay Hockey Association junior series from Kenora while the biggest crowd of the season looked on in amazement. That was seven years ago tonight. The goals gave the Ports a 4-3 victory on the round. Kenora refused to place its team on the ice because of a dispute over the referee and so forfeited the game.

HASTINGS JUNIORS TRIM WRECKERS FOR CHAMPIONSHIP

Third And Final Game Of Kawartha League Winds Up 3-2

FANS PACK ARENA

HAVELOCK, March 4—Defeating the Havelock "Wreckers" last night by a 3 to 2 score, in the third game of the Kawartha Junior League finals, Hastings Juniors took the championship away from the league leaders, after a very close struggle between two equally matched teams. The fans showed their extreme interest in the newly organized junior company by packing the Norwood Arena for this last and very important match.

Hastings started the first period very strongly and in fact scored all their goals this stanza. Radford secured the first Hastings counter with Voyer of the Wreckers tying it up a few minutes later after Moore had stick-handed through the entire Hastings team and pushed it past the defense where Voyer picked it up and slammed it home. Brunton almost put the locals on top when he made a clean breakaway, going in alone on the Hastings goal only to have Montgomery pull off a spectacular save. Radford again scored for the winners following a scramble in front of the Havelock nets, the defense failing to clear in time. Boyle put them two up a few seconds later on a goal of the softest variety, his shot from centre ice drifting slowly past the defense and trickling through Harnden's pads into the net.

McLaughlin Scores.

Going into the second two goals down, the locals began to force the play and stormed all around the Hastings goal. Brunton again missed what seemed to be a sure goal, and it seemed for a time as if the Hastings boys were unbeatable. McLaughlin, however, finally broke loose for the Wreckers and in the neatest play of the evening rounded McCoy, the lone defenceman, and firing from a very difficult angle slipped the rubber past Montgomery to make the count 3-2.

No goals were registered in the final period, Hastings resorting to strictly defensive tactics and content with long-range bombardment while the Wreckers again applied the pressure. The Hastings crew were noticeably tiring from the stiff pace but managed to keep their rivals off the score sheet, although they were a man short twice during the stanza. The locals were very unlucky around the nets, failing several times with only Montgomery to beat.

The game was exceptionally clean and well handled by the officials, R. Ennis of Norwood and B. Magerman of Havelock.

The teams:

Hastings—Goal, Montgomery; defense, Boyle and Turner; centre, Coughlin; wings, Scriver and McCarthy; alternates, Radford, Phillips, Fox, McCoy and Calberry.

Havelock — Goal, Harnden; defense, Aboud and Whitney; centre, Brunton; wings, Ketchen and McMullen; alternates, Voyer, McLaughlin, Ellis, and Moore.

Summary:

First Period.
Hastings—Radford (Phillips).
Havelock—Voyer (Moore).
Hastings—Radford.
Hastings—Boyle

Second Period.
Havelock—McLaughlin.
Penalties—McCoy, Moore, Boyle.

Third Period.
No score.
Penalties—Turner, Boyle.

TRENTON FLIERS WIN "A" LAURELS

Beat Point Edward 2-1 In Overtime Of Second Game

BELLEVILLE, March 4— (Special)—The Royal Canadian Air Force won the O.H.A. Intermediate "A" title here last night when they took the second game from Point Edward 2 to 1, in overtime, Eric McNeely scoring the winning goal after one minute of play.

The visitors had the advantage of the play during the first period, but the Fliers were the first to score when Partridge received a double assist from Lecompte and Eric McNeely after ten minutes of play.

Clute scored the equalizer for Point Edward on a tricky play, getting the puck at the blue line after twelve minutes.

NEW YORK GIANTS NOT FUSSY ABOUT LABEL "JERNTS"

Like Havana's Spanish "Gigantes" Much Better—Hot On Spring Training

ST. LOUIS TEAM TO BEAT

By Paul Mickelson
(Associated Press Sports Writer.)

HAVANA, March 4—(AP)—In the land of the rhumba where the 1937 New York Giants are training the National Baseball League champs are called the Gigantes, Spanish for Giants.

They like it better than "Jernts," as they are called in Flatbush. But they can't escape the Flatbush charm, their personal batboy-yard is a cop named Pauline Pucbla, former dime store clerk from Brooklyn who thinks the only bat club worth rooting for is Brooklyn.

Manager Bill Terry is a bit shy of Policeman Puebla since the day he let a band into the Tropical ball park for an exhibition game. The band played nothing but thumbas and didn't stop from the first inning on, drowning out Umpire Bill Klem, who threatened to retire until he, too, got the swing.

Almost to a man, including Boss Terry, the Giants pick the St. Louis Gashouse Gang as the team to beat for the 1937 pennant.

Catcher Gus Mancuso, the envy of the camp because he can rattle off Spanish, says he'd like to manage Pittsburgh Pirates. The Pirates, thinks Gus, have more latent talent than any ball club in the National League. It's a bit late but Mancuso comes up with the startling information that the murdering New York Yankees can be pitched to by smart chowder.

No one ever has hit a homer over the fence at Tropical Park, training grounds of the Giants, although Lazzaglin' Lou Gehrig of the Yankees offered to wager $1,000 at even money he could do so if someone paid his transportation to Havana. The park measures: Right field 386 feet, centrefield 483 feet, and left field 408 feet.

OMEMEE
CHICKEN SUPPER FOR HOCKEY TEAM

Omemee Players Have Achieved Great Record So Far This Season

(Examiner Correspondence.)

OMEMEE, March 4.—On Thursday evening the players of the Omemee Hockey Club enjoyed a chicken supper in Tripper Ice Cream Parlour. Their hosts for the evening were Mr. and Mrs. Warren MacKenzie and Mr. and Mrs. O. O. Tripp.

After a delicious supper was served and enjoyed by all, Mr. Art Williamson moved a vote of thanks to the hosts for the splendid way in which the team had been entertained. Captain Charlie Weir seconded the vote of thanks.

Mr. MacKenzie then congratulated the players on the splendid showing so far this season and Mr. Tripp wished the team every success in their future games.

Win Hughes' Cup

On Friday night the Omemee "Black Hawks" added to their winning ways by bringing home the coveted Hughes Cup Trophy. Omemee beat the famed "Haliburton Huskies" in the final game of the evening by 4 to 2.

Earlier in the evening the "Black Hawks" had eliminated the Lindsay St. Mary's by 6 to 1.

This gives Omemee squad three cups so far this season. They have lost one game out of 18 and have scored 115 goals and have had only 40 scored against them.

Kidney Acids Rob Your Rest

Many people never seem to get a good night's rest. They turn and toss—lie awake and count sheep. Often they blame it on "nerves" when it may be their kidneys. Healthy kidneys filter poisons from the blood. If they are faulty and fail, poisons stay in the system and sleeplessness, headaches, backache often follow. If you don't sleep well, try Dodd's Kidney Pills—for half a century the favorite remedy.

The Day That I Forget
By MARIE BLIZARD

CHAPTER 26

JANET rummaged through her wardrobe and found a white chiffon skirt that was sufficiently full so that it could be shortened. She found a red Spanish shawl and a tall comb. She wrapped the shawl about her and stuck the comb in her hair. The effect was hardly devastatingly Carmen-like.

In fact it reduced her to complete homeliness and made her feel depressed.

She was dressing for the costume party to be given by the Countess Di Crenpini, former New York society woman who now made her home in Hollywood and gave fabulous parties to bolster up her sagging popularity in the east.

Definitely Janet disliked the whole idea. She thought: You have to have a certain kind of personality to carry a costume with aplomb. I haven't. And I don't like blowing horns and wearing paper caps. I don't like jumping through paper hoops either but I seem to be doing it every day of my life these days.

"Darling," she had said to her husband, "that plane trip was very exhausting and I really don't mind having you go without me."

Then she realised it really wasn't that Joel wanted her to go with him because he wanted her to be with him: he had another reason.

He had said, "Can you not go with me the first night of your return! There has been enough said now without giving them anything else to say."

Janet had wanted to ask why, who was saying what, but the maid was in the dining room then and, when she had served them their vegetables, Joel had changed the subject.

Then there were some telephone calls for each of them and it was time to dress for the party.

Joel had never looked handsomer or more debonair to Janet than he did that night. He had worn a Spanish costume to join in effect with hers. But it served merely to contrast her own colorlessness. Janet had been right: she wasn't the type for costume parties. She rather resented Joel's attractiveness.

She was strangely silent as their big car rolled over the roads to Brentwood. She knew that her silences made Joel uncomfortable.

"Joel," she said at last, "what's it all about? You'd better tell me. I'd rather hear it from you. I know that there has been talk about something. It probably isn't very important; it seldom is out here. But it is important enough to upset you. I know you so well. I know when you erect walls between us. You're so obvious about it. Tell me?"

"Well," he began and stopped. He made much ado about tapping his cigaret, lighting it. Then he held it in his fingers and didn't even notice when the light went out.

"Come on," she said lightly. "It can't be so bad."

"Oh, it isn't bad," he said hastily. "It really isn't anything, except you see I . . . one night I . . . that is, Chester Vernon and I . ."

"I know," Janet said, "you wrote me about it. You went to Carol Griest's because you were making a picture with her and you wanted to talk it over. You wrote me about it, don't you remember?"

She felt rather than heard Joel's sigh of relief. "Yes," he said, "that was it."

There was a pause. "Well go on, Joel. People don't talk about that. What else was there?"

"Nothing. Nothing," he said.

"Oh, come, dearest!" Janet encouraged. "I know better. I know that you went to the bouts with Carol and you went . . . let me see . . ."

"How did you know that?" he asked quickly.

"You wrote me," she answered gently. "And I'll tell you the rest. After the bouts you and Carol went out somewhere for a bite of supper and you danced. You had a good time and your wife was far away, and on a lonely night, you thought you'd call Caroly up and ask her if she'd take pity on you and she did. Right?"

"Right." He said it before he thought of a better answer.

"And so," she said slowly but lightly, "it got to be a habit. First thing you knew people were saying that the reason Janet Paynter had gone east was because she was leaving her husband. Before you could blink an eye, the scribes were linking your name to Carol's and your public didn't like the idea of an idol deserting his faithful wife and the audio heads called you in and said you'd have to do something about it."

Janet didn't realise as she made up her tale how closely she had hit the truth. She had unerringly found the outline. And she had avoided the filling in as neatly as though she arranged it. She avilded it even in her own thinking.

Joel reached for her hand. She gave it to him but she didn't relax it in his big one.

"Honey," he said, "you're a woman in a million! I've heard about understanding women but I never thought I'd be lucky enough to marry one. Where do you keep all those brains in your pretty little head?"

Janet felt the weight of his anxiety lift as though she had carried the burden herself.

"Why should I be understanding, Joel? There isn't anything for me to understand, is there?"

"No, of course not," he said hastily. Janet thought: If only he wouldn't answer so quickly as though he were telling me that I'm making up the story he wanted to tell me and not the truth.

"You know how folk are out here," he was saying, "they make mountains out of molehills. Just because Carol and I . . ."

Carol and I! Jealousy was a rapier-thin, red-hot knife cutting through Janet's heart. Just to hear him say it so intimately!

". . . happened to meet occasionally in the commissary for lunch, they got buzzing."

Janet wanted to say that Carol wore his orchids. She didn't say it.

"Carol's a darn sweet kid and she had nothing to do with it. She said she didn't want to see me any more but I told her I'd tell you all about it."

Two thoughts crowded in on Janet. She didn't think that any woman who had divorced three husbands was correctly classed as "a darn sweet kid." And she thought that the future tense wasn't very flattering. Joel had said, "I'd tell you all about it."

She doubted very much if Carol Griest had said she wasn't going to see Joel any more for any other reason that that she knew her men and she knew that was the one thing to say to Joel.

She hated Carol Griest but she'd never let her know that; or Joel either.

She was prepared for her own benefit and for the benefit of all who might see to greet Carol Griest—should she be at that party—like a long lost sister. She was going to be so close to Carol Griest, she'd perplex even that lady.

But she wasn't prepared to see Carol greet her husband with a lingering, "Darling!" Or favor him with a glance of pity after with a quick glance at Janet that there was no one in the room who missed its implication. "You poor dear Joel, with that dreadful little wife come back again!" it seemed to say.

"Hello," she said to Janet, "how nice that you're back!"

"Isn't it?" Janet said. "Now we'll all have a lot of fun together."

Bedtime Story
By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY'S WIND RIDE

"Nurse Jane! Oh, Nurse Jane!" called Uncle Wiggily in his hollow stump bungalow one morning. It was soon after he had bounced the Umbrella-riding Woodie Wolf out of his automobile. "Ho, Nurse Jane!"

"Yes, Mrs. Longears," answered the muskrat lady housekeeper. "Do you want some more carrot pancakes with lettuce syrup on them?"

"Oh, no, thank you, Jane," answered Mr. Longears. "I have had plenty of breakfast. I want a piece of string."

"Oh, a piece of string," said Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy. "Here you are," and she brought some string from the kitchen where she was getting ready to give the dishes their morning bath.

"Oh, I want a longer piece of string than that," said Uncle Wiggily. "That is too short, Nurse Jane."

"It is long enough to tie around your paw and that's what you want it for, isn't it?" asked Nurse Jane.

"Yes. Why?

"Why should I want to tie a piece of string around my paw?" the rabbit gentleman inquired.

"Well, I heard Mrs. Longears tell you not to forget to bring home the paper this afternoon with the bedtime story in it to read to the children rabbits," said Nurse Jane. "I thought you wanted to tie a piece of string around your paw, so you wouldn't forget."

"Nonsense!" laughed Uncle Wiggily, playfully stepping on the end of Nurse Jane's long tail. "Nonsense! I want a long piece of—"

"Ouch!" cried Nurse Jane as she felt her tail stepped on.

"Oh, I beg your pardon," said Uncle Wiggily, pretending it was an accident. "But I want a long string Jane."

"A long string," repeated Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy. "Have you so many things to remember?"

"I'm not going to use the string for a reminder, "I want it to use on my hat."

"On your hat?"

"Yes, so it won't blow away. You know this is now the month of March, Nurse Jane. The winds blow very hard. When I hop out adventuring the wind is likely to blow away my hat. But if I tie a long string to my hat and fasten the other end of the string around my neck, it can't blow away. I mean my hat can't blow away."

The wind blew extra hard—

"That's a clever trick—I mean fastening your hat," said Nurse Jane as she ran out to the kitchen to get a longer piece of string.

Uncle Wiggily fastened one end around his hat and the other end of the string around his neck. Then he picked up his umbrella and he was ready to hop out of his hollow stump bungalow.

Can't Tell

"Do you think it will rain as well as blow?" asked Nurse Jane.

"It may," said Uncle Wiggily. "You never can tell what the weather is going to do. But I'm all ready now, for anything."

Uncle Wiggily hopped out of his bungalow. Truly, as he had said, the wind was blowing very hard. He had scarcely left his front yard when the wind almost blew off his hat. But though it popped off his head, the string kept it from getting lost.

"Come back here, hat!" laughed Uncle Wiggily and he pulled it on his head again.

On and on he hopped. All of a sudden the wind blew extra hard. It blew off the rabbit's hat. But it flew to the end of the string like a kite. And then the wind getting under the hat and the string being very strong, Uncle Wiggily was lifted right up high in the air by his flying hat. He was getting a wind ride like a human balloon.

On and on, up and up he went. It was most jolly and funny.

And if the loaf of bread will stay jumping into the sugar bowl and pretending it's a cake, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily cutting loose.

CAMPBELLFORD

JOINT PROGRAM BY YOUNG PEOPLE

A.Y.P.A. Are Hosts To Members Of St. John's And St. Andrew's Y. P. S.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, March 4 — The Anglican Young People's Association were hosts to the Young People of St. John's and St. Andrew's Churches at a meeting held in the Parish Hall on Monday evening. The young people of the various groups were well represented and the visitors arranged the program, which was followed by a delightful lunch prepared by the members of the A.Y.P.A.

Miss Vera Wood expressed a welcome to the visitors on behalf of the A.Y.P.A. and then called on President Frank Roe of St. Andrew's, who took charge during the first part of the program, which included a monologue by Mrs. McFarlane, entitled "How the Elephant Got His Trunk,' a very humorous number which was encored. Following this was a vocal selection by Miss P. Hendy, "The Wedding of Jack and Jill," which also was encored. Jack Bell gave a violin solo, "Way Down Upon the Swanee River," and encore, after which the St. Andrew's portion of the program concluded with two very clever impersonations by Frank Roe of Bob Burns and W. C. Fields.

Miss Ruth Palliser, president of St. John's Y.P.U., was then invited to take the chair for their portion of the entertainment, which opened with two piano selections, "My Old Kentucky Home" and "The Big Bad Wolf," played by Arn. Bates in his own inimitable style. Fred Palliser gave a very witty reading entitled, "My Word," which was encored. Mrs. Allan Watson gave two vocal solos, "If Any Little Song of Mine" and "Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes," with Arn. Bates playing the accompaniment. A very humorous "Grand Opera" in two acts made up the balance of the program and included in the cast, Miss Eileen Hall as Lady Frederica Winston; Fred Palliser as Rodorica Las Vemontes Del Skiddu; Ike Baron, Ronald Hast; and his retinue, Clarke and Fred McKerrie.

Miss Vera Wood then resumed the chair, calling on Rev. Harold B. Nenie, who expressed his delight at the union of the Young People at this meeting and added the hope of this meeting and added the hope that it would be possible to have more meetings of this nature in the future.

Following a period of community singing for which Mrs. J. O. Benor officiated at the piano, lunch was served and the meeting concluded.

HASTINGS

FINE ADDRESS BY MRS. J. MACDONALD

Hastings W.I. Told Of Mothers' Allowances And Old-Age Pensions

HASTINGS, March 4.— The March meeting of the Hastings Branch of the Women's Institute held on Tuesday afternoon in the Council Chambers, was one of the most sociable meetings held by the Institute, a very friendly spirit pervading the company of 21 including five visitors.

Mrs. C. Baker presided and opened the meeting. In response to the roll call, the president conducted a question box and the questions were answered by the various members. Some of the questions answered and discussed were: "What will be the menu for the District Annual to be held in Hastings in June?" "How to care for an Oleander?" "How to make a cake of light grade?" "How to rid a house of ants?"

The secretary, Mrs. J. A. Brown, gave the minutes of the last meetings and the treasurer, Mrs. O. Phillips, in her report, showed the Institute was in a good financial standing.

The president reported that as a result of the interview with the Hastings' Council, the president, secretary and treasurer of the Women's Institute were appointed as members of the Park Board.

Mrs. C. Baker, in charge of the program in the absence of Mrs. Hay, gave a splendid paper on the motto, "The doors of Opportunity are marked 'Push and Pull'".

Community singing of "John Bull", "Drink to me only with thine Eyes", "Peggy O'Neil", "The Institute Rally Song" and others were thoroughly enjoyed by everyone present. The special feature of the afternoon's program was the address given by Mrs. J. A. MacDonald on "Mothers' Allowance, and Old Age Pensions", when the following information was obtained.

To be eligible for the Mothers' Allowance, a woman must reside in Ontario, must have lived in Ontario two years and in Canada three years, must stay in Ontario while receiving the pension, must be a British subject, and a fit and proper person to have custody. Monthly payments are given towards the support of dependent children of a mother who is a widow or the wife of an inmate or wife of an incompetitated, wife deserted for five years, or the foster mother of two or three orphans. In these five classes the original act stated that there must be two or more dependent, also a sixth class, incapacitated child or husband, and one dependent. The act now amended makes any woman in any of these classes with one child eligible.

The Mother's Allowance Act is administered by a commission of five members, whose duties are to appoint local boards, receive applications, make inquiries, fix accounts and keep statistics and records.

The Old Age Pensions are pensions for all over 70 years. Regulations regarding birth and residence are similar to the Mothers' Allowance also administered by commissioners. Duties: In this the question of property enters, 50 per cent. is borne by the Dominion, 30 per cent. by the province and 20 per cent. by various municipalities.

After the close of the meeting a dainty luncheon was served by Mrs. S. Fife, Mrs. G. Gowans, Mrs. V. Findly and Mrs. Reg Johnson.

CASTLE GIVEN THREE MONTHS IN FRAUD CASE

Daughter Vents Resentment By Kicking Opposing Lawyer's Shins

R. M. GLOVER TESTIFIES

Gives Character Evidence For Lindsay Inventor Of Radical Motor

WINDSOR, Ont., March 5.—(CP).—A lawyer suffered a stiff kick in the shins in police court to-day when John Everett Castle, designer of a radical motor, was sentenced to three months in county jail on a charge of obtaining money under false pretences. Amount involved was $500.

Castle received the sentence in silence. His 21 year old daughter, Bernice, who had acted as stenographer for the motor company, expressed resentment with hearty kick on the shins of J. A. Kennedy, lawyer who represented the complainant, Herbert C. Eastlake, Windsor.

"I hope you're satisfied," she told Kennedy.

The "shin-barking" came after sentence was passed and the court room was being cleared. As Kennedy emerged from the court room Miss Castle slid up to him and planted two telling blows with a pointed toe.

The lawyer registered a fleeting expression of pain but broke out in a grin seconds later. He made no comment.

The charge asserted Eastlake had been mulcted of $2,000 in purchase of stock in the motor company through representations that a factory in Lindsay had been purchased for $47,000 cash and was free of encumbrances.

It was after the initial investment, according to evidence, that Eastlake learned the factory and machinery in it had been bought for $6,000 and that it was covered by a first mortgage of $5,000.

Magistrate Brodie ruled that Castle obtained but $500 by false pretences and that subsequent amounts were contributed by Eastlake after he was aware Castle's first representations were not in accordance with facts.

Five character witnesses, including a police officer and Roland Glover, former promoter of the Peterborough Examiner, voiced high regards for the accused.

DOCTOR THINKS CROSLEY FAKING

Could Not Do What He Did After Over-dose Of Drugs—Evidence Is Concluded

KINGSTON, Ont., March 5.—(CP).—All the evidence in the Crosley murder trial was concluded to-day with the completion of the cross examination of Dr. C. S. Tennant, of Brockville, final witness called in rebuttal by C. L. Snyder, Crown prosecutor. W. M. Nickle, K.C., counsel for the negro convict of the penitentiary, charged with the murder of Guard John McCormick, was to address the jury when court re-assembles later to-day.

In cross-examination Dr. Tennant said he thought Crosley was faking because a man suffering from an overdose of barbitol could not do what he did. Asked as to Crosley's condition at present, Dr. Tennant said the accused was not in good condition, but he knew a lot about what was going on. He admitted that Crosley might not walk properly and was possibly under the influence of bromidia.

Able to Take a Lot of Drugs.

Referring to overdoses of drugs, Dr. Tennant said the tendency would be for one to want to go to sleep and not be jumping around. He admitted that the fact Crosley this morning could stand up, and could walk into court, indicated that he was a man who could consume a great deal of drugs.

Dr. Tennant said that he would disagree with the findings of Dr. Connell and also with the parts of Dr. Cumberland's report which said there was mental defectivity in Crosley.

He described the accused as having a psychopathic personality. The witness said that Crosley said he took about 30 tablets the night before the stabbing, but if such were the truth said Dr. Tennant, the accused would be "out" for days. He admitted, that on the morning of July 11, Crosley might have looked like a man who had had a bad night.

In re-examination by Mr. Snyder, witness stated that it was Dr. Connell who recommended the increased dosage to Dr. Platt for Crosley. He admitted that Dr. Connell is a highly qualified physician, but in the field of mental diseases in which he (witness) himself was a specialist, he did not agree with Dr. Connell.

Men's Minimum Wage Law Coming In Ontario

Croll Believes Labor Is Entitled To Share Returning Prosperity

Means Protection For 400,000 Workers In Salary And Hours Of Work

"ACT LONG OVERDUE"

Trades, Labor Council Uneasy Lest Employers Make Minimum The Maximum

TORONTO, March 5 — (CP) — Maximum number of hours of labor for which Ontario will establish a minimum weekly wage for male workers were set forth today in copies of the Minimum Wage Act, 1937, introduced in the legislature yesterday by Hon. David Croll, minister of labor.

The maximum work weeks to which minimum wages shall apply will be: Forty-eight hours in municipalities having a population of more than 50,000; 50 hours in municipalities having a population of from 10 to 50,000; 54 hours in any other municipality, or in any locality which is not a municipality.

John Noble president of the District Trades and Labor Council, said if the bill proved contrary to International Trade Union policy a special meeting of the 104 unions in the Council would be called to prepare a protest to Premier Mitchell Hepburn.

William Jenopes, business agent of the Bricklayers' and Stonemasons' Union, said organized labor was opposed to a men's minimum wage as it might become the maximum Board to Handle Act.

It was explained the bill was linked with Department of Labor Act amendments when it was brought down in the Legislature. Now before the Legislature for second reading, the amendments provide for an industry and labor board to administer the Minimum Wage Act and the Apprenticeship Act. It would have three members from the Labor Department with employer and workers also represented.

A month after the board which would set the minimum wage for men, launched investigations, Department officials predicted effects of the new regulations would be felt in certain industries.

Apprentices, farm workers, and those in domestic service would be excluded from minimum wage provisions. Department officials stated age limits for skilled and unskilled men workers would likely be governed by the women's minimum wage provisions.

First in Ontario History.

"This Act means that for the first time in history minimum wages for men workers will be established by the Government of the Province of Ontario," said Mr. Croll. "It rests in the industry and Labor Board authority to ensure to the worker this fundamental right—a fair return for his daily toil, and it is long overdue."

He said the legislation to him was "the fulfilment of many years of hope and to the Government as a whole the fulfilment of a pledge to the people." It would give the 400,000 workers in the Province protection in wages and hours of work.

"It takes no prophet to predict that without Governmental action 1937 will be a year of industrial disturbances," the Minister said. "Business is increasing, production rising to normal levels; wages, as usual, are lagging behind."

The Government, he said, agreed labor should "have a stake in the returning prosperity."

Edward Johnson, Canadian-born manager of the Metropolitan Opera Company of New York, and former resident of Guelph, Ont., has been offered a two-year contract to continue his direction of the "Met." PUBLICITY ENDS HUNT FOR REST BY MRS. CLARKE

Appears In News Office After Press Reports Her Missing Since Monday

WORRIED OVER BABY

TORONTO, March 5 (CP)—Mrs. Pauline Mae Clarke, contestant in the $500,000 Millar will baby derby, turned up in a newspaper office here today to quality reports of her "disappearance." She left home Monday, Mrs. Clarke explained, for a rest from the importunings of reporters, complicated by worry because one of her babies had swallowed a penny.

She was not outside Toronto, Mrs. Clarke said. "I did go away for a rest, and I did lead a nice quiet life for awhile, but this publicity knocks it all on the head."

TORONTO, March 5 (C.P.). — A Toronto evening paper says today that Mrs. Pauline Mae Clarke, contestant in the Millar will derby, has "disappeared" from the home where she has lived for some time with the father of five children born after she and her husband separated.

The paper said Mrs. Clarke has been missing since Monday. It quoted a domestic at the home as saying Mrs. Clarke had telephoned subsequently and said she might "never" be back.

Another paper in a copyright story yesterday said a "substantial" gift of money has been set aside by an unnamed lawyer to finance

Britain's Air Defence Arm To Cost 412 Millions In 1937

Increase Of 43 Per Cent. Is Double 1928 Total Bill—Includes 70,000 Men

MORE PLANE FACTORIES

By George Hambleton
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

LONDON, March 5—(C.P. Cable).—Britain proposed to spend £82,500,000 ($412,500,000) on air defence in 1937. This is £31,800,000 ($150,000,000) over 1936. The increase alone is almost double the total expenditure of £16,091,000 in 1928.

The air estimates issued to-day raise Britain's total bill for the three fighting services in 1937 to £369,736,000 ($1,848,680,000) which is an increase of around 43 per cent. over 1936. Of the total 1937 air expenditure, £36,000,000 will be borrowed, the remainder will be met from revenue.

In 1918, the Royal Air Force establishment consisted of 38 squadrons; seven of which were stationed at home and 21 overseas. The present scheme of expansion provides among other things, for a metropolitan air force of 1,752 aircraft.

These will be organized into 134 squadrons, of which 100 will have been formed by the end of March. During the summer, the number will rise to 124 squadrons, including 26 squadrons of the Auxiliary Air forces, with an approximate first line strength of 1,500 aircraft. These 124 squadrons subsequently will be increased in size to give the necessary total first line strength of 1,750 aircraft.

Britain Depending On Balloon Barrage

London, Mar. 5 (AP)

MILITARY experts today stressed the "balloon barrage" as one of the most efficient of modern weapons against an attacking airplane fleet.

The balloon barrage consists of a series of kite balloons which support steel cables. From the cables hangs a screen of wires.

Any contact with these wires, however slight, is said to be enough to wreck an airplane or cause a pilot to lose control of his machine.

The idea was tested, with success, at Paris during the Great War.

NINE FLEE FIRE

Sleep Restaurant and Home Damaged In Toronto.

TORONTO, March 5 (CP).—Nine persons, including three children, were forced out by smoke early today when a fire, caused by an overheated vulcanizing machine, gutted the interior of a three-storey shop and spread to an adjoining restaurant and dwelling of Joseph Minta. Damage was set at $3,000 to the building and $500 to the contents.

Mrs. Joseph Minta, wife of the restaurant owner, slipped on the stairway while carrying her four-year-old son, Bernard, to safety, and wrenched her ankle. The child was uninjured.

HAVELOCK BANKER HAS BEEN MISSING FOR THREE DAYS

Harold H. Turner, 27, Last Seen On Havelock Street Monday Night

IN POOR HEALTH

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HAVELOCK, March 5.—Citizens of Havelock and vicinity are greatly puzzled over the mysterious disappearance of Harold H. Turner, aged 27, teller in the local branch of the Bank of Toronto. Missing since Tuesday morning when he failed to appear at his work, three days have passed without any news of his whereabouts. The general opinion at first was that he must have received an urgent call to his home, but on checking up it was learned that he had received neither a telegram nor a phone call previous to his departure, and that so far his relatives have not seen him.

Close friends of the missing man report that his health has been very poor for some months past and that he appeared to be slowly growing worse in recent weeks. They suggest this as a quite probable reason for his quite sudden disappearance.

Inquiries proved that Turner was last seen a short time after midnight Monday evening in the vicinity of Patterson Cafe on Ottawa street, wearing a dark suit, black overcoat, dark fedora, and carrying a small travelling case. He is about five feet five inches in height and walks with his shoulders slightly hunched.

KING IS GREETED IN WASHINGTON

Will Dine With Roosevelt — Talk Until Both Ready To Retire

WASHINGTON, March 5 (AP)—Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King arrived today to discuss world affairs with President Roosevelt during an overnight visit at the White House.

His coming coincided with predictions on Capitol Hill that Mr. Roosevelt would re-submit the long-disputed St. Lawrence waterway treaty to this session of the United States Congress.

The president said at his press conference today that world affairs would be the subject of a talk with Mr. King this evening. He said he would have tea with the visitor late today and after dinner the two of them would sit down and talk until they were ready to retire.

Mr. King was met at the railroad station by Secretary of State Hull, Marvin H. McIntyre, presidential secretary, and other officials. He went first to the Canadian legation, being scheduled to begin his White House visit later in the day.

The prime minister stepped off here on a vacation trip to the South Atlantic coast.

Singapore Base Safe Manoeuvres Indicate

Singapore, Mar. 5—(CP-Reuters)

THE Singapore defence manoeuvres, tacticians believe, proved the invulnerability of this important naval and air base.

The manoeuvres were the largest combined exercises so far held by British forces east of the Mediterranean. Army, navy and air force units participated.

Observers noted the flying boat patrols which scoured the China Seas to a radius of 500 miles from Singapore for invading ships succeeded in their task. The manoeuvres are considered to have demonstrated the wisdom of the Royal Air Force expansion policy, which includes establishment of airdromes in Sarawak, about 400 miles east of Singapore.

HAMILTON, Ont., March 5 (CP) —The bingo problem is one for Ottawa, not the provincial government Hon. A. W. Roebuck, Attorney General has informed Hamilton lovers of the game who have forwarded organized protests to him against closing down of the games.

The Attorney General's letter received here today reads: "I have your communication of recent date in which you express your opinion that house and bingo games are innocent forms of recreation.

The provincial attorney general has no authority or responsibility for either the enactment or the suggested modification of this law, but is charged with certain duties in connection with its enforcement.

Representations such as you have made to me should be forwarded to the Hon. E. A. Lapointe, Minister of Justice, Ottawa.

"I trust that you will understand my position in the matter."

TANKER HITS MINE OFF SPANISH CAPE ALL BUT ONE DIE

23 Members Of Crew Perish In Flames, Or Explosion Before Rescue Arrives

SCENE TWO OTHER BLASTS

BARCELONA, March 5 (C.P.-Havas) — Only one member of a crew of 24 lived to-day to tell the tale of the sinking of the Greek tanker Loukia, which hit a mine off the north-eastern Spanish coast and went down in flames.

The vessel, which sailed from Port Vendres, just across the French border, yesterday hit a submerged mine off Cape Rosas. There was a terrific explosion, and within a few minutes the cargo was ignited and flames raked the decks of the 2,143-ton vessel.

Nearby ships rushed to the rescue but there was little they could do. Several bodies were picked up, but only one man was alive and he was reported in a serious condition.

Sand Bar At Niagara Mouth Starts Three-Mile Ice Jam

Floes Packed Back To Queenston Begin To Alarm Fishermen

FEAR 1909 SCENE

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., March 5 —(CP)—Huge quantities of ice, drifting down the Niagara River has been blocked by a sand bar just out of the mouth of the river at Niagara-On-the-Lake, and threatened fishermen's huts and the C.S.L. dock at that town. The ice has already piled up nearly to Queenston, more than three miles from the lake.

A serious situation would arise if the ice below the falls broke and went down the river. Rivermen said the situation was similar to that in 1909 when great destruction was wrought on both sides of the river.

MAY WORK MONDAY.

STRATFORD, Ont., March 5 (C.P.). — Furniture workers throughout Western Ontario will go back to work on Monday if the present tentative agreement is accepted by the District Council of the Furniture Workers' Union to-day at Listowel and is finally endorsed at a further conference of employers and employees to-morrow at Toronto.

Frank Wright, Chairman of the District Council, said before he departed for the meeting at Listowel where workers will discuss the proposed agreement, that the strike would be called off in time to go back to work on Monday if the tentative agreement is adopted by both sides.

Nazi Berlin 'In Arms' At New York Mayor's Attack Upon Hitler

Goebbels' Paper Brands United States "Land Of Freedom—For All Gangsters"

RAPS STATE DEPARTMENT

Charges Washington Inciting Mayor To New Insults By Its Attitude

WASHINGTON, March 5 (A.P.). —The United States apologized to Germany to-day for remarks made recently by Mayor Fiorello Laguardia of New York about Chancellor Hitler.

The State Department said that James C. Dunn, Chief of the Division of Western European Affairs, made an oral statement to Dr. Hans Thomsen, Counsellor of the German Embassy.

Embassy Sends Report.

BERLIN, March 5 (A.P.). — The United States Embassy to-day transmitted to Washington a full report on strictures against Mayor Fiorello Laguardia and "crime conditions" in New York, appearing in Der Angriff, the newspaper of Dr. Joseph Goebbels, German Minister of Propaganda and Public Enlightenment.

Der Angriff, which yesterday filled columns—as did other newspapers—with a stormy attack on Mayor Laguardia for his "Hall of Horrors" remark before a meeting of Jewish women, to-day ran a series of news photos intended to show New York and the United States as "The Land of Freedom—for all Gangsters."

One picture showed a manacled prisoner, "Bank Robber Number One," "who has not yet reached the stage of Mayor or Governor."

Another photograph purported to depict the family of a New York slayer "kneeling at the gates of Sing Sing" to give thanks to "Jehovah and his faithful servant, the Jew Governor Lehman" for saving their kinsman from the electric chair.

The newspaper said Governor Herbert Lehman, "Laguardia's bosom friend," had seen to it that the man, whom Angriff identified as a subway holdup killer, "was allowed to remain alive."

Inciting New Insults.

Der Angriff, in another place, assailed the shilly shally treatment of the Laguardia case by the Washington State Department, "which incites Laguardia to ever new insults and earmarks this (New York) as a State in which 13,000,000 humans have no other liberty except that of dying silently of hunger in the gutter."

The new Nazi press outburst against Laguardia resulted from his suggestion that the 1939 New York World's Fair had a "hall of horrors" the chief figure in which would be "that brown-shirted fanatic" who, he said, was menacing world peace.

A formal German protest followed in Washington, and Secretary of State Hull yesterday made an informal expression of regret.

POISON FOUND IN STOMACH OF YOUNG FARMER

Inquest Ordered By Coroner Dr. J. C. Smith Into Arthur Evans' Death

BODY EXHUMED

Following police investigation into the death of Arthur Evans, 25-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Evans, Lot 27, Concession 4, Otonabee Township, an inquest has been called by Chief Coroner Dr. J. C. Smith. It is to be held in the police court here on Tuesday next at 2 o'clock p.m.

Recovering from an attack of influenza the young man died in convulsions on the evening of January 13 last after being found in the barn near his home in a dazed condition. Influenza was stated on the death certificate as the cause of death.

It was learned that Evans carried a $1,000 life insurance policy with an accidental death clause. The insurance company paid the death claim, but, it is said, did not accept a suggestion that death had been caused by an accident or that an additional $1,000 as provided in such a case, should be paid.

As a suggestion that the young farmer had suffered fatal injuries in a fall down a ladder in the barn, the body was exhumed and an examination made by two Peterborough medical men. Their findings were not made public, but it is believed double indemnity was not paid.

While he refused to discuss the case, Provincial Constable David Silvester, admitted that he has been investigating it for some time. Asked who had given orders for the exhumation of the body in Pine Cemetery three weeks after the death of Evans, the officer replied, "That is what we are trying to find out."

Mervin Mather, Otonabee Township undertaker, who handled funeral arrangements in connection with the death of the young man refused to offer any comment bearing on the case.

On orders of County Crown Attorney V. J. McEderry, K.C., all sales of strychnine during the past two months are being checked following a report from Dr. Jassin Rogers, provincial analyst, that he believed death due to poisoning caused by an overdose of strychnine.

Following an autopsy of the remains that was made here by Dr. Herbert N. Young and Dr. J. M. O'Brien on January 27 last, the man's stomach was forwarded to Dr. Rogers in Toronto for analysis. The latter's report received February 25.

SARNIA STRIKERS GO UPON TRIAL

Non-Employee Aiding Seventy Sit-Downers Is Charged With Trespass

SARNIA, Ont., March 5 (CP)—Trial of one of 70 men held as result of a strike clash at Holmes Company here Tuesday opened here today before Judge C. S. Woodrow and only one witness was heard before adjournment for lunch.

Lloyd McDonald, a non-employee, when sent into the plant to assist the sit-down strikers, was arraigned on a trespass charge. J. L. Cohen of Toronto, counsel for the Labor Defence League, objected to the form of the information.

He claimed the act allowed for more specific outline of the alleged offence. Magistrate T. H. B. Taylor contended the charge contained all the information necessary. The hearing then proceeded.

W. R. Millholland, manager of the Holmes plant, testified the management tried to evict the strikers but they refused to leave the building.

The spectators section was crowded when court opened and about 100 milled about inside. Police and special gunmen, under the direction of Sheriff A. J. Johnson, maintained order.

McDonald, dressed in overalls, appeared dejected and exhausted. After the brief legal argument over the form of the information in which the court ruled against defence counsel, Mr. Cohen pleaded not guilty on behalf of McDonald.

50 MILLION LOSS FOR FARMERS LAID UPON WHEAT BOARD

Perley Says Westerners Been Betrayed, Exploited Since Murray Succeeded McFarland

LABOR RECORD ATTACKED

OTTAWA, March 5 (C.P.)—Nine speakers participated in debate on the Budget in the House of Commons yesterday, most of them in support of the Conservative want of confidence motion on the Government's unemployment policy, but E. E. Perley (Cons. Qu-Appelle) furnished the highlight when he attacked the activities of the Wheat Board.

Mr. Perley charged that under the Liberal Party's administration of the Wheat Board the producers had lost between $50,000,000 and $60,000,000. Since J. R. Murray had succeeded John I. McFarland as chairman of the board the farmers of Western Canada, he said, had been "betrayed, exploited, doublecrossed and sacrificed."

From other speakers came condemnation of the Labor Department and the National Unemployment Commission was subjected to particular criticism. Finance Minister Dunning was absent because of an attack of influenza, and Labor Minister Rogers heard only a part of the discussion.

Debate will continue to-day and possibly a vote will be reached on the amendment moved by Conservative Leader Bennett. It is expected the Liberal members will take a more active part in the debate on the main motion and that Agriculture Minister Gardiner will then make his reply to attacks upon the Government's wheat policy.

Five Conservatives, two Liberals, one C.C.F., and one Social Credit member carried the debate, confined entirely to private members.

Act Practically Repealed

By failing to carry on the policy of buying wheat at a fixed price through the board the government had practically repealed the wheat board act, Mr. Perley charged. "Farmers of western Canada," he added, "will not long stand for the skulduggery that took place last summer with respect to the marketing of their wheat."

Under the chairmanship of Mr.

Sit-Downers Find Soft Hammocks

$616 EACH CITIZEN IS CANADA'S DEBT

Carleton M. P. Fears Equal Division Would Hit Large-Families Members Hard

OTTAWA, March 5 (CP)—Parliamentarians with big families owe a bigger share of the national debt on a population basis than those without children, Dr. A. B. Hyndman, Carleton Conservative, told the House last night, but he doesn't expect the money will be paid.

Dr. Hyndman during a speech in which he held the country was overtaxed, declared that if everyone of Canada's 11,000,000 population shared equally in the national debt each citizen would owe $616.93 and would be called on to pay an annual interest charge of $32.04.

"I know" he said, "that these charges will not affect the prime minister or the leader of this group (Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett), but I should like to know how it would affect the Hon. member for Kings (Thomas V. Grant) who has family of 18. At that rate he would owe the country $9,250.70. The minister of fisheries (Hon. J. E. Michaud) with a family of 11 would owe $6,-788.71.

"I maintain that this money will never be paid, even though we have an increase this year of $300 in our indemnity," he added.

HOLSTEINS GIVE FINE PERFORMANCE

Breeders In Peterborough District Are Mentioned In Association Records

Holstein breeders of the Peterborough district came in for a fair share of mention in the report issued by the Holstein Friesian Association of Canada on cows that completed records during the month of January.

In the 305-day division, sub-division B, 3-year-old heifer classes, Alcartra Pontiac Inka, owned by Joseph Tully of Otonabee (township, not first division bungalow with 16,279 pounds of milk and 603 pounds of fat.

In the 3-year-old division of the same class, the heifer Hillcrest Abbekerk Peace Pact, bred by O. A. Brethen of Norwood, but now owned by Joseph Tully, in whose barn the record was made, stood 6th with 16,014 pounds of milk and 534 pounds of fat. The cow Holanview Korndyke Burke Ormsby, also owned by Mr. Tully, stood 5th in the mature class, sub-division B of the 305-day division with 16,262 pounds of milk and 546 pounds of fat. Three other heifers from the Tully herd qualified during the months.

A new Peterborough county breeder appears in the record—John Manley of Otonabee. He bought his first pure bred Holstein at the 1936 National Sale in Toronto and qualified the 3-year-old heifer Dutchland Posch Mabel with 10,-771 pounds of milk and 381 pounds of fat, a record considered noteworthy considering the animal changed owners during the time she was on test.

Included in the list are the names of C. W. Seymour, Ida, and W. J. Seymour, Cavan, the former reporting one and the latter two cows with very creditable records.

Another feature of the reports of special interest to Holstein breeders of this district is the reporting of 10 two-year-old heifers by James Henderson, Portsmouth, Ontario. All of the ten heifers are sired by the well known show bull Haya Supreme now owned jointly by Matchett Bros. and Joseph Tully. The records of these two-year-old heifers ranged from 8,628 pounds milk up to 13,349 pounds in 305 days and the average fat of the ten for the year was above 3.8%. Mr. Henderson states that all the heifers are of good type and according to reports are now milking around 70 lbs. a day in their 3-year-old form.

All these records were made under ordinary farm conditions and all entries in sub-division B are made on twice a day milking.

Unemployed receiving government benefits in France now number about 413,000.

COLLEGIATE PLAY IS WELL STAGED ABLY PRESENTED

"In Old Vienna" Is Title Of This Year's Three-Act Operetta

EXITS WELL MADE

Set in the happy hunting-ground of all musical romances, "In Old Vienna" had its premier performance on Thursday night in the auditorium of the Collegiate Institute and Vocational school, where came to six hundred and fifty people watched and listened to the gay performance and the sweet, tuneful flavours of this year's dramatic production by the Students' Council, a three-act operetta directed by M. B. Chenhall, A.R.C.O., with a cast drawn from the two glee clubs of the combined schools, both of which are conducted by Mr. Chenhall.

Watching the unfolding of the three acts of this gay and colorful production, which is (as in advance of last year's effort by the society) one could not help but be seized with admiration for the manner in which it is presented. The completed production gives evidence of a vast amount of hard work and attention to detail.

"In Old Vienna" abounds in lovely soft music that gazes through the three acts like a murmuring background for the romantic and murmurful action. It is one of those gay affairs where, at any suitable pause in the libretto, soloists or choristers, or both, burst into melodious song.

Outstanding in the presentation was the manner in which exits were made. Like a breath, after a brilliant song or dance, the stage is cleared. The pighty-clan performers who have filled it just a moment ago vanish swiftly, with other actors playing their parts in the foreground. This attribute of successful staging was prominent in the carnival scene in the final act, where sprites and fairies, in gossamer costumes, do their light-footed dances and then vanish almost into thin air, so smoothly is their departure.

The costuming is beautiful and evidences more hard work and attention to detail. The gypsies, the Viennese maidens, the dancing soldiers, the actors in the gay ballroom dance in the "Carnival Night" episode, are all appropriately and beautifully garbed. And the settings are striking in the extreme.

Beautiful Staging

The Students' Council, aided by a grant from the Board of Education, has purchased new curtains and hangings for the stage, in an effective arrangement that follows closely the tradition of the theatre. The proscenium arch still has its hangings of garnet velvet, which are met by new 'tormentors,' as stage parlance has it, of rich crimson cloth weave. The sides and the overhead drops are beautifully covered.

The backdrop last night added much to the apparent depth of the stage by using perspective in its limning of a lake and green hilltops beyond, with a garden place for the opening scene, an electrically-illuminated fountain and the portal of an inn at the right. Later, for the gypsy scene, the time was switched to evening, with a fire burning under an iron pot near the tented gypsy camp, a bright moon over the shadowy lake and a mystic pool. For the Carnival scene at the close, the setting was as at first, the garden filled with gay colored balloons, streamers and Japanese lanterns.

The theme of the operetta revolves about the search for the lost child of the charming and wealthy English widow, Lady Vivian Delancey (Miss Alicia Langley) who acts and sings so pleasingly. She comes to the Wurtzelpraeter Inn in Vienna, with a landlord, Hans Maier, in a brown vermicelli suit and blazing red wig (John Hooper). The story of the lady's search for her child arouses the cupidity of the cunning Captain Kinski, chief of the Detective Bureau of Vienna (a part taken with excellent effect by William Wheeler). He is a tall person with a brave and romantic uniform, who is aided and abetted by two faithful sleuths, Bumski (Fred Hooper) and Rumski (Horace Soper). The operetta couldn't possibly have progressed without these two Mutt-like personages in their outrageous uniforms of striped mulberry and gold and their spiky moustaches. They make their way through the production, gathering chuckles as they go, and are just as good as many of the professional stooges of the stage and screen, in a fashion all their own.

As for George Hall, who is the advertising expert, J. Jennison Jones, he has the whole show right in his hand. As the 'from it' person with the camera, his gagger, self-assured and very likeable education is one of the ornaments of the production. He couldn't be much better—or more satisfactory. He's like that famous saying: 'Good to the last drop.' You'll like him from first to last. If you go to see the show, which has its second performance on Friday.

Miss Westbye Good

Miss Olga Westbye is another shining light, with her charming voice and pretty ways. She is Ilona, a gypsy girl, singing and dancing with ease and grace, in some of the duets that add much to the pleasure of the evening. Miss Orma Latchem is the very good-looking Junior Pennington, with a pretty voice, an American heiress who comes to the inn with her father, Jonas H. Pennington, proprietor of Peter Piper pickles (Tom Hooper), and remains to have a pleasant philandering time of it with Arthur Cretcon, a young American artist, Will Griffin Young doing this role in fine style. William Moorhead is the three Jips, king of the gypsies; Miss Orma Rudlow puts over the part of Louisa, the 'dumb' waitress, in elegant fashion, and John Stewart is the youthful and dignified Carnival King; James Hammorne is a brightly-clad bellboy; Bryan Roberts and Aubrey Braund are waiters, and gypsies with especially big parts are Miss Rosamond Burns, Miss Norma Jackson, Campbell Perks and Edward Clark.

As for the rest of the story, and the way it unfolds, you should see it for yourself. It would be a pity to spoil it for those who will go tonight, with a house sold right out, so it is said, for the second and final production of a brilliant and glamorous affair filled with lovely music from various good youthful voices, swift and pleasant conversation from Mr. Jones and his companions, pretty dances, plenty of fun provided by the two 'sleuths' and the interest which always follows on the telling of a romance between a gypsy and a gorgio, as the Rumany people term their white-skinned brethren.

Opening the production last night with a brief foreword of explanation of the theme, Miss Eileen Schotes also thanked Dr. H. R. H. Kenner and the teachers; the Board of Education; and all who assisted in any way; the Dramatic Director, Miss J. Marie Hicks, with her helper, Miss Margaret White; Miss Helen Gerrard, for work in connection with costumes; F. E. Johnston, J. Rutherford, Wesley Brown and R. G. Cornell, staging and scenery; Miss Mildred Bailey and Miss Dorothy Brisbin, coaching dances; Miss Gladys Moore and Mrs. Cornell, assistance in making up with especial thanks for Mr. Chenhall, for his enthusiastic and patient efforts.

Minor Parts

Taking part in the presentation were the following: Gypsies—Dorothy Blade, Grace Marshall, Grace Lundy, Rosamond Burns, Mary Hall, Mary Richardson, Jean Moore, Noel Barr, William Moorehead, Donald Duncan, Garth Cowan, Frank Patterson, Melville McKee, David Rogers; Viennese Maidens—Eunice Armstrong, Isobel Graham, Mary Wainwright, Agnes Richardson, Jean Monerief, Hilda Thompson, Margaret Harris, Gladys Brock, Marjorie Plumpton; Fairies—Iris Fitzgerald, Jessie Reynolds, Marjorie Foster, Marion Foster, Joyce Powers, Beryl Johnston; Fairy Queen—Helen Mathias; Sprites—Ruth Brockwell, Dorothy Bateson, Dorothy Ross, Lenore Skitch, Patricia Graham, June Pidgeon; Tourists—Marion Juby, Betty Kirn, Margaret Loudon, Dorothy Boyle, Loreen Wellwood, Paulina Story, Margaret Westbye, Allan Marshall, Robert Juby, Arthur Ackerman, James Gosein, Gerald Juby, William Ferguson.

Assisting greatly in the interest of the program is the school orchestra, which played lovely music last evening, with all the verve, enthusiasm and true, free instrumentation which characterizes this exceptionally fine music organization.

Conducted by A. J. Weames, B.Sc. with Miss Merrill Smith as pianiste, the personnel of the orchestra includes: 1st violins: Russell Huggins, George Gatfield, Jerry Dawson, Edna Borland, James Lillico and Allan Brown; 2nd violins: Jean Prophet, Dorothy Cunningham, Anna McLeod, Barbara Staples, Jewitt Parr, Douglas Moore, Duncan Seymour; trumpets: David Wilson, Eric Edmondson, Robert Ferguson, Earl Gibson; clarinets: Robert Graham, John Kitney, Lloyd Wells; trombones: Roy Hiscox and Edward Everett; bass viols: W. F. Skitch and George Broadley; drums: Hugh Davidson.

Mrs. J. Foster acts as assistant pianiste for the production, in her usual capable manner.

Atlantic Air Mail Service Fast Forging Nearer Reality

Irish Base Being Rushed — Tests Of 20-Ton Planes For Route Proving Satisfactory

MOLLISON SKEPTICAL

LONDON, March 5—(CP) — An Atlantic air mail service, though not yet sufficiently advanced to permit announcement of inauguration date, seems gradually to be forging clear of fogs and blueprints.

Some speak of experimental flights in May and a regular schedule by November. But more cautious authorities still speak in terms of a year or more. Imperial Airways and the British air ministry will not commit themselves.

Recent test flights around England and on Britain's Empire mail route have been highly satisfactory but it is stressed that long distance Atlantic flights cannot be measured by the mileage feats of over-land planes.

The Imperial Airways giant flying-boat Caledonia recently flew non-stop from Southampton to Alexandria, 2,300 miles in 13 hours 30 minutes. She had a crew of five, half a ton of freight and averaged 170 miles an hour. She had considerable fuel to spare.

It is noteworthy that this is 400 miles longer than the proposed northern route from Western Ireland to Newfoundland.

Test Made On Schedule.

Then came a 1,300-mile non-stop flight of the Cambria around England, Scotland and Ireland, averaging about 160 miles an hour with seven on board. The trip was reported "pleasant and to schedule," and the plane was in constant contact with Croydon airport.

These four-engined 20-ton ships are the type Imperial Airways proposes to lead the way to regular Atlantic schedules.

The Irish Free State is rushing work on the new air base at Ryanna on the mouth of the Shannon, to be used as the eastern terminal of the Atlantic service. It is to be equipped with the most modern wireless and meteorological apparatus.

Meanwhile Imperial Airways is experimenting with the best way of getting the heavily loaded craft off the water, including two notable schemes: (1) The refuelling of the plane in the air by what is virtually a flying tank at the Azores, and (2) The Mayo composite aircraft by which a heavily-loaded high-speed craft is launched from the back of a bigger flying boat during flight.

Atlantic Weather.

One Air Ministry official is spending considerable time on Atlantic steamships flying balloons to test the atmospheric conditions overhead, it having been found that ships cannot accurately report on conditions at flying altitude.

Then there's a new type of giant craft which is said to be under development, a 50-ton flying boat. Work on this is kept closely guarded, but it is understood that if the construction proves feasible a new approach will be possible to the Atlantic problem.

The arrangements between the Pan-American Airways and Imperial are not definitely known as to the Atlantic system, but the two lines will co-operate when the southern route to Bermuda is used and Imperial will thus be linked with the United States overland system and the Pacific Ocean service. But it is understood the Air Ministry would prefer to develop the all-British route via Newfoundland, although this offers admittedly severe obstacles in the winter months.

The joint operating company of the complete Atlantic line will be incorporated, made up of the Imperial Airways as England's representative, and two companies which the Irish Free State and Canadian governments will name. (In Washington the House of Representatives Appropriation Committee recently approved a post office department request for $900,000 as a subsidy for a trans-Atlantic airmail service between New York and Southampton).

Mollison Pessimistic.

Captain James Mollison who has flown the Atlantic three times and as he says, "may have gathered some information about Atlantic flying," is pessimistic.

Writing in the Daily Express, the airman cautioned that present planes would require so much petrol for the westbound service that "you could put no passengers, very few postcards, in on top of those tanks."

The contrary winds on the westbound route, he contended, would make any organised service in that direction impossible for a while.

"What would you call a service that for seven months in the year waited weeks on the Shannon for the winds to drop?" He claimed the weather forecasting over the Atlantic was sometimes not more than "inaccurate guesswork," and concluded:

"Before we have regular Atlantic airways we must have more accurate weather services and far bigger, more powerful, longer range aircraft. . . time will have marched on two years or more."

Nearly 4,000,000 people attended public entertainments in Lima, Peru, last year.

FURNITURE STRIKE SETTLEMENT NEAR

Decision Rests On Outcome Of Discussion In Listowel Today

TORONTO, March 5 (CP). — Optimism prevailed in furniture circles today for settlement of the strike launched Monday when manufacturers failed to meet the men's demands for a uniform wage scale throughout the industry and improved working conditions.

Decision rested on the strikers' meeting today in Listowel, where the latest settlement proposals will be considered. Representatives of strikers from the 11 Western Ontario centres affected will meet to hear the report from delegates to the conference in Toronto yesterday, when a tentative agreement was announced.

When the tentative agreement, agreed upon by union heads and manufacturers who met with government officials, was announced, Labor Department officials said they were hopeful of settlement of the walk-out which took more than 1,000 men from their jobs.

Union officials left for Listowel, where the proposals will be placed before the men. In Toronto Saturday union heads will again meet manufacturers and government officials to report the attitude of the workers.

Louis B. Fine, Ontario industrial standards officer and strike mediator, presided at yesterday's discussions, when union representatives placed their demands before manufacturers for a 44-hour week, a minimum of 50 cents an hour for skilled labor, time-and-a-half for overtime and half-holiday Saturdays.

What proposals were finally decided on were not made known. The union delegates and representatives of the Ontario Furniture Manufacturers' Association made no statements following conversations, the Labor Department merely announced the reaching of a tentative agreement, which it was hoped, would bring an end to the walk-out.

We Were Pioneers

There was a recent editorial in the New York Times which called attention to the example set by Brantford, Hamilton and Ottawa in showing the effectiveness of the toxoid treatment for the prevention of diphtheria. "All of this evidence," pointed out the Times, "confirms, if confirmation were needed, what has been repeatedly said by our own health authorities, especially to parents of young children, that there is no longer any excuse for diphtheria. It is preventable."

That is all very nice. We are glad to see the progressiveness of Ontario cities cited in such a world-famous newspaper as the New York Times, for it shows that in the all-important field of public health, this province is not lagging behind the parade. We must, however, admit a feeling of disappointment that the name of Peterborough did not appear in the list of places marked out for such distinction. It really should have been there for the truth is that we were pioneers in this great movement to stamp out a disease that once took a heavy toll of lives and as a result diphtheria has become a forgotten disease in this city. Dr. A. W. McPherson, school health officer, well over a decade ago began the work of immunizing Peterborough's children against the disease, using toxoid not only among the pupils of the schools but making it possible for children of pre-school age to be similarly protected.

Year after year the campaign has been carried on, spreading some time ago to the pupils of the separate schools, until today practically the whole child population has been rendered immune to diphtheria. Cases of this disease have almost ceased to exist and so far there has not been one instance of a child who had received the toxoid treatment afterward contracting diphtheria. Even if the Times overlooked us it is well to draw attention to the record and to voice a word of appreciation to Dr. McPherson whose foresight made Peterborough one of the first places in the country to develop immunity against a once greatly feared disease.

Working Out Well

Now that Premier King is paying a neighborly visit to the White House and that in addition to talking about the weather he and President Roosevelt, are quite likely to get around to the subject of trade relations between their countries, a glance at the record of the first year's operations of the United States-Canadian trade pact should be helpful.

The figures have just been issued and the first broad comments they are likely to occasion are that they show that Uncle Sam has had a little of the best of the deal during the first twelve months, inasmuch as Canadian purchases in the United States increased more proportionately than did American buying in Canada and as a result a little over ten million dollars was knocked off Canada's favorable trade balance.

At first blush that does not seem so good but digging into the thing a little deeper it is seen that the pact has been particularly beneficial to Canada in the case of products for which there had been a sad lack of a market. All along the line our exports of agricultural products to the United States showed an increase during 1936.

The export of apples increased from 2,586 barrels to 8,069 barrels; strawberries from 250,063 pounds to 690,268 pounds; seeds, including clover, alfalfa and grass from 97,000 bushels to 145,000 bushels; certified seed potatoes from 498,467 bushels to 1,343,223 bushels; dairy cattle from 6,266 head to 8,194 head; beef cattle from 108,557 head to 224,300 head; horses from 5,475 head to 17,368 head; poultry from 28,845 to 347,451; poultry, dressed from 116,000 pounds to 175,000 pounds; cheese from 4,744 pounds to 114,594 pounds; cream from 7 gallons to 35,366 gallons; maple sugar from 1,710,850 pounds to 8,207,523 pounds.

These gains have been of the greatest benefit to rural Canada and as the increase in United States imports which accompanied them has apparently been brought about without doing much harm to Canada's industries, the verdict will probably be that in spite of the lowered favorable trade balance, the trade pact is working out reasonably well from a Canadian viewpoint.

Calls For Action

There would seem to be every reason for Attorney General Roebuck turning his attention to the strike riot in a Sarnia plant the other day when strikers and non-strikers battered each other with iron bars and other weapons while the police were satisfied to play the role of spectators.

There is no place in the Canadian scheme of things for this flagrant disregard of law and order. Whatever their complaints might have been the strikers were guilty of an illegal act when they took possession of the plant and refused to leave it and the non-strikers, who took upon themselves to drive the sit-down brigade out of the place, did equal violence to the law. The strikers had no business in the plant and their ejectors had no right to use force to put them out. Both were guilty of violence and assault and battery and should be called upon to defend themselves in a court of law. More than that the Attorney-General's plain duty is to make it clear to law enforcement officers everywhere it is up to them to deal with sit-down strikers and not to leave the responsibility of ejecting them to outsiders, who cannot handle the situation without themselves breaking the law. The Sarnia riot has given the administration of justice in Ontario a black eye and steps should be taken to see that there is no repetition of the trouble. Firmness on the part of the authorities at the first signs of disturbance will, in most cases, check riots before they can get started.

The unequivocal condemnation of sit-down strikes that has been voiced by Premier Hepburn gives hope that there will be no lack of that firmness in meeting anything of that nature that may eventuate from now on.

What Is A Canadian?

There are many occasions when Mr. Bumble's famous estimate of the law comes forcibly to mind, but the story of the trouble that a certain Syrian living in Detroit has entangled himself in with the immigration authorities on both sides of the line, suggests that that much-quoted description was all too tame.

According to the newspaper accounts of the incident this man lived in Canada until 1922 when he moved over into Detroit and went into business for himself. All was serene until a few days ago when a customer spoke insultingly of the late King George V, whose portrait the Syrian had just hung in his shop and the proprietor promptly knocked the disparager of the Empire's late monarch down. As a result it was reported to the American immigration authorities that the man had made an illegal entry into the United States and the American officials announced their intention of deporting him to his native Syria.

He had other views, however, and resolved to return to Canada, looking upon himself as a citizen of this country, but when he attempted to enter, the ruling of the Canadian immigration authorities was that as he had been more than a year out of Canada, he could not be regarded as a Canadian and accordingly they turned him back to the United States.

This unfortunate individual had every reason we submit to regard himself as a citizen of this country for back in the years when the Empire was calling for men to go out and fight for King and Country he enlisted with the Canadian artillery and served with the Maple Leaf forces overseas, receiving the Mons Star, and the General Service and Victory medals. There was no one to rise up then and say he was not a Canadian; they took him in gladly, equipped him with the khaki of the Canadian army and sent him off to face death on the battle fields of France and Flanders. Today the door of Canada is slammed in his face; and apparently there is nothing left for him but to submit to being sent back to a country he had long since given up. A man who wins three decorations fighting for Canada may not necessarily be a Canadian in the strict letter of the law but surely there must be a way of breaking through the red tape and restoring to Canadian citizenship one who has given such convincing proof of his fitness to be so entitled.

Armaments And the Poor

There is a phrase in a letter from a correspondent appearing on this page today that calls for some comment because it illustrates the loose way in which many folk are accustomed to think and speak. "Millions for defence armaments, nothing to better the hopeless plight of the poor," says the writer.

It is the kind of thing that a lot of folk are inclined to say, despite the fact that a little thought would show them that their statement was not true. As a matter of cold fact, what Canada proposes to spend this year on defense is only a small fraction of the total amount this country pays out every year to "better the hopeless plight of the poor." Our total appropriations for purposes of defenses are less even than the amount that has been laid aside as a federal contribution for relief and on top of that appropriation are millions more for old age pensions, pensions for the blind, and other social services.

It is desirable not to lose one's sense of proportion. We are, it is true, spending some thirteen million more than last year in the various branches of national defense, but we still remain down near the bottom of the world's list in the matter of military expenditures. On the other hand our expenditures on services in aid of humanity, services that were not even thought of a decade or so ago, have been steadily mounting year after year. Only those who blindfold themselves to the truth can ignore that fact.

Premier Mussolini has declared that Italy is to be a nation devoted primarily to war. In the face of such a declaration we do not believe there would be any use in the League Against War and Fascism sending him copies of its latest resolutions.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Kentville wives complain that they are curling widows during the winter months. That is a grievance that is by no means peculiar to Nova Scotia.

It seems fairly clear that the list of admirers of the Ontario Department of Health does not include the name of Dr. Harold E. Welsh of East Hastings.

"Three courses are open to Premier Aberhart" reads a newspaper heading. The strange feature about the article is that the Premier's resignation is not listed in the three.

Howard R. Hughes the movie producer who only flies for fun did so to such purpose last year that he has been given the award for the most notable achievements in aviation during 1937.

That New York gunman who stepped on the running board of a detective's car while trying to make his escape after a holdup was too unlucky ever to have made a success out of crime.

Mr. Hepburn's ministers manage to keep themselves in the spot-light one way or another. There is apparently no need of a press agent for the present Queen's Park administration.

A campaign is to be launched to unionize the employees of shirt-making firms in Ontario. With 5,000 members, such a union would be able to put on quite a front.

Donalda, Alta., man has been using a fence as a telephone line. Come to think of it, however, there is nothing particularly novel in that; a lot of news has always come over the back fence.

Hon. Earl Rowe says an election is near in Ontario. The fact remains, however, that the writs will not be issued until Premier Hepburn is of the same opinion.

The Federal Government has decided that it would not be advisable to broadcast the debates of the House of Commons and a lot of radio comedians will breathe easier as a result of the decision.

The white trillium may be made Ontario's official floral emblem, despite the opinion of the folk in Quebec, that the Orange lily might more appropriately have been chosen.

A Sugar Consumers' Protective Association has been formed in Toronto in an effort to reduce the price of the commodity. Apparently the promoters think there is too much sugar for some one in the present scale.

Another attempt is being made to have classes in automobile driving added to the curriculum of Toronto's high schools. If this change is ever made the majority of drivers should be compelled to take a post graduate course.

Preston is enacting a $1,000 license fee for slot machines and requiring all applicants to pass a character test. We would have thought that any one willing to pay such a fee would be a good subject for an intelligence test as well.

Toronto council may have some scruples as to the morality of bingo games but apparently none at all about authorizing a race meet at the C.N.E. track and thus providing another outlet for the race track gamblers.

A Canadian chess team of 114 members is competing with a similar number of American players in a contest conducted by correspondence. That kind of a battle is no place for a person with high blood pressure.

The United States House of Representatives has voted a grant of $1,500 to a bystander who was shot in the thigh during the gun-battle in which Dillenger was killed. Over here our governments pass the buck when they are asked to do something for the families of policemen killed in combat with crooks even when, as in the Sarnia case, government property was being protected.

THESE HAVE I HAD

Fret not for me, my friend, when I am laid
Deep in the earth that I have loved so well;
Green fields, long roads, new friends, have been to me
As new wine, that quickens in my veins,
And every passing mood of Nature gives
New meaning to this thing that we call Life.

Life, which to some has been—will always be—
Dull drudgery, and bitter days and nights,
But which to me has given—praised be God!—
Keen edge of living, and the singing stars
At dawning, with the thought that here it is—
Another day, adventure in its clasp.

I do not care so much what lies beyond.
Heaven? Oblivion? God knoweth which is best!
I only know what I have here is good—
Cool dawn, hot noon, and in the dewy dusk,
The reaching out and clasping of your hand.

—E. Anne Ryan, in Montreal Star.

They Turn Debts Into Assets Now

(From the Montreal Star)

THIS whole problem of the re-writing of the financial structure of the Canadian National Railways is really very simple. If some people have been in the habit of adding the debt reported in the C.N.R. statements to these same debts reported in the Federal Government statements and so making it appear that this country owes twice what it does, both statements should be clarified or annotated to make this mistake impossible. Again, it is admitted by everybody that certain stocks carried in the C.N.R. statements on the "cost" side are worthless, or only worth less than reported. Obviously this should be adjusted to make the real situation plain. There may be some other similar "deadwood" that ought to be cut out of the balance sheets.

But what ought not to be done—what the public do not want done—what the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, through Mr. Henry W. Morgan, the chairman of its Executive Committee, is asking the Government not to do—is to conceal from the people the actual cost of our national railway or, worse still, the yearly levy on our taxes to meet its current deficits. We do not want to deceive even possible investors in Canadian securities. We have not fallen as low as that. We want to show them a statement of the situation. And, moreover, we do not want to lull our electors to sleep by hiding from them a part of the money they must find every year to meet the deficits on their own railway.

We want to be honest with everybody, even foreign investors. That is the whole thing. It is not only silly, it is of very doubtful morality, to talk of cooking up the railway accounts so as to present "a more attractive picture" of the road's financial situation. "Phoney" brokers may sometimes want to cook up "attractive" statements to sell unsound stocks or shaky bonds. But never the Canadian Government. Such a course is unthinkable. If there are facts in connection with our national railway which misrepresent the true situation as investors ought to know it, the proper course surely is not to conceal these facts but to report them honestly and frankly, and then explain why—like the flowers that bloom in the spring—they have nothing to do with the case.

But we began under the Bennett regime to conceal very pertinent and important facts. Mr. Bennett himself now says that he did not like this concealment, and indeed, protested against it. Yet it is concealment; and, so far as we have noticed, the present regime does not propose to be frank and wipe it out. It is actions like these that arouse public suspicion and render the ordinary man so critical of any proposal to simplify the accounts of the railway. He is all for simplification but exceedingly cynical about the purposes to be served.

The question of interest on deficits would not puzzle a ten-year-old. In the old days, when the C.N.R. ran behind either on operating expenses or interest on its bonds held by the public, the Government had to make good the deficit. Sometimes it guaranteed railway bonds and at others it loaned the money directly to the railway. To get this latter money to loan the railway, the Government had to borrow it on its own credit. On this borrowed money, the Government paid interest. Naturally, it charged this interest to the railway. What else should it do? Then the next year came around with its deficit. The Government had again to borrow more money to lend to the railway, but it also had to pay interest on the money borrowed the year before to lend to the railway. It charged both the new deficit and the interest on the old one to the railway. Q.E.D.

The junior class in bookkeeping would see nothing else to do. But the senior class thought up a new one. It admitted that the deficit, payable this year, should be charged to the railway, but it denied that the interest on the deficit paid last year should be so charged. It thought that this interest charge ought to be smuggled into the mysterious morass of the general expenses of the country where no one would notice it. Of course, the junior class would want to know in its innocent way if the interest on a debt is not chargeable to the debtor, why the debt itself should be? Why not hide the deficits as well as the interest on the deficits in general expenses?

The junior class needn't worry, however. The senior class has discovered a way to do precisely this. It proposes now to regard loans to the railway, not as loans to the railway but as stock purchased in the railway. That is, the money is no longer a 'debt' but an asset. No, gentle reader, this is not a joke. It is a serious proposition. A mortgage becomes an "equity." The first thing we know they will be calling interest on deficits dividends on stock. Therefore, the more we lose, the C.N.R. the richer we are. It is wonderful what these book-keeping "sharps" can accomplish. When they have turned the C.N.R. into a big earner for the nation by counting every deficit as a stock investment, they ought to turn their attention to the over-mortgaged farmers of the West. It should be easy for them to wave a wand—or a pen—and change the haunting mortgage into an augmented investment.

EDUCATION WEEK.

(Brantford Expositor)

THIS is Education Week and today The Expositor marks the occasion appropriately with the publication of a special educational supplement. It may seem rather incongruous to set aside a few days for the special advertisement of a process which should not last for a week but for a lifetime. But the "week" habit—a pleasant and not altogether profitless American publicity custom—will be served. Thus, when we have Onion Week, Tomato Week, Spinach Week, Fire Prevention Week, Clean-up Week, and so forth, why not similarly and to more deserving purpose focus attention on what is, perhaps, the most important single factor in the national life?

READ ST. PAUL

Sir: Mr. Burnham has taken exception to a statement made by the speaker addressing the open forum at George Street United Church on Sunday, Feb. 21st, that, "A man's religion is his reaction to his environment," and thinks this removes Christianity out of religion altogether. It might be suggested that St. Paul gives what is probably a satisfactory answer to this in his first epistle to the Corinthians, 9, 19-23. Look it up.

NOT A REAL TEST

Editor Examiner:

Sir: While commending the excellent idea of some of our more fortunate citizens who have hitherto "dined sumptuously" every day to follow out the idea Charles Reade the novelist once advocated to put yourself in his place, and try out a "relief diet." It is to be hoped certain facts will not be lost sight of. I will try to name a few of them.

It is a very different thing to go through a test as an experiment, than as a necessity. These people will be warm and well housed, surrounded by comfort and in some cases luxury. Their tables will be set with fine linen and china. They will have adequate utensils in which to cook this food properly. They will have warm comfortable beds in which to repose. There will be no haunting spectre of unemployment, no fear of the landlord's knock, no sense of insecurity to eat away their nourishing food the unemployed have to contend with you know. A physchologist could explain all this much better, but I do realize the feeling of failure that is the daily portion of those unemployed and which these experimentalists will not have to handicap them in their "try-out." Then too we know one week of such fare may only prove a test in the diet of the well-fed. They will not have to undergo years of such a diet. They are not weakened by malnutrition. They will be strong and full of vitamines from their orange juice and customary diet which in any case will carry them successfully for a week. I do not see how this experiment can prove anything, the circumstances being so entirely different. One can do voluntarily with success what will break a man's spirit if he is forced or driven to do it. Man does not live by bread alone.

A man must keep his self respect to hold his nature upright. If he is shabby, down at heels, heart sick and discouraged, food is not all that he needs to set him right. However, the experiment is commendable if only as an experience. I would not be a whit surprised, however, to find the verdict at the end of it will be that the relief recipients have no ground for complaint. Indeed I fully expect it to be. This is usually the result of all such experiments for the simple reason the circumstances are entirely different.

Millions for defence, armaments, nothing to better the hopeless plight of the poor. "What fools these mortals be!" Yours truly,

G. M.

ALL SCIENTIFIC NOW

Editor Examiner:

Sir: Your columns continue to be interesting. Had a good laugh over the maple syrup situation. You did not seem to need a "Kirma" to tell you why those neighbors called. It is beginning to look like maple sugar weather, frosty at night and brilliant sunshine in the day. The crows are cawing and birds twittering. So you mourn the passing of the hen who raises a family and retires. Yes, it is all scientific now. The broilers are a toothsome and marketable product. But why shouldn't the farmer be up-to-date, too, you with your machine for transmitting news right off the press would not want to go back to slow methods.

EMERALD ISLE

FIRST THINGS FIRST

Editor Examiner:

Sir: This reader appreciated your terse, yet eminently fair, comments on the Dunning Budget.

A great deal has been appearing in the newspapers recently as to the economic importance of the half dozen chief divisions of revenue-bearing activities in this country—the mining industry, general manufacturing, the tourist business, newsprint-woodpulp developments, and agriculture.

Your worthy contemporary The Windsor Star comments editorially in this connection: "While Canada is still spoken of as an agricultural country, it will be well for the King government to keep very much in mind the thought that agriculture is not everything. We have many hundreds of thousands of men and women."

It is still true, Mr. Editor, that half the population of Canada is yet "down on the farm" or, at any rate, beyond the city limits. I think that we should put first things first, and that if we can put an appropriate measure of purchasing power in rural life, most of our urban problems would soon evaporate—including the odd 900,000 Canadians still, today, on some form of relief.

We hear much—too much—of "sit down" strikes these days. If any urban reader is still in doubt as to the proper sequence of the major industries listed above, may I just inquire what would happen to our tourist business or our thriving mineral industry or our 10,000 industrial plants, if men and women "down on the farm" decided to sit down?

The thing, of course, is unthinkable. Rural life and urban life are inter-dependent. Nevertheless, one can't live very long on scenery, or gold, or newsprint, or a thousand products from the manufacturing industries!

TWO BILLIONS.

(Lethbridge Herald)

WHEN the war was over Canada's public debt had grown to $2,000,000,000. Before the war it was less than $500,000,000.

Since the war, owing to the dislocation of trade, unemployment, pensions and many other difficulties arising out of the conflict, Canada's public debt had grown to $3,000,000,000.

But as one sweep, owing to the rearmament program forced by the madmen of Europe, Britain is being forced to float a loan of two billion dollars for armaments—battleships, cruisers, airplanes, tanks and cannon. Apparently Europe's only hope for peace lies in the arming of Britain up to the hilt at no matter what cost.

What tremendous things Britain could do with two billion dollars if used for purposes of betterment of the conditions under which people live instead of being forced to use it for such a useless, senseless, unproductive thing as destruction, or preparations for destruction!

Mrs. Clarke's appeal from a legal ruling that only legitimate children shall be considered in disposing of the $500,000 left by Vance Millar left to the mother bearing the children in Toronto in the 10 years following his death. The paper said this decree was a friend of Millar.

Ten children were born to Mrs. Clarke in the 10-year period, but one was born outside the city. The first-mentioned paper to-day says five children are with the man with whom Mrs. Clarke has been living, the others with relatives.

Counsel for Mrs. Clarke would say only that she is "not easily available," but scouted the "disappearance" idea.

Where Young Farmer Died From Poisoning

The picture at top shows the house on the Evans farm located at Lot 26, Concession 3, Otonabee Township, which is tenanted by Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Stinson and family. The ground floor room in the left corner of the house, is the room in which Arthur Evans, 25-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Evans died on the night of January 12 last. In the next picture is seen the spacious farm on which the dead youth lived with his parents and which is situated at Lot 27, Concession 4. Mrs. Stinson who claims Arthur Evans told her he had fallen from the hay mow and whose death is subject of inquest is seen at the door of her house with her daughter, Hazel, while the barn adjacent to the house, in which Arthur Evans was discovered by Mr. Stinson in a fit of convulsions, is seen lower right. —(Examiner Staff Photos) stated there was enough strychnine in the stomach to cause death.

Mr. Evans and other members of his family were in the barn doing the milking when an Examiner reporter called at the fine 300-acre farm situated on Lot 27, Concession 4, Monaghee Township, early this morning.

Asked if he would discuss the police investigation into the death of his son, Mr. Evans invited his interviewer to the house. Outside the house he suggested, "We can talk here. I don't want to cause sorrow to anyone's concern. The matter has caused us all a great deal of worry."

He said that on the day of his son's death, he was in Peterborough with a shipment of hogs and did not learn of the affair until after six o'clock on his return home.

Indicating the location of another farm east, situated on Lot 26, Concession 3, Mr. Evans said it was owned by himself. He and his family work the farm while the house on it is tenanted by Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Stinson and family.

Died on Second Farm.

It was in the barn at the other farm where Arthur Evans was found in convulsions around five o'clock on the afternoon of January 12 last, and it was in a bedroom of the Stinson at the Stinson home where he died a few hours later it was learned.

Mr. Evans said he learned that around three o'clock on the afternoon of his son's death, Mr. Stinson happened to go to the barn. "He asked Arthur how he was feeling, and he replied, 'I'm very best.'"

About two hours later, noticing the cows had not been eated in as was customary, Mr. Stinson journeyed to the barn and made the discovery that Arthur Evans was seriously ill. With the help of his wife he carried the young man to the farmhouse, and medical aid was sought. An effort was made to get a doctor from Peterborough, but failing this Dr. Devlin of Indian River and Dr. Munro of Warsaw, attended.

The father declared his son had a $1,000 double indemnity insurance policy with the Manufacturers' Life Insurance Company. He did not know on whose authority the body of his son was subsequently exhumed from Pile's cemetery.

Leading his interviewer into the house where his wife and daughter were preparing breakfast, Mr. Evans declined to discuss the matter further. He said he had been cautioned by provincial police not to discuss the matter, "and anyway," he said, "it's leave anything I have to say until the inquest on Tuesday."

Live in House

Calling at the other farm where the Stinson family are tenants of the house, Mrs Stinson was interviewed. Her husband was not at home.

She spoke in highest terms of Arthur Evans whom she described as "a lovely lad." Mrs. Stinson believed that his death had resulted from injuries received in a fall from the hay mow.

"My husband found him in the barn," she said. "He was lying on the floor in fits as far as I know. He had not been in the hay mow earlier in the afternoon and the fork was stuck in the top of the mow. Indications that he may have had a spell while up there which caused him to fall."

After she and her husband had carried the semi-conscious young man into the house, Mrs. Stinson recalled, "he came around for a minute and I said, 'Are you ill?' He said 'yes.'"

Pointing to a room leading off the kitchen, Mrs. Stinson said, "he died in there."

Dr. J. C. Smith, who has ordered the inquest for Tuesday night next, told The Examiner he had seen a copy of Dr. Hagel's report which indicated that half a grain of strychnine was found in the stomach of the dead youth. He declined to offer any comment beyond stating, "Irregularities are apparent, but there is nothing definite yet."

It was learned that the Insurance company will not refuse to pay the double indemnity under the terms of the policy, but it was explained, double indemnity cannot be paid unless there is legal proof that death was accidental.

CALF PRICES STRONGER

TORONTO, March 5 (CP).—Hogs moved against the general trend on the Toronto Livestock Market this week, the Dominion Livestock Branch reported. Bacons declined about 25 cents and volume was lower while all other market classes moved higher in increased volume.

Steers and heifers advanced 25 cents on strength of the export market. Buffalo reported Canadian cattle selling 25c higher for the week at a top of $10.50 for a few heavy steers with the bulk going between $9.75 and $7.25.

Bulls Rather Dull

Bulls were rather dull at $3.25 to $3.50 for bolognas and $3.60 to $4 for best butchers. Fed calves were priced from $5.75 to $8 according to quality. A few lots of stockers traded between $3.50 and $5 cwt. Untested milkers and springers were steady at around $60 for tops.

Calf prices reflected a rise in the export market by gaining 50 cents Monday and holding to the close. Choice vealers sold at $8.50 to $9.50 with common down to $5, some rough grassers brought $3.50 to $4.

Hogs dropped 25 to 40 cents cwt. Monday but recovered somewhat by the close. Bacons closed at $8.10 to $8.25 off trucks with few hogs quoted at $8 f.o.b. and at $8.75 weighed off cars here. Packers quoted a delivered rail grade basis price of $10.90 cwt. Sows sold mostly at $4.75 to $5 cwt.

Lamb receipts included 1,000 from the west. The market was 25 cents higher at $10 for good lambs with others from $9.90 downward to $7 cwt. Sheep were stronger at $5 to $5.50 cwt. For good light ewes with culls between $2 and $3.

MORE CUCKOO HATS WORN IN AMERICA

Fashion Expert Says Extremes No Longer Lead In Paris Models

NEW YORK, March 5 (AP).—More women wear "cuckoo" hats in North America than in any other country, Miss Lillian Fischer, Hollywood fashion expert, said.

"In the old days they used to have 'cuckoo' hats in Paris which no woman over here would wear," she said.

"Now the opposite is true. Paris is more conservative."

She quoted a milliner as saying, "I have made some terrible hats, but some women like terrible hats. If Paris says hats will be high, they want them still higher."

"Women of this continent on the whole are marvelously well-dressed. But they often go to the extreme in hats without any regard for what is becoming to them," she said.

She said the first principle in buying a hat is "have it complete a costume. Don't get a hat and then worry about what to wear with it.

"Next, it must suit your face, and really help you. A hat should 'give you a lift.'"

BEAUTIFUL HANDS POSSIBLE FOR ALL

Russian Ballerina Gives Her Recipe For Daily Exercises

DETROIT, March 5 (C.P.).—Secret of graceful hands of which all Russian Ballerinas have knowledge was told to-day by Sono Osato, charming member of the Monte Carlo ballet, Russe, in speaking of her own beautiful hands. "Graceful hands are possible for any woman," she said.

"If women will exercise their hands as the ballet girls do," Miss Osato said, "they can develop the lovely grace of the ballet girls they envy."

Here is her recipe:

"First let the hands hang at the sides and shake them until the wrists are free and every finger tingles. Next, holding the elbows close to the sides of the waist, double up the fist, pressing the fingers one at a time, slowly.

"Repeat this several times. Then clench the fists, and extend the fingers one at a time slowly, so that each joint can be felt doing its part, right out to the finger tips."

PLAN TO IMPROVE HOMES ENDORSED BY WOMEN OF CITY

Rally Behind Plan At Organization Meeting In Chamber Of Commerce

ARE HOME BUILDERS

Women of the city enlisted in the Home Improvement Plan campaign at a well attended meeting in the Council Chamber on Thursday night.

Affiliate associations of the Local Council of Women were represented, and their number was increased by other women who accepted the general invitation extended by the convenor, Mrs. (Dr.) O. M. Scott.

The scope of the Home Improvement Plan and practical details of its operation were explained by Roland Denne, chairman of the general committee for the Peterborough district, Alderman Dutton, R. T. E. Hicks-Lyne, and J. E. Jones, supervisor for the provincial committee in the counties of Northumberland and Peterborough.

Are Home Builders.

Women were naturally interested in everything that conduced to brighter and happier homes, Mrs. Scott said, and the Home Improvement plan afforded an opportunity to obtain on easy terms the means to make needed repairs and modernizing effects which appealed particularly to women. At the same time work would be provided for men engaged in the building industry, giving a broad stimulus to employment.

Alderman Dutton pointed out that in addition to the money which would be put into circulation by the Home Improvement Plan a great deal more would be spent by other citizens who did not need to take advantage of the loan features of the Plan. The Dominion Government contemplated an expenditure of $50,000,000 through the agency of the Home Improvement Plan, and its contribution was a guarantee to the banks against loss to the amount of 15 per cent. of that total. Alderman Dutton said that if loans through the banks aggregated $50,000,000 it was altogether likely that another $50,000,000 would be spent throughout Canada by citizens who had sufficient means to pay for work without recourse to the Plan's lending terms. In the United States the ratio was $4.00 spent outside the Federal Housing Act to every $1.00 spent by the operation of their Act.

If $100,000,000 was put into the channels of the building industry in Canada this year, Alderman Dutton said, the effects would be felt in every branch of the country's business.

Beyond Experiment.

"This thing has already gone beyond the experimental stage," Ald. Dutton said. "It is now into the practical stage. Loans are given by the banks simply on the signature of the applicant, without security, and also without endorsement. Sums can be obtained from $50.00 to $2,000 and repayment is made in monthly instalments."

Mr. Denne expressed his appreciation of the attendance of the women, and said he was pleased that Mrs. Scott had taken the chair and was actively engaged in trying to make the Plan a success. Reports reaching him showed that inquiries were already being made to tradesmen as a result of the Home Improvement Plan campaign.

"The young people of from 16 to 22 years have never had a real chance to get started in learning trades," Mr. Denne said. "The contractors and builders said they didn't have enough work for themselves, but when building gets under way this reason we believe there will be work for everybody."

Mr. Hicks-Lyne and Mr. Jones also presented practical details of the Plan as it is put into operation, and in conclusion Mr. Denne said he hoped the women of the city would carry the message of the Home Improvement Plan into all their associations and also into their own homes.

YUKON VETERAN DIES.

KIRKLAND LAKE, Ont., March 5 (CP).—Yukon veteran and survivor of the big snow slide which took so many lives in the trail of the '98, John Allan Murphy, 58, is dead here. Mr. Murphy, who as a mining engineer, had travelled extensively in South America and on this continent, first came to Kirkland Lake in 1912 and was the first captain at the Rough-Oakes Mine, the original mine of the camp. BANQUET IS HELD FOR REV. E. MOORE

Hall's Bridge Parishioners Honor Rector And His Wife At Supper

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HALL'S BRIDGE, March 5.—Members of the Hall's Bridge Church officers, members and other friends of the Rev. E. C. Moore assembled in St. Matthews Parish Hall on Tuesday at a supper party with the Rev. W. Moore and Mrs. Moore the guests of honor. The party was held to give each and all an opportunity of expressing their good wishes and of saying adieu to Mr. Moore on the eve of his departure for a very much-needed holiday. After a few words of welcome from the senior warden, Dr. E. E. Willis, Mr. Moore was called upon to say grace and the party fell to on the supper which was served upon tables beautifully decorated by the ladies. At the close, Dr. Willis briefly addressing Mr. Moore, wished him every good wish and hopes for a very pleasant journey, a complete recovery of his health and a happy return. Mr. Moore, who was visibly affected by such a spontaneous showing of good friendship, feelingly responded. The assembly singing, "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow," and after a little more music and singing the party dispersed.

Mr. Moore left Peterborough on Thursday morning by train for St. John, whence he will travel in the S.S. Montcalm for Liverpool, England, where he is looking forward to two months' complete rest and recreation.

During his absence the work at Hall's Bridge, Young's Point and Haultain mission churches will be looked after by clergymen appointed by the Bishop.

The officers of the Church wish to take this opportunity of thanking each one who helped in any way to make the party such a big success.

BENSFORT W.A. HOLDS BAZAAR

United Church Association Spunsors Successful St. Patrick Supper

MUSICAL PROGRAM

(Examiner Correspondence.)

BENSFORT, March 5.—On Wednesday evening the ladies of the Women's Association and Missionary Auxiliary of Bensfort United Church held a very successful bazaar and supper in the basement of the church. A very large crowd attended and the proceeds amounted to $29.18.

A sumptuous supper was served at seven o'clock, after which all enjoyed a social hour. The fish-pond operated by Misses Bess Monterief and Betty Perrin proved great amusement for both young and old. The ice cream booth was in charge of Mrs. George Beebe and was greatly patronized by all. About $12.05 was realized from the bazaar table, where aprons, home-knitted socks, home made and other useful articles attracted the ladies in the crowd.

At eight o'clock tables were cleared away, and a short program was enjoyed. W. Wood acted as chairman, and reported on the evening's proceeds. The program was as follows:

Harmonica band, by four senior boys; pupils of Lakeview School sang "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling" and "Billy Boy"; a humorous song; play, "All in a Fog," by Misses Isobel Dawson, Marion Monerief and Jack Staples, Jack Monerief and Gus Ansley, directed by Mrs. H. C. Howson; another selection by band; God Save the King.

On Wednesday, March 10, the regular monthly meeting of the W.A. and M.A. will be held in Bensfort United Church basement. A number of quilts will be quilted, so all are requested to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Wood and Mr. and Mrs. Stan. Robinson celebrated their wedding anniversaries on Wednesday, March 3.

Euchre Party.

On Tuesday evening, Mr. and Mrs. James Hall opened their home to the members of the Bensfort Euchre Club. There were nine tables for the series of eight games of progressive euchre that were played. Those holding high scores were Mrs. Reginald Perrin and H. C. Howson, while those with low scores were Mrs. Fred Byres and Wilbur Jewison.

Lunch was served at midnight, the tables being covered with dainty table covers and matching serviettes. After the prizes were awarded dancing was enjoyed.

Farewell To Pupils.

On Friday afternoon the pupils and teacher, John Willan, of S.S. No. 3, South Monaghan, turned aside from their regular work to bid farewell to five of their fellow-pupils, namely: Hannah, Stewart, Esale, Winnifred and Frank Wright, who are leaving in the near future to reside in Peterborough.

At 2.45 the pupils quietly assembled in the class-room, and Rhena Smith read the address, at the conclusion of which a manicure set was presented to Hannah, a brush to Stewart, a framed picture to Esale, a cup and saucer to Winnifred, and a basket of Easter eggs to Frank. The address was signed by John Willan (teacher) and Rhena Smith and Mernan Brown (pupils).

A very interesting and enjoyable event was held recently at the home of Miss Gertrude Byres, when her mother, Mrs. Joe Byres, who will be eighty-eight years of age in April, entertained at a quilting bee. Having patched the quilt herself during the winter, Mrs. Byres invited some of her friends to assist with the quilting. Having arisen early on that morning, Mrs. Byres had the quilt in and one row of tats already quilted when the guests arrived. In spite of her age, Mrs. Byres has fairly good health and good eyesight, and quilted all afternoon without seeming over-fatigued. Those present included Mrs. Everett Wood, Mrs. Reginald Perrin, and Mrs. Judson Pue, also Mrs. Fred Byres.

Another of our older residents here is Mrs. Robert Roddy, who will be eighty-nine years of age in April.

Personals.

Mr. and Mrs. John Breckenridge visited Mr. and Mrs. S. Gray at Garden Hill on Monday evening.

Just Between Us Women

A Daily Chat With Examiner Neighbors, Conducted by Roberta

GOOD SENSE is as different from genius as perception is from invention; yet though distinct qualities, they frequently subsist together. It is altogether opposed to wit, but by no means inconsistent with it. It is no science, for there is such a thing as unlettered good sense; Yet though it be neither wit, learning, nor genius, it is a substitute for each when they do not exist, and the perfection of all when they do.

Dear Friends:

Do you appreciate what good horse sense means?

You do not have to have a college degree to use it. Neither do you have to be gifted to the point of genius, because many geniuses do not have common sense, else they would not let so many get their inventions away from them, so that they get no material benefit from the gift God gave them.

Common sense means doing things as they should be done. There is, as I told you before, a right and a wrong way for everything, but there is also a best way. So many will do things wrong end to, that you wonder where their common sense has gone to.

There are others who will spend far more time in getting out of doing things than it would take them to do them right in the first instance, and you would wonder that their common sense would not let them see the bother they were giving themselves and everyone else.

It is not wit, because some get themselves into scrapes, and their quick wits can get them out of it, whereas had they used everyday common sense, they would not have had to scramble around so much to get the same results. One day their wits will not work so fast, and where will they be?

Many a person can see the need for some new invention, they can perceive the necessity for it, but it stops there with them. Some again can see the need, and supply the want by using their brains. That is when wit and genius work together.

I have known people who were entirely unlearned, yet by sound common sense, they forged straight ahead, where their more brilliant friends lagged behind. Brilliance is not much good unless it has sound sense to balance it.

And there are lots of people loaded down with learning who have neither the sense nor the wit as to how to use it for anyone's benefit. They can spout for hours, but ask them to carry out any of their ideas, and they are all at sea, because they have never tried to put any of these ideas to work.

And then we have the genius, who has both learning and the wit to use it, and oh what a boon they are to mankind. All the things that makes life easier, can be credited to them, and how thankful we should be.

But the most exasperating are those who stumble through life, without using the sense they have. Mistakes never teach them, as they always blame things on someone else. This was wrong, and the other was not right, and that is why things have gone wrong. They go around with a vacant look in their eyes but let them need anything themselves, and see how their eyes brighten.

Ask them to do anything for you, and they stumble around as if they were only half awake. But how alert they are when their own comfort needs attention, every sense is put to full use then. Let us see what the dictionary says of it:

"Common sense—good judgment in ordinary affairs. Sound practical judgment." It means looking around and seeing what is the best way to do things, the best way to talk, the best way to act. Not going around as if you were dead but not buried. Using your common sense to get every ounce you can from life, not only in big things but in the everyday little things, and if you do that to the best of your ability, you are akin to genius. Try it.

Your Friend,
ROBERTA.

MRS. CLARKE GETS CASH FOR FIGHT

Unnamed Lawyer Friend Of Millar Would See Illegitimate Ruling Upset

TORONTO, March 5 (C.P.).—A "substantial" gift of money for legal expenses has been made to Mrs. Pauline Mae Clarke to help her fight the Ontario Appeal Court ruling that illegitimate children may not share in the $500,000 bequest of the late Charles Millar to the mother bearing the largest number of children in the 10 years following his death, a Toronto paper said today in a copyright story.

There are no strings attached to the gift, made by a lawyer-friend and University of Toronto classmate of the late Mr. Millar, it was stated to-day by C. R. McKeown, counsel for the 25-year-old mother of 10 children. The only stipulation is that his identity not be revealed to Mrs. Clarke, whom he does not know, Mr. McKeown said.

"It seems there is a Santa Claus after all," smiled Red-haired Mrs. Clarke, youngest of all Millar will claimants. "I don't know what to make of it. It still seems unreal. Too good to be true. But I certainly am grateful. Mr. McKeown would not tell me who gave him the cheque so I can thank him personally. I couldn't believe it at first and Mr. McKeown had to show me the bank book to convince me it's not just a fairy tale."

Of her 10 children born and registered within 10 years after Millar's death, one was born outside the city limits and is ineligible under the Millar will. Five of her children were born after she separated from her husband.

SIT-DOWN STRIKES TABOO IN ONTARIO STATES HEPBURN

reached last night. The Liberal government defeated a Conservative amendment 35-18 and carried the main motion by the same vote.

Tax Issue Shelved?

The school tax issue appeared to-day to be out of the way so far as the present session is concerned. The issue was introduced by the Conservative amendment that expressed regret for 1936 legislation allocating taxes between separate and public schools was not repealed.

Sam Lawrence (C.C.F., Hamilton East) voted with the Conservatives but Farquhar Oliver (U.F.O., Grey South) voted with the government.

Two Liberals condemned the government for certain things yesterday. They were Dr. James Roberts, Bank Sts. Manor, and Fraser Hunter, Toronto-St. Patrick's, but both lined up with the government against the Conservative attack.

Dr. Roberts accused Premier Hepburn of "utter discomfiture and cheap autocracy" because Sir James Dunn, Canadian millionaire, was permitted to make announcement of the government's iron ore-bonus policy.

The first member also said, on the record in favor of abolishing provincial legislatures and handing their jobs over to the federal government. He censured blind adherence to party and declared legislative members should exercise a right to independence.

Says Act Allows Exploitation

Mr. Hunter's attack was directed at the operation of the Industrial Standards Act. It permitted organized labor and capital to get together to exploit the great mass of consumers.

John Freeborn (Lib. Middlesex North) urged "more democracy" in Hydro distribution. Rearrangement of Hydro districts to associate cities with towns and rural areas was proposed. If the present Hydro Commission retained the rule requiring three services to each mile of rural line, farmers would have a right to question sincerity of its expressed wish to extend rural Hydro services.

A. H. Acres (Con., Carleton) urged a flat rate for domestic Hydro services. The credit of rural Ontario was pledged for Hydro and yet it was not getting the full benefit.

The Carleton member, biggest man in the House by far, tackled a big problem when he urged constitutional reform to eliminate the need for a government to resign if defeated on the floor of the legislature. The rule prevented members from exercising their own judgments at times, he said.

Premier Hepburn's declaration sit-down strikes were illegal trespass and would not be tolerated in Ontario won commendation from Mr. Acres who said he was willing to go with the premier and throw sit-downers out.

Sam Lawrence raised the question of sit-down strikes when he asked if Attorney-General Roebuck contemplated investigating the recent clash at Oshawa where sit-down strikers were ejected by employees who wanted to get to work. Mr. Lawrence contended illegal trespass by the strikers did not justify illegal eviction by violence.

Premier Hepburn answered Mr. Lawrence instead of Mr. Roebuck. The premier declared sit-down strikers would not be tolerated by his government and he sympathized with the men who wanted to go to work.

BRITAIN'S AIR DEFENCE ARM

Ten Balloon Barrage Units

It is also proposed to create 10 special units of the auxiliary air force for operating a balloon barrage in connection with the defence scheme for the London area. Orders for the necessary balloons and equipment have been placed.

Provision is begun for increasing the fleet air arm from 207 to 232 first line aircraft during the course of the year in conformity with admiralty requirements for aircraft carriers and catapult ships.

In the original estimates for 1936, the total number of officers and men in the Royal Air Force stood at 31,000. Provision now is made for a total of 70,000. These figures are exclusive of officers and men serving on the Indian establishment.

The air estimates include a vote of £2,315,000 for civil aviation. The projected air service between Bermuda and New York, to be operated by Imperial Airways in co-operation with Pan-American Airways, will be, it is hoped, inaugurated in April. Money provision is made for the agreed annual subsidy of £19,000 to Imperial Airways.

A sum of approximately £700,000 is included for work in providing ground facilities along Empire air routes. This includes a further grant of £125,000 to the government of Newfoundland towards the cost of the Botwood airbase.

Six factories for the manufacture of airplane engines will be completed within a few months. Thirteen new airdromes are already in use, five civil airdromes have been converted to R.A.F. use, work is under way for 26 additional sites and more will be acquired during the year.

50 MILLION LOSS FOR FARMERS LAID UPON WHEAT BOARD

Murray the board had instituted a "fire sale" policy and continued to sell in the face of certain crop failure, Mr. Perley said. Through the activities of a "corner" manipulator Winnipeg wrings barley growers had lost 20 cents a bushel on their crop.

Dr. A. B. Hyndman (Cons. Carleton) declared high taxation and unemployment were crushing people of their honors and adding to the hardships of the depression. The government, he declared, had not initiated any measures designed to change the situation for the better. The test of prosperity was whether it merely added more to the possessions of those who had, or brought the necessities and amenities of life to those who had nothing.

Albert Brown (Cons. Hamilton East) said the Liberal party had been elected largely because of promises to end unemployment, but after 10 months in office the situation was no better and was possibly worse. The Canada-United States agreement, he said, had put five men to work in United States for every man it provided work for in Canada. It would, he thought, bring hardship to Canada when political and economic changes were made in United States.

Raps Pact With Japan.

Mr. Brown doubted if the Government's "most ardent supporter" could find any satisfaction in the tariff arrangement made with Japan. Goods from that country were sold in large quantities in the Dominion at "ridiculous prices" with which Canadian workers could not compete.

The Hamilton member also regretted the textile and woollen tariff reductions provided for in the new Canada-United Kingdom trade agreement.

Gordon Graydon (Cons. Peel) declared the best brains and utmost energies of the people must be brought to bear on the country's problems. It would take 70 years with annual surpluses of $50,000,000, to pay the present national debt alone, he said, and the magnitude of this task should be realized, particularly by the younger generation.

"Careless and destructive criticism of governments and parliament must stop," Mr. Graydon said, "if democracy is to be maintained."

He did not believe in confusing pressing economic problems with political debate. He congratulated the Prime Minister on his decision to retain the "sheltered market of the United Kingdom" obtained by the previous Government through the Canada-United Kingdom trade agreement.

Mr. Graydon urged the imposition of a protective tariff against vegetable oils which were competing with butter fat and other animals fats. Canada should follow the example of the United States and afford this measure of protection to the dairy farmers, he said.

He expressed regret the courts had held the social legislation of the last government invalid and hoped speedy steps would be taken to bring the provinces and the Dominion into a joint scheme so that Canada would have uniform minimum wages, hours of work and unemployment insurance legislation.

Turns On Bennett.

Conservative Leader Bennett had "returned to the scene of his crime" in raising the subject of unemployment, said R. J. Deachman (Lib., Huron North).

"Unemployment gave him his greatest victory," he said. "Unemployment led to his defeat. It must have been a supreme pleasure for him to return to this House and again review the army of unemployed which once played a part in his campaign."

After travelling around the world visiting Empire countries, Mr. Bennett had made not a single reference to the balance of trade, he added.

"If he travels around the world the other way he may come back a free trader, and we may welcome him into the Liberal Party as a brand saved from the burning," he said.

The Conservative leader could not have cured unemployment in all time with the policy of high tariffs. He now feared loss of export trade through competition of low-wage countries. Canada has always met competition, but the strongest competition did not come from low-wage countries. Most of Canada's imports came from the high-wage countries, Great Britain and the United States. Low wages did not make for efficiency.

Mr. Bennett, he said, "promised to cure unemployment, and I am glad he lived to move a resolution to ask others to cure it."

RAPID PROGRESS WELDING CHINA IS BEING MADE

Dr. A. J. Brace Addresses Members Of The Peterboro' Y's Men's Club

OLD ORDER CHANGING

An intensive campaign by Japan-ese to prepare a pathway for them-selves through the provinces of Northern China to Russia is now being carried on in China, Dr. A. J. Brace, Canadian Y.M.C.A. work-er in Western China for the past 25 years, told the Y's Men's Club Thursday evening. Widespread distribution of narcotics is part of the campaign, he said.

Dr. Brace told of the changing China of the present day in his address to the club. He spoke from an intimate personal knowledge of China gained as a Y.M.C.A. secretary, a Christian missionary and a teacher in China. He was made a Fellow of the Royal Geographical Society as a result of the important part he played in the mapping of Western China.

Evidence of the service the Y.M.C.A. is rendering in the present de-velopment of China is the fact that 150 native Y.M.C.A. secretaries have been called upon to serve at high posts in the new Nanking Govern-ment. Asked why so many Christi-ans were required in the Govern-ment services, a high government official explained recently, that Christians were men would could be trusted with money, he related.

He said the old social set-up in China is rapidly changing. Through-out history, a middle class had been lacking in China, the population be-ing divided between the wealthy and the very poor peasant. A young student class is now arising to con-stitute an energizing force for the nation, an intermediary class be-tween the nobles and peasants, he said.

Rapid progress toward the weld-ing of China into a national unity is being made he continued. The great country is being unified politi-cally, socially and economically through the untiring work of the new Nanking Government, he said. For the first time, the nation is emerging as a military power worthy of respect through uniting preser-vation for the war with Japan which is believed inevitable.

Don Crawford introduced the speaker and Jack Nichols expressed to him the thanks of the club. Roy Lewis was in the chair.

A VERY LIVELY and active day is forecast from the prevailing lunar and mutual aspects, despite setbacks, obstacles and frustrations. These might be due to illness, anxiety or distress in the household.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a very active and progres-sive year, despite some delays, anx-ieties and impediments. A domestic or social bereavement may be at the root of this concern.

A child born on this day may be versatile and clever in intellectual, artistic and cultural pursuits, with fine social graces and sympathies, although it may be profound, studi-ous and serious.

STORE MANAGER CHASES SUSPECT TWO CITY BLOCKS

Escorts Captive To Police Station Where Goods Are Recovered

ENTER PLEA OF GUILTY

When a petty theft was reported to him by one of his sales staff, the manager of a local department store, adopted the role of a police-man and chased a suspect for two city blocks, on Thursday afternoon.

Taking him in charge the depart-ment store manager escorted his captive to the city police station, and after a brief pause in which to regain his wind, resumed his duties at the George street establishment of which he has charge.

This (Friday) morning Howard Innis, 376½ Water street, pleaded guilty before Magistrate C. A. Langley, K.C., to theft of a pair of ladies' hose from the store in question, and not guilty to three other charges of a similar nature at other stores.

He was remanded for sentence on the charge to which he entered a plea of guilty until Monday next, and was remanded for trial to the same date on the remaining three charges.

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., March 5.—(AP)—Golden statuettes, the Ac-ademy awards for motion picture greatness—and irreverently known as "Oscars"—were proud possessions today of Paul Muni, stage and screen veteran, and Louise Rainer, comparative newcomer from Vien-na.

The two highest honors of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences were presented at a gala affair last night attended enmasse by the film colony.

Muni's performance in the title role of "The Story of Louis Pasteur" was adjudged the best work done by a motion picture actor in 1936.

Miss Rainer, as glamorous Anna Held in "The Great Ziegfeld", won the prize for actresses.

Critics generally believed Spencer Tracy as the priest in "San Francis-co" ran Muni the closest race.

The other three nominations for best actor were Gary Cooper, ("Mr. Deeds Goes to Town"), Walter Hus-ton of Toronto, ("Dodsworth"), and William Powell ("My Man God-frey").

Pitted against Miss Rainer were Irene Dunn in "Theodora Goes Wild," Gladys George in "Valiant Is the Word for Carrie," Carole Lombard in "My Man Godfrey," and Norma Shearer of Montreal in "Romeo and Juliet."

Frank Capra, whose work is char-acterized by deft lightness and slightly mad whimsey won the award for direction for the second consecutive year, with his comedy hit "Mr. Deeds Goes to Town."

FEAR ANNEXATION OF CANADA BY U.S.

Ferguson Warns Against Dominion Sponging On Neighbor For Protection

CHATHAM, Ont., March 5—(CP) — Fear annexation in some form would follow if Canada depended on the United States for protection against any real or fancied military threat was expressed here by Hon. O. Howard Ferguson, former Canadian high commissioner to London.

In an address before the Kent Motor Club last night, Mr. Fergu-son drew attention to objections to the expenditure of $35,000,000 for arms to protect the shores of Canada. Those who objected said United States would never permit invasion of Canada, he added.

"Although I have thousands of very good friends in the United States I say with all sincerity we don't want to sponge on the United States or any other nation," Mr. Ferguson continued. "If we do then it take a bite out of its one of these days and we'll have trouble of some kind."

Invitation Extended To Governor-General

In reply to a recent invitation which he extended to Baron Tweedsmuir, Governor-General of Canada, to read the lessons at St. Paul's Presbyterian Church should his visit to the city be during a week-end, the Rev. Dr. A. T. Barr, has received a reply from Govern-ment House at Ottawa, as follows:

"I am desired by the Governor-General to thank you for the invi-tation contained in your letter of the 2nd instant, and to express re-gret that it now seems unlikely His Excellency will be able to visit Pe-terborough on a Sunday during the coming summer. Your kind invita-tion, however, will be borne in mind".

Would Social Credit Draw Like Townsend Plan?

When Henry Folz, 78, of Eugene, Ore., received $200 to be spent in a month as a test of the Dr. Francis Townsend pension plan, he immediately became invested with magnetic qualities. Salesmen were attract-ed from far and near, and you see a few of them here, besieging the Folz home. Vacuum cleaners, radios, books and brushes were among the things that Pensioner Folz just couldn't afford to miss. One man, a farmer, even brought a cow and tried to do business.
